For Spring is taken almost for granted, it seems, for every woman wants something that "can be slipped on with everything." There is choice this season (for fashionableness) between Covert Cloths and Black Taffeta Silk, both of which are of acknowledged usefulness. It is more important to get a serviceable Garment than to pay a little price, but do not imagine from this statement that we overlook the importance of low prices. Our Coats are good and you will have no fault to find with the price either.

Black Taffeta Silk Coats, from.. $10.50 to $25.00

Fawn Covert Cloth Coats, Eton and Pony Coat Styles, $5, $7.50, $10.00 and $12.00.

History Of Attempted Merger Of Sugar And Cold Storage Companies

Mr. Jas. Fowler Agreed to Take $5000 Worth of Stock on Condition That Sugar Business Was Gone Into—Yesterday's Proceedings in Connection With Winding Up Order Were Interesting—Mr. Fowler Tells Story of the Negotiations.

The affairs of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company, and Mr. James Fowler's connection with it, occupied the attention of Judge Weller, in the Master's Chambers yesterday afternoon. It was in connection with the winding up order granted by the court, and the particular feature of the proceedings yesterday was the attempt on the part of Mr. Fowler, to establish that he was not a shareholder of the Cold Storage Company.

The contention of Mr. E. B. Edwards, who represented the company, was that Mr. Fowler was the holder of $5,000 worth of stock in the company, and as a shareholder one of the contributories.

In the evidence yesterday afternoon Mr. Fowler's efforts to merge the Cold Storage Company into a Sugar Company were revealed, and the methods by which this merger was to be effected.

Letters Written.

A number of letters written to Mr. Fowler by Mr. A. P. Poussette, who, Mr. Fowler said, was an intermediary between himself and the Cold Storage and Sugar Companies, and Mr. Middleton, secretary of the Cold Storage Company, were read. Some of the letters created some amusement in the court by reason of some of the statements made concerning the solicitor who made the application for the winding up ord...

At the conclusion of the sitting yesterday Mr. Fowler's case had not been concluded. Only three witnesses were examined: Messrs. Fowler, Poussette and Middleton. Mr. M. Carton was there ready to be called upon, but the whole afternoon was occupied with the other three.

Mr. Fowler gave the history of his association with the Cold Storage and Provision Company, and in substance it is as follows:

The Negotiations.

Mr. A. P. Poussette had met him in Toronto, and suggested that since he had made a success of his organization of the Ontario Sugar Company of Berlin, he might come to Peterborough and see if he could resuscitate the Peterborough Sugar Company, which was represented to be in an unsatisfactory condition. In response to this invitation Mr. Fowler came to Peterborough and made and effort to put the Sugar Company on its feet, a task which was difficult, and, as he afterwards found impossible, under the circumstances. While he was here he learned that the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company was in some trouble, and it occurred to him that it would be a good thing to amalgamate the two businesses. With this end in view he saw a number of the directors of the Cold Storage Company, and entered into a conditional agreement with them; the terms of which were that on condition that the shareholders passed bylaws changing the name of the company to the Trent Valley Sugar, Cold Storage and Provision Company, and applied for, and obtained supplementary letters patent increasing the capital stock to $500,000 and securing additional powers, to manufacture sugar, etc., and that Mr. Fowler was given the contract for the erection of the factory, he would subscribe $2,000 worth of stock.

Subscribed for $5000.

Mr. Fowler told of a number of meetings of the shareholders, at which the matter was discussed, and at two of which he was present himself. The bylaws, however, were not passed, and another offer was made by him that he would subscribe for $5,000 worth of stock under the same conditions. He signed an application for 100 shares of stock at $50 each, the application not being marked conditional, and at a meeting held on December 5, 1904, the first allotment of stock for $2,000 was cancelled and the 100 shares allotted. There was nothing in the minutes of the company nor on the application to indicate that these shares were conditional, and a proxy to vote on these shares was sent to Mr. Poussette, but Mr. Fowler states that it was fully understood that the proxy was not to be used until after the bylaws previously referred to had been passed, and denied in answer to Mr. Edwards, that they were to be used to secure the passage of the bylaws.

Negotiations Stopped.

On December 8 a meeting was arranged at Port Hope at which Mr. Fowler was to have met a number of shareholders and talk the matter over. Mr. Fowler went to Port Hope as arranged, but no one was there except himself, and he states that on that day he wrote Mr. Middleton, telling him pointedly just what he thought of the whole matter, and withdrawing from any further negotiations and asking the cancellation of his stock on the ground that the conditions had not been complied with.

Mr. Edwards contention was that the 100 shares subscribed for were unconditional, and that in view of this fact Mr. Fowler was actually a shareholder by reason of the fact that he had given proxies to vote on the stock and had given a promissory note for $1,250, 25 per cent. of the par value of the stock.

Mr. Middleton's evidence was mainly corroborative of that of Mr. Fowler, and he stated that it was understood by himself and by the other directors that Mr. Fowler's application for stock in the cold storage company was to be considered only in case the amalgamation proceedings were carried out and the bylaws passed.

Mr. Middleton stated that while the minutes of the meeting of December 5, at which the application of Mr. Fowler for 100 shares was accepted, and the stock allotted, were written at his direction, he did not remember seeing the application at all.

Mr. O'Connell, who appeared for Mr. Fowler, contended that the latter could not be a shareholder until he had been notified of the allotment of the stock to him, which was never done.

Mr. Fowler's case will come up again, when the evidence of Mr. M. Carton will be taken.

Bobbin Flew From A Jenny

And Fractured Skull of Edward Jewett.

An accident occurred in the spinning room of the Cordage Company's works this morning by which Edward Jewett, an oiler, was injured. A bobbin flew from a spinning jenny, striking Jewett on the head and fracturing his skull. The accident was a peculiar one and purely accidental, the superintendent of the works only knowing of one other similar accident in his experience of a number of years. The injured man was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where an operation was performed, through which he passed very satisfactorily. It was found that the fracture was a very serious one, both the outer and inner chambers being ruptured. The skull was elevated so that there was no pressure on the brain. The injured man is unmarried and lives with his parents in the city.

Sudden Death Of Patrick Costello

Fell Dead In His Bedroom Yesterday Afternoon From Heart Failure.

Death came with startling suddenness to Patrick Costello, 97 Aylmer street, yesterday. Mr. Costello, who was in his 80th year, was apparently as well as ever yesterday morning. He partook of his dinner as usual and had not complained of not feeling well. About three o'clock he went into his bedroom and immediately toppled over on his bed, dying almost immediately. His sister Mrs. John Dineen, with whom he lived, found him lying there and tried in vain to revive him. Heart failure was the cause of death.

The deceased originally came from Douro, where he owned a farm in the neighbourhood of the church. Eventually he sold his Douro property, and moved into Peterborough, and took up residence. About twenty years ago Mr. Costello moved to Rochester, N.Y., where he lived until the death of his second wife which took place about a year ago. He then returned to Peterborough to reside with his sister, Mrs. John Dineen. The late Mr. Costello was well known to the older residents of Peterborough. In addition to Mrs. Dineen another sister survives, residing in the western states.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery for interment.

A Late Spring Is Predicted

A very large flock of snow birds seen in the vicinity of Port Hope, the brilliant flashing northern lights and the fall of snow at this time leads some of our weather-wise to predict severe weather and a late spring. Indeed, one man confidently asserts that there will be five feet of snow before there is milder weather. This is a safe subject upon which to place guesses.

The rate that is in use now is 22 1-2 cents per hour.

Hotel Hostler Badly Burned In Warsaw

Special to The Examiner

Warsaw March 22.—A serious, if not fatal, burning accident occurred last night in this village, at the Morgan House, when Joseph Toemey, who for the last two years, has acted as hostler at the above named hotel, was burned in his room. He went up to his room about 11.30 and had been there about ten minutes when those downstairs heard him calling, and rushed upstairs to find his clothing in flames, which were quickly extinguished, but not before he had been seriously burned about the arms and chest. Dr. Douglas was called and was with him a number of hours, and hopes are entertained for his recovery. Toemey came here from Peterborough, where he was employed at St. Joseph's Hospital.

As to how the accident happened there is no definite information. The victim cannot tell how it occurred, and those who were in the house at the time do not know. The lamp was not upset, so the inference is that it was from a match, but as to this no one knows. Toemey is generally looked upon as somewhat simple.

Bishop Stringer Will Preach In Peterborough

Revd E. A. Langfeldt received last night a telephone message from His Lordship the Bishop of Selkirk, Rt. Rev. I. O. Stringer, D.D., saying that he would be in Peterborough on Sunday and Monday. The following arrangements have been made as to services and meetings:

The Bishop will administer the holy communion at St. Luke's church on Sunday, morning at 8 o'clock. At 11 a.m. he will preach at All Saints' church. At 3 o'clock he will address the Sunday School children in St. Luke's, and at 7 p.m. he will preach at St. Luke's.

On Monday afternoon the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' church will hold their annual meeting, to which the W. A. of St. John's, St. Luke's and Sunnyside branch have been invited. At this meeting the bishop will give an address. At 7.30 p.m. a public missionary meeting will be held at All Saints', at which the bishop will give an address on missionary work in the Arctic region, illustrated by limelight views. The bishop and Mrs. Stringer have for 10 years laboured among the Esquimeaux of the diocese of Mackenzie River, the furthest northern point on the globe, where they were the only two white people. His addresses and illustrations are taken from personal experiences and those who have heard and seen them have been amazed at the thrilling service work done for Christ.

An interesting coincidence in connection with this visit of Bishop Stringer is the fact that while Rev. J. J. Wright was in White Horse, Yukon,

Mass Meeting Will Be Held

In the Grand Opera House on Sunday Afternoon.

In order to reach the crowds of people who would like to hear the evangelists, there will be a big mass meeting in the Grand Opera House, next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be good hearty singing, led by Mr. G. W. Mulligan. Also two men once condemned to death, will tell all about it, and how they were pardoned. This is a wonderful experience. Everyone in the city should hear the wonderful story. Mr. Jos. Pearson of Massachusetts, will address the meeting. Seats free and no collection.—Com.

The Riverdale Concert Postponed

The concert which was to have been held at the Riverdale Sunday school last night, was not held on account of the unfavourable weather. It was decided to postpone it, and the date will be announced later.

LENTEN SERVICES

ST. JOHN'S.

The Lenten service in St. John's church last night was conducted by the Rev. F. G. Plummer, of St Augustine's church, Toronto. Although there was not a large congregation present, yet the interest manifested throughout the address was very noticeable. Though Mr. Plummer is not a forcible speaker, yet his fluency is much above the average. He possesses a soft but persuasive voice, and experiences little difficulty in impressing on the mind his prominent thoughts.

Rev. Mr. Plummer selected as the subject of his discourse the first verse of the fourth chapter of Matthew—"Then was Jesus led up into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil." It was our duty, he said, no matter what counter attractions were offered or what the consequences of our actions might be to worship God, and He alone. The underlying principle which all men should strive to build their lives upon was to seek for what is right and then do it. Temptation, he said, comes to every one of us, and unless we have accepted God as our chief object of worship in life we are very apt to yield. The church is too often prone to bow to the world of fashion and society, and every time that it yields it loses the substance of the thing it seeks. The question which should be the foremost in every life is whether we are doing what is right and thereby serving God. For, he said, our present and our future depends on the action we take in that respect. There are many men of apparently outward respectability, who inwardly are weak and degraded before temptation.

Rev. Mr. Plummer also spoke on the duties of the parents towards the children. The latter are too often pliable to the slightest sin, when a little care and foresight would be most profitable in turning them aside from the trials and temptations of the world. Christianity is not an easy thing to possess. A Christian life is one continuous struggle for mastery between the mortal and the divine part of human nature, and the duty of all is to worship God despite the nature of the consequences.

Next Wednesday evening the Lenten service will be taken by Rev. C. J. James, M.A., of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto.

ST. LUKE'S.

Rev. Mr. Major was the speaker at the Lenten services at St. Luke's church last night. Considering the unpropitious state of the weather there was a good attendance, and the reverend gentleman's impressive remarks were listened to with a great deal of attention. Mr. Major's text was a part of the 42nd verse of the 22nd chapter of St. Matthew: — "What think ye of Christ?"

This question was one put by the Lord to the Pharisees, who were gathered about him, and one they were unable to answer. It also put an end to the questions which they had been putting to Jesus with the hope of getting him to make a statement upon which to make an accusation which would result in his condemnation.

The question, "What think ye of Christ?" was one that appealed to the intellect, and was one that the Christian of to-day should be able to answer distinctly and decisively. People should be thoroughly honest about this matter; they should not deceive themselves. If the ordinary man was asked to give his opinion regarding any public man, or on some matter of local or more widespread interest, he would be able in a few words to give his answer decisively. He should be able to do the same with reference to Jesus Christ. If a person is not in favour of Him he must be against Him; the Scriptures made it quite clear that there was no middle position with this question—a person is either for Him or against Him. "How much better," said Mr. Major, "to be on His side — on the side of Him who loved us so well that He gave His life for us. The life everlasting depends upon which side you are ard. Be on the side of Christ."

In concluding Mr. Major spoke of the wonderful life of Christ, and how He had been able to win the approval of Jew and Gentile, Christian and pagan, friend and foe, by His justice and spotless life. All acknowledged Him as the true Son of God. Can we not trust Him?" asked the speaker, in bringing his address to a close.

A Boon to the Bilious

Are you compelled to deny yourself many wholesome foods because you think they make you bilious? Do you know that your condition is more to blame than the foods? Your liver and stomach need attention more than the diet. When you find yourself suffering with a bilious attack, take

Dummer Loses An Estimable Young Citizen

Mr. Thomas Howsom Died on Friday After Brief Illness From Pneumonia—Deceased Was One of Most Highly Respected Residents of he Township—Norwood Council Met—Will Enforce the Law of Selling Cigarettes and Tobacco to Minors.

OTHER LATE NEWS FROM NORWOOD

Special to The Examiner.

Norwood, March 19. — Examiner readers will learn with deep regret of the announcement of the death on Friday morning, at his father's residence, Dummer, of Thomas Howsom, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Howson. Although not unexpected, it is none the less sad, and the grief-stricken family have the profound sympathy of the entire community. Deceased was a very estimable young man, and his Christian character and consistent life had won for him a large circle of friends. For several years he had been superintendent of the Sunday school in this neighbourhood and was a faithful member of the Norwood Methodist church.

On Friday, March 9, the late Mr. Howson was in the village in apparently good health, but on the following day was taken down with a severe attack of pneumonia, from which he never rallied.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon, service to be held in the Methodist church. Deceased was a member of the Masonic Lodge, also the I.O.O.F., under whose auspices he will be laid to rest.

Miss Finnie and Miss Graham, of Peterborough, visited Miss Maggie Calder on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lennox and son, of Lakefield, were in town on Saturday attending the funeral of the late Henry Murphy.

Mr. Rollie Kidd, of Warsaw, spent a few days in town visiting friends.

Dr. Wilson was in Toronto on Thursday and Friday.

An invention which is destined to effect quite a revolution in the manufacture of cheese boxes has just been perfected in Norwood, Mr. D. J. McLean being the inventor. During a good part of the winter he was hard at work on the model and patterns, and for some weeks he has been engaged on the castings, which he had made in Peterborough. The completed machine is a splendid demonstration of his skill and ingenuity. In the hands of one man it will turn out a cheese box in about 30 seconds. It bends the loop, nails in the head, which it centres with an automatic arrangement, and puts in about a dozen tacks across the seam in almost less time than it takes to tell the story. Already he is in receipt of inquiries regarding it from parties interested, and there can be no doubt but that there will be a large demand for the machine when the boxmakers throughout the country get to hear of it and the successful work it so readily accomplishes.

Mr. R. Graham, of Tweed, is a guest of his sister, Mrs. Robt. Patterson.

Mr. Thomas Hawthorne spent Sunday at his home near Warsaw.

Mr. Carl Fickard is visiting his parents at Newcastle.

At the last meeting of the village council the reeve and all the councillors were present.

Minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

Bylaw No. 305, a bylaw to authorize the council to borrow money to meet current expenditure, received the necessary readings and was fully passed.

The following accounts were then read from the chair of the reeve:

Wm. Taylor, work on streets, etc., $2.50.

D. Harrison, work on streets, etc., $1.50.

K. G. Thompson, telephoning and telegraphing, 74c.

K. G. Thompson, accounts for cards, 25c.

Moved by Coun. Squire, seconded by Coun. Knox that the accounts as read be paid, and orders issued for same.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Squire, seconded by Coun. Webster, that the village constable and school janitor be instructed to enforce the act in respect of furnishing tobacco, cigars or cigarettes to minors under 18 years of age.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Knox, seconded by Coun. Webster, that the reeve, clerk and treasurer have power to sign cheques weekly, when necessary, for work on streets and sidewalks.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Squire, seconded by Coun. Knox, that an advertisement be inserted in the Norwood Register asking for applications for a practical man to take charge of the building of cement walks early in the Spring.—Carried.

Dr. D. C. Howson, of Kalamazoo, Mich., and Mr. W. R. Howson, of the Sovereign Bank, Chatham, are home to attend the funeral of their brother, the late Thomas Howson.

Miss M. Kirkpatrick and Miss Waters were visiting Mrs. R. Lees in Peterborough on Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Thos. Coyle and Miss Brisbon of Rosmeath, were guests at the home of Mr. D. Foster on Sunday.

Woodmen Order Is Progressing

Mr. Alf. Haskell is Attending Meeting in Guelph.

Mr. A. Haskill, clerk of the Local Camp, Woodmen of the World, is in Guelph attending the biennial session of the head Camp, which opened yesterday. The reports of the officers were presented and discussed. They show that about $2,500 less was spent in organization in 1905 than in 1904. The number of policies issued was 1,705, as against 2,115 for 1905, a reduction of 410. The number of lapses was 973, as against 838, an increase of 135. There were 27 new camps or circles formed during the year. There were 12 camps disbanded during the year, all in the west. The number of lady members was increased by 45, and is now 359. The year 1905 had fallen behind 1904 in the last quarter, due to the prevailing unrest regarding insurance.

Head Clerk Fitzgerald's report showed that the society had 10,318 members, carrying an average insurance of $1,114. At the inception of the Order, the average amount carried was $1,800. The death claims were 59, of which 57 were approved. The death rate was 5.52, as compared with 6.03 in the preceding year. There was $38,954.85 collected in assessments over the actual death losses.

The meeting is continuing to-day.

COUNCIL WANT SEWERS Built By Day Labour

Deputation Waited on the Board of Works Last Night in Support of That System—No Action Was Taken, But the Question Will be Discussed at a Meeting Called for That Purpose.

A feature of the meeting of the Board of Works Committee of the city council last night was the hearing of a deputation from the Trades and Labour Council in reference to the building of the city sewers by day labour.

The question was left over until another meeting which will be called to discuss the matter. The Trades and Labour Council are very strongly in favour of the day labour system. Ald. Hicks, chairman of the Board of Works, desires to have the work done as cheaply as possible, and, on the whole, thinks that the scheme is a good one.

Last night's deputation consisted of Messrs. C. P. Murty, president of the Trades and Labour Council, T. Stenton, of the Moulders' Union, ex-Ald. Jos. Crowe, of the Moulders' Union; and John Alexander, of the Carpenters' Union.

The resolution passed by the Trades and Labour Council, in reference to the matter, and presented at the last Council meeting, was read by Ald. Hicks.

Mr. Crowe briefly stated that the object of the visit of the deputation was to discuss the question of constructing sewers by day labour.

Ald. Hicks informed the deputation that he had talked over the matter with Mayor Best, and had found that the policy would make a great change in the system now in vogue. He was of the opinion that the Mayor should be present before the committee took any action. He was a man of much experience in street matters and his advice would be valuable.

Ald. Johnston thought that the question was one that merited serious consideration from the committee. He spoke of the success of the system of constructing sidewalks by day labour. Ald. Johnston thought that a meeting should be called to deal especially with the matter, and made a motion along that line.

Mr. Murty said that in passing the resolution the Trades and Labour Council had taken into consideration the fact that a great saving had been accomplished through the building of granolithic sidewalks by the day labour system. He thought the system could be applied with equal success to the construction of sewers. Mr. Murty referred to the advantages that would follow through the centralization of the labour required to carry on the work.

Ald. Hicks said the council was working along these lines, slowly, perhaps, but surely.

Ald. Johnston's motion to leave the matter to another meeting to be called for the purpose of discussing it, was seconded by Ald. McIntyre, and was carried.

Peterborough's Trade Shows An Increase

Annual Report of the Auditor-General Gives Details of Amounts Collected for Customs, Inland Revenue, Etc. —The Increase in Customs Was $12,716.14—Inland Revenue Increase Was 14 Per Cent.

Volume one of the Auditor-General's report for the year ending June 30th, 1905, has been issued from the Government printing bureau, Ottawa, and contains considerable matter of interest to Peterborough. Incidentally, it shows that trade in this city is increasing rapidly. This is evidenced by the large increase in Inland Revenue receipts, which show advances in a most satisfactory character.

Another evidence of increasing prosperity is the greater revenue from customs receipts. In the fiscal year 1903-04 the amount collected in Peterborough was $222,921.15, and in 1904-05 it had jumped to $335,637.29, an increase of $12,716.14.

The expenditure under this head in Peterborough was: R. Hall, collector, $1,300; landing waiters, J. Cameron, $600; J. F. Galvin, $600; A. R. Kidd, $600; A. M. Lang, $600; delivering mail, $40; postage, $60; telephone rent, $25; petty expenses, $3.85; total, $3,798.85.

Inland Revenue.

The receipts under the head of Inland Revenue at Peterborough, were largely in excess of those of the preceding year. The details are given below:

Excise revenue, 1903-04, $64,176.54; 1904-05, $73,414.53; increase, $9,238.99. Of seventeen offices in the Ontario district only five showed increases. These were Brantford, $2,673.38, or 2 per cent.; London, $6,745.84, or 1.4 per cent.; Ottawa, $13,250.51, or .04 per cent.; St. Catharines, $1,299.70, or 2 per cent. The percentage of increase in the Peterborough office is 14 per cent., by far the largest of any office in the Ontario district.

Gas Inspection.

The amount collected in Peterborough in 1904-05 was $289.75, as compared with $1375.0 in 1903-04, an increase of $152.25, or more than 100 per cent.

The revenue from methylated spirits inspection last year was $758.88, as compared with $811.91 in 1903-04, a decrease of $53.03.

Last year the warehouse business collected amounted to $120.00, a decrease of $20 from the previous year.

The expenses connected with the Peterborough office, over which Mr. William Rudkins has charge:

Salaries, Collector, W. Rudkins, $1230; deputy collector, T. Rork, $920; travel, W. Rudkins, $131.15; postage, $18; P.O. box, $4; express, 75c.; ink, $1; telephone, 6 months to October 1, 1905, $15; telephones and telegrams, $1.90; Campbellford, deputy collector, J. A. Group Comes Suddenly

HENCE THE WISDOM OF KEEPING IN THE HOUSE THE MOST EFFECTIVE CURE.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Slight hoarseness in the evening is the only warning of croup.

About midnight the child awakes coughing—that peculiar, metallic cough called croupy, and which strikes terror to the mother's heart.

Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success.

It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

People who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on, and the danger which accompanies it, usually keep some of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house for use in case of emergency.

For bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, and every form of throat and bronchial trouble, this great family medicine is a quick and certain cure.

Mr. Wm. Melloe, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup, absolutely, in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."

There are imitations of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Be sure you see the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, on the bottle you buy; 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cts.; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 6

Two Pastors Are Invited To Remain

The Christian Guardian of this week tells of two former George street Methodist pastors, who have been invited by their present congregations to remain third years. The Guardian says:

Belleville, Bridge street. — Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., pastor. At the February quarterly official meeting, the pastor was unanimously, by standing vote, invited to return for the third year, after which several of the members led in thanksgiving to God for such a pastor.

Oshawa, Simcoe street. — At the February meeting of the quarterly board of the Simcoe street Methodist church, Oshawa, the Rev. S. J. Shorey was unanimously invited to remain for a third year and the invitation was accepted. The present prosperous condition of the church—a prosperity unexcelled at any period of its history—is due in no small degree, to the earnestness, tact and ability of Mr. Shorey.

A Caretaker Of Dams Reinstated

Mr. J. Pearson, of Lindsay, Joins Staff Under Trent Canal Superintendent.

On May 18 last Mr. Jack Pearson, of Lindsay, who for 18 years had been the faithful caretaker of the 36 dams and slides on the Burnt River and its tributaries, under the late Thos. Walters, superintendent of the northern waters, received notice of his dismissal from office. It was not a courteous notice — there was no commendation of work done, or promise of a cheque for six months' salary—oh dear no! Instead of that, he was given just a week's notice to get off the earth on the dam grounds or surroundings adjacent thereto — the abruptness of the order being attributed to the special interposition of Mr. J. Hilliard Carnegie, M.P.P. for East Victoria.

Mr. Pearson stepped down and out, and for part of the summer was in the employ of the Dominion Government removing obstructions from the river channel between here and the lake, while he spent the past winter in the woods scaling for the Dickson Co., of Peterborough, who cut over 17,000,000 feet in the townships of Cavendish and Anstruther, immediately east. Since his old territory was transferred to Dominion control Mr. Pearson has been wearing a smile of the never-fade kind, and with good reason—yesterday he went north to meet Mr. Clem Gorton, of Peterborough, overseer of the Trent Canal, who will reinstate him in his old duties while they are making a tour of the works for the purpose of getting at the expenditure necessary next season for the proper up-keep of the dams and slides.

Wm. Flood Must Leave The City

Wm. Flood admitted being found drunk in a public place at this morning's police court.

"I came from Montreal" he said in answer to a query from the Magistrate. He said he had no money to pay a fine. He informed the court that he was going to Toronto.

"I'll send you to the Central Prison for vagrancy if you come up before me again," said His Worship to Flood, and added that the prisoner would have to leave the city at once.

Wants Husband To Be Locked Up

His Worship Police Magistrate Dumble, has a letter from a woman whose husband is a slave to drink, and requests that he be looked up. The man has been under lock and key before, but outside of his tendency to be very intemperate, has no other bad faults. He is blacklisted at all the Peterborough hotels, but nevertheless seems to have little difficulty in obtaining liquor over the Peterborough bars.

YOU NEED THE OTHER

Ozone is a germ killer and a valuable remedy, but to get the best results from it you must have a tonic laxative to take with it. "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" is the purest and in which Ozone is sold. Every bottle of this remedy contains a coupon which entitles you to a package of "Celery King" the well known remedy, free.

In buying this solution, you get about twice as much Ozone for your money as by buying other brands, in addition to getting a package of "Celery King" for nothing. You thus save money in two ways besides getting Ozone in its purest and most concentrated form.

Ask your druggist for "Solution of Ozone (the coupon kind)" and if he does not keep it you can get it from the Public Drug Co., Bridgeburg, Ont., by writing for it. Sold by W.B. WARNE, 5

COMING HOME TO ROOST.

Mr. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, has not begun his career as a provincial loan negotiator with any great degree of brilliancy. He has negotiated a Temiscamingue Railway loan at 3 1-2 per cent., and has only disposed of the Provincial bonds at a net figure of 96. A Province like Ontario, without any other bonded debt, with immense resources, with illimitable prospects, should have at least sold her bonds at par, especially bonds in connection with a Provincial railway that has paid dividends from the beginning, and which promises to be not only a revenue producer itself, but to contribute in a splendid degree to the development of a new and rich region of agricultural and mineral areas.

It does not seem unreasonable that Mr. Matheson should assume some responsibility for the unfavourable terms upon which the loan was placed. For years and years, when he was the financial critic of the Opposition, he apparently took great delight in hammering down the credit of the Province of Ontario, and though he was a good deal of a Cassandra, his unpatriotic statements made and reiterated that Ontario was plunged into fathomless depths of debt, and that her resources had been hypothecated beyond redemption, may have reached the sensitive ears of the money-lenders, and, if not fully credited, may have induced a decision to be on the safe side.

NO ZEAL NOW.

The bill to amend the liquor license law of Ontario, introduced in the House on Tuesday, makes many changes, technically called amendments, but are not amendments in the way of practical temperance reform. The bar, whose banishment was decreed by the Alliance, still remain and more firmly entrenched, since it has received fuller recognition by the provisions made for regulating it. When the Ross Government was in power the Alliance and those in close sympathy with its temperance propaganda stubbornly demanded either the banishment of the bar or the head of the Government. It got the head by helping to substitute another government, whose platform of temperance reform by continuation of the traffic, the Alliance meekly accepts. If the Alliance were consistent it would be bombarding the Whitney Government, demanding prohibition or banishment of the bar. But it is not consistent. It seems not harsh to say that the Alliance is purely time-serving and that the alliance is literally a compact between a certain set of temperance men and a certain set of politicians.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Elber, of Huron, has introduced a bill to amend the House of Refuge Act, to provide for the recovery of the cost of maintenance of inmates when such inmates are possessed of property.

Under the proposed amendments to the license bill, if it becomes law, the license fee for hotels and shops in Peterborough will be $500 for each, with power to the City Council to increase them by bylaw. Hon. Mr. Ross will not be alone in his contention that increase in license fees will tempt licenseholders to employ every opportunity to make sales to cover the increased cost of license.

The question of Sunday observance is taking great prominence in the Canadian House of Commons under Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick's leading, and the question of observance of the Sabbath Day is attracting attention in England, where Lord Avebury, in the House of Lords recently, presented a resolution "That in the opinion of this House the subject of the Sunday opening of shops demands the serious and early attention of His Majesty's Government."

It's all very well to boast of the mineral wealth of the Cobalt region, but there is no doubt when the Provincial railway taps the fertile clay belt there will be more wealth and greater contribution to Provincial growth and progress from the agricultural operations that will be conducted there. Canada's greatest wealth is not in her mines, but in her arable land—which is a mine of wealth that under proper culture will never "pinch out" or become exhausted.

A Parkdale hotel was sold the other day, the owner realizing $20,000 for his interest in the license. This seems to be a high figure, showing an unusual value. It is, perhaps, a high figure when one considers the risks—when one takes out of the profit out of such an investment the amount of a license fee of $1000, or, if pending legislation meets expectations, $1,500, and when one takes account of the risk of a local option campaign, sweeping away the value of the investment completely.

It seems unfortunate that Hon. Edward Blake, the member-elect for Longford, Ireland, cannot take his seat in the British House of Commons. This is especially unfortunate in view of the fact that the present Parliament is unusually sympathetic with the cause of Ireland, of which Mr. Blake is the most brilliant and faithful champion. However, his disability is only temporary—it was due to Mr. Blake's agent in Longford having omitted some trifling formality which the courts can rectify, and in which event Mr. Blake can take his seat.

The Keene Ratepayers Oppose New School

At Public Meeting the Proposal to Erect New School Was Defeated—Inspector Lees Submitted Plans of a School—Cost Would be $3,500—Old School May Now Be Repaired.

Special to The Examiner

Keene, March 21st. — A meeting of the ratepayers of the Keene public school was held in the school on Monday to consider the building of a new school house.. There was a large attendance, most of the ratepayers in the section being present.

On motion of Mr. D. Wallace, seconded by Mr. A. Stewart, Dr. W. S. Harrison, was appointed chairman, and Mr. Andrew Shearer secretary.

The chairman read the notice calling the meeting and called on Mr. Lees, Public School Inspector, who was present, to address the meeting. Mr. Lees, by the aid of a diagram, illustrated and explained the plan, also the cost, of a school house he would recommend to the school section should they decide to build.

After some discussion Mr. James McNeil, moved, seconded by Mr. Jno. McFarlane that a new school house be built. The motion was lost, by a vote of 8 for and 21 against.

Some discussion took place as to the advisability and the cost of repairing the old school house, and it was decided to adjourn the meeting until Tuesday, April 3rd, in order that the trustees might have an opportunity of ascertaining and reporting on the cost of the repairs necessary to the present building.

The school taxes in this township are rather unevenly divided, the rate being about the highest in the township, and falling principally on the farmers in this section. The village ratepayers pay an average of about $2.50 per year school taxes, and the farmer ratepayers over $11, and most of them paying the high school rates are naturally averse to any great increase in the school rate as would follow the erection of a new school.

Mr. Lees estimate of the cost of a new school was $3500. This extended over ten years, would mean an increase of the school rate by about 2.3 mills; the present rate is 3.2 mills.

The Keene hockey club played the Lakefield team in Lakefield, on Monday evening, and were defeated by 15—3. The half time score was 5—1.

The following was the line-up: Goal, G. Godfrey; point, Walsh; c. point, Newton; rover, Mathers; centre, Secombe; r. wing, Short, l. wing, Lundy.

It is not always the greatest, the most startling discoveries of science that are most useful to the human race.

Comparatively few people were directly interested in Herschel's finding of the new planet Uranus, but many thousands have been benefitted by Professor Unna's experiments, which proved beyond a doubt that baldness and dandruff are the results of the inroads of a parasistic germ, which invades the roots of the hair.

The discovery of the true cause of baldness made Newbro's Herpicide possible. Herpicide effectually kills this germ. Destroy the cause you remove the effect.

THE WEATHER.

Those confiding citizens who had placed their snow shovels in cold storage until next winter, were under the necessity of resurrecting them this morning. Though the actual snowfall was not four inches, the heavy gale of wind last night piled the snow into the only respectable snow drifts we have had this winter. The thermometer this morning stood at 7 degrees above zero, the lowest this month.

Returned From Pleasant Visit To Sunny Jamaica

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Larmonth Have Spent Three Weeks in the South—Left Kingston With Thermometer at 85° and Arrived in Peterborough in Midst of a Blizzard—Jamaicans are Easy-Going People, Says Mr. Larmonth.

FRUIT GROWING IS IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

Mr. J. H. Larmonth, manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and Mrs. Larmonth returned last night from a three weeks' visit to Jamaica. Mr. Larmonth reports having a very pleasant time in the southern island. The climate he found was delightful, and the change from tropical climate to the snowstorm which was raging on his arrival last night was anything but agreeable. The thermometer registered 85 degrees when Mr. and Mrs. Larmonth left Jamaica.

The boat trip was a very enjoyable one, the sail from New York to Kingston, Jamaica, being made without anything happening to mar the pleasure of the journey. On the return trip some stormy weather was experienced.

Mr. Larmonth expressed himself to The Examiner to-day as being much impressed by the easy-going temperament of the Jamaicans. The warm climate was not conducive to energetic work, and the average inhabitant of the island is not inclined to do to-day what he can put off until to-morrow. The stores close at five o'clock daily except on Wednesday, when they are invariably shut up at two o'clock. Speaking of the street railway at Kingston, Mr. Larmonth said that the system was a good one. As it was built by Canadians and is operated by Canadian capital, the road is little different from the one in operation in Peterborough.

The chief industry of the island is fruit growing. Mr. and Mrs. Larmonth visited one of the old sugar plantations where sugar is manufactured by the old fashioned process and were much impressed by what they saw there. Only a few of these plantations are now in operation there. The United States Fruit Company is the principal one on the island, and control the greater part of the fruit-growing industry, as well as the line of steamers connecting Jamaica with the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Larmonth have returned greatly benefitted by their pleasant trip to the Sunny South.

Lamented Death Of Miss Alma McCollum

By the death of Miss Alma Frances McCollum, as recorded in another place in this issue, a young lady of unusual literary capability, charming and attractive personality and beautiful amiability of character, passes away from the ken of social and literary circles, which she honoured and adorned. No particulars of the illness are to hand, but her death will come as a shock to a very wide circle of friends in Peterborough, where Miss McCollum and family have lived for many years, enjoying a high degree of respect in the highest social circles of the city. The family removed to Peterborough from Chatham, living in the later years of their residence at 27 Gilmour street. Early last autumn the McCollum family disposed of their pretty Gilmour street cottage and removed to Toronto, taking residence at 125 Delaware avenue.

Miss McCollum, the youngest of four daughters, was young woman apart—both in respect of her personal attractiveness, her innate refinement and artistic bent — her literary culture, and her delicate and poetic imagination. As a poet Miss McCollum occupied a standing quite above the average. Her poetical compositions frequently published in magazines and city newspapers, were collected and published in book form, and constitute a permanent and valued addition to native Canadian poetical literature, conspicuous for their tender delicacy of sentiment, and graceful literary form. With Miss McCollum's rare gifts of intellect and imagination were associated a warm and tender heart and sympathetic nature, which made the doing of deeds of kindness and charity an impulse of a second nature. She was an active member of the congregation of St. John's Church, and in connection with the Sunday School and junior missionary organizations, did a great deal of valuable work, placing her literary ability at the disposal of their welfare in the preparation of entertainments and charming plays of a juvenile character.

While she resided in Peterborough Miss McCollum was a citizen in whom we all could take pride, from every view point. Now that she has passed away regret and mourning will be universal.

WEDDING BELLS

RICHARDSON—SAYLES.

Rev. W. J. Jolliffe officiated at a pretty wedding yesterday afternoon at three o'clock, at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Sayles, 355 Sherbrooke street, when her eldest daughter, Miss Alberta, was united in marriage to Mr. W. W. Richardson of Pontypool. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Sayles, sister of the bride, and Miss Katie Ross. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Jas. Richardson, and Mr. W. Sayles, brother of the bride.

The bride and bridesmaids were charmingly gowned in cream crepe de chene and carried bouquet of pink and white carnations, and bridal roses. The bride's going away dress was a pretty blue, with hat to match. The ceremony was performed in the company of the immediate relatives and friends. The usual wedding dejeuner was partaken of from a table artistically decorated with pretty carnations.

The happy couple left on the 5.15 C.P.R. train last night for Toronto, and other western points, amid the congratulations of their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson will reside in Pontypool.

The Millinery Openings Are Taking Place

City's Stores To-day are in Possession of the Ladies.

To-day the ladies have possession of the city's stores. The millinery openings are being held, and the stores in which the newest creations are displayed, are thronged with hundreds of ladies.

This season's styles will be somewhat different from those of last season. In the first place the hats will be larger. The colours will be bright and there is great latitude in the use of them. Pale blue will have a big run and all the tones of pink will be fashionable including the deeper shades of rose, raspberry and mulberry. Greys, greens, lemon shades, and mauve tones are all seen, and black and white in combination are considerably shown. Many placques are shown, caught up in various shapes, and leghorns in rough, unfinished effects are quite a feature. Turbans and toques continue popular and there are many mushroom effects.

The trimming will be flowers largely and will be principally on the bottom of the brims.

The local stores are resplendent today in their new spring dress and their showing of headwear would do credit to stores in the larger cities.

Claim They Are Still Using Those Ballots

Numbered Ballot Used In Last Kingston Election.

SAMPLES TO BE PRODUCED

Government Assailed on the Kingston Election Practice — Change in the Appointment of Returning Officers —No Longer Restricted to Sheriffs and Registrars—Opposition Assumes the Offensive.

Toronto, March 22.—A flaw was found in the Government armor by Mr. Pense in the Legislature yesterday, when he thrust home his arguments on the use of a numbered ballot at the late Kingston bye-election, and was sustained in his attack by Hon. Mr. Ross, who pleaded for the adoption of an absolutely unidentifiable ballot, such as is used in Dominion elections. The Government attempted to minimize the situation, but promised to bring down a fac simile of the ballot used. Later on, over Mr. Duff's bill to make voters in general eligible for appointment as returning officers, Mr. Preston (Brant) and Mr. Harcourt criticized the measure as a further concession to the spoils system. A number of bills were given a second reading.

Numbered Ballot Retained.

Mr. Pense moved: "That the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery be directed to lay upon the table of the House fac-similies of the ballot papers furnished to the returning officers and deputy returning officers, and used in the recent bye-elections in the City of Kingston, and in the North Riding of the City of Toronto."

Mr. Pense said the impression throughout the province was that the numbered ballot had been abolished; he was sorry that in the recent Kingston election it was used.

Mr. Foy said the member for Kingston had drawn conclusions without stating the facts on which his conclusions were based. The same statement was made in the bye-election in North Toronto, and Mr. Foy investigated, the result being that he could not see how anyone could tell how an elector voted.

Mr. Ross said when the bill was before the House last year he assumed that the ballot was to be secret. The objection of Mr. Pense was a fatal objection. It was plain that if the same number was on the ballot as the stub it would be easy to know how the suspected elector voted. The ballot was not secret if it was possible to trace one vote. He suggested the adoption of the Dominion ballot.

The Election Act.

Mr. Duff's bill amending the Ontario election act provides that returning officers in future be appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor from the voters of the electoral district for which the election is to take place, instead of the Sheriff or Registrar as formerly. Mr. Hoyle endorsed the bill. Mr. Preston (Brant) dissented, believing voters' interests safer in the hands of Sheriffs or Registrars than in the hands of partisans nominated by a party caucus. Mr. Borden and Mr. Fitzpatrick were agreed upon this at Ottawa. The Conservative party simply saw a further chance of applying the spoils system.

Following Messrs. Thompson (Centre Simcoe) and Jessop, Mr. Harcourt thought Mr. Preston had conceived the situation clearly. New Sheriffs or Registrars were not likely to be so careless of their reputation as to do what no good citizen would do. He was not opposing the bill and was utterly indifferent whether it carried, but it was of importance that the House should uphold the integrity of the officials referred to. It would be a sad day when the statement was sanctioned that the Sheriffs and Registrars were not capable of upholding the honor and responsibility of their position in the province. Mr. Thompson (Centre Simcoe) had been fair enough to say that his interests would be safe in the hands of a political opponent. There were thousands of partisans, earnest Tories and earnest Grits, who would be strong enough to bear the responsibility when thrown upon them.

Premier Whitney submitted that where responsibility rested the power of appointment should also rest. The Government would accept the responsibility. Every hon. gentleman knew that the present system had not worked well. It had deteriorated into a vile political machine, and he would therefore say it was time to change.

The bill was referred to the Legal Committee.

Stationary Engineers' Bill.

Mr. Carscallen, in moving the second reading of his bill to make stationary engineers a certificated body, said that it provided for the exclusion of all persons who had no certificates for operating a plant of 50 horse-power or over. He quoted some returns, which he claimed showed that the bulk of the accidents through boiler explosions had been caused by incompetency. In the last 10 or 12 years 100 persons had lost their lives and hundreds of thousands of dollars in property value been destroyed. The object of the bill, which might be changed in detail, was to minimize the risk.

To Change Pharmacy Act.

Mr. Lewney asked for the second reading of a bill to amend the reading of the Pharmacy Act. The idea, he said, was to put companies on the same basis as individuals by requiring each director of the company to take out a certificate under the restrictions of the Pharmacy Act.

The Premier thought the bill went too far. The whole question was whether the public were to be protected, but were the public protected by requiring every director of a company to be a registered pharmacist? He proposed a special committee to deal with the bill.

Mr. Gamey spoke on his bill relating to the incorporation and regulation of mining companies, but after some debate, Mr. Gamey thought it quite likely that the General Companies' Act might meet the difficulty, and he asked that the bill go to a committee for further consideration.

Mr. McNaught moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Assessment Act. The bill was sent to a committee.

Mr. McNaught also explained his bill embodying requests asked by the City of Toronto.

First Readings.

Mr. Kidd—To amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Mahaffy—To amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Carscallen (Hamilton) — To amend Municipal Light and Heat Act. To amend the Waterworks Act. To amend the Assessment Act. To amend the Municipal Act. Respecting conveyancing.

Mr. Kennedy—Respecting the Town of Port Arthur.

Mr. Lennox—To amend the act regulating motor vehicles.

Exportation of Gas.

The Premier informed Dr. Jessop that the Government was considering the question of stopping or limiting the exportation of natural gas from Ontario.

The Government was in correspondence with the Quebec Government, said Col. Matheson, replying to Mr. May, with a view to having the tax on commercial travelers from Ontario doing business in Quebec modified. It was not the intention of the Government to ask that the act be disallowed, nor was it the intention to introduce similar legislation.

San Jose Scale.

The Minister of Agriculture replied to Mr. McCoig that application had not been made to the present Government for compensation for the destruction of fruit trees by the San Jose scale. In 1905 the Department of Agriculture had conducted experiments on the use of spraying materials and had carried on demonstrations at certain points in methods of sprayings. The continuance of this work was under consideration. The department also supplied applicants with spraying materials at wholesale rates and paid transportation charges. Because of the cheapness of the materials used in the treatment of the scale it was not deemed necessary that this assistance should be given by the department.

To Help Forestry.

At the municipal committee yesterday, Mr. Downey spoke in support of his measure for the exemption from taxation of wood lands to the extent of one acre in ten, and not more than twenty-five acres of land held under a single ownership.

Hon. Mr. Monteith spoke in support of the measure, dwelling particularly upon its educational value. The demonstration wood lots which the Department of Agriculture aimed to establish eventually in every constituency, and for the present in every county at least, was a step in this direction.

Hon. Mr. Monteith and Messrs. Downey, Little, Atkinson, Sutherland, Hislop and Munro were appointed a special committee to confer with Dr. Clark, the Provincial Forester, on the measure, redraft some of the clauses and bring in the redrafted bill next week.

Toronto, March 22.—Yesterday morning Mrs. Bridget Murray took a fatal dose of carbolic acid at her home, 91 Hayter street. She died about midday. She was about 65 years of age, and leaves a husband and four sons, grown up.

Troops to Awe Strikers.

War Pensions For Veterans Of South Africa

Mr. Andrew Broder's Resolution Defeated.

TREAT THEM ALL ALIKE

Sir Frederick Borden Refers to the Claims of Other Veterans—Imperial Pensions About the Same as Canadians—Government Majority 38 —Hon. Wm. Templeman Introduced—Mr. Borden's Bills.

Ottawa, March 22.—The first division of the session took place yesterday afternoon, the Government majority being 38. The vote was upon a motion which Mr. Andrew Broder (Dundas) has brought up several years in succession, in reference to the recognition made for the Empire by Canadian volunteers who sustained injuries in the South African war, causing total disability.

Sir Frederick Borden, while agreeing with Mr. Broder on the sentimental aspect of the question, argued that as a business proposition the Dominion could not treat those who fought for the Empire in South Africa better than it treated those volunteers who suffered disability in defence of the Empire against foreign invaders or rebellion upon Canadian soil. He had examined the Imperial pension list, and found it practically the same as the Canadian list. Therefore if Canada augmented the pensions which Canadian volunteers received under contract with the Imperial authorities they would be giving them better treatment than our home defenders received.

Government Majority 38.

The Speaker reported that the nays had it when the question was put, but the Opposition demanded a vote, and the first division of the session took place, resulting in a majority for the Government of 38. Yeas, 59, nays 97.

A number of motions for returns upon various matters were concurred in.

Mr. Templeman Introduced.

Hon. Mr. Templeman, Minister of Inland Revenue, was introduced by Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Ralph Smith and took his seat as representative for Victoria, B. C., at the desk in the front row of Government benches formerly occupied by Hon. L. P. Brodeur.

Mr. R. L. Borden's bills amending the Dominion elections act, 1900; further amending the act respecting the House of Commons; further amending the criminal code, 1892, and further amending the Dominion controverted elections act, were given second reading and referred to a special committee to consider amendments to the election law. The bill amending the criminal code is designed to bring members of the Railway Commission under the same provisions as judges respecting misconduct in office.

The House adjourned at 5 p. m.

Latest News Of Winter Sports

The All Stars And Peterboro' Will Clash

An Eye-Dazzler in the Line of Hockey Promised for To-morrow Night.

"Gig" Ramsey, the manager to the Varsity team, telephoned yesterday to Mr. Fred Whitcroft, captain of the local Intermediate seven, that a strong team is being selected to face the locals to-morrow night at the Brock street rink. Those who will figure on the all-star septette are the cream of Ontario players, and the prettiest and fastest contest of the season will no doubt be witnessed. Roy Thomas, the crack Barrie goal tender, will guard the flags for the Stars, and there is probably not a better man between the posts of the O.H.A.. Henley, from Midland, will play point; and Hamber, the Argonaut defence man will probably play cover. The forwards will be picked from Ridpath, Thoms, Davidson, Walsh, Richardson. Peterborough will be represented by the regular team.

Toronto And Peterborough

Two C. G. E. Teams Will Play Fast Exhibition Game To-night.

The game between the Toronto and Peterborough Canadian General Electric Company teams to-night at Brock street will be one of the fastest seen here this season. The Toronto seven are very fast and are tied for first place in the mercantile league.

The Peterborough team will have Crowley and Whitcroft on the forward line and this pair should keep the visitors' defence pretty busy. W. E. Wasson, the unerring city league official will handle the bell. The ice has not been in better condition this winter. The teams:—

Toronto.		Peterborough.
Regan	Goal.	Fitzpatrick
McCann	Point.	Ford
Edgar	Cover.	Meagher
Hutchinson	Rover.	Whitcroft
Laing	Centre.	Crowley
Wedd	Right Wing.	Rose

Referee—W. E. Wasson.

Lindsay Plays Here To-night

Six Rinks Come in on the Nine O'clock Train.

Word was received last night from Lindsay stating that there would be six rinks of curlers from that town here to-night on the 9 o'clock train. This was the best of intelligence to the locals as a repetition of the good time spent in the northern town on Tuesday will be most acceptable to them.

The Lindsay curlers will remain over night and will have plenty of time to complete the games. The following will be the Peterborough rinks in to-night's games:—

J A Ferguson	A P McDonald
H Foote	E H D Hall
R M Waddell	A McIntosh
J S Knapman	T F Matthews
E W Cox	D Hall
C Frost	W G Ferguson
R Sturgeon	H S Thompson
R Hicks	D Davidson
A Moore	A D Campbell
D Hall	R Kerr
G Fitzgerald	G Moore
C N Brown	R Neill

Tory Versus Grit To-morrow Night

A great curling contest beside which all others of the past winter pale into insignificance will be that waged on Friday night at the Charlotte street rink. It will be a contest between representative stone-shovers of the powers of light and darkness—between rinks composed respectively of Grits and Tories. For some time the Tory element of the curling club has been throwing out a big bluff—announcing the ability of the Tories to sweep the Grits off the ice in a curling contest, and claiming that the Grits couldn't get a half dozen rinks together which would have a ghost of a show. The Tories boasted so long and so loud that at last they persuaded themselves that they could curl, as against the Grits, and the matter was brought to a focus.

Mr. Robert Neill, on behalf of the Tory Machine—not the automatic machine—issued a challenge, sending it to that representative Grit, Mr. Robert Kerr, who at once accepted the defiance and the Grit sextette of rinks proposes to give their conservative antagonists a brisk argument. Considering the composition of the Grit rinks, they should win without trouble, but in view of the familiarity of their political antagonists with slippery tactics, the result is problematical. The following will compose the Grit rinks:—

E W Cox	W M Lang
C E Frost	H W Morphet
R Sturgeon	G L Hay
R Hicks, skip.	W G Ferguson, skip.
Geo. Mather	A H Stratton
Dr. Wightman	E J. D Hall
Jos. Gibson	E B Clegg
J H Connal, skip.	W G Morrow, skip.
J. Davidson	G B Stevenson
Dr. Eastwood	R Kerr
W J Thompson	T Brightman
D Davidson, skip.	S Clegg, skip.

The Tory skips for to-morrow night will be:—C. N. Brown, Thos. Rutherford, T. F. Matthews, J. S. Knapman; S. Ray, G. Fitzgerald and R. Neill.

It will be observed that the "Tory" leader furnishes only the names of his skips while the Grit leader is open and above-board, giving the name of every player. Is it possible that the "Tory" curlers are hatching some dark plot?—preparing to slip in surreptitously some subsidized Lindsay ringers, who have been bribed to stay over and join the faint-hearted Tories in "dishing the Grits". The "Grits" hosts hope to win but won't "stoop to conquer"—if they can't win on their merits, they won't resort to "machine" methods.

CURLING

Two games were played at the curling rink last night. The following were the skips and scores:—

E B Clegg, sk. 7. S Clegg, sk. 8.
W G Morrow, sk 15. C N Brown, sk 18.

• • • •

The Lindsay Post gives the following account of Tuesday's games:—

Yesterday six rinks of Peterborough curlers arrived in town on the mixed train from Port Hope, and a "grey guild fight" took place with Lindsay curlers on the beautiful ice prepared by Caretaker Cotey. The rinks drawn against each other played their best and some beautiful curling was seen. Best of all, the coming together of so many rinks afforded an opportunity for renewing many old friendships between the players, and cementing new ones, and we may safely say that at the conclusion of the evening games, when the opposing skips shook hands, and the rinks cheered for each other, the good opinion entertained by members of the respective clubs on behalf of each other had a more solid foundation than at any time since friendly games between the two clubs were initiated.

The afternoon games ended in favour of Lindsay by a good majority, but at night—whether due to the excellent supper enjoyed by the visitors at the Simpson House, or to some other good and sufficient cause—they took the locals into camp, but did not secure a sufficient number to overcome Lindsay's lead of 34 points on the afternoon games. The visitors left on the flyer at 9.30, delighted with their visit.

GRANTFORD MURDER TRIAL.

Self-Defence the Plea of the Young Indian John Hill.

Brantford, March 22.—The trial of John Hill, the young Indian charged with the murder of Alexander Green, was in progress all day yesterday before Justice Garrow. The crime took place at the home of Hill, near Fairfield Plains, on Christmas night. A dance was in progress, when a quarrel ensued between Hill and Green, which resulted in the shooting of the latter. Twenty-four witnesses were examined yesterday.

The defence of the prisoner is along the lines of self-preservation, the man Green being of a very aggressive and quarrelsome disposition. Bad blood was known to exist on Green's part toward Hill. The trial will probably conclude to-day.

RED-HOT STEEL INGOT KILLS.

Terrible Fate of Workman in Dominion Steel Mills.

Sydney, C. B., March 22.—A fearful accident occurred in the work of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co. yesterday morning, when a laborer, George Reid, was crushed to death beneath a red hot steel ingot, weighing several tons, which had fallen from the tongs by which it was being conveyed across the company's mills.

Reid was working beneath the steel floor of the mill, which is two inches thick, when the ingot crashed through the floor and crushed the life out of him in an instant.

Reid was about 60 years of age and married.

Acute Indigestion Killed Him.

Brantford, March 22.—The result of the post-mortem on the body of Robert Myles, the immigrant who died here so suddenly, adduced no evidence to the theory that the man was poisoned, death being due to acute indigestion. He was buried yesterday with Masonic rites.

$10,000 Fire at Cobourg.

Cobourg, March 22.—A disastrous fire occurred in Sam Clark's big departmental store on King street yesterday at noon. The loss from smoke and water is not yet estimated, but may reach $10,000; fully covered by insurance. Mr. Clark is a member of the Legislature.

Killed During Church Row.

Nancy, France, March 22.—A manifestant at the inventorying of church property here is dead as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by the vicar of the church during the disturbance.

Y.M.C.A. Debating Society Meeting

The Y. M. C. A. Literary and Debating Society met last night in regular session, and although the attendance was not large, the meeting was an agreeable one.

After the roll call had been responded to by quotations, Mr. A. E. Walker gave a short reading, and then began the main feature of the evening, viz: a debate on the interesting subject, Resolved, That woman has done more to mould the character of the race than has man". Mr. G. H. Williamson led the affirmative and was supported by Mr. Wilt. G. Shiner, while the negative was taken by Messrs. C. H. Reid and — — Roper. Mr. Walker taking the chair during the progress of the debate.

The subject was thrashed out pro and con in a most thorough way, many new and original arguments being put forth by both sides.

Mr. Fred. Ray acted as critic and judge, and after having sized up the arguments in his usual masterly style handed out his decision in favour of the affirmative, who he said had the best side of the question and handled it with all justice.

The subject was then left open for general discussion, and many more points were brought out, most of those present adding their private opinions.

The next regular meeting of the society will be held on Wednesday evening, April 4th, on which occasion there will be an attractive programme, consisting of a book review by Mr. Roper and a paper by the president, together with other numbers of interest.

THIS MAN A TRIGAMIST.

C. J. Hendrick Pleads Guilty to Three Wives Living in Toronto.

Toronto, March 22.—Within the past seven months Clarence J. Hendrick, a cook, has been married to three women, all of whom are living in Toronto. Hendrick, who is a middle-aged man, pleaded guilty to three charges of bigamy before Magistrate Denison yesterday morning. There are records of three marriages in the City Clerk's office.

Hendrick's first marriage took place in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Portland street, Rev. Alex. Williams officiating, on Oct. 23, 1902. The bride was Margaret Jane Armstrong. A second entry in the registration office gives Hendrick as having been married to Ethel Taylor by Rev. Isaac Couch, on June 26, 1905. His third matrimonial adventure was made on Jan. 30, at his rooms, 87 King street east, when he went under the name of Clarence John McHendrick, and wedded Sarah Ridley. Rev. R. J. Moore of St. Margaret's Church officiated. The police say they will be able to show that the prisoner had four wives and probably more.

BLAME CAPT. JOHNSON.

Canadian Commission's Report on the Valencia Disaster.

Victoria, B. C., March 22.—The commission appointed by the Department of Marine and Fisheries to inquire into the Valencia wreck places the responsibility for the wreck upon Capt. Johnson of the steamer Valencia, whom the commission finds should not have attempted to enter the straits in the weather prevailing at the time without ascertaining exactly the position of the Umatilla lightship.

Various deficiencies in the way of inspection at San Francisco and with respect to the lack of discipline and drill on board are alluded to, and in conclusion the commission makes some recommendations with regard to vessels plying on the coastboard.

TERRIBLE PAINS ACROSS BACK

SUFFERED EIGHT MONTHS WITH KIDNEY TROUBLE. WOULD HAVE TO STAY IN BED FOR THREE DAYS AT A TIME

Doan's Kidney Pills CURED HIM

Mr. Thomas Fitzgerald, Hazeldean, Ont., writes us as follows: "I was a great sufferer from kidney trouble for eight months. I had terrible pains across the small of my back. I would have to stay in bed for three days at a time and could not do any work. I tried several remedies but of no avail, and also plasters but they were of no use.

One day a neighbor of mine advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I was so much discouraged I told him I was tired of trying remedies, but he urged me to try one box so I purchased one, and before I was through using it, I found a change for the better so I got five boxes more, and I have had no trouble with my kidneys since. I would not be without Doan's Pills in my house."

It is really not difficult to cure kidney trouble in its first stages. All you have to do is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. They are a never-failing cure for all forms of kidney trouble. They quickly relieve the congested, overworked kidneys, and gradually bring them back to health.

Doan's Kidney Pills 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Referee Appointed
TO SETTLE THE DISPUTE
About Park Boundary

Matter Was Discussed at a Meeting of the Board of Works Last Night—Representatives of the Riverside Park Syndicate Were Present—Dangerous Condition of Smith Street Bridge Was the Subject of Attention.

A meeting of the Board of Works Committee of the City Council was held last night. Very little important business was done, the chief event of interest being the discussion of the Riverside Park boundary question. Representatives of the syndicate owning the park were present, and after a good deal of discussion it was decided to leave the matter in the hands of Mr. F. W. Wilkins, of Norwood, who will act as arbitrator between the syndicate and the city. The dangerous condition of the Smith street bridge also received the attention of the committee. There were present Ald. Hicks, chairman; Ald. Johnston, McIntyre and Graham.

Riverside Park Boundry.

Messrs. F. J. Jamieson and J. J. Howden, representing the syndicate owning the Riverside Park, waited on the committee in reference to the boundary of that property. It will be remembered that there has been a dispute between the syndicate and the city as to the exact location of the southern boundary of the park. The syndicate claim that the boundary is south of Sophia street, while the Council hold that the proper line of separation is above that street. The matter came up last year and was referred to the Board of Works. Afterwards it was referred to City Solicitor Hall, and his report stated that the location of the boundary was very indefinite.

Ald. Hicks suggested as the best plan to solve the problem, that an independent surveyor be selected to define the boundaries, and that he should act as referee between the two interested parties.

Mr. Jamieson said that the proposal was satisfactory if the expense involved was not too great.

Mr. Howden stated that the plan of 1871 showed the boundary to be below block F. The company he represented had already undergone considerable expense and did not want to incur any additional expenditure unless it was absolutely necessary. He thought the first plan of 1871 should be accepted as authority.

Ald. Johnston said that the plans of the village of Ashburnham seemed to vary considerably. To facilitate matters he was of the opinion that the committee should visit the spot. After a little further discussion it was moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Mr. F. W. Wilkins, of Norwood, be appointed as surveyor and arbitrator in the matter of defining the boundaries of Riverside Park, his decision to be final, and each of the interested parties to pay half the expense involved.—Carried.

Mr. A. Weir waited on the committee in reference to the coal shed he is erecting on the G.T.R. siding in East City. He wanted to have the city engineer visit the property to see whether or not he was interfering with Mr. Bogue's work in constructing the outfall sewer. The city engineer inspected the property this morning.

Requests Made.

Mr. Wm. Taylor applied for permission to build at 40-foot track across Hilliard street, from the G.T.R. siding to his property. The request was granted on motion of Ald. Johnston; seconded by Ald. Graham.

The Bell Telephone Company asked for power to erect new poles on several streets and to replace old ones on many other thoroughfares. On motion of Ald. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Johnston the matter was left in the hands of the city engineer, who will report to the Board before any action is taken.

A letter was received from the Climax Road Machinery Co. expressing surprise at the Council not considering their stone-crusher.

Thomas Mahoney, in view of the fact that sewers this year are likely to be built by day labour, applied for position as timekeeper.—Received.

Mr. R. C. Brand wrote, asking that if it were at all possible he be given sewer connection to his property. The matter was referred to the city engineer.

Mr. E. J. Hickey asked that a crossing be constructed near his property on Stewart street. It was decided to construct a temporary crossing.

The Stone Crusher.

The stone-crusher question was talked over informally, although it was not deemed advisable to take any action last night as all of the committee were not present. The chairman referred to the recent trip to Hamilton where the deputation saw the Sawyer Massey and Champion machines in operation. He stated that he had been much impressed with the Sawyer Massey crusher on the ground that it was more easily portable and much stronger. As far as working went, he had not been able to see a great difference between the two machines. City engineer Hay concurred in the opinion that the Sawyer Massey was the best of the two machines.

Smith Street Bridge.

The report of City Engineer Hay was again left over. Ald. Hicks, however, drew attention to the clause relating to the Smith street bridge, stating that that structure was in a dangerous condition.

The city engineer informed the committee last night that the last span of the bridge was not safe and liable to go down any time a heavy load was passing.

The committee regarded the situation as serious, and Mr. Curtis, who, as proprietor of a brickyard, has the largest amount of heavy traffic across the bridge, will be notified that the bridge is not considered by the Council as safe. It was decided that the committee, in company with the city engineer, should visit the bridge to-day. The matter will be brought up at the next Council meeting, when steps will be taken to remedy this state of affairs.

The committee then adjourned.

Location For The Camp Is Not Yet Decided

Col. Gordon Gives the Lie to Dispatch From Cobourg to the Effect That That Town Has Been Selected—Says So Far As He Knows No Choice of Location Made.

A despatch from Cobourg to the Toronto News of yesterday says:—

"Cobourg has been selected for the military camp hitherto held at Kingston. Col. Gordon, of Kingston, reported to Ottawa the advantages which Cobourg possessed for the June camp, and word was received in town on Saturday that the recommended change had been made. Cobourg possesses besides dry level camp grounds, one of the finest and most modern rifle ranges in Canada.

"It is expected that at least four thousand militia will put in their annual drill here. The camp grounds are located north of the Cobourg Fair Grounds, and in close proximity to the Grand Trunk Railway, providing every facility for transportation."

If this report were true it would mean that Peterborough's chances were very poor. It would, however, appear that Cobourg was crowing too soon. The Examiner wired to Col. Gordon to-day as follows:

"Despatch to Toronto News says, summer camp this year will be at Cobourg. Is this correct?"

This afternoon the following reply was received:—

Kingston, March 22,
To Daily Examiner, Peterborough:—
As far as I know the location of this year's camp for this district has not yet been definitely settled.
W. D. GORDON.

It will thus be seen that there is hope yet for Peterborough securing the camp, although there is no doubt that strong influences are at work in favour of Cobourg.

Saw The Meteor On 14th Inst.

Mr. Noyes' Wife and Daughter Witnessed the Descent of the Phenomenon.

The meteor that shot downward to the earth on the 14th of March last was seen by a great many people, including Mr. and Mrs. Noyes and Miss Noyes. Mr. Noyes is the well-known gate-keeper at the G. T. R. crossing on Charlotte street. While they were coming up the old Cobourg railway on the east side of Little Lake, and about to cross the C.P.R. tracks that cross the Cobourg road-bed, Miss Noyes noticed a brilliant light from behind. She called the attention of her parents to it, and they observed the meteor shooting from the sky. As it neared the earth the water and land in its vicinity were illuminated by a very brilliant white light. The planet shot from the heavens with a hissing sound, and disappeared in the lake.

DEMAND OF MINERS.

Means Increase in Wages to Some of 150 Per Cent.

New York, March 22.—The demands of the anthracite mine workers for a readjustment of wages and conditions in the anthracite fields would, if granted by the operators, mean a veritable revolution in mining conditions, according to a statement issued by the operators' committee of seven yesterday. The statement declares it to be a mistake to assume than an eight-hour day and a 10 per cent. wage increase represents the sum total of the demands of the miners.

"The new and uniform scale," says the statement, "would place every man on the same basis, increasing the wages of some men as much as 150 per cent. The average increase, under the uniform scale, would be nearly 30 per cent. for outside men."

The statement says that the miners insist upon a uniform wage scale for 146 separate and distinct classes of workmen about the mines.

Fourteen Year Old Youth Killed By Falling Tree

Was Assisting His Father and Hired Man in the Woods—Tree Lodged in Fork of Another and in Attempting to Dislodge it Was Struck by Branch—Resided on Seventh Line of Otonabee.

Special to The Examiner

One of the most distressing and pathetic of accidents occurred yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock in Otonabee, causing the sudden death of Bruce Braely, the 14-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Braely, by the fall of a tree. The deceased boy, his father and hired man were chopping in the woods when a large maple tree which had just been felled, lodged between two branches of another, and some trouble was experienced in dislocating it. A logging chain was attached to the tree and a team of horses was used to extricate it from the fork of the other. While the boy was underneath, hooking the chain, a limb broke off alighting on his head and crushing him to the earth. Death occurred almost instantly afterwards and came as a dismal shock to his relatives and neighbours. He was always a bright and active youth with a fair future and his untimely demise in the bloom of youth is much regretted.

The dead boy is survived by two sisters and a younger brother, besides his sorrowing parents. His father was a former resident of North Monaghan and moved to Otonabee some time ago, taking a farm on the 7th line of that township, about five miles north of Keene. His grandfather, Mr. Geo. Young, formerly a North Monaghan farmer, now resides on Park street, and was about the first in the city to hear the sad intelligence of his grandson's death.

Coroner Gray was notified of the fatality and decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon from the family residence, and the remains will be buried in the Little Lake Cemetery.

Market Tolls Sold For $1030 To Mr. H. Snider

Annual Sale of Tolls Was Held This Morning—The Price Was Away Below That Reached Last Year—Only Three Gentlemen Made Bids.

The annual sale of market tolls took place this morning in the Council Chamber, Mr. John Haggart being the auctioneer. A large number of those interested had gathered, but only three gentlemen made bids. The bidding was lively for a few moments, but the price reached did not nearly come up to that at which the tolls were disposed of last year. Mr. Harry Snider, at $1,030, was the highest bidder, and he will be market clerk for the next 12 months.

The price last year was $1,320, so that a very great decrease has been made. This may be explained by the fact that there is not as much profit in the enterprise now as there was in former years. The three bidders to-day were T. J. Lee, Jas. A. Brown and M. Snider.

Following were the bids: T. J. Lee, $500; H. Snider, $600; T. J. Lee, $700; H. Snider, $800; Jas. A. Brown, $840; H. Snider, $900; Jas. A. Brown, $960; H. Snider, $1,000; T. J. Lee, $1,020; H. Snider, $1,030.

No Route Selected For Trent Canal Outlet

A despatch from Ottawa says that Col. Ward (Durham) was informed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the House of Commons yesterday, that three outlets had been surveyed for the Trent Valley Canal from Rice Lake respectively to Cobourg, Trenton and Port Hope, but the Government had not yet come to a decision as to the proper route to be adopted. The breaks in the canal at Peterborough and Kirkfield had caused about $7,000 damage. As a result four engineers connected with the work had resigned.

Decide To Advertise For New Fire Hall Tenders

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council was called for last night. There were however, not sufficient members present to constitute a quorum, and the result was that no meeting was held.

The members present were Alds Adams, Mason, Ball and Graham, and they discussed matters in connection with the new fire hall, with Mr. Blackwell, the architect, who read the specifications.

Of course no formal ratification of the specifications could be made, but since there was no material change from those agreed upon previously by the committee, it was decided to advertise for tenders for the erection of the building. In accordance with this decision, therefore, notices will be issued asking for tenders, which will be received up to April 9th, from plans and specifications which may be seen at the office of the architect.

Excursion To Cobalt Mines

Mr. W. Bunton Will Conduct Another Party There.

It is probable that another parlour car will leave Toronto on Monday or Tuesday night for Cobalt, under the direction of Mr. W. Bunton, who has conducted a number of similar excursions during the past few months. It is understood that several local capitalists are talking of making this trip. The fare for the round trip including baths, meals, etc., from Toronto to Cobalt and return will be $30.00.

Anyone who contemplates going should communicate with Mr. Bunton in order that accommodation may be provided.

Two Dances For Week After Easter

Two dances have already been arranged for the week succeeding Easter Sunday, and that both will be successful goes without saying. The "Not Outs" will give a dance on Easter Monday in the Foresters' Hall, and on Thursday, April 12, the Young Bachelors will hold one at the National Hotel. Both of these functions will no doubt be largely attended.

Perfect fitting, fine "Blumos" Serge Suits $24

For every build of man there is a Semi-ready type

SEMI-READY garments are built to measurement. But according to clothing makers' methods, a 40-inch breast is supposed to belong to a 5-foot man, so where does Mr. Short-Stout come off?

The four extra inches on the tail of his coat make him ridiculous.

You see, the old system was wrong—it could only fit normal man—the Semi-ready system of physique types will fit any figure.

Of course, fit is an important thing to get so satisfactorily settled, but Semi-ready didn't stop there.

Semi-ready system of tailoring is different, too. Instead of employing a man simply because he is a tailor, we employ him because he has proved himself an expert in one particular branch of the business, and keep him doing nothing else but his specialty. If he fits in sleeves best he does nothing else in our tailorey; if he is an expert on collars, that is his permanent occupation while with us—and so on to every part of our business. Thus we get the most perfect tailoring there is. That is why you find style in all our garments, and permanent shape.

We have reached such a high plane in tailoring that we couldn't afford to use anything but the best of materials, so we carefully test every thread of goods we buy—then we guarantee them with the knowledge that they can't go wrong.

Perhaps you have never been in a Semi-ready Wardrobe! We would like to show you what it is like.

The Semi-ready system of sizes is based on the permanent measurement—height. Once the figure is formed, height never changes, though the waist and breast lines may vary considerably.

For each height we have every variation of figure—stout, slight, over-erect, sloping-shoulders, etc.—there are 105 variations altogether.

Here is an example: When a 5-foot 4-inch man with a 40-inch breast comes into one of our wardrobes, we produce a suit for a 5-foot 4-inch man with a 40-inch breast. The fit is invariably perfect.

If the same man goes into an ordinary clothing store they take his breast

William Fife Found Dead In Bed To-day

One of the Most Highly Respected of Keene Died Suddenly —Was a Brother of Mrs. R. J. Winch, of Peterboro' —A Son of the Late John Fife, Who Introduced the Famous Fife Wheat into Canada.

Special to The Examiner.

Keene, March 23rd.—The residents of this village were shocked this morning to learn of the sudden death of Mr. William Fife, who was found dead in bed. The deceased had been in his usual health when he retired last night, and none of the family knew of any illness experienced by him between the time of his retiring and his death, the evidence pointing to his passing away quietly.

When he did not rise at his usual time this morning, his room was entered, and it was found that his spirit had passed away.

The late Mr. Fife was 79 years of age, all of his life having been spent in the township of Otonabee, where he was born and where he and his family has been looked upon as the earliest and most respected residents.

He was the son of the late John Fife, who was the man who introduced the now famous Fife wheat into Canada. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Julian and Levi, of Otonabee, and one daughter, Mrs. Edwin Bradley, also of Otonabee. One brother, James, and two sisters, Miss Rebecca of Otonabee, and Mrs. R. J. Winch, of Peterborough, are also survivors.

The deceased was a life-long Liberal, and was a prominent member of the Methodist church until his death. He had resided in Keene for about 13 years, moving into the village when he retired from a successful and busy life as a farmer. Universal regret will be experienced at his death. He was a member of a family which was in many respects the most prominent in the township of Otonabee. They came there in the days when the whole country was virtually a forest, and cleared farms which have been among the best in the country. The sons and daughters have all grown up to be honoured members of the community.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon, from the family residence to Fife's cemetery, Otonabee.

St. Patrick's Day In Ennismore And How It Was Spent

A Memorable Day in the History of St. Martin's T. A. S.—The Election of Officers Took Place—The Result--Mr. Peter Flood Again President—Irish Drama "Eileen Oge," Was Presented in St. Martin's Hall—The Cast of Characters.

REV. FATHER McGUIRE GAVE A LECTURE

As usual, St. Patrick's Day, was celebrated in Ennismore in a manner, highly creditable to the people of that township. At 9 o'clock, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, at which over one hundred, mostly members of the T.A.S., received Holy Communion. After the pastor had made a few remarks on the day we celebrate, he called upon the men, young and old, to become members of the T.A.S., and to renew their pledges to abstain from all intoxicating drink. The call was well responded to, almost all, coming to the front, and renewing their good resolutions for another year. By far the largest number of members the Total Abstinence Society ever had here, is enrolled for the coming year, many new members adding their names to the long list. Father Fitzpatrick thanked the members most heartily for their good example, and the sacifice they are making to banish liquor entirely from the parish. He prayed that God might grant to each of them grace and strength to be faithful to their pledge, during this, the fifth year of the Society's existence. Then followed the election of officers, which was keenly contested, and which resulted as follows:—

President—Peter F. Flood.
Vice-President—Dan Crough.
Secretary—Jas. Mahoney.
Treasurer—Michael Crough, Sr.
Committee—Eugene Murphy, John O'Reilly, P. J. Scollard, John P. Flood, J. K. Galvin, John Scollard, Eugene Maloney and Joseph Carroll.

The election of officers was most satisfactory, and only went to show the anxiety of the members to have their best and most enthusiastic men at the head of the Society. It is most flattering to Mr. Flood, who, for the fifth time, has been elected President, though he was closely pressed by Mr. Dan Crough and Mr. Jas. Mahoney.

In the afternoon, the Irish drama, Eileen Oge, in four acts, was produced in the hall, for the special benefit of the school children, and for any old people, who would not care to be out after night.

The evening's entertainment was announced for 7.30—but long before that hour every seat was taken, and before the curtain rose at 7.45, there was not a foot of standing room eft. Judging from the receipts over five hundred people must have witnessed the play. They came from all sides, Downeyville sending the largest contingent, with Bridgenorth, Young's Point, Harvey and even Hastings, and Asphodel well represented. The play, Eileen Oge, in four acts, is one of Falconer's best, and rather difficult to stage, owing to the many peculiar incidents introduced in different parts of the drama, such as ship-wreck, hay-making and dancing on the green by moon-light. Everything considered, the young people of Ennismore deserve great praise for their excellent rendition of the play, and those who witnessed it, were both pleased and surprised.

The following is the cast of characters:—

Patrick O'Donnell, Eileen's faithful lover—J. A. O'Donohue.
Mr. Moriorty, a sturdy Irish farmer—Frank Scollard.
Bryan O'Farrell, friend to O'Donnell and in love with Bridget — Peter Galvin.
Henry Loftus, English Landlord's son, also suitor for hand of Eilpen—Frank Crough.
Rev. Father Mahoney, typical Irish priest—Patrick J. Scollard.
Maclean, Scotch agent to Loftus, cruel and merciless—Joe Carroll.
John Thomas, a cockney valet — John Gallice.
Tim, an illgant pinman, but the Divil's own child—M. O'Donoghue.
Mr. Nolan, general utility man — Patrick Quinlan.
Bailiff, always on hand — James Mahoney.
Eileen Moriarty, heroine — Miss Agnes Scollard.
Bridget McGuire, a sprightly Irish maid — Miss Lottie Scollard.
Norah O'Donnell, Patrick's sister—Miss Fanny Scollard.
Farmers, constables, soldiers, peasant girls, bridesmaids and guests.

The following is a brief synopsis of the play: On the very morning of O'Donnell's intended marriage with Miss Eileen, he is arrested charged with having sent a threatening letter to the landlord; is found guilty on circumstantial evidence, and is exiled for five years. All this is the work of Maclean, the Scotch agent of Mr. Loftus. At the end of five years Eileen is still true to Patrick, though she has not even heard from him during his long banishment. But partly to satisfy the wishes of her father, and partly to obtain a good home, she at last consents to wed Henry Loftus, of Loftus Hall, though she heartily despises him. Fortunately O'Donnell returns in time, having through Father Mahoney's influence obtained his full pardon from the Queen. Maclean turns traitor, informs on Loftus, who is immediately arrested. The wedding ceremony which was begun five years ago, is carried out; retributive justice is meted out to all, and the play closes amid general rejoicings.

Mr. O'Donoghue, as Patrick O'Donnell, was in word and act just such a character as one would look for as the honest, faithful lover of Eileen Moriarty. He understood thoroughly the nature of the caste to be taken, and his portrayal was faultless.

If there is any character which Frank Scollard knows real well it is that of the Irish farmer. Always gentle, kind and considerate — loving honour more than riches — faithful to friend, generous to enemy—too easily won by sweet, flattering words Frank is always the same.

Once more we had the pleasure of listening to Peter Galvin, as the mischief making, fun-loving, broth of an Irish boy. Peter is the soul of honour—on or off the stage—a fact which enhances his acting, and makes his appearance doubly appreciated. His rich Irish brogue, when occasion demanded, was surpassed only by that of his sweetheart, Bridget McGuire. P. J. Scollard, as Father Mahoney called forth rounds of applause. His acting was clever, his words full of sweetness and unction. It would be difficult to imagine the priestly character more perfectly portrayed than it was by P. J.

The difficult character of Maclean, the Scotch middleman, and the contemptible agent of Harry Loftus, was ably taken by Joseph Carroll. Joe understands well, what he is called upon to do, and he does it. It would be an arch critic who would find fault with his personation of Maclean.

Henry Loftus was well represented by Frank Crough, whose general appearance, lofty bearing, haughty manners and selfish love, typified clearly the English landlord's son.

The Cockney valet, gullibls beyond description, head over ears in love with Bridget McGuire, who plays with him, provokes him, pities him, and finally gives his flowers to the pigs, was very cleverly taken by Master John Gallice.

Jas. Mahoney, in the double capacity of bailiff and constable, does some very excellent acting, and renders valuable assistance to Maclean in carrying out the instructions of his master. Jim has a clear determined tone of voice that commands attention. Mac O'Donoghue, as Tim, the penman, handles his part very well, and leaves no doubt in the minds of his hearers that he fully realizes how completely Maclean and Loftus are in his power—he having forged the letter which convicted O'Donnell, at his request. Mr. Nolan, a handy man, on all occasions, but at times much abused by Bryan and Bridget, was left, with safety, in the hands of Patrick Quinlan.

Throughout the whole play Miss Agnes Scollard, as Eileen Moriarty, figured prominently. The part could not have been in better hands. She was all one could expect from a daughter of Erin, true to her first love, obedient to her father, even so far as to sacrifice the feelings of her own heart, graceful, modest, polite on all occasions.

Placed in a difficult position, between two fires as it were, filial obedience or plighted troth—much clever acting was required to sustain the character—but Miss Scollard was equal to every occasion, and more than once during the performance called forth rounds of applause from the body of the house. Patrick O'Donnell's sister, Norah, found an excellent champion in Miss Fanny Scollard, who never allowed an opportunity to escape of bringing out forcibly the beauty and purity of the Irish character, as represented by Erin's daughters.

But it is to Bridget McGuire we turn when we want a good laugh. In union with her lover, Bryan, they created no end of merriment. The ridiculous and the sublime, the comical and the pathetic, are so happily blended in all their utterances as to render their appearance on the stage the signal for laughter. Besides repeating her lines faultlessly, Miss Lottie Scollard looks all she says—so that even when she is silent her roguish leer and facial expression speak louder than words. The material is then for a first-class actress.

The play, on the whole, is by far the best ever given by the young people of Ennismore.

In addition to the play several very fine songs were introduced between the acts. The singers were Miss Loretta Kennedy and Miss Molley Kennedy, both children possessed of rare musical talent; Frank Moloney, Wm. Bell, Tim. Crough, Miss Gertie Moloney and Miss Kittie Gannon.

The orchestra as usual was under the leadership of Mr. John P. Flood, while Miss Flood presided at the piano. The singing for the programme was in charge of Miss Gertie Moloney, and was in keeping with all her past entertainments. St. Patrick's Day closed with the singing by the actors of "God Save the King."

On Monday evening, March 19, the play was repeated with equal success, but to a smaller audience, owing to the inclement weather.

The "Colleen Bawn" troupe from Peterborough were present, and delighted the audience with their excellent singing. Those who sang are Messrs. George Lynch, T. Begley, Mr. Donovan and Miss ... Hallihan, while Miss Maggie McCabe accompanied the singing. The feature of Monday evening's performance was the lecture by Rev. Father McGuire, P.P., of Downeyville, on "Ireland, Past and Present." A native of the Green Isle, he is thoroughly informed on Irish history, and his deep knowledge of Ireland and Irishmen at home and abroad, coupled with his experience of English landlordism and English misrule, make his words doubly interesting and instructive. Father McGuire is intensely Irish and he does not care a fig who knows it. It is one of those facts of which he is supremely proud. His is an honest pride—a pride born of solid convictions that, take them all in all, the pages of history produce no nobler names than those recorded in the blackened annals of downtrodden Ireland.

At the close of the entertainment Father Fitzpatrick thanked most cordially all those who had assisted in making the concert a success, especially the members of St. Peter's T. A. S., who, in the blinding storm, had driven all the way from Peterborough to show their appreciation of the work done by the Total Abstinence Society of Ennismore.

Editor Post Card Column:

Sir,—Would you, or somebody, in a position to speak positively, inform me, if it is in the power of an ordinary ratepayer to take out an injunction against the council, forbidding that body paying over money which it is not legally entitled to? For instance, if objection were taken by some ratepayers to paying the cost of the Trent Canal deputation to Ottawa, would their objections be sustained? Not that I am opposed personally to such a deputation—but I want to know where the ordinary ratepayer stands in such a matter.

"OLD OWL."

Thursday, March 22.

Editor Post Card Column:

How is it that the city of Peterborough has such wretched electric light service? For the last three nights the light on the corner of Hunter and Aylmer has been out and the one at the corner of Aylmer and Simcoe has also been out for the past two nights. What is the explanation of this? The Peterborough ratepayers have to pay too much to stand for second rate and burned out carbons being utilized. It's about time the city assumed its own lighting and it seems to me that it would be very advisable for the council to submit a by-law to the people and find out the public sentiment regarding the purchase of part of the property now controlled by the Auburn Power Co. and erect a pole line which will belong to the city.

Yours for better service.

RATEPAYER.

Dyspepsia of Women

Caused by Female Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved, without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has a peculiar tonic effect on the female organism.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Henry Beaubien, 58 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ont., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had been troubled with indigestion and general stomach disorders for nearly a year. I had a soreness in my stomach and was unable to digest my food. I dieted and doctored without success; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me permanent relief. I used three bottles and it cured me of my stomach trouble and built up my general health. I now enjoy a splendid appetite, can eat all kinds of food, have no trouble with indigestion, and know that I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Rev Canon Davidson

WAS INVOLVED IN THE Sarnia Train Wreck

Local Divine Returned Last Night From St. Louis and Chicago Where He Has Been Delivering Lenten Addresses—Preached in Christ Church Cathedral, St. Louis, and also in Chicago Church—Was Hospitably Entertained on all Occasions.

Rev. Canon Davidson arrived in the city last night after a visit of three weeks to St. Louis and Chicago, in which cities Rev. Canon Davidson has been giving Lenten addresses. An Examiner representative called on the reverend gentleman this morning, and although rather reticent in speaking of his trip, he kindly gave an outline of his movements.

The most exciting part of the journey occurred on the way home. Rev. Canon Davidson was a passenger on the Toronto train which crashed into a double-header freight train near Sarnia early yesterday morning, and has a vivid story to tell of the wreck and the screams which followed.

REV. CANON DAVIDSON,
Who Returned Last Night From St. Louis and Chicago.

Mr. Davidson said that the express on which he was a passenger left Sarnia shortly after 2 a.m. As was stated later, a switchman at Sarnia, instead of throwing the train on to the London track, sent it on the track running northeast to Stratford. The engineer of the express did not see that a mistake had been made. The reason given for this was that he had been blinded by a flurry of snow.

Between one-half and three-quarters of a mile from Sarnia, while the lights of the town were yet in sight, a sudden vibratory motion passed through the train as the emergency brakes were applied, followed almost immediately by a tremendous shock. The express had smashed into a double-header freight train.

Mr. Davidson was in one of the Pullman cars at the rear of the train. He states that although a severe shock was experienced there, the passengers did not realize for some time that a serious accident had occurred, and it was not until some of them had gone to the front of the train that the full extent of the wreck was seen. It was found that the crew of the express had saved themselves by jumping, but of the two firemen of the freight, one had been killed instantly and the other died soon after in horrible agony, pinned beneath the ruins of the engine. The three engines were piled in an unsightly unsightable mass, and in the first cars of the express there was a scene of great confusion. The glass doors were broken and the cars were flooded with water from the upsetting of the water coolers. The passengers, however, fortunately escaped unhurt on with but slight injuries. Mrs. Isaac Dormer, of Peterborough, her daughter and grandchild were also passengers on the train, and escaped unhurt.

Speaking of his trip, Mr. Davidson said that he left Peterborough on Thursday, March 1, and spent Friday at Detroit, where he was very hospitably entertained by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, formerly of Peterborough. He arrived in St. Louis on Saturday, and preached in Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday. The next week Mr. Davidson gave addresses from 12.05 to 12.50 at noon daily at the Garrick Theatre. The meetings were very successful. Rev. Canon Davidson during the week read a paper on "Ministerial Co-operation with Clergy of Other Communions," before the Episcopal Clerical Association of St. Louis. On Saturday he was entertained at dinner by the St. Louis Ministerial Association, the members of which ably supported Mr. Davidson in his work in that city.

On Saturday night he left for Chicago, arriving there Sunday morning in time to preach at Emmanuel Church, of which Rev. Chas. Skadding, a former Orillia clergyman, and a college friend of Mr. Davidson, is rector. Mr. Davidson had intended to confine his visit to three days, but received an invitation to give two noon-day Lenten addresses in that city, and after consultation with the church officials here, decided to accept. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew in Chicago had engaged the Chicago Opera House, one of the largest in the city, for Lent. Mr. Davidson saw many Canadians in Chicago, and was hospitably treated by them and by every one whom he met.

On the arrival of Rev. Canon and Mrs. Davidson last night they were met at the station by the wardens of St. John's and the members of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, and driven to the guild room, where an enjoyable supper was served. The room was tastefully decorated with motto suitable to the occasion, the central one being "Welcome Home." Speeches were made by a large number of those present expressing pleasure at the safe return of Rev. Canon and Mrs. Davidson. A short musical programme also added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Miss McCollum Buried To-day

Her Death a Distinct Loss to Canadian Literature.

Some further particulars in reference to the lamented death of Miss Alma Frances McCollum are furnished by the Toronto Globe of to-day, says:—

Canadian literature has sustained a distinct loss by the premature death of Alma Frances McCollum, who passed away in this city at 9.30 on Wednesday evening. Miss McCollum, her mother and two sisters moved from Peterborough, where they had resided for fifteen years, to Toronto last September, and took up residence at 125 Delaware avenue.

Miss McCollum proposed giving more time and effort to literary work, but since her arrival in Toronto her health had steadily declined. A week ago it was determined by her physician that an operation for appendicitis was necessary to save her life. The operation was successfully performed, but owing to a weak heart she sank under the strain.

The last and greatest poetic effort of this gifted young writer has been left unfinished. It is a lengthy blank verse poem entitled "The Melediat," and contains some beautiful passages.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 this afternoon from 125 Delaware avenue to the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, where service will be held, thence to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

OBITUARY.

MRS. WM. CHADWICK.

Mr. Joseph Kelly, brother-in-law of the late Mrs. William B. Chadwick, (nee Miss Riley) whose lamented death occurred in Brooklyn, on Tuesday last, received a telegram today from the husband of the deceased notifying him that the remains would arrive in Peterborough on the 5.30 G. T. R. train to-morrow afternoon. They will be conveyed from the station to the residence of the late Mrs. Chadwick's mother, Mrs. Michael Riley, corner Bethune and King streets. The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3.30, after the burial services are conducted at St. Peter's cathedral.

MRS. THOS. E. WHIBBS.

The death occurred at the family residence, on the 14th of March, of Mrs. Thomas E. Whibbs, wife of Mr. Thomas E. Whibbs. Mrs. Whibbs has been ailing for about three weeks. She had la grippe, which turned to inflammation of the lungs, which was the cause of death. Mrs. Whibbs leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, eight children—five boys, George, Michael, Leo, Joseph P., and Thomas P., and three girls, Mary, Monica and Maggie, all living at home. She has also two surviving sisters, Mrs. T. Moloney, and Miss Mary Leahy of Douro; and six brothers, Patrick, of Peterborough; Wm., of Rossland, B.C.; John, David, Michael and Thomas, of Douro. The remains were interred in the Douro Cemetery on March 16th, when one of the largest funeral cortegee that ever went to the Douro church was seen. It consisted of over two hundred vehicles, which showed the high respect and the great esteem in which she was held among her friends and neighbours. Her death will be sincerely regretted, not by her own family alone, but by everyone who knew her. Rarely if ever has such grief been manifested as was shown the morning of the funeral, and especially at the grave. To her husband and family we extend our sincerest and heartfelt sympathy.

High License Fee Very

OBJECTIONABLE FROM Hotelmen's Standpoint

Census of Those Most Affected by the New Act—Shows That License-Holders are Very Much Opposed to the Fee Being Raised to $500—"Consumer Will Have to Pay the Piper," Was the Way One Man Expressed It, And That Seemed to be the General Opinion.

In view of the great interest that is being taken in the new Liquor License Act in Peterborough and throughout the province, the Examiner has secured the views of those who will be most affected if the act comes into force. The consensus of opinion seems to be that the raising of the license fee from $270 to $500 is far too severe upon the license holders. All those interviewed by the Examiner have emphatically condemned the step and the general view given is that "the consumer will have to pay the piper," as one gentleman expressed it. The extra cost will have to be made up and it is only reasonable to suppose that the hotel men will have to raise the price liquor in order to compensate themselves for the big increase in the license fee.

Mr. Arthur Rountree

Who in addition to being the holder of a shop license, and having had much experience in the hotel business, is secretary of the Peterborough License Holders' Association, is a gentleman who may be supposed to have an intimate knowledge of the conditions that govern here. When seen by the Examiner last night Mr. Rountree emphatically expressed the opinion that the $500 license fee was far too heavy. "The hotel-keepers are not making any money now," said Mr. Rountree. "What with the high rents and other expenses, there should be some provision made to prevent the charging of exorbitant rents for hotels. I know of one place on Hunter street where the rent was raised $120 last year and the proprietor has been notified that another increase of $100 will be made.

"I approve of the doing away of "tied" houses and if the license fee was fixed at $300 I do not think that any kick would be made. Five hundred dollars is, however, far too heavy. It simply means that the extra expenses will have to be made up by the hotel-keeper. The result will be that the consumer will have to pay a higher price for his drinks.

"No one is giving so much for nothing as the hotelman, especially those with stable room. The farmer comes in to the city and is allowed free stabling for his horses, and the freedom of the hotel is his. If he wants to buy his dinner or a drink he may do so, outside of that everything is free. The new act if it becomes law will compel the proprietors of hotels to charge for stable accommodation. Those who have not stable room will have to make up the increased cost by raising the price of drinks."

Mr. J. A. Lawless

Proprietor of the National, when interviewed by the Examiner, declined to say very much about the new act. He, however, agreed with Dr. Chown that both parties had gained and lost by the act. Mr. Lawless thought that the $500 license fee was too heavy, but the License Victualler had gained by the clause concerning local option, which enacts that the bylaw may be repealed after two years in force.

Mr. James Head

Of the Clancy House, Hunter street, expressed his opinion briefly and emphatically. "Hotels can't carry on an honest business and pay a $500 license. The result will be that the prices of drinks will have to be about doubled—a glass of draft whiskey or spirits will have to be 10 cents instead of 5 cents, and case goods will have to be charged 15 cents per glass, and we'll have to charge 10 cents a glass for beer. Any man who doesn't make these charges will have to get square with a $500 license by 'fixing' his liquors, something I don't understand. As to the license for bar tenders, that's a small matter, and will, may be, make them feel their responsibility a little more."

Mr. R. H. Jackson

Proprietor of the Crown Hotel, when spoken to in reference to the proposed law increasing the license, said, "that the raise was too much altogether. A raise from $270 to $500, which is almost 100 per cent., in a city the size of Peterborough, where the hotels have to depend chiefly on the home trade is not rational. He would have been satisfied if the increase had been a reasonable amount."

When asked if he thought the law would come into force or not, he replied in the negative, and was positive it would not before the first of May, at least.

Mr. F. R. J. Mitchell

Who is a holder of a shop license, said, "that the Government had gone far ahead of the mark in raising the fee to $500. The price of liquors would certainly have to be raised in order to pay the additional cost."

Mr. Wm. Snowden

Proprietor of the Snowden House, was of the same opinion, as the rest of the hotel-keepers visited. "The $500 license fee was far too severe, and would have the effect of closing up some of the hotel altogether."

Mr. M. C. Tooley

I don't believe in high licensing. The suggestion that bar-tenders should be licensed appeals to me. I think that storekeepers selling tobacco should be licensed more highly than they are.

Mr. J. B. Larocque

The licenses should be graded as they are in Quebec. Take Montreal for instance. The licenses there range from $400 to $800. I shouldn't be forced to pay as much for my license as the larger hotels in the city. The conditions of the bill are very satisfactory as far as I am concerned. The clause providing for the licensing of bar-tenders meets with my approval.

Threatened With Paralysis

THE DOCTORS TOLD THE WRITER OF THE LETTER QUOTED BELOW —RESTORATION BROUGHT ABOUT BY USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

It is customary to consider paralysis, insanity and other diseases of the nerves as afflictions which come upon a person without warning and which are, therefore, unavoidable.

As a matter of fact, such results are preceded by months, if not years, of symptoms, which point to an exhausted condition of the nervous system. These symptoms are such, however, that many pass them by as not being of serious concern and thinking that they will wear away of themselves.

Sleeplessness, nervous headaches, indigestion, bodily weakness, fainting spells, twitching of the nerves, inability to concentrate the thoughts and loss of memory are among the most common indication of a run-down nervous system. It is sometimes only a step from such symptoms to prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

Stimulants and narcotics, though sometimes affording temporary relief, only hasten the exhaustion of the nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, on the other hand, reconstructs and restores the wasted and depleted nerve cells.

Naturally, gradually and certainly this great medicine instills into the blood and the nervous system the life-sustaining principles which replenish the nerve force in the body and so effect lasting benefit.

Miss Emma Scott, Athens, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good. I was troubled with fainting spells, bodily weakness, and spent restless, sleepless nights. I frequently had cramps in the stomach and would at times become entirely insensible, not knowing what was going on until others told me afterwards.

"I doctored with several doctors and they told me I was threatened with paralysis. They gave me relief, but could not cure me. After suffering for three years I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and it has done me more good than all the medicines I ever used."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Mr. J. E. Fowler Practical Man

The Havelock Standard says: Mr. Jas. E. Fowler, who will open a jewellery store in Andrews' Block, during the first week in April, has been engaged by the W. A. Sanderson Company, of Peterborough, for the past thirteen years, and has been foreman of the firm for the past six years. No better guarantee of his skill and experience as a workman could be given than that, as that firm is the largest in the Electric City. Mr. Fowler will have the stock and material to do all kinds of repairing on a first class manner, particularly that part pertaining to watches and clocks, so that it will no longer be necessary to send out of town for particular work. Besides everything to be found in an up-to-date establishment, he will also have a complete line of spectacles and all-purposes.

Arranging For The Deputation

Mr. D. Hughes Charles, president of the Peterborough Board of Trade, is in Ottawa to-day completing arrangements for the visit of the Trent Canal deputation to the Capital on Wednesday next. He will arrange for the entertainment of the delegates at the various hotels in the city.

THROTTLING LOCAL OPTION.

The Review is as innocent as a lamb born in the wilderness. With an ingenuous rashness, which a sucking child wouldn't be guilty of, it says that "the Whitney Government should receive credit for the vigorous manner it is carrying out the wishes of the people, and the mandate of the electors." This is said in concluding an elaborate article in laudation of the Conservative Government's liquor act. Let us see. What were the wishes of the people in regard to the liquor traffic? By an overwhelming majority the people voted for prohibition, which vote, although not enough to bring the act into effect, the Alliance, and some temperance people, considered as meaning that the wish of the people was the banishment of the bar. Has the Whitney Government carried out the wish of the people as represented by the demand, "banish the bar?" No; the Whitney Government has strengthened the bar — propped it up more firmly.

The Alliance, and some temperance persons, dropped the "banish the bar" cry, which had been urged against the Ross Government, for fear of embarrassing the Whitney Government—they put their trust in Local Option as the proper plaster for the liquor traffic ulcer, and tens of thousands of honest and sincere temperance persons believe that next to prohibition, or, even before, prohibition, local option is the best available instrument for effecting temperance reform. What has the Whitney Government done? Made it more difficult to carry local option. Instead of a majority, three-fifths of the total vote must be polled in the affirmative, or there's no local option. Hope Township carried a local option bylaw on Monday by a majority of 51 votes, and local option comes into force in due course. Under the new Liquor License Law, a big majority, falling short of three-fifths, will not carry local option, unless three-fifths of the total vote is secured in favour of local prohibition.

The Review rashly declares that the new license law "is a step forward in progressive legislation and temperance reform." The throttling of local option by the new Act is a pronounced retrograde step from the point of view of temperance workers who pin their faith to local option, which is to a large extent made impossible of adoption by the restrictions imposed. The new Liquor License Act is regarded as imposing additional restrictions upon the Liquor traffic, but matters are "evened-up" by imposing severe restrictions upon a temperance reform provision like local option. That is an example of the "vigorous and independent manner," in which the Whitney Government is "carrying out the wishes of the people and the mandate of the electors."

MISCHIEVOUS ENTERPRISE.

The Review, like Hon. Mr. Whitney, is very liberal with other peoples money. It lends its columns to the School Board to justify the expenditure of $35,000 for a new school in the South Ward—about $15,000 in excess of requirements, and it was instrumental in having Cobourg secure the military camp, which it announces in last night's issue, will be pitched at that town this year, representing a possible loss of $50,000.

This is how the Review "threw down" Peterborough which had been camp. When the officers of the Militia Department were here the local military authorities had reason to believe that Peterborough would be recommended by Col. Gordon and Col. Young as the site of the camp. The newspapers were requested to make no mention of this fact before the matter was definitely settled, as a premature disclosure of it would put other places on the alert and Peterborough's chances to get the camp would be imperilled. Both the Examiner and Review agreed to observe the request—which involved a very large material advantage to Peterborough. The Examiner respected the request, but the Review, forgetful of its promise, published the information under "scare" headlines that Peterborough would be recommended as the site for the camp.

Precisely as was feared, Cobourg became on the alert, influence was brought to bear and inducements held out—among the latter being the offer of a camping site free of charge. Yesterday the Review had the pleasure of chronicling the fact that its untimely and injudicious breach of faith had robbed Peterborough of the camp and deprived the city of the great advantage to be derived from the expenditure of at least $50,000 for the maintenance and expenditure of over 4,000 men in camp for twelve days.

It is all very well for the Review to be enterprising in the collection of news, but there's a little intemperance in the enterprise that will try to work a "scoop" at the expense of the city from which it derives its support and which it should strive to benefit instead of to injure. And it was no "scoop" for the Examiner had the same information if it had wished to "throw down" Peterborough for the benefit of Cobourg, by breaking faith and publishing premature information.

However, the matter is not settled, as the Examiner was informed by Col. Gordon yesterday, and there is still a chance of repairing the damage done by the blunder of the Review.

LOCAL OPTION AMENDMENTS.

The Bill, making numerous, if not radical changes in the Liquor License Act, deals with the subject in a sort of reciprocal manner, deferring alternately to the temperance and liquor traffic interests. This feature is largely inherent in the local option clauses. As there is considerable interest in local option in this vicinity, the changes in regard to this matter may be given:

The day fixed by the bylaw for taking the votes of the electors thereon shall be the day upon which under the Consolidated Municipal Act, 1903, or any bylaw passed under the said Act, a poll would be held at the annual election of members of the council of the municipality.

In case a petition in writing, signed by at least 25 per cent. of the total number of persons appearing by the last revised voters' list of the municipality to be qualified to vote at municipal elections, is presented to the council on or before the 1st day of November next preceding the day upon which such poll would be held praying for the submission of such a bylaw, it shall be the duty of the council to submit the same to a vote of the municipal electors as aforesaid.

In case three-fifths of the electors voting upon such bylaw approve of the same the council shall within six weeks thereafter finally pass such bylaw and this subsection shall be construed as compulsory and the duty so imposed upon the council may be enforced at the instance of any municipal elector by mandamus or otherwise.

In case such bylaw does not receive the approval of at least three-fifths of the electors voting thereon, council shall not pass the same, and no bylaw for the same purpose shall be submitted to the municipal electors before the date of polling for the second annual election of members of the council to be held after that at which the voting on the first-mentioned bylaw took place.

No bylaw passed under the provisions of sub-section 1, of this section shall be repealed by the council passing the same until after a bylaw for that purpose has been submitted to the electors, and approved by three-fifths of the electors voting thereon in the same manner as the original bylaw, on the polling day at the second or some subsequent annual municipal election held after the passing of such original bylaw; and in case such repealing bylaw is not so approved, no other repealing bylaw shall be submitted to the electors until the polling at the second annual municipal election thereafter.

Every bylaw passed under this section shall come into force and take effect as from the 1st day of May next after the passing thereof.

It will be seen that the changes under this section are, says the Brantford Expositor, something of a "seesaw," certain concessions being made to the temperance party and some to the Liquor sellers. For the former there is the provision, copied from the platform of the Liberal convention, that a municipal council must submit a bylaw on petition of 25 per cent. of the electors. The licensed victuallers, on the other hand are compensated by the requirements that a three-fifths vote is necessary to carry Local Option, and that after a bylaw has been defeated, the Act shall not again be submitted for two years. A municipal election day is also provided for, so that elections under the Act will be strung along throughout the year.

The Expositor thinks there are some objectionable features in the Act, but in the main it follows the general trend of legislation which the Liberal party gave the province during its 33 years of office. The main thing is that there should be rigid enforcement of its provisions, and in this respect the present Government has not shown that it is any improvement on its predecessors.

The South Ward School Building And That $35,000

Reference of the Defence of the Proposition—A Special Plea for an Unwarranted Expenditure.

Our good back-door neighbour, the Review, constitutes itself the mouthpiece of the School Board, and the defender of the City Council in relation to the proposal to expend $35,000 of the people's money in constructing an unnecessarily large school building in the extreme southern limit of the city, where the requirements do not warrant so large an expenditure.

The whole article is a special pleader, suspiciously akin to the argument employed by certain members of the School Board.

The Review raises the point that the Council's disregard of the popular will in regard to the pavements bylaw, was condoned by their re-election in January.

There's just the point, there's the rub. The people are apt to be careless of their own welfare. They trust too much to their representatives, they do not examine sufficiently into matters that vitally concern their material interests. Representative government is only really effective when the represented make their representatives represent them and not bulldoze them.

The Review taunts the Examiner with having advocated a $100,000 Collegiate Institute. That's a different matter from a ward school. The required accommodation for an Institute is practically a known quantity and the attendance does not vary much from a certain maximum. The building of a twelve room school at a cost of $35,000 in a quarter of the city where there is, and will be for some time, a lack of school population to use a third or a half of the room, is a different proposition.

Then the Review says, "If the sum of $35,000 is not needed, it will not be used." Trust the School Board to use every cent that is appropriated. The ways of corporate bodies do not hold out much hope that any large proportion of the $35,000 turned over by the City Council will be unexpended by the time the proposed school building is erected.

The people, if the Council had condescended to ask them, would have doubtless voted the sum of $20,000, or a reasonable sum, sufficient to erect a building suitable for present requirements and for many years to come.

At one time the School Board contemplated relieving the congestion by raising the South Central building and adding four rooms. Now nothing short of a twelve-room school in a thinly populated out of the way corner of the city will answer.

The Review on the part of the Board, hints that the blunder of asking too little money as in the case of $50,000 for a Collegiate Institute is not to be repeated. Evidently not. The Board held up the City Council and the latter met the demand for $35,000 without asking the will of the people on the matter.

"No one," the Review says, on behalf of the Board, "contends that $35,000 is actually needed now for a site and building." Then, why demand it? Our taxes are high enough now to justify caution in adding to our financial burdens.

The Examiner contends that $35,000 is too large a sum to be intrusted to the Board for the erection of a building at present in excess of the school requirements of the part of the city in which it is built, and one that will be in excess for years to come, especially when the people who have to provide the money are not consulted.

There is reason to assert that there a great dissatisfaction with the proposed expenditure and there will be more when the people are brought to think about the subject and estimate and appreciate the significance of the step the Board and City Council are taking.

It is a matter of rejoicing that the city is growing so rapidly that more school accommodation is needed, especially in the southern part of the city.

It is needed but there must be some reason used in meeting the need.

A new school building is needed, but not one cost $35,000 and placed in a part of the city where there is not now sufficient school population to use half of the accommodation to be provided by the present proposition.

The Review closes its rather long-winded article sententiously—"Let us look ahead."

That is sensible advice.

Let us, indeed, look ahead. Let us look ahead to the additions which must soon be made to our bonded debt.

We must incur debt for a new Waterworks dam and filtering plant. We are adding every year to our debenture debt for pavement and sewer extensions. We must pave the business portion of George street.

Smith street bridge was condemned last night, and will have to be rebuilt very soon, and there are many other expenditures that must be made, including $15,000 or $20,000 for a new school building in the south ward.

When our expenses grow so rapidly we should "look ahead." Every $10,000 or $15,000 added to our debenture debt, counts, not only in the total, but in the tax rate. We are already in sight of a million dollar debenture debt.

Is it wise then to spend on a new school building $35,000 a sum which the Board admits "is not actually needed at present," especially in a corner of the city so much out of the way as the site selected is?

What do the people think of it?

We should know what they think if the City Council had given them a chance to express an opinion.

While it is pretty certain that the people would vote willingly for a reasonable sum to build a much needed new South Ward school in a reasonably central location, there is no certainty that they would vote $35,000 to build a school of a size admittedly in excess of the present and reasonably future requirements.

"Let us look ahead," indeed, but also let us look before we leap.

Let us look ahead and note the rapid rate at which our city debt must grow for indispensable civic needs, and avoid rashly and unnecessarily adding to the public debt and consequently to the burden of taxation.

THE BEST STOVE CO

Spring Millinery At The Misses Allan & Felion's

Brilliant Display of All That Is New and Modish in Fashionable Headwear

The Misses Allan & Felion are to be congratulated on the success of their opening displays of fashionable spring millinery. Although the weather was not by any means spring weather, the throngs of fashionably dressed ladies who visited their show rooms was a compliment to their artistic tastes; while the brilliancy of the interior scene more than offset any meteorological deterrent outside.

The popular New York styles are shown in great blooming profusion at this rapidly growing favourite millinery store. The exposition was replete with really captivating millinery conceits, resplendent with exquisite spring shades and tints — in fact, an exhibit that evoked not only the keenest admiration but brought forth numerous good orders during each day.

Small hats with a profusion of under trimmings are a prominent feature of the styles. Grey, blue of all shades, violet, cyrano, pink, cerese cardinal, Tuscan and greens are the predominating colours for spring.

The newest shapes in hats shown are, sailors with high backs and deep bandeaux; soft draped hood hats in mohair; pretty chip hats with violet shades and Dresden trimmings; flower and fancy braid toques, Leghorn, Milan and Panama straws, and lingerit hats with lace and embroidered linen and coloured ribbons, to wear with light summer gowns.

An attractive feature of the Misses Allan & Felion's display is the individual glass cases in which are shown the daintiest New York hats, each in distinctly different shades of colours. One case displayed very pretty designs in delicate sky-blue, another displayed pink shades, and another violet—these are "dreams," rare demonstrations of beauty and vie with the open table displays of ready-to-wears in modish headwear.

Among the lovely bonnets shown was a novelty in Tuscan and violet shades with paradise osprey and jet caboehons and maline ties. New styles in sequin toques and bonnets were also shown.

New York veilings to match the light shades of sky-blue, pink and violet, fancy laces, ilgit kid gloves, flowers, feathers, fancy wings, Dresden ribbons, etc., made up a display of attractiveness creditable to all concerned.

A Presentation To Retiring Choir Leader

Mr. Rupert Gliddon Given Address and Gold Masonic Emblem Ring by Members of George Street Choir—A Pleasant Gathering at the Conservatory Last Night

The practice of the George street choir last night, which was held at the Conservatory of Music, was of more than usual interest. It was the last practice under the leadership of Mr. Gliddon and was attended by a large representation of the members of that organization.

A good practice was held and afterwards refreshments were served by Mrs. Gliddon. During the course of the evening an address was read and a handsome solid gold Masonic emblem ring was presented to Mr. Gliddon, who, after more than a year's successful service, resigns the leadership of the choir. The address which followed was read by Mr. Jas. Browne, and the presentation was made by Mr. L. A. Turner on behalf of the choir.

Mr. Rupert Gliddon,
Peterborough.

Dear Sir,—We, the members of the Choir of George Street Methodist Church, wish to take advantage of this occasion to express our regret at the severance of the relations of choirmaster and choir, which have existed to our great pleasure and profit for the time of the interest you have taken in past year, and our grateful appreciation of the interest you have taken in our instruction and the cultured skill with which you have directed our efforts to improve the musical services of the church.

Whatever success we have accomplished in this direction we gratefully acknowledge as very largely due to your diligent and capable instruction and interest in our progress and proficiency. Our personal, as well as professional relations with you have been pleasant and profitable, and we part with you with regret, cheered, however, by the reflection that you will still remain near us in Peterborough, and still continue to carry on the good work of promoting the growth of musical culture, in which we wish you the greatest success and profit both to yourself and the interests concerned.

In earnest of our good wishes and appreciation we ask your acceptance of the accompanying ring.

Signed on behalf of the choir

MAUD DETCHER,
W. CUNNINGHAM.

Peterborough, March 22nd, 1906.

In reply to the address, and acknowledging the presentation, Mr. Gliddon expressed his deep sense of appreciation of the kind action of the choir. He had thoroughly enjoyed the time spent with the choir, and regretted that it was impossible to continue the pleasant official relations that existed during the past year. He complimented the choir upon the excellent work which it had accomplished, and expressed the hope that the members would continue to improve.

Mr. Van der Water, who was present, rendered a number of solos to the delight of the gathering. Next Sunday will be the last day that Mr. Gliddon will have charge of the choir.

PELLATT DEAL IN C. P. R.

Loans to Mackenzie & Mann Covered Up—Revelations of Mr. Fitzgerald Caused a Mild Sensation at Ottawa Before the Insurance Commission —An Overdraft by the Canada Life Co.—Claim of Sun Life.

Ottawa, March 23.—The examination of Mr. Fitzgerald, the superintendent of insurance, was resumed at the Insurance Commission yesterday. The witness stated that about nineteen years ago there was an instance of premium notes being entered as cash. It was a solitary case. Mr. Shepley, the Government counsel, remarked that it was somewhat stale and they might pass over it.

Overdraft of Half a Million.

In 1899 the Canada Life and Mr. Fitzgerald had some correspondence. On Dec. 31, 1899, there was a sale shown of the company's bonds to the extent of $463,000 to meet an overdraft. On Jan. 1, the sale was reversed. There was no real sale and the transaction was made to prevent the overdraft being shown. The cash book in January showed the bank book to be overdrawn to the extent of over half a million. Mr. Fitzgerald took this matter up with the company. A reply was received stating that the company got an opportunity during the year to make some good investments and purchased more than they had cash to meet. The transaction referred to took place with the approval and consent of the directors.

They did not want their opponents to use the overdraft against them. The securities which were used to offset the overdraft were not among those which were returned to the Government as being held by the company.

Foreign Investments.

Correspondence with Mr. L. Goldman of the North American Life and B. MacAulay of the Sun Life and D. Burke of the Royal Victoria Co., was submitted, in reference to their companies having invested a larger amount than permitted by law in foreign securities. The North American Life had two and a half times the amount authorized so invested, and Mr. MacAulay contended that his company had been unable to find sufficient Canadian securities in which to invest, and if not allowed to invest in foreign securities would have a large amount of uninvested funds at the end of the year.

No Power to Enforce Requests.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that he did not consider the act gave him any power to enforce any request he might make to the insurance companies. A letter from him was sent to Mr. MacAulay of the Sun Life, in which it was claimed the company were $1,296,000 in excess of the amount which they were entitled to invest in forming [illegible] MacAulay, in reply, gave details purporting to show that the company was $46,000 within the amount authorized by the act. With this contention Mr. Fitzgerald did not agree. The Royal Victoria, when their attention was called to an unauthorized investment in shares of the Detroit Railway Co., substituted other securities for them.

The correspondence and legal opinion in regard to the investment powers of the Canada Life were next read, the view of the Department of Justice apparently being that the company was limited by its original act of incorporation to investments in stocks of banks and other charters deriving their corporate powers from the Provinces of Canada. From this view the company's counsel strongly dissented.

The discussion which has taken place over the right of the Canadian companies to invest in Sao Paulo bonds was next referred to. The company was incorporated here, but does business outside of Canada.

Were These Investments Legal?

The last hour of the forenoon session was occupied by Mr. Shepley in reading correspondence regarding the legality of investments in the Sao Paulo Tramway, Light & Power and in Mexican Light & Power stocks. The Deputy Minister of Justice pronounced both to be unauthorized investments. In the former the Canada Life, Federal Life, North American, Manufacturers' and Imperial had investments, which they had since disposed of at the department's request. The Sun Life had investments in the Mexican Light & Power Co., which they still hold, notwithstanding the opinion of the Deputy Minister of Justice.

What Searchlight Reveals.

The afternoon was productive of greater surprises in the insurance investigation than any that have preceded. The searchlight was turned with full force on some transactions of the Manufacturers' Life Co., and the result was a mild sensation. The transactions in question are two years old. The reports of Messrs. Blackadar and Fitzgerald show that the Manufacturers' Life had invested money in Dominion and Crow's Nest coal stocks and had advanced money on call loans to Mackenzie & Mann (Mr. Mackenzie was a director of the insurance company), which were covered by a temporary arrangement in the Traders' Bank on the 28th of December, 1903, by Mackenzie & Mann. A month later the Manufacturers' Life issued a cheque in repayment to Mackenzie & Mann for the amount they had temporarily provided, plus interest for one month, and resumed possession of the coal stock and securities which Mackenzie & Mann had given as collateral. These stocks were of a class the Manufacturers' Life could not legally invest in, and the superintendent reported that the transaction was only colorable.

The Pellatt Deal.

Another transaction upon which the searchlight was turned was the purchase of a large block of C. P. R. stock by the Manufacturers' Life, who had bought the stock on the instalment plan, but when the last instalment was paid Pellatt & Pellatt, brokers, were unable to deliver, having hypothecated the stock for $101,300. The directors released the stock by payment of that amount, and Col. Pellatt, who was also a director of the Manufacturers' Life, gave a mortgage upon his summer residence on Scarboro' Heights, worth $46,000, and collateral security of stocks in various companies, including 1,000 shares of Manufacturers' Life Co.'s stock, upon which there was a lien of $25,000, which the directors also paid off. Mr. Fitzgerald reported that both these transactions were illegal.

YORK COUNTY INQUIRY.

Phillips Swore He Was Owner of Lizst Piano Co.—Account Books Burned and No Originals.

Toronto, March 23.—Yesterday morning at the inquiry before Police Magistrate Denison into the conspiracy charge against Joseph Phillips, ex-president of the York County Loan Co., Mr. G. R. Burt, president of the Lizst Piano Co., admitted that he had instructed his wife to destroy two of the books used in his business. In another book produced there were pages torn out, and this, Mr. Burt said, had been done by the children.

Mr. Curry went on to tell the witness in very plain terms that one of the books which purported to have been in use since 1903 was a new one, and copied out from the original books at the same time.

This rather startling statement the witness denied.

After an hour's cross-fire, the Phillips' inquiry was adjourned until two o'clock in the afternoon.

Burt Says He Was Mistaken.

Burt procured other books for the afternoon sitting. Burt said he had been under the impression that they were the original books, but was mistaken.

Burt could not say where the books of original entry were. Mr. Curry had all the books now, excepting his registry at the factory, which he had not had time to get.

Other testimony tended to bring in the Lizst Piano Co. as an asset of the York Loan Co.

George R. Burt claims that the business is his own. Sworn declarations of President Phillips, procured by Crown Attorney Curry from the registrar's office, say that he (Phillips) intends to carry on the business.

If it can be shown that the business belongs to Phillips, then it also belongs to the York Loan Co. by virtue of the loan made to it by the latter company. This is the question to be decided.

The Masters And Mates In Parliament

Mr. Lancasters' Bill Concerning Their Certificates.

TO BAR OUT FOREIGNERS

Bill Has For Its Object the Confining of These Certificates For the Great Lakes and Coasting Trade to British Subjects—No Decision Yet as to the Trent Valley Outlet —Questions Answered.

Ottawa, March 23.—The House discussed at some length yesterday Mr. Lancaster's proposed bill to amend the act respecting certificates to masters and mates of ships, which has for its object the confining of certificates for the great lakes and coasting trade to British subjects. Sir Wilfrid Laurier informed Mr. Ward that the Government had not yet arrived at a decision relative to the southern outlet to the Trent Valley Canal.

Mr. Zimmerman introduced a bill regarding investments of certain loan companies, which, he said, was a copy of one passed in 1900, but by error not presented for Royal assent.

Mr. Lancaster's bill to expedite suits against the railway companies for damages was given a second reading and passed through committee, Mr. Fitzpatrick saying he had in mind some amendments along the same line.

Masters and Mates' Certificates.

Mr. Lancaster next explained his bill respecting certificates to masters and mates of ships which had been before the House last year.

Mr. Fred. Pardee (West Lambton), who made his maiden effort in the House, in a very brief address asked that it stand until he had heard from the marine men in his riding.

Mr. Sinclair (Guysboro') criticized the provision restricting examiners for masters and mates for inland or coasting waters. "The hon. gentleman seems to forget there is an Atlantic Ocean," he said.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur found fault with the provision which barred British navigators until they were domiciled in Canada three years.

Clauses of the bill were considered in committee.

Liable For Perjury.

Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick pointed out that if the bill were adopted as drawn, which requires that examinations be under oath, it would render the candidates liable for perjury who gave an incorrect answer to the questions put to them.

Mr. Lancaster, while he thought the provision that the examination should be under oath would not have the effect suggested, was willing to drop the words "under oath" so long as the measure attained the object aimed at, to insure protection to British subjects.

The various clauses having been thoroughly discussed, and it being evident some amendments are necessary to meet the requirements of the Maritime Provinces, the committee reported progress and the bill will be further considered at an early date. The general expression of opinion was in favor of confining the examinations to British subjects.

The Premier to Mr. Kemp said that during the fiscal year 1904-5 there were killed on Canadian steam railways 25 passenger, 198 employes and 176 other persons. On electric railways 10 passengers, 8 employes and 10 others.

The voyageurs who served in the Red River expedition of 1870 will not receive any recognition from the Government, either in money or scrip. Mr. Hyman said these men were in precisely the same position as teamsters. They had been paid and that was the end of it.

Mr. Walsh of Huntingdon asked several questions with regard to outside occupations of civil servants at Ottawa. The Premier said him that they are not supposed to carry on any business of work outside of their official duties, and the Government does not know of any who do so.

The House adjourned at 6 p.m.

Hamilton, March 23.—J. Stanley Cook, secretary of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, was examined at the police court yesterday in connection with the conspiracy charge against the grocer's guild. Mr. Cook admitted that the guild had agreements with a number of manufacturers, but he said he did not know where they were now. The starch manufacturers also cut firms off their lists because they went into the retail trade.

BOILS ALL OVER HIS FACE AND NECK

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS DID FOR HIM WHAT FOUR DOCTORS FAILED TO DO

KENWARTH, ONT., July 26th, 1905.
MESSRS. THE T. MILBURN CO., LTD.,
TORONTO, ONT.

DEAR SIRS:—I am writing to let you know what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I am a young man, twenty years old, and a year ago last March I began to feel dull and sick, and was greatly troubled with boils coming out on my face and neck, mostly on the latter. I would no sooner get rid of one than I would have, perhaps, five or three more appear.

I had four doctors trying to cure me but they had very little success. They would stop them for a month or six weeks and then they would be as bad as ever again.

Almost every patent medicine, advertised to cure boils, I could get hold of. I tried, but still without success. At last one day, last spring, someone happened to say: "Why not try Burdock Blood Bitters for the trouble?" I was willing to try anything and immediately got one bottle, but as the time was too long if it would be of any use. However, I used that bottle and while I was taking it I began to feel better, although I still kept having a few boils but not nearly such bad ones. I did not miss any work, while otherwise, I used to miss sometimes, a week out of every month. I kept on taking the medicine until I had taken six bottles, and continue to try. I was not sorry I did so when I tell you I have not had a boil to appear for the past three months. Everybody was surprised when they heard that Burdock Blood Bitters had done for me what four doctors failed to do. If any sufferers are afflicted with boils, I would strongly advise them to use B.B.B. It makes you feel like a new man. I always keep a bottle in the house, now, as I think it is a medicine that should be in every household.

Yours truly,
HENRY A. SMITH.

Peterboro' C. G. E. Seven Defeats Toronto Office Team

Easy Money for Local Puck Chasers—The Game Lacked Spectacular Features—Score Was 7-2.

The Canadian General Electric Company team of this city found little difficulty in defeating the office seven from Toronto at the Brock street rink last night by a score of 7-2. At half time it stood at 2-0 in favour of the winners. Crowley and Whitcroft of the intermediates figured on the local seven but did not let themselves out to any extent, probably saving themselves for to-night's big game. Crowley notched two points and Whitcroft netted four, Meagher scoring the home team's other goal. The crowd was very small, not over a hundred people being in attendance, the amount of interest taken in the game probably being accounted for by the fact that the blue and white clash with the All Stars to-night. The visitors were fairly speedy at times and checked pretty closely in the early part of the game but went to pieces when they struck the strong Peterborough defence. Meagher at point and Ford at cover were very effective and both played good hockey. Fitzpatrick in goal stopped a couple of good ones, but was not called upon to do very much. On the forward line Whitcroft had a cinch and played in a lackadaisical manner, not thinking it worth while to do much work, although on several occasions he broke away in some dazzling rushes just to keep himself warm. Crowley was also inclined to take it easy. He appeared to be in great form, however, and did great work when he was inclined that way. Rose on the right wing showed considerable speed and played a great game. Patterson at left was a pretty fast company, but considering his experience did well. Regan, the losers goal tender was right on the spot all the time and made many remarkable stops. He received good assistance from McCann at point, in the first half, although in the last period the latter was not very effective. The visitors' wings and Hutchins at centre, were conspicuous at times. Wadd at right wing having a good wrist shot. Taken on the whole, though, the Toronto seven were outclassed.

Following was the line-up:—

Peterborough.		Toronto.
Fitzpatrick	Goal.	Regan
Meagher	Point	McCann
Ford	Cover	Edgar
Whitcroft	Rover	Hutchins
Crowley	Centre	Laing
Rose	Right Wing	Wadd

SUMMARY.

1—Peterborough, Whitcroft, 14 minutes.
2—Peterborough, Whitcroft, 1 minutes.

Second Half.

3—Peterborough, Crowley, 2 minutes.
4—Peterborough, Whitcroft, 7 minutes.
5—Peterborough, Crowley, 5 minutes.
6—Peterborough, Whitcroft, 1 minute.
7—Toronto, Laing, 1 minute.
8—Toronto, Douglas, 11-2 minutes.
9—Peterborough, Meagher, 5 minute.

THE GAME.

For a few minutes after the face the game was pretty evenly contested and it appeared for a while as if it might be a close exhibition, but when the Peterborough seven found their feet the result was never in doubt. Whitcroft was the first offender that Referee Watson boarded. He was awarded a minute's rest for crashing. The first goal was scored on a pass from Crowley and Whitcroft in fourteen minutes. 1-0. Whitcroft secured the puck immediately after the face off and landed Peterborough's next on a pretty run. Time 12 minute. 2-0. ended the scoring in the first half, which closed with Peterborough having the better of the play.

SECOND HALF.

Crowley notched the first point for the locals in the second half on a pass from Whitcroft. 3-0. Time 2 minutes. Whitcroft found the nets on a beautiful wrist shot from nearly centre ice. Time 7 minutes. 4-0. Whitcroft was benched a minute for interference. Hutchins and Meagher mixed it up and both were given a minute. Crowley scored in a minutes. 5-0. Whitcroft repeated the trick in 1 minute. 6-0. Laing copped the visitors' first. 1 minute. 6-1. Douglas got their next a minute and a half later. 6-2. Meagher secured the last goal on one of the most spectacular dashes of the evening. He tore down the ice from point to the Toronto goal, and shot. Regan stopped but the local point got it on the rebound and banged it through. 7-2. Time 5 minutes. This concluded the scoring.

W. E. Wasson refereed to the satisfaction of both teams.

NOTES.

Whitcroft and Crowley seemed to be saving their energy for the game to-night. It was a good work-out for them, though.

Regan did well in goal for the visitors. He had about ten shots to Fitz's one.

The ice was in fine condition and will be in perfect shape for to-night.

The Toronto bunch would be kept busy defeating the High Lifes, Suburbs or Lakefield.

There was considerable slashing, but nobody was hurt.

The rise of the crowd was disgraceful. The boys had to pay for the rink and should have been given better support.

The local team presented a more formidable line-up than 95 per cent. of the intermediate O. H. A. sevens and they could have gone home too, had they been forced to.

The All Star Team And Peterborough To-night

The All Star team that will play here to-night will be a very dangerous seven and the Peterborough septette will have to move some to land a victory, but the blue and white have shown grand form this year and any team that beats them on any ice will have to travel like a shooting star. In the earlier part of the season the boys were going about one-third as fast as they are now and the clip they will be able to set to-night will be a surprise to the spectators. They had a good workout last night on fast ice and will be in fine shape for the contest to-night. The people that go expecting a rattling good exhibition of Canada's winter game will not be disappointed. The All Star team will be gilt edged in every particular and have been picked for the express purpose of defeating the Peterborough bunch on their own ice a proposition harder than the solution of a Chinese puzzle. No matter which team wins the personel of both teams is an assurance that the game will be a magnificent exhibition. Captain Whitcroft says his team is out to win and that the players are in fit condition to go like trip hammers all the time

Curling Contest Resulted In A Tie Last Night

Seventy-nine Points Obtained By Each.

The unique issue of yesterday's curling games between Lindsay and Peterborough—seventy-nine all—is attracting a good deal of comment. That so many rinks should play for two hours and finish even is an uncommon circumstance and one which gives neither an opportunity of celebrating the victory.

The games commenced shortly after the arrival of the 9 o'clock train from Lindsay and were concluded about midnight. The ice was smooth and keen so that some very attractive curling was dispensed by both the locals and visitors. The games were watched by a large number of spectators who were in no way disinterested.

Peterborough won in three rinks by 20 shots but lost in the remaining three by the same number. The outcome was in doubt until the last two ends on No. two rink, skipped by R. Hicks and G. McFadden. The locals were two in the lead at the commencement but McFadden tallied one on each end amid great applause from the visitors and so evened up the score.

A repetition of the pleasant time spent in Lindsay the other day was enjoyed and the visitors were unanimously voted all "jolly guid fellows".

After the games the visiting rinks were entertained in the rink parlours for an hour or two where a pleasant time was enjoyed.

The Lindsay curlers left on the morning train for home and expressed themselves as delighted with their trip.

The rinks and scores are as follows:—

Political Game At Curling Rink

The great Tory-Grit political curling contest commences to-night at 8 o'clock. The Grits have their ranks drawn up in strong array and in view of their unconcealed and honourable tactics in the arrangement of the games, expect to carry off the laurels. Not even the additional ringers which the faint-hearted Tory aggregation have enticed from the Lindsay rinks to assist will avail to save them from the inevitable result.

Time alone will tell the extent of this great political Grit victory with its "sweeping" changes.

City League's Final Meeting Last Night

A Satisfactory Season for the League in Every Particular.

A business meeting of the City League was held last night in the Oriental parlours each club, with the exception of the Suburbs, having a representive present. It was decided that the league hold a banquet in the near future. A committee, consisting of the president and a representative from each club in the league will meet on Monday evenings to make all arrangements in connection with the coming function. Hon. J. R. Stratton, the generous donor of the Stratton Cup will be present and formally present the trophy to the Charlotte street seven, winners of the city league championship. Other prominent citizens will also be in attendance. The affair promises to be most enjoyable and will doubtless be largely attended. Considerable routine business was transacted and a general discussion concerning the success of the league during the year was indulged in. The report of the secretary, Mr. Ira Moore showed a comfortable balance on the right side of the ledger and it was decided that it be equally divided between the five different clubs in the league. Messrs. Watson and Metherall were appointed auditors.

A motion was carried to the effect that the secretary forward letters of thanks to Messrs. Wasson, Glover and Parnell, who so kindly acted as referees in the different games in the league. A vote of thanks was tendered the press for their support during the season and to Mr. G. N. Graham, the genial proprietor of the Oriental, who so kindly allowed the league to use his parlours for their meetings.

CURLING

Mr. J. S. Knapman left for Lindsay to-day, and the assertion is made that his visit was for the purpose of picking up "ringers" for the Tories in their game with the Grits. His return will be anxiously waited by the members of the fold.

A STRONG HEART AND STEADY NERVES

Very important it is in this age of competition to have a clear cool head, a strong heart and steady nerves.

Too much rush and bustle, work and worry, fall to the lot of the average business man—his heart and nerve system will not stand it—he gives them too much work to do.

Women also are doing the same thing attending to their household duties and looking after their social obligations. The constant strain under which they have to continue day in and day out, the irregularities of habits and loss of rest will soon shatter the strongest system. Before long you become nervous, starting at the least sudden sound, the heart flutters and palpitates, specks float before the eyes, the pulse becomes weak and irregular, you have faint and dizzy spells, lack of self-confidence, rush of blood to the head, irritability of temper, shortness of breath, starting in sleep, sensation of pins and needles, sleeplessness, restlessness and finally physical breakdown or nervous prostration.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

are the remedy you require to restore your strength and health. Their extraordinary curative power manifests itself immediately they are taken. Through the medium of the nervous system they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body. Many have been cured, among them being Mr. Ray V. Coomber, Wellington, P.E.I., Mrs. E. Kilmer, Humberstone, Ont., Mrs. C. McDonald, Portage la Prairie, Man., Mr. Walter Cleveland, Bayswater, N.S., Mrs. Owen Martin, Alma, N.B. and thousands of others.

The price of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25. Can be procured at all drug and general stores, or will be sent on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A DIFFERENCE IN LUNGS.

In the Edinburgh University three human lungs lie side by side. One is of an Eskimo and is snow white. In life, this would be ruddy with rich blood. Another is that of a coal-miner and is black. The other is of a town dweller and is a dirty slate gray, as are the lungs of most city residents. That's why consumption thrives in cities.

One reason why Scott's Emulsion does so much to keep down consumption is because it helps to keep the lungs clean and supplies them with rich, red blood. It makes the lungs germ-resisting. If the body is run down and health is at a low ebb Scott's Emulsion will build it up quickly and permanently.

Gave Teacher A Cocoa Set

Miss Middleton Was Remembered by Sunday School Class.

Last night at the residence of Mr. S. R. Armstrong, George street, a pleasing event took place, when Miss L. Middleton, who for some years, has taught a boys' class in the George street Methodist Sunday school, but who is retiring, with the members of her class, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong.

During the evening an address was read and a handsome cocoa set presented to Miss Middleton by the members of the class. The following address was read by T. Walsh, while the presentation was made by George Pickles and Master Thompson:

Miss L. Middleton—

Dear Teacher, — We, the members of your class in the George street Sunday school wish to tell you how sincerely we regret that you have found it necessary to resign your position as teacher of the class you have been with for so long, and our relations as teacher and pupils have been so very pleasant that we deeply regret that the change must take place.

We wish to express to you our appreciation of the time you have spent, and the trouble you have taken in teaching us the lessons from Sunday to Sunday. We may not have shown our appreciation, but we assure you that we will always remember the lessons you have taught us.

As a slight token of our appreciation of the efforts you have made for us, and of our affection for you, we ask you to kindly accept the accompanying gifts.

Miss Middleton acknowledged the gifts in a short address in which she expressed her deep appreciation of the kindly feelings of the members of the class which prompted their action.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Armstrong and her daughters, and a delightful evening was spent.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR

It Can Only Be Had Where There Is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease, the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants, have been abandoned, and the public, doctors and barbers included, have taken to use Nawbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. E. Dodd, Dickinson, N. D., says: "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair falling out but promises a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy."

Stanley Hart Swallows An Open Safety Pin

Stanley Hart, the five year old son of Mr. J. P. Hart, of 39 Elm street, is in a condition which is causing his parents and the family physician considerable anxiety. On Wednesday afternoon he swallowed a safety pin, with the pin open. The facts of the case are that Mrs. Hart, who was suffering from a cold, retired to rest during the afternoon, and put her little son in another small bed, standing near that on which she was lying. She was almost asleep, when she was startled by the scream of the lad, who, it appears, had risen from her bed and had taken a safety pin which was lying on a table, in his mouth, and had swallowed it.

Mrs. Hart was naturally greatly alarmed, and sent at once for a physician, who could do nothing to recover the pin. After the pain incidental to swallowing it had passed the boy suffered very little, and yesterday was almost as well as ever, except that he felt a pain occasionally.

The fact that the pin was open complicates matters considerably, but fortunately it was swallowed with the point of the pin upwards. If any continued pain is experienced the doctor states that it may be necessary to perform an operation.

Timely Warning To The Law-Breaking Anglers

Fishery Inspector John Watt wishes to warn all poachers and pot-hunters that the close season is drawing near and that violations of the law will be severely dealt with. There will be a change in the system this year. All parties who are caught breaking the fishery laws, in addition to being fined, will have their names published. In other years all fines were collected on the quiet and nothing more was said about the matter.

The close season is from April 1 to June 15, both days included, which should make it apparent to everyone that no fishing can be done until June 16. It will be costly for anyone caught drawling out of season, and no excuse of being after "cat-fish" will save the guilty party.

It will be necessary this year to procure a license for the use of a dip-net. The fee for this is $1, and it must be distinctly understood that this license is not transferable.

Mr. Watt requests all honest anglers to co-operate with him by giving information against offenders, so that natural food supply may be protected. All such information will be gladly acted upon. Mr. Watt may be found at his residence, 293 Bethune street, or communications may be addressed to him by general delivery.

VALUE IN A GOOD NAME

Canada's Commercial Growth Is Emphasized.

Some Trade Names and Good-will Values Earned by Making Honest Goods and Making Them Better Than the Average.

Newspaper men are fond of telling the story of certain well-advertised articles where the good-will value of the trade mark comes into consideration. When that value is represented in the stock lists the pessimist calls it "watered stock."

In Canada there are trade marks which could not be bought under a million dollars. The slate of the Slater Shoe, the two-hands sign of the Dunlop Tire, and the trade mark name of the Semi-ready are perhaps the three best known trade mark signs in Canada. In one instance a proposed trade trust fell through because the owners of the trade mark refused a million dollars for their good-will. This shows what the market value of a good name may be. Solomon said it was better than rubies—but it has remained for the modern merchant to prove that it is more valuable than real estate, which is the best known security.

The introduction of the one-price system in tailoring, first inaugurated by John E. Kennedy, of Montreal, has been a leaven that has worked its influence throughout the continent. Honesty as a business asset was emphasized by the Semi-ready Company, an organization founded by young men. On every suit of clothes tailored in their factory on the new idea of individual making, they put their name, their guarantee, and the price at which the garment must be sold for in the Semi-ready stores.

The one-price system, as opposed to the popular plan of haggle, was reinforced by the making up of high-grade clothe which the ready-made clothier dare not put into his factory. The Semi-ready tailoring shops dropped the bizarre methods, which have existed since commerce began.

The way to succeed is to keep faith with your customer, and secure him as a friend. This is a Semi-ready proverb, which is taught in every Semi-ready store, and is perhaps a potential factor in making the name Semi-ready stand for a million dollars' worth of good-will.

Norwood Mill Was Burglarized

Mr. C. E. Pakenham's flour mill in Norwood, was visited on Thursday night last by the "Knights of the Jimmy." The visitors were evidently professionals for they brought with them a quantity of explosives and tools to "blow" the safe. They were however, fortunately for the safe, spared the work which this would involve, as that receptacle was not locked, and after securing what coin it contained, about $1 in coppers and a few postage stamps, they decamped, leaving some explosives and tools as a memento of their visit.

THE WEATHER.

The temperature was down to 12 degrees below zero some time last night, while at sunrise it was 7 degrees below. This is the first occasion below zero this month, in fact the lowest reading since the second week of February. Contrary to the general belief, the average temperature since Feb. 1st has not been above normal. Though the days have generally been bright and pleasant, the shade temperatures have been much as usual for this time of year. The deficiency of snowfall, however, has been very marked.

Peterboro' District Has Good Record

Records at hand show that of three hundred districts of the Metropolitan Life Assurance Company, the Peterborough district stands twenty-seventh in the amount of business in the first three months of the present year. This is a very creditable showing for this district.

In the list of the leading managers of Ontario, Mr. Herman Gray, a former Peterborough boy, now in Orillia, stands fifth. The local manager, Mr. E. Delaire and W. Soace, are also well up in the list, the former being third and the latter fourth. Mr. John Rothwell, superintendent of this district is second throughout the entire country in personal production.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

SUMMER STOCK COMPANY.

A crowded house was present at the Grand last night to greet the Summers Stock Company in its fourth production, "East Lynne," which is beyond doubt the best that has been put on in this week's engagement. Miss Belle Stevenson cleverly played the part of Lady Isabel, who, married to one, Richard Carlyle, was led astray by false stories concerning her husband, told by the villainous Sir Francis Levison, with whom she eloped, but whom she afterwards learned to hate. In an hour of need she returns to the bedside of her little child, Willie, at which time her disguise is cast off and Sir Richard is once again beside his beloved wife.

The Valpros were very clever with their magic feats, and held the audience spell-bound to know how it was done.

To-night the popular play, "Leah, the Forsaken," will be put on and should draw a good house.

HER ONLY SIN.

One of the dramatic events of the current season, which will come to the Grand on Wednesday next, March 28, is Lincoln J. Carter's "Her Only Sin," now in its third successful year. It is one of the few emotional plays produced in recent years that has found immediate favour with critics and public alike. It is now in its third season and will be seen with Miss Julia Gray still in the stellar role and who is surrounded by an able and efficient cast. The scenery has been thoroughly overhauled since last year and some new effects have been added.

Improvements To The Store

Misses Allan & Feilon Make Extensive Improvements.

The Misses Allan & Feilon, George street, are being complimented on the improved exterior and interior appearance of their millinery premises. The store front has been changed from white to a pleasing Nile-green shade, which lends a pleasing contrast to the show window displays. The interior has been entirely redecorated and re-papered, the ceiling with white paint, and the walls with a light green shade of ingrain paper, and a pretty combination daisy border, with the cornice in three blending shades.

Young People's Meeting.

—The service at Bethany Tabernacle to-night will be conducted by the young people. The young people of the church and community are especially invited, too. Everybody will be welcome.

RAILWAY BILL ADVANCED

Opposition Leader Satisfied With the General Principles of the Measure—Question Box Deals With Sundry Matters—Officials' Debts Guaranteed by Government—Graduate Nurses Bill Sent to Committee.

Toronto, March 24.—Hon. Mr. Hendrie in moving, in the Legislature yesterday, the second reading of the Government bill respecting steam, electric and street railways took occasion to remark with emphasis upon the need for a way of checking the "extraordinary agreements entered into by municipalities with railways which they desire to have upon their highways." He pointed out that councillors who were elected for only twelve months were often led into making contracts with roads for forty or fifty years, resulting in the companies coming before Legislature to seek ratification. The bill aimed to give the Government power to exercise control over the municipalities, between whom and the companies there was often friction over the railway matters. The contracts were often loosely and carelessly drawn.

Mr. Hendrie referred to as important the clause dealing with the entrance of radials into cities, which clause was intended to guard the rights of municipalities without checking radial extension.

Mr. Hendrie stated that one of the objects of the bill was to simplify legislation since it would apply to all railways, electric or otherwise, whereas formerly each had a bill of its own.

Touching upon the claim respecting power of land expropriation, he pointed out that street railways would have the same power as steam railways. If this power had been given before, there would now be many railways on their own right of way.

An Explaining Bill.

A large number of the clauses had been built upon bills introduced from time to time. The bill appointing a railway and municipal board had to be read with the act, since it served as machinery for it. The speaker referred to the board as having absolute control over all machinery, and to order renewals thereof.

Speaking of the exclusion of passengers from the motorman's quarters, Mr. Hendrie said that it was desired to attain a high speed, such as that of seventy miles an hour, and it was necessary that the motorman should not be interfered with.

The two-cent rate per mile was justified by a comparison with roads in the United States which only charged about half the steam railway rates.

Touching Sunday regulations, he said that there had been some requests for changes, but it had been decided not to make any.

Mr. Ross' Remarks.

Hon. Mr. Ross said there was nothing in the principle of the bill but was praiseworthy. It would simplify legislation passing through the House by asking the ordinary legislation to conform to the act. As to the general scope and compass of the bill, it was looked at with favor from his own side of the House, though some matters might require consideration and criticism. It was a measure of great importance, as the country was entering upon an era of electrification. The bill would show the people of the province that the House was in sympathy with electrical progress, and at the same time would protect all interests concerned.

The bill was referred to Committee of the Whole House.

Graduate Nurses' Bill.

Mr. Crawford moved the second reading of his bill in the Legislature to allow graduate nurses of Ontario to become an incorporate body.

Hon. Dr. Pyne said that the bill would mean hardships to outlying districts. There were many clauses in the bill that needed consideration. Many of the Government institutions didn't employ really skilled nurses. In many of the asylums they were not required to have scientific and technical knowledge, and they would have to be safeguarded. He suggested that a special committee be appointed to take up the clause, which was agreed to.

A second reading was also given Mr. Carscallen's bill to amend the Municipal Act so as to restrain municipalities whose taxation had reached a certain point from borrowing money.

It Is a Numbered Ballot.

The Kingston ballot was laid on the table of the Legislature yesterday. Afterwards it was inspected in the office of the King's printer. The ballot has a number on the back corresponding with a number on the stub. Consequently it is a "numbered" ballot. The same form of ballot was used in the bye-election in North Toronto.

Mr. Gamey enquired if the Government is responsible by bond or otherwise for debts owing by officials. Col. Matheson said it had been the practice of the old Government to give a guarantee to the banks, and if the amount was not satisfied to stop it out of salaries. There were five amounts owing —$475, $2,948, $466, $200 and $1,969. The present Government would not give guarantees for such debts. At the request of Mr. Gamey, the Treasurer withheld the names of parties owing the debts.

Col. Matheson gave Mr. Ross the figures, showing the amount of arrears remitted by the Treasury Department on taxes chargeable under the Algoma Land Tax Act for 1905.

In reply to Mr. Morrison, Dr. Beaume said net fishing licenses have been granted for 1906 in inland lakes.

The Binder Twine Assignment.

Mr. Lucas moved for a return of agreements between the inspector of prisons and Patrick Lewis Connor for the manufacturing of binder twine and cordage at the Central Prison; copies of assignments and agreements between Connor and Wm. Field, and from Wm. Field to the Independent Cordage Co. and other papers relating to the subject. The motion passed.

Mr. Ross was granted an order for return of fishing licenses granted on the River Thames east of Chatham in 1904-5-6; the revenue each year, whether the fish were sold in Canada or the United States, and whether the fish were taken with nets.

First Readings.

Several new bills were read a first time. Hon. Dr. Reaume submitted an amendment to the Good Roads Act, extending the time in which county councils may take advantage of the act and share in the provincial grant for road improvement to 1907. It is also provided that where there is a group of counties one of them may go into the scheme without reference to the others.

Spent The Day On The Estimates In The Commons

Justice, Customs and Postoffice Supply Voted.

NEW POSTMASTER-GENERAL

Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Stood Opposition Fire Like a Veteran—Courteous In Reply and Desirous of Giving All the Information Possible, He Created Favorable Impression In the House—Customs' Debate.

Ottawa, March 24.—The rapidity with which supply was voted yesterday indicates the intention of both sides not to unduly prolong the session. Estimates for the Customs Department and Postoffice Department outside service, two large departments which are sometimes subjected to somewhat protracted criticism, aggregating $5,250,000, were voted.

The new Postmaster-General made a favorable impression and stood the fire of the Opposition benches with all the sang froid of a veteran. His replies were courteous, and the evident desire to give all the information that might be reasonably expected somewhat disarmed criticism.

The Minister of Customs was subjected to a light bantering respecting the actual percentage of reduction in the customs duty collected, as compared with the collections under the Conservative Government, but the debate that resulted was good-natured.

Justice estimates were also voted.

The following bills were introduced: Respecting the Vancouver, Westminster & Yukon Railway Co.—Mr. Macpherson: to incorporate the Buffalo, Niagara & Toronto Railway Co.—Mr. Campbell; to incorporate the Brandon Transfer Railway Co.—Mr. Alex. Johnston; respecting the Kingston & Pembroke Railway Co., respecting the patent of Henderson Puffed Rice Co.—Mr. Hall.

Senator Riley is Seated.

Ottawa, March 24.—Hon. Geo. Riley, who resigned his seat in the Commons for Victoria, was yesterday afternoon introduced in the Senate by Hon. R. W. Scott and Senator Bostock.

WILL COMPLETE FORTIFICATION.

Dominion Government Undertakes Defensive Work At Halifax.

Halifax, March 24.—(Globe Special.)—The Dominion Government has assumed the responsibility of completing the fortifications which are in course of construction for the defence of Halifax. Spion Kop and Fort McNab, the former on the western side of the entrance to the harbor, and the other on the eastern side, will be completed by the Militia Department. Owing to the mild winter the work on these forts has not been suspended, as in former winters, and about one hundred men have been kept employed constantly. The Imperial Governments appropriation ran out about the first of the year and since that time the monthly estimates for material and wages have been sent on in advance, and the indebtedness has been met by the department at Ottawa.

Gibraltar of the West.

The forts in and about Halifax have been built and maintained by the British Government for over 157 years and vast sums of money have been expended to make Halifax the Gibraltar of the west. Henceforth it will be up to Canada to look after the improvements and the maintenance of the fortifications. It is estimated that $20,000 or more will be required to complete the two fortifications, which have been in course of construction for a number of years. In the engineers' department a number of skilled men, previously in the employe of the Imperial Government, will look after this branch of the service in Halifax. If the work on these defences is pushed vigorously forward, the two fortifications will be completed and ready for the mounting of guns by the end of October.

Bad Man Gets 10 Years.

Cornwall, March 24.—T. McLeod, better known as Blue Tom, who has been a source of fear to women and children of the neighboring townships for a couple of years past, was found guilty of burglary before Judge O'Reilly yesterday afternoon, and was sentenced to 10 years' hard labor in the Kingston penitentiary.

Stabbed His Friend.

Morden, Man., March 24.—A remarkably light sentence, considering the nature of the offence of which James Curran was found guilty, was imposed yesterday. The prisoner in a drunken brawl stabbed a companion. The latter recovered. His lordship sent the prisoner to gaol for eight days.

Stranger In Search of Wife.

London, March 24.—(C. A. P.)—The Local Provost of Dundee has received a letter from a young Englishman in Ontario asking him to send out marriageable girls. The writer, who gives references, says he is willing to provide a home for a hard-working Protestant girl of 27 to 30 years of age.

Mr. Dryden's Commission.

Toronto, March 24.—Hon. John Dryden, former Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, has been appointed by the British Government a member of a commission to enquire into the agricultural condition of Ireland, and will leave in the course of a week or ten days.

Death List of 21.

Grafton, W. Va., March 24.—Twenty-one miners lost their lives in Thursday's mine explosion at Century, W. Va. The bodies were all more or less torn and mangled, and in many cases burned from head to foot, making the work of identification very hard.

CHAPTER X.

WHEN I descended into the house I had hit upon one line of defense at least, and I at once proceeded to realise it. As I walked from the drawbridge along the moat to the back of the castle I wondered if it was practicable; but, remembering what old Kesteven had said of his predecessor's experiment some forty years before, I had great hopes that the sluices would still work. The brook ran, as you will remember, behind the castle, at a little distance from it, and I found without difficulty the mouth of the conduit which had been formerly used to feed the fosse. I inserted my arm as far as possible, and the space seemed fairly clear, though the earth had crept in and lay along the bottom, grown with grass to the depth of some inches. Still I had no fear that the flow of water would not wash this sediment away, provided always I could get the sluices up. To find these sluices was my next thought. I moved along the turf in the direction in which it seemed that the culvert must run, scrutinising very carefully every inch of the ground. About three feet from the stream was a noticeable elevation, a grass plot rising in a mound two feet high. Here was obviously what I wanted, and so, taking a spade, I dug with a will and soon had the turf removed and the floor of a stone erection laid bare. It was a good hour's work ere I had cleared the rubbish away sufficiently to free the sluices; then I laid hands on them and pulled vigorously, but fruitlessly. I must plainly have assistance, and accordingly, well enough content with my labors so far, I went back to the house. At breakfast I revealed my scheme, much to the delight of Sheppard, who roundly declared that he would give five years of his life for this adventure. Supported by two enthusiastic assistants, I returned to work, fetching with me a heavy iron bar for use as a lever.

"A little more beef, Montgomery," shouted Sheppard, and himself grew as red as a turkey cock with his efforts. Montgomery flung his heavy body upon the extremity of the bar, and with a crack something came up with a jerk. At the same time I heard below a faint rumbling and roaring as of water.

"We've done it!" I shouted, and ere the words were out of my mouth Sheppard and the other were racing for the moat, whither they presently waved me with wild hands.

The water was pouring from the conduit in a strong stream fully one foot in thickness. That was enough. It would take some hours to fill the moat, but it might take all day so long as we were secured by the fall of night. We left the sluices up and went back.

"The next thing," said I, "is to attack the drawbridge. The portcullis wants oil, but that will do later."

"We'll have the castle a mediaeval fortress in a twinkling," said Sheppard.

The heavy chains of the drawbridge were intact, but the machinery was in a very bad way, and without more ado we set to work upon it. I called my man Williams into requisition, and I think it took the four of us till 6 or 7 o'clock in the evening ere we pronounced ourselves satisfied. After that we had a rehearsal with both portcullis and drawbridge. By this time the moat was swimming with water, which lapped under the shoulders of the bridge. There must have been fully twelve feet of water in the fosse.

"This won't do. We'll have an inundation," said Montgomery, and he let the sluices down. When all was done we surveyed our handiwork and were content. It was now close upon 8 o'clock.

Dinner had been ready for more than half an hour, so we were informed by Mrs. Main, who must have regarded us as lunatics. The clock in the hall struck 8 as we entered.

"Watch time," said I. "Who goes?"

We looked at each other, laughing. "It's my turn," said Sheppard, with a grimace, but I stopped him.

"No; let Montgomery," I said meaningly.

"Right you are," responded Montgomery cheerfully, and, taking his brace of pistols, he vanished along the corridor.

"How's this?" asked Sheppard. "I think the poor boy has earned his dinner."

"Bless you, he shall have his dinner," I answered. "Only the danger is going to be later, and I'd rather Montgomery were asleep in bed than asleep on the tower."

We had arranged that Williams should stay the night in the castle and, imbuing him with the fear of burglars, had armed him with a shotgun in case we should come to the worst. As Sheppard remarked, we could readily tangle the Welshman's brains if he became suspicious, and if his garrulity should bring us the sympathetic assistance of the law I think we could be stupid enough and vague enough to confound his kindly efforts. Mrs. Main was by this time bound to us by iron ties through Sheppard's contrivance, nor do I know to this day exactly how he managed it or in what directions he used his amiable and soothing fictions. The housemaid was Mrs. Main's hireling, and we need scarcely include her in our calculations.

We were now, as I conceived, adequately fortified against a surprise. From 8 o'clock until dawn upon the next morning we should be stretched upon the rack of suspense, but each of us was sturdily resolved to accomplish his duty at all hazards. That an attack would be delivered I had few doubts, but my anxiety lay rather as to the watch in which it would be delivered. I had sent Montgomery to his post early, as it seemed wiser for more responsible heads than his to take the deeper and darker hours of the night. From 8 till 11 his time ran, and yet they might be upon us ere that. He was fed with some sandwiches and cheered with a little wine, while below Sheppard and I waited in a condition of tension.

"Oh, hang it!" exclaimed Sheppard presently, after dinner, "I can't stand this. Let us go and join him."

"You would be much wiser," said I, "to get an hour's sleep."

Sheppard shrugged his shoulders. "It's my turn next, you say, and I'm not used to be awakened in my beauty sleep. It's bad for me. No; I'll go to bed when you relieve me. But I recommend your own advice to yourself."

"And I will take it," I answered. "See that Montgomery gets his supper and goes to bed like a sensible person. I'll be with you at 2 punctually."

I cannot say that I enjoyed a peaceful sleep. Although I was dog tired, partly from the exertion of the day's work and partly because I had had no rest the previous night, I still slumbered very fitfully. Finally I awoke in a fever and, throwing the hot blankets from me, stepped to the open window. My bedroom faced the north, and the cool airs that heralded the dawn wandered over me, reducing the fume and fire of my nerves. Far away some roistering bird was calling, not in his spring notes, but raucous now with the somber heat of autumn. The curtain of the dawn was lifting. It was time for me to relieve Sheppard. My watch marked a quarter to 2. Having dressed, I went down to the great hall and, thrusting the western windows open, looked out. Trees, like great ghosts, invisible, whispered in the night together. The stars glimmered down below, and I recollected suddenly that I was peering into the water of the fosse. The stillness hung so deep that I was possessed of a sudden with a hundred fears. Was Sheppard murdered? And were the castle and its treasure now in the hands of those abominable assassins? I listened for a cry, but there was none, only the gentle wash of the waters against those ancient foundations and the swishing of the leafage on the neighboring trees. The park lay, as one might have fancied, under the imminent hand of death.

I stole upstairs, clambering with a lantern to the keep. Upon the tower a silent figure turned and a low voice spoke.

"Is that you, Ned?"

The sound almost startled me, occurring upon the stillness.

"Any news?" I asked.

"Well, I have two things to communicate. Do you see that tree?"

I peered into the darkness in the direction he had indicated.

"I hear it," I observed doubtfully.

"Well, I've seen it," he retorted.

"Your eyes are better than mine, then," I answered.

"Maybe," said Sheppard cheerfully, "maybe not. But I don't profess to see through a wall. That tree is fifty paces away, and it is an oak, very large and umbrageous."

"I believe you are right," I answered, "I think I recollect it."

"I didn't," he went on. "But I reckon to see by match-light as well as any."

I was puzzled. "Match light?" I queried. "You haven't been"—

"Oh, dear, no!" he exclaimed. "My tower has been the central patch of blackness in this black night. Besides, who ever struck a match at night to see by? No; the match was in that same tree I speak of." I was silent. "I presume it didn't strike itself," he continued.

"Lower your voice," I enjoined.

Sheppard smiled, as I could perceive even in the darkness.

"Oh, I don't see why," he declared. "There's no one there to strike a match now, to the best of my belief."

"How is that?"

"Did you hear no sound?" he asked.

I shook my head, and he patted his shotgun.

"I congratulate you on your soundness of health. I fired about an hour ago, and I fancy the shot did not altogether miss. There followed a still, small noise and after that again pattering feet receding. I think some one has indigestion today in Sercombe's army."

Sheppard shouldered his gun and walked to the northern verge of the parapet. Stooping, he fumbled in the darkness, and the next moment his voice sounded from below my feet. "Follow me, Ned," he called. Groping about with feet and hands, I came upon an open hole in the floor and, inserting my legs cautiously, happened upon the first step in a stone stairway. Diligently stepping down this through sheer blackness, I came out upon Sheppard's heels into what by comparison seemed daylight. The stars glistened in the canopy of heaven. I was out upon the battlements.

"We might have known there was some communication between the keep and the battlement," said Sheppard. "You see the advantage. I've been pacing this walk like a sentinel for the last two hours."

"Can you get right round?"

"I'll show you," he returned and led the way along that lofty roadway. The battlements naturally stretched across the width of the castle, running from wall to wall. The parapet stood some five feet high and was broken with the machicolations of the design. There was ample space, therefore, for twenty men at arms to march abreast along the heights. Sheppard moved lightly, his head just swinging clear of the parapet and the black darkness contained between the shadows of the ramparts. The leaden roof was incumbered with rubbish. Presently Sheppard paused, and there rose quickly before me out of the superincumbent gloom the blacker mass of the drum towers. Feeling his way, Sheppard hit upon an iron ladder connecting with the heights above, and presently we stood upon the topmost pinnacle of the castle and peered from it into the night. The nocturnal mists and blackness of the valley below were slowly shifting. The trees gradually grew black, showing against a vast and gray gloom. Yet there was no light visible in those seething changes of the elements. The night still hung about us.

The southern drum tower looked down upon deeper shadows, and I could not descry the wall below. I turned to my companion for an explanation and smiled at the confusion of my own brain when he answered:

"That's the south, Ned. You know the battlements are in ruins there."

Of course they were, but I was not to be deterred from a complete circuit of the walls by that small fact, and I groped for the ladder.

"Be careful, Ned," said Sheppard. "Better not. Wait till it's light."

Now, I knew very well at the time that he spoke wisely and that I was merely taking a rash hazard for no better purpose than to display to myself my own determination—or obstinacy, if you will. But the feeling was strong upon me, and so, picking my steps down the ladder, I paid him no attention. Presently my foot, descending, shot through empty air, and coincidently with that the iron bar to which I was clinging with my left hand ceased abruptly. For a moment I had a sickly sensation in my stomach, and I went quite cold. But, bracing myself together, I kneeled upon the lowermost step and launched my body into space.

I have no intention, as I say, of defending my foolhardiness, nor do I take any credit for my ultimate escape from what was undoubtedly a deadly peril. My legs kicked aimlessly in the air and found no rest. I tightened my hold upon the iron of the ladder and strove to pull myself up. But my wrists had already weakened in that tedious and unavailing oscillation in space, and, to my horror, I realized that I could not get back.

"Sheppard!" I called faintly.

"Ned! Ned!" came Sheppard's whisper from above, and I was vaguely aware of a tiny spark of light shining as it were in heaven. The glow lit up the remnants of the iron ladder, and below this I could see as I hung the imminent brows of the ruined wall and the gleaming light of water far away. Yet this illumination proved my salvation. The ruins were overrun with masses of Irish ivy, as I have said, and in the course of centuries this strongly growing creeper had clambered over and beyond the proper limits of decay and clothed with great twisted branches the wall of the drum tower at one side of me. Gasping from my exertions, I reached a hand toward these leaves and, catching at a thick stem like a cable, clung to it desperately while dividing my weight between the two supports. My only anxiety was as to whether the ivy would hold. Its attachment to the stones of the wall must be precarious, and yet I had to trust it, and, poising an instant between the two, I dropped slowly upon the creeper. The friendly branches held, and I slipped carefully down until I stood upon the broken stones of the ruined wall. High above I saw Sheppard light another match and heard his voice calling to me, but I had no strength to reply. He flung the light from him, and, descending in an arc, it passed before my eyes and went out with a fizzle below. I leaned over, and the grayness of the coming dawn lay in the water thirty feet beneath me. A fragment of stone, detached by my movement, rumbled over the margin and fell with a great blob into the moat. There were twelve feet of water in the fosse. I shuddered and called back to Sheppard.

"I was afraid something had happened to you," said he. "Are you all right?"

I explained the position. "Wait there, and I'll join you from the other side. You old fool, Ned!"

I accepted the criticism meekly and retained my place upon the ivy covered ruins until I heard the sound of feet upon my right and presently perceived Sheppard crawling over the stones toward me. He sat down near me, panting.

"You can get down from the other side pretty easily," he declared. "It's well to remember that."

"I don't quite see why you have done so," I answered, rather ungratefully. "You would be better asleep."

"Oh, nonsense!" he exclaimed; then, after a pause, "The dawn will be up directly, Ned."

Presently his head nodded upon his shoulder. I let him sleep. He must have been worn with his long vigil and the longer toil. I knew that he would not go to bed and he had better take what rest was possible in this illegitimate way. The stars dared and went out, yet the dawn seemed long in coming. I pulled out my watch and, striking a match, consulted it. It was half past 3. Sheppard's head lurched forward, and his breath grew stertorous. A thin fine line of light cut across the eastern horizon, and then suddenly a stick cracked below me. I started, alert, intent, the drums roaring in my ears. A soft sibilation as of voices exchanged below the breath caught my eager senses. Surely I could discern the noise of footsteps falling quietly upon the grass. I strained my sight to pierce that gray-black cloud of gloom, but there was nothing visible, and, leaning softly forward, I touched Sheppard upon the shoulder. He was awake in an instant and ere I knew it whispering at me under his breath: "What is it? Are they come?"

"Listen!" I murmured. Sheppard turned to me, motioning with his hand. Reaching close, he put his lips to my ears.

"They're down by the moat, exploring," he said—"several, I think. Shall I fire?"

I grasped his hand in return. "No, no," I murmured back. "You stay here and keep quiet with your shotgun. I'm going down to find out."

With which I slipped noiselessly on hands and knees until I reached the back parts of the wall. From here it was a descent of twenty feet or more into the courtyard, but the face of the ruin was irregular, and I found, by groping, projecting stones which offered me a foothold, so that presently I dropped to the flags of the yard without sound and stole into the house. My first duty was to awaken Montgomery and the man Williams. Both of them I dispatched by means of a ladder to join Sheppard on the heights, and, that done, I took a lantern and descended into the corridor of dungeons. My light was but feeble, and my progress was necessarily slow along that path of inky blackness. At each of the turnings I paused and, proceeding to the bottom, peered out through the grating on the waters of the fosse. I had in this manner and exercising this precaution made the circuit of half the castle and was now upon the southern face and, as I concluded, in the proximity of Sheppard and the others. Here it was that I met my first alarm. As I gazed out of the grating on my tour of inspection and was almost most convinced that our fears had been unnecessary and that we had been deceived by the early movements of the dawn, suddenly there grew before my eyes and out of the grayness a vast head, set with horrible rolling eyes and with a profusion of shaggy hair. The apparition loomed before the bars of the window and with a quick movement seemed to push forward as though to enter. Involuntarily I started back into the darkness. The face glared at me, pressing upon the bars, the lip twisted over the red gums, and yellow fangs, and the water dripping from its black hair. Its eyes measured me with a glance, and for half a minute of time we stood confronting each other, my tiny thread of light streaking the ghastly apparition with yellow. The next moment it had vanished, and, my wits returning in a tide, I flung myself forward to the grating and looked out. The lantern shone upon the dark waters, and that was all. But this was more than enough for me, and I was aware that it was likely to be quite enough for our assailants.

The Adventurers

Accordingly, I quitted the corridor and regained the upper air. By means of the ladder I reached the rest of the party and at once communicated my information.

CHAPTER XI.

THE dawn was now abreast of the hilltops, and the trees of the park stood out like shadows in a great mist.

"They will begin here," observed Sheppard, "when they find there is no entrance below."

"I don't envy them the twelve feet of water to start with," said I.

"I don't envy them if they get here," remarked Montgomery quietly.

Williams said nothing. He looked from one to another curiously and then craned his neck over the castle wall and scrutinized the foreground. Now and then he grasped his shotgun almost mechanically, as if to feel certain that it was there. I agreed with Sheppard that if any attack was to be delivered it would be upon the breach made by time in the defences. There was no way into the castle by the gratings above the moat, and it would take artillery at least to shake the huge portcullis. Yet it seemed incredible that any sane man should attempt to swim the fosse and scale the battlements. If I had been seen by that appalling face, as I conceived, the enemy would be aware that we were on the watch and ready for them. If so, I considered it more than likely that they would retire and make the best of the reconnoissance they had achieved.

"I don't like this," Sheppard said. "What the mischief are they up to? Let me go and see."

I considered. To say the truth, I did not like it myself, but would it be wise to divide our forces?

After a momentary reflection I decided to do so, and, enjoining upon Montgomery a strict vigilance, I crawled after Sheppard toward the upper battlements.

Once we had reached the ramparts we proceeded more quickly, but still with great caution, stopping at intervals to reconnoitre the ground below. But there was nothing to be seen or heard, and until we had passed the keep and had got upon the western wall we encountered no sign of the enemy. Here, however, Sheppard stopped short and pressed his hand on my shoulder.

"Down!" he said.

Simultaneously with his words a whiz of cold air passed my nose, and a small crack of some firearm ensued upon it.

"That's by way of introduction," said Sheppard, "and now the fight begins."

Keeping our heads below the parapet, we stumbled as fast as possible along the roof, and presently after rounded the corner to the northern wall. Here a sight met our eyes, even in that obscurity, which struck amazement and even terror to my heart. I have already spoken of the sycamore which stood outside my bedroom window and beyond the moat. It was a lofty tree, spreading very amply, and mounted to within a dozen feet of the parapet. This the ingenious wits of some one—and I had no hesitation in naming the author of the plan—had utilized to scale the walls. As I found afterward, a tough and serviceable rope had been employed to connect the peaks of the battlement with the tree, and over this, as we came into sight, the black figures of men were scrambling. I had little doubt on thinking over it subsequently that my presence in the basement reveried to the maiden the moat had given the signal for the adventure, seeing that I was not likely to be in my chamber and able to detect them ere the enterprise had gone forward sufficiently.

Both of us sprang forward on the instant, but ere we could reach the spot the foremost of the men, landing, stood up and made at us with a cutlass. Taken aback by the shock, Sheppard, who was in front, gave way, and the weapon, swinging heavily, cut the air with a formidable whistle and struck the leads near my foot. I leaped at the fellow's throat, drawing my revolver, and, borne back by the impetus of my charge, he stumbled against the second man. But by this time some half dozen of the storming party had gained the ramparts and without a pause bore down upon us.

I leaped at the fellow's throat.

No shots were fired, and the struggle that ensued was decided in a silence almost complete, save for the noise of our hurrying feet, the sound of blows and the hard breathing of the combatants. I cannot but admit that if the dawn had been a little further advanced and it had been possible to distinguish between the various bodies raging in the medley things would have gone very badly with us. But as it was the darkness fought for us once more, as it had fought the previous evening. I brought the butt of my revolver full upon the head of one man, and he fell like a log. Sheppard's arms were twisted round another, and the two swayed together, stood out for an instant against the sky and were then snapped up into the confusion of the melee. Blows rained upon us, and the warm gush of blood started from my arm. With a rush we were carried backward, and the struggle seemed all over. At that instant I bethought me of Montgomery and Williams, and, getting my finger on the trigger of my weapon, I fired. The shot flew aimlessly, but the noise rang loud upon the heights and passed from the courtyard in dwindling echoes. Then, throwing off the man who was struggling with me, I seized Sheppard's arm, and, dragging him from the kneeling posture into which he had been thrust, I ran across the leads toward the round tower of the keep. Sheppard raced with me, panting as he went, and after us pressed a thin stream of black creatures just visible against the heavens. Scrambling up the stairway, we jammed down the lid which gave access to the top of the tower and, turning, looked down upon the nether battlements.

After an ineffectual rally upon the stairs the assailants drew off and, huddling in a group some twenty paces away, whispered together. I heard the sounds of their voices stirring in argument, and now and then a syllable came to me, faintly familiar. Where had I heard it? Above the east and lighted by the kindling sky towered a form which I took to be Sercombe's. For the space of three minutes or more this interval of rest continued, and then a louder voice cried something from the terrace. I recognized it now. The language was Greek, and those strange and horrible creatures, that seemed somehow to my excited brain compact of all deformities, were Greeks—sailors also, as I conjectured from the smartness of the trick which had led to our discomfiture. At this moment a low whistle came from the farther corner of the tower, and immediately two heads stole over the coping.

"It is I," said Montgomery. "What has happened?"

We welcomed them with warmth and hastily unfolded the situation, but the words were scarce out of my mouth when a noise of feet and a clanging of iron proclaimed a renewed attack upon the tower. Upon these heights, as I have explained, lay the wreckage and debris of centuries. Groping in this, Montgomery found a large stone and, leaning over the parapet, hurled it down upon the crowd. Almost as quick as thought we followed his example and had the satisfaction of seeing the parties withdraw to a safer distance. It was now plain to me that Sercombe had issued an order against the use of firearms. If the business could be managed without undue disturbance, he had decided that it was wiser. Indeed, the strange part of this remarkable encounter was that, saving the first shot and my own signal of distress, the conflict had been carried on in comparative silence.

I had also come to the conclusion that the fight was one to obtain possession of ourselves. It was to secure our bodies that the attack was directed. Sercombe knew well enough and Hood knew even better that to gain access to the precincts of the castle meant very little provided we were still at liberty and able to resist a forcible removal of the treasure. Bound and gagged or stunned or dead we should offer them no further trouble, and the treasure of the Vyvians would be theirs to depart at their convenience.

Sheppard clinked the trigger of his revolver. "The first man that essays that position shall find the time has come for real warfare," he observed quietly.

"Do not be in a hurry," I answered. "We have still the upper hand." He waited expectant. "You know the drum tower down which I climbed? I think it would not be a bad plan to venture that and take them in the rear."

"The devils are plotting mischief," said Sheppard uneasily.

"I wonder if we could manage that ascent," I said.

Montgomery moved forward. "I will," he said.

"No, no," said Sheppard.

"I think I had better go," I hazarded.

"You're wanted here," said Montgomery. "I know the way." And ere I could speak or interfere he sprang across and was on the ladder leading to the southern battlements.

"Come back! Come back!" I called under my breath.

"Ned, Ned! Don't spoil his chances," whispered Sheppard, and we watched his big body vanishing in silence.

"That boy is going to his death," he murmured. "I hope you'll trust him now."

"Oh, hang your sentiment!" I answered uneasily.

"I think we'd better go back," he said after a pause, and we returned to Williams. The man stood like a rock, his eyes riveted eagerly upon the dark figures of our antagonists. "Shall I fire?" said he in his high Welsh voice.

"No," said I. "Hold yourself together and fire if I tell you. We shall have blood on our hands soon enough."

There followed another space of silence, broken only by the interjected voices below murmuring in conference. For my own part I was taken up with Montgomery and his hazardous venture. I blamed myself for not stopping him at any cost, and in my mind's eye I followed him in his perilous ascent. It was still too dark to watch his progress, for the drum tower was as yet shrouded in vagueness, and no sound greeted us from the stillness of the breaking dawn. I think some five minutes passed in this dreadful stage of anxiety, and then I observed a movement among the men below. Evidently they had concerted some plan, and we were to resist a fresh attack. Just at this point, and when our thoughts had been necessarily called off Montgomery and were directed to the new development, there arose a loud whooping on the battlements, and a tall black body ran in the rear of the stormers and fell upon them. I saw in the gray light something as a flail rise and fall, and I heard the astonished cries of the enemy.

"Down! Down! Follow me," I said sharply and, scrambling by the stairway, dew out upon the battlements, with Sheppard and Williams at my heels. I had only my revolver for the attack, but I used the heavy butt freely, and cries and curses arose from the pack of Greeks. They scattered like a flight of sparrows, and Montgomery almost fell into my arms in the ardor of his onset. Then we pursued, and as they ran I fired some barrels of my revolver in the air. The alarm increased their panic, and, turning the corner, they flung themselves in confusion on the ropes that connected with the sycamore. I heard Sercombe's voice cursing, but where in the melee he was I had no notion, for at that moment there arose before us, I cannot say whence, a tall figure, very lithe and active, that grappled with me, gurgling strange oaths. Two strong arms were braced about my back, and it was with the utmost difficulty that I kept my feet. Together we swayed and rocked, drawing nearer to the edge of the parapet.

With all the strength at my command I flung my body forward, and, twisting my legs about my opponent's, I bore him sideways toward the roof. As I did so he wriggled a hand free and snatched it to him, fumbling in his coat. I beat him backward, and suddenly his hand stood out before my eyes, with all the light of the gray dawn gleaming upon steel. Death certainly affronted me in that second, but I nerely knew it, for quickly an arm was thrust over mine, where it gripped the ruffian round the loins, and the next instant his hand fell and his head went back, and slipping through my grasp, the body rolled over the parapet and dropped, with a splashing plunge, into the waters of the moat.

It was some seconds ere I could look round, and when I did Sheppard was standing by my side, a long Persian dagger in his hand, gazing vacantly over the stone coping, and the ramparts were clear of the enemy.

"You saved my life, old man," I gasped.

"I believe I did," he returned slowly, but seemed to be pondering something, so remote and abstracted was his air. He stepped forward and severed with his knife the ropes which bound the sycamore.

"You must chop that down," he said.

Suddenly a great glow lit up the eastern heavens, and the trees and the time worn ramparts rose green and gray in the morning. The dawn broke over us. No living soul was visible in that early light, and only the water rocked faintly against the masonry of the castle, carrying on its surface that inert body.

Sheppard's hand opened in a spasm, and the knife fell, cutting an arc of light. He looked up at me and smiled wearily. "I think I'll go to bed, old chap."

"You have had no rest for forty-eight hours," said I. "Don't be a fool; sleep before you think."

"Yes; I believe I'll take your advice," he replied mechanically and, turning slowly, marched with a dull and sober step toward the drum tower. I watched him go, and then I turned to the others.

"Any damage?" I asked.

Montgomery showed his teeth. "Pooh!" he said. "They didn't show fight!"

Williams shook his head. "I have a bad knuckle," he said.

I positively yelled with laughter. Somehow the hilarity would not be denied. "I owe you both thanks," I said presently. "Montgomery, you're a brick, and I won't forget it." He hung his head in a sheepish fashion, but I doubt not was very well pleased. "Now get you gone," I resumed. "There will be nothing further tonight, and if there is I will let you know."

For my own part sleep was impracticable, worn and jaded though I was. The events of the night and of that sharp struggle clamored in my brain, arresting every sense to attention. I leaned over the parapet and watched the dawn come up for the second time, but today it rose in different circumstances, flushed and lurid, menacing storm. The sky was red as with blood, and a black cloud fringed the margin of the horizon. My thoughts flew about like a whirling wheel, leaving upon me dim impressions. The light grew apace and struck the castle walls with fire. I was aware of something on the moat below, but my mind made no inquiries. It rested palpitant and turning upon itself in idle revolutions. The sounds of the dawn crept out across the quietude, and the trees waved and shook in a gust of air. Disturbed by this flux of the wind, or overbalanced by its own weight, a jagged stone toppled on the parapet and fell. It struck the water with a crash, and my eyes followed it. Then it was that for the first time I knew what had been beating at the door of my brain.

Suddenly, and at the instant sight of it, the confusion of my wits precipitated, and they settled clear and sharp. The cloud passed from me, and I stared with open eyes and a dreadful appreciation at the body.

The water was tossed into undulations started by the fallen stone, and the body, supported across a fallen branch, rose and fell with the water. Drawing back, I moved to another part of the battlement. But the thought pursued me in my flight. Had Sheppard struck too soon? Was it, indeed, inevitable? For the first time there grew into solid fact the horror of the supposition I had several times entertained. We were embarked upon a war, committed of our own act and will to a deadly warfare, of which no one of us could see the end. And beneath me, stored in the vaults of the venerable forkalice, lay the accursed treasure for which this blood must be spilled. Hastily I withdrew and mounted to the top of the keep. I could bear the fellowship no longer, and yet there arose now upon my mind, premeditating flight, a new perplexity. I dared not leave the body there, exposed to the sight of the world. Doubting in my thoughts and torn by shapeless fears, I stood irresolute, but at that moment my attention was caught by a movement in the bushes across the park. A head peeped out and scrutinised the scene with diligence. Then Sercombe's face emerged, red and bloated. He pushed through the covert and strode boldly toward the castle, followed presently by his companion, a rough, black fellow, with a gallows look. I watched them approach and halt under the walls, facing the dead body beneath me. I suppose my outline appeared against the sky, for Sercombe looked up and fixed his eyes on me. But he said nothing, only addressed the Greek in an undertone. I leaned forward and regarded them intently. The rough fellow stepped to the brink of the moat and, stooping forward, pulled the floating body toward him. It moved, carrying its hideous passenger. When next I looked the Greek had the body on his shoulders, and the two were retreating into the underwood. At the end of the reach of turf Sercombe came to a stand, and once more looked up at me. But he still made no sign; and I could imagine that the color of his face had faded. It seemed somehow to me to be ominous of the new position in which we were involved. I descended into the castle. Outside Sheppard's door I paused. It stood open, and I looked in. The light streamed through the window and fell across his face. He lay dressed upon the bed, a red stain of blood upon his cheeks, and as I gazed his hands moved convulsively—a contortion twisted his sleeping face. I left him and, returning to my own room, threw myself upon the bed.

Radical Changes in Ontario Liquor Laws

Fees Increased and Bartenders to be Licensed —Adulteration Penalized—Hon. Mr. Ross' Views on Government's License Measure--Amendments to Local Otion Clauses.

Toronto, March 21.—The Provincial Secretary with his new Liquor License Act occupied the centre of the stage in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. Hon. Mr. Hanna prefaced his remarks by saying that the provisions of the bill were on the lines of the policy of the Government concerning the enforcement of the license laws, as stated by the Premier. The bill aimed at the enforcement of the law and the collection for the province and the municipalities of a reasonable revenue in return for the monopoly of the business. He proposed to deal with the bill under several heads, and the first would relate to the enforcement. There were 31 sections in the bill, and 15 or 16 dealt with enforcement. There was an interpretation clause to define what was intoxicating liquor. There had been trouble in the past by reason of the vagueness of the act.

Uniform regulations throughout the province were provided for, and the Government would take the responsibility for those regulations.

To License Bartenders.

There was a proposition to license bartenders. The Government took the position that the license commissioners having control of the trade should also have control of the man who dispensed the liquor. A fee of $2 would be exacted. Under the old law liquor could not be sold to a man under 21, but a boy of 16 could go behind the bar and dispense the liquor. The inspectors issue licenses subject to the approval of the commission. This feature was confined to cities and towns.

It was also provided that a man who took part in the violation of the law was liable to the penalty, and on the second offence to have his license cancelled. The inspector was compelled to call it a second offence if it were such. On conviction for the third time the licensee should lose his license, and if the commissioners did not cancel the license, anyone might take the matter up and set the necessary machinery in motion, so that there could be no way of evading the law.

The Law in Districts.

Sections were devoted to the administration of the law in districts. If it were represented to the Government that the law was being violated the Government would investigate, and though it might not be able to secure a conviction it would take the power to cancel the license on sight if it was assured by reputable persons that the law was being violated. In North Ontario the Government took the power to veto the commission and cancel a license if the action of the commission-[illegible] with the policy of the Government. "This section means increased responsibility on the part of the Government," said Mr. Hanna, "and we assume that as well."

Mr. Hanna pointed out that the bill restricted the power of physicians to give certificates. In his own County of Lambton he knew of as many as 25 orders from physicians being presented over one bar. That meant practically a blanket order. It was proposed that a physician's order should contain particulars which would render it practically impossible to abuse the law in this respect.

A section in the old law, which was on the statute books for 25 years and was repealed in 1902, thereby allowing convictions to be quashed on a technicality. Mr. Hanna believed without the knowledge of the ex-Premier, was re-enacted. This section made it difficult for a guilty man to escape.

Must Raise the Fees.

Mr. Hanna said he would now touch upon the license fees. As to the necessity for raising them there could scarcely be room for doubt. The question was how much the increase should be. The law created a monopoly, firstly in favor of the licensee and secondly in favor of the landlord. The former had to pay a higher license fee for the privileges obtained, but the latter paid nothing. He simply went on and collected more rent.

The public was not getting the full value of these franchises. The speaker, in backing up this argument, referred to the seven transfers in Toronto as having brought in last year $183,000, of which $51,000 only was for goods and chattels, and $132,000 for the licenses themselves. While Ontario boasted of high license fees, they were not high by comparison with other cities outside Ontario. There was no state in the United States where the number of licenses was limited as in this province, where the fees were no higher.

Mr. Hanna's Fees.

Mr. Hanna cited a number of cases. In Boston only one hotel was allowed to 500 of population, and the license fee was $2,000, yet the full limit of licenses was taken.

The retail trade in Ontario paid only 26c. per head of population. In Alleghany, Pa., it was $1.45 per head; in Booth, Iowa, $1.50; in Boston, $2.36; in Montreal, $1.40; in Quebec, $1.26, and in St. Hyacinthe $1.47. The speaker quoted many more, and drew the conclusion that a very substantial increase in the cities and towns of Ontario would be justified.

Revenue Evenly Divided.

The most important part of the bill, the license fees, was then announced as follows:

	Tavern.	Shop.
Cities of 100,000 or over	$1,200	$1,000
Cities of 20,000 and less than 100,000	700	700
Cities between 10,000 and 20,000	500	500
Cities below 10,000 and towns between 5,000 and 10,000	450	450
Towns of 5,000 or less	250	250
Villages	250	270
Townships	120	200
Districts (except in cities, towns and villages)	120	...
City, town, village or other municipality or in unorganized territory in the districts		500

For beer and wine licenses there would be a fee of three-fourths of that imposed for tavern licenses in the same locality, and for a transfer of license a fee of one-third of the fee payable for the license transferred.

The Lieutenant-Governor in council might increase the duties on both tavern and shop licenses in the districts to any amount.

Share and Share Alike.

As to the revenue, it was proposed that the Government and the municipality should share and share alike. (Applause.) The Government had been getting a great deal more than the municipalities.

The bill would allow the council of any municipality, except in cities, to increase the duties as the electors should decide, a bylaw passed before the first day of March to come into effect on the first day of May in the same year, while if passed after the first day of March it would not come into effect till the first of May in the year following.

Where a municipality had before this act increased the license duties to an amount exceeding the minimum fixed by the act, they were to stand at the higher figures, but in cities where the duties now payable were increased council could make no further fees.

Under the proposed scale the municipalities would receive in the neighborhood of $257,000. Under the present fees the municipalities get but $223,000, while $267,600 came to the province. The Government had deducted 10 per cent. to come and go on, as there would be a reduction of licenses in the province. These figures did not include licenses to brewers, distillers and fines.

The Government had done away with the special census which could not be justified. The last completed municipal census had been adopted.

Could Enforce Local Option.

It had been provided that municipalities should have the power to enforce local option by the appointment of inspectors. The position of the Government, said Mr. Hanna, was that where a municipality was bent on local option it should be given the power to enforce the law. Local option votes should be taken only on annual election days, and it was provided that upon a petition of 25 per cent. of the electors the council must submit the bylaw. The temperance and liquor interests were united in favor of this section. Three-fifths of the polled vote was required, and if the bylaw passed the council must pass the bylaw. Prominent temperance men, including the leader of the Opposition had supported this percentage.

"And," said Mr. Hanna, "I am prepared to accept the authority of the leader of the Opposition where it suits my purpose to do it." The argument for this was that a majority of six or seven might easily be upset in two or three years. There should be a substantial preponderance of sentiment in favor of the law before a change was made.

Could Vote Every Two Years.

Another change had been made in the law in respect to local option. To-day if local option was carried it was good for three years, if turned down it could be tried again in three months. It is now provided that a vote might not be taken for two years after a preceding vote.

There is provision for labelling the goods so that when a Scotchman called for Scotch he would get what he asked for. "Tied" houses were to be legislated against. These places had been condemned by license commissions and the Government proposed that the contract between the brewer and the dealer should not be valid.

HON MR. ROSS.

Former Premier Tells Where He Agrees and Disagrees With the Bill.

Hon. Mr. Ross generally approved the bill as being in the interest of temperance. In many respects it commended itself to his judgment. The Liberal party had done much for temperance, reducing the number of licenses from over 6,000 to under 3,000, legislation which was in harmony with public opinion. Hotels had been closed on Sundays, on Saturday nights and on election days—all these steps had been in advance. The Liberal party had removed the liquor traffic from the control of the municipalities; its legislation had been in the direction of the improvement of hotel accommodation. In fact, said Mr. Ross, the province had made such progress that if Mr. Hanna's bill had not been a step forward it would have been an anachronism. He was glad the Government was walking in the footsteps of the old. It could not do anything in the way of a strict enforcement of the law that would not have the support of the Opposition. There were men in the liquor business who were respectable men, but there were also men who did not observe the law, and these deserved no sympathy. The speaker concluded by expressing satisfaction that the Government had in some respects "followed in the footsteps" of the late administration, but that in some other ways he was prepared to dispute the merits of the bill. He thought the Government could afford to go further than was proposed.

Mr. Ross questioned whether there had been any better administration of the law in the last year. He was glad the Government proposed to license bartenders, and noted that any liquor dealer who was convicted of a third offence would forfeit his license. The Liberal convention had approved this proposal.

He also approved of the decision not to issue additional licenses in New Ontario. In this respect Hon. Mr. Ross said the great Liberal convention had also set an example which he was pleased to note the Government had followed.

He could not approve with the same cordiality of the increased fees, but on this point would prefer to suspend definite judgment and deal more fully with the question at a later stage. It seemed to him, however, that it was a backward step.

In respect to local option, Mr. Ross said the Government was following in the footsteps of the Liberals as to 25 per cent. of the ratepayers having the power to secure a vote on local option. He regretted, however, the reduction in time for a vote on repeal of a local option bylaw from three to two years. That was a backward step. He objected to the provision for three-fifths of the vote polled for the passing or repeal of a local option bylaw. This he regarded as another backward move.

Mr. Ross thought the provision empowering municipalities to appoint officers to aid in the enforcement of the law would result in a division of responsibility which would lead to difficulties. He agreed as to the necessity of prohibiting the adulteration of liquors and the use of false labels.

"So far as the hon. gentleman has followed in our footsteps," said Mr. Ross, in conclusion, "we thank him. So far as he has departed we will oppose him. Let us have progressive legislation, every inch of it we can; let us not recede a single inch. I think this country can go much farther than the hon. gentleman has done."

The Budget Speech.

In presenting his budget in the Legislature yesterday, Hon. Mr. Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, defended his floation of the Temiskaming bond issue as satisfactory, in contrast with rates obtained by other colonies. He promised that $2,000,000 or $2,500,000 of a further issue would be placed on the Canadian market, and expected to have it subscribed privately for permanent investment. He suggested the investment of court funds in provincial bonds, and stated that already an arrangement had been made with the Committee of Judges for investment in university certificates. The total cost of the Temiskaming Railway would be $9,066,000.

Mr. Harcourt followed Hon. Mr. Matheson about 9.30, and dwelt on the conservation of the provincial forests. He moved the adjournment of the debate.

A WOMAN'S BACK IS THE MAINSPRING OF HER PHYSICAL SYSTEM. The Slightest Backache, if Neglected, is Liable to Cause Years of Terrible Suffering.

No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well, and regular in their action. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to have filtered out of the blood are left in the system.

The female constitution is naturally more subject to kidney disease than a man's; and what is more, a woman's work is never done—her whole life is one continuous strain.

How many women have you heard say: "My, how my back aches!" Do you know that backache is one of the first signs of kidney trouble? It is, and should be attended to immediately. Other symptoms are frequent thirst, scanty, thick, cloudy or highly colored urine, burning sensation when urinating, frequent urination, puffing under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, floating specks before the eyes, etc.

These symptoms if not taken in time and cured at once, will cause years of terrible kidney suffering. All these symptoms, and in fact, these diseases may be cured by the use of BOMBS BURGLARS' RELIANCE.

Moscow Raid Was to Secure Funds For Revolutionist Party.

St. Petersburg, March 22.—The Novoe Vremya's account of the robbery by masked men Tuesday of the Credit Mutual, of $432,500, says that the vaults were still open and that several employes were present when the bandits entered. The latter, numbering 20 men, were armed with bombs as well as with revolvers. Their leader announced that he came in the name of the revolutionary committee, which needed money, promising that employes of the bank would not be harmed unless they raised an outcry, in which event he would blow up the establishment with bombs.

"We are desperate and not afraid to die," said the bandit leader. Throughout the operation a member of the band stood with a lighted fuse near a powerful bomb which had been placed on a table, ready to be exploded if such a step became necessary.

In addition to lowering the window shades the telephone was disconnected, and when the bandits had completed their work, the employes of the bank were warned that if they gave an alarm within fifteen minutes after the departure of the band a bomb would be thrown through the window.

Moscow Mourns.

Moscow, March 22.—The Social Democrats and revolutionaries of this city are mourning the death of Lieut. Schmidt. Thousands of workmen Tuesday wore crape on their arms and funeral services were held in the chapels of many factories. The population generally is also deeply affected. Requiem masses have been said in several of the churches.

Odessa, March 22.—As a protest against the execution March 19 of Lieut. Schmidt, leader of the naval mutiny at Sebastopol last November, the pupils of all the local high schools struck yesterday.

TO CURB MONEY-LENDERS.

Features of Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick's Bill in the Commons.

Ottawa, March 21.—After advancing a couple of Government bills a stage yesterday afternoon the House settled down to voting supply. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the absence of the Finance Minister, led the committee and displayed tact and skill in getting the estimates through.

The bill amending the act respecting the Senate and House of Commons was read a second time and referred to a select committee composed of Messrs. Fitzpatrick, Aylesworth, Barker, Greenway, Macdonald, Stockton and Ingram. The committee will inquire into the whole question of elections, etc.

The House went into committee upon Mr. Fitzpatrick's bill respecting money-lenders. In explanation of the measure the Minister of Justice said that any person other than a registered pawnbroker, acting as such, who lends money at a rate of interest in excess of 10 per cent. would be a "money-lender" within the meaning of section 2 of the bill. The bill will be sent to the Committee on Banking and Commerce.

The Lord's Day Bill.

The Lord's Day Alliance sent a deputation here yesterday to interview and memoralize the Government concerning the new bill. They combatted the positions taken by the Hebrews and the Seventh Day Adventists.

In reply Sir Wilfrid said the question was surrounded with difficulties. It was not possible in this country, where people were of different religious beliefs, to introduce legislation of this kind without having the whole community more or less in a turmoil. He suggested to them that when the bill was in committee and was being discussed clause by clause they should meet the opponents of the measures and try to find a common basis which would interfere as little as possible with the religious convictions of those of separate religious beliefs. If all sides met together in this spirit he thought they ought to be able to enact legislation. He must tell this to them frankly; it was the duty of the Government to listen to all. They represented the minority as well as the majority. Government was bound to take the part of the minority, because they were in a minority. One might not agree with their views, but they were citizens under the protection of the British Crown, and were entitled to fair play. In this spirit the Government approached the consideration of the question.

Ashamed of her Skin

Now proud of the complexion "Fruit-a-tives" gave her.

Bad complexions are all too common among women. The skin becomes sallow—pimples and blotches break out. Then women try lotions and creams and "beautifiers" which really injure the Skin. They never think of constipation and bad digestion — sick kidneys or torpid liver—as the CAUSE.

"I was a martyr to that distressing complaint—chronic constipation—and had a dreadful complexion, sallow in the extreme and black under the eyes. Last May, I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives". Before I had finished the first box, the constipation was relieved. My complexion began to clear up again, all the sallowness disappeared, and the black circles under my eyes went away. Since then, I have continued to improve and now my complexion is as clear as when I was a young girl. To all persons suffering from constipation and indigestion, and particularly those with bad complexions, I would strongly advise them to try "Fruit-a-tives"!

FLORENCE JAMESON, Masson, P.Q.

Fruit-a-tives

—or Fruit Liver Tablets

strike right at the root of the trouble. The skin helps to dispose of the waste of the body. When the bowels don't move regularly — when the kidneys are clogged—the blood carries the poisons, which the bowels and kidneys won't pass off, to the skin. The pores of the skin become clogged with this poison and the complexion becomes gray or sallow or irritated and inflammed—and pimples and blotches are the natural result of the poisoned blood.

"Fruit-a-tives" correct faulty digestion and make the bowels move regularly. They act directly on the kidneys—and open the millions of tiny pores of the skin by stimulating and strengthening the glands. This insures all the waste of the system being removed as nature intended. It insures pure, rich blood—and who ever heard of a bad complexion where the blood was rich and pure?

"Fruit-a-tives" costs 50c. a box—and are worth $50. to any woman who values her complexion. If your druggist has none, we will send them on receipt of price—50c. a box or 6 boxes for $2.50.

AGREEMENT IN SIGHT.

Austrian Amended Proposals Have Now Taken Definite Shape.

Algeciras, March 23.—Owing to the slight indisposition of the head of the German mission, Herr Von Radowitz, the meeting of the delegates which was to have been held yesterday, has been postponed until Saturday next, when the new Austrian police proposition will be presented.

All the delegates have agreed that the points in dispute are slowly being settled.

The situation, however, is still intricate. The delegates do not exactly see how an accord can be reached, but they no longer doubt that an agreement will be arrived at.

It became known later in the day that the Austrian amended proposals had taken definite shape and it was believed they provide a basis for a settlement.

A pleasing feature was the visit of the grand master and sovereign, Dr. Sproule, who received an enthusiastic reception, as also did Past County Master Col. Sam Hughes. The grand secretary said in his report that a marked increase in membership and an improvement in the methods of county lodges was to be shown.

The Illinois Traction Deal Explained—Practice of Counting Policies Issued on Promissory Notes for Premiums Condemned—Mr. Blackadar Steps Down and Mr. Fitzgerald Will Be Next on the Stand.

Ottawa, March 23.—Dealings of several more insurance companies in a wide variety of securities were laid before the Insurance Commission yesterday in reports by Mr. Blackadar, read by Mr. Shepley. The developments were not of a startling character, but they revealed a number of departures from the path laid down by the statute.

One interesting statement was that the Continental Life had been reported as spending $136 for every $100 premium received on new business.

A further report showed that the Home Life Co. had several investments not authorized by statute, but another statement showed that that company had accepted a number of suggestions made by Mr. Blackadar in regard to the annual return.

The Sun Life Co., Mr. Blackadar stated, had made good profit out of transactions in Illinois Traction and other stocks to which reference had been made Tuesday. Mr. Blackadar's main examination was concluded, and Mr. Fitzgerald will return to-day.

"Silent assets" received some attention. Mr. Blackadar was asked if the Sun Life had not omitted from its return securities whose market value aggregated $1,868,411. He had no definite recollection of this two million dollar item. He said it was not the custom to note the market value of securities omitted by the company from its return. It was not a matter of much concern. They were often obtained as a bonus and carried on the company's books at a nominal figure. He only enquired about them in case they were "written up" and returned as assets.

By Mr. Hellmuth: "Is there not a certain form that you furnish the insurance companies and which they must follow in making their returns; and does it not call for the cost price, book price and market price of all securities held by them?" A. "But these securities are not included in its return to the department."

Q. "Why not? The statute requires a return, does it not, of all other property owned by the company, with details?" A. "The department does not take your view of it."

Q. "Does the department interpret the act to mean that a company may return assets enough to show solvency and omit millions of other assets belonging to it?" A. "That is not in my jurisdiction."

Q. "But what is your interpretation of the act?" A. "I think you should ask Mr. Fitzgerald. I could only give my private opinion."

Q. "Well, what is your opinion about it?" A. No answer.

Q. "You prefer I should ask Mr. Fitzgerald?" A. "Yes."

Mr. Blackadar will stand aside for the present, subject to recall, and further examination by Mr. Hellmuth. The examination of Mr. Fitzgerald will be resumed to-day.

The commission will adjourn from Friday afternoon till Wednesday morning.

When Mr. Shepley's examination of Mr. Blackadar was resumed in the morning, Mr. Blackadar said that a memorandum read on Tuesday morning in reference to stock sold to the president and directors of the Sun Life at less than market price was misleading, inasmuch as under a certain resolution directors claimed the right to participate in the purchase of "very attractive securities." Still, certain Illinois traction securities which were purchased at a value of about 85 brought certain profits to the directors individually.

T. B. Macaulay, secretary and actuary of the Sun Life, was up from Montreal, and made statements to the reporters to the effect that the directors did not know when the purchase of these securities was going to take place, and the company bought for itself and the directors in their personal capacity, too, without receiving instructions as to amounts from the directors. This happened on the last day of the year, and it was impossible to discriminate. The error was discovered in a few days, and was reversed in the accounts.

Mr. Blackadar's report on the Continental Life was read by Mr. Shepley. It showed that the increased assets were principally mortgages, a large block of stock having been sold, and the proceeds used to buy an office building.

At the end of 1904 the capital was impaired by $49,000, and at the end of 1905 by $75,000. This company was spending $136.80 to get $100 of new premiums.

Recently Mr. Blackadar reported that some companies returns as new business actually paid for three policies for the first premiums, on which the insured had merely given promissory notes instead of cash—a frequent device of agents desperately anxious to get commissions, whether the business materializes in cash or not."

The North American Life and the Imperial Life each reported about $600,000 worth of new policies not paid for. In the following year these policies are shown as terminated. Mr. Blackadar suggested that this practice of representing promissory notes as receipts should be prevented by law.

A report criticising certain securities held by the Home Life was submitted. For instance, an investment of 100 shares of the common stock of Blossom Sheffield at 71 1-4 was condemned; and the directors gave heed accordingly.

Bonds of the Dominion Coal and Dominion Steel Co. had been taken for debts. Mr. Blackadar thinks that these are not securities which an insurance company should hold.

The Confederation Life had also invested various funds in Nova Scotia Steel and Coal, Dominion Coal, and C. P. R. The Nova Scotia securities were sold during 1904 as they are authorized by the act, Mr. Blackadar thinks that the ordinary stock of the C. P. R. is unauthorized, and the Confederation actuary had assured him that the stocks would disappear by the end of the year.

Several memoranda were read regarding the affairs of other companies, and the I. O. F. Several items of expense in the I. O. F. were gone over, some of which Mr. Blackadar could not explain. For instance, in 1898, the excess of receipts over disbursements was overstated by nearly $20,000. The Foresters' interest in the Temple Building was $426,363, although their charter had at one time limited its real estate holding to $350,000. The Toronto Realty Co. held a mortgage on the building for $240,000.

All Trustees Go Out.

Albany, N. Y., March 23.—The assembly committee on insurance late last night voted to report favorably to the assembly, with amendments, assembly bill No. 964, which would legislate out of office on Nov. 15 next all the directors and trustees of the mutual insurance companies, and prohibit all proxies hitherto secured.

HILL WAS DISCHARGED.

Judge Garrow Charged in Favor of Indian Accused of Murder.

Brantford, March 23.—At a late hour yesterday afternoon the jury in the Hill murder case returned a verdict of "Not guilty." Hill, accordingly was given his discharge. The verdict was partially due to the charge of Justice Garrow, who summed up strongly in favor of the prisoner.

The surface drainage bylaw voted upon yesterday was snowed under, the majority against being over 400.

Church Destroyed By Fire.

Cornwall, March 23.—The Village of Martintown was visited by the fire fiend on Tuesday, and St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, one of the oldest as well as one of the finest rural churches in the province, was totally destroyed. The fire was first discovered in the vestry. The church was built in 1835.

Detroit, Mich., March 23.—Joseph Mandell yesterday fined Gordon Gauthier of Windsor $10 for fishing in United States waters during the close season. This case involved the international boundary line. Gauthier has appealed.

ON THE FARM.

There's many a successful business man who sits in his city office and lets his mind slip back to his boyhood days on the farm. How good it felt to live! What an appetite he had! How good everything tasted! How sound his sleep was! How eagerly he rose with the sun and raced with him through the long day. And now he's a successful man. But he can't sleep. He doesn't enjoy his food. His stomach is weak, his nerves are shaken, and he no more rises with the sun to race eagerly against him. His vitality is low and now and again his heart seems to plunge in his breast as if it would break loose. That's the price he has paid for success.

The mischief of the whole business is that he buys "tablets" of one sort or another to "aid" his digestion, and indulges in bromides and other nerve stimulants, just to hold himself together, and wonders why he seems to be getting worse.

The whole trouble with such a man generally lies in what is called a "weak" stomach. The food he eats does not nourish him because it is only partially digested and assimilated. No man can be stronger than his stomach, because it is in the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition that strength is made from the food which is eaten.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the strength of the body in the only way strength can be restored, by food which is perfectly digested and assimilated, when the diseased stomach (with its allied organs) is cured of disease. It is a blood-making, body-building medicine, inasmuch as blood is made from food and the body is built up by blood. It is not a stimulant, containing neither alcohol or any other narcotic.

NO OTHER DOCTOR FOR ME.

"Last spring, early, I wrote you my feelings and condition," says Mr. A. J. Vanderwater, 673 West Division Street, Chicago, Ill., "and you advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery (a few bottles), and then write you how I fit. I am happy to say I am getting to feel fine. In all I have taken six bottles of the 'Discovery' and four or five vials of the little 'Pellets.' They have done me worlds of good. All my friends say: 'Vanderwater, how well you are looking. What in the world have you been doing?' I tell them I have been doctoring with Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. 'Why, they say, 'you haven't been there?' No, I say, but I took his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little 'Pellets.' These medicines have wrought the great change in me. From a slow mope of a man that could hardly crawl, tired and sick all the time, and could do no work; to a man who can work, sleep, eat, and feel fine, and that tired feeling is all going away. I am very thankful that I wrote to Dr. Pierce. His 'Golden Medical Discovery' and his little liver 'Pellets' have almost made a new man of me. I feel young as I did at thirty years. No other doctor for me, only Dr. Pierce."

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

"I will express my thanks to you for the kindly advice you have given me in regard to my case," writes Miss Carrie A. Wharton, of Dunsmuir, Spottsylvania Co., Virginia, "when I wrote to you last spring I was in a terrible state of health. Had given up all hope of ever being better. I spit up my food all the time and it seemed sour as vinegar. I would have a sick headache every other week; in fact, my head never felt clear, and I was perfectly broken down under the strain of losing my food continually. I had read a great deal in your books of what your medicine had done for others, so I wrote you and got your advice. Bought two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the first dose I took I felt better. When I had finished taking the two bottles the vomiting up had entirely stopped and my head was much better. I believe your medicines are just what you have said of them.

"I carefully read the books you sent me and shall always speak a good word for the 'Golden Medical Discovery' wherever I have a chance. You can publish this if you think it worth while. It might induce some one else to try your medicine who was suffering as I did. It was by the persuasion of friends of others that I was induced to try it. I shall always rely upon your advice and feel safe to do so in all ills."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, to stay cured and commonwealth.

Two Firemen Were Killed In This Accident

Grand Trunk Trainmen Die In Wreck Near Sarnia.

THE COLLISION WAS HEAD-ON

Both of the Dead Men Were Residents of London—Snowstorm and Switchman's Error Were Causes of the Fatality—Narrow Escape of the Engineers of Both Trains—Engines Piled Up.

Sarnia, March 23.—An accident alleged to be due to carelessness of a switchman resulted in a head-on collision yesterday morning on the London branch track just east of the tunnel yards.

The passenger train for Stratford had just pulled out at 2.30, and was 3 minutes out of the station in a snowstorm when it was found that the train had been turned on to the London track instead of the main line.

Engineer Wm. Newcombe of Toronto and Fireman McGhee both noticed the error and were reversing the engine, which was going twenty miles an hour, when it crashed into a double-header freight coming in. The first freight engine had Engineer Wilson and Fireman Hughes, and the second engine had Engineer McGladdery and Fireman Crapp, all of London.

When the crash came both engineers were thrown out and found unhurt beside the track, but Hughes and Crapp were caught in the wreck and killed. Both were terribly mangled and burned, and have not been extricated. The freight engines were piled above the passenger engine and totally demolished. The boiler of one locomotive rested on the cab of another, which was piled over the third.

Engineer Newcombe states that he did not see the freight on account of the snow flurry and the smoke of the switching engines. McGladdery saw the passenger lights but thought they were going to make the switch and turn out.

Train Wreck at Hamilton.

Hamilton, March 23.—The Toronto G. T. R. passenger train due here at 2.25 collided with a yard engine and some freight cars here. Both engines were wrecked and baggage car and smoker telescoped. Three freight cars are also damaged. One of the cars fell into the bay. A fire started but was soon put out. The injured are Wm. Beatty, engineer, legs and arms bruised and head cut; J. D. Thompson, mail clerk, 18 Farley avenue, Toronto, bruised about back and shoulders; Wm. Walker, baggage man, 28 East Barton street, chest crushed and injured internally; Engineer Armstrong, 124 North Ferguson avenue, bruised about the face; Conductor Geo. Stoddart, North Park street, leg cut, and J. T. Mabey, Boston, body cut and bruised.

Train Derailed; Two Killed.

Rochester, N. Y., March 23.—The Hemlock Lake train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, due here at 8.15, was wrecked at Honeoye Falls yesterday morning. The engineer, Wm. Gaffney of Rochester, was instantly killed and the fireman, Edward Brusky of Honeoye Falls, died later.

AGGRESSIVE CRITICISM.

Mr. Harcourt Says Flotation of Provincial Loan Was Not Well Managed—Generous Grants For Science.

Toronto, March 23.—The debate on the budget was resumed in the Legislature by Mr. Harcourt yesterday and adjournment was moved at 10 o'clock last night by Mr. McGarry. Mr. Harcourt, who commenced his address in the afternoon, proceeded after recess and concluded at 9.30, having occupied somewhat over three hours. He reviewed the financial administration of the former Government in a clear and interesting manner, and subjected the flotation of the Provincial bonds for the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway loan to aggressive criticism. He argued that the flotation had been mismanaged to the detriment of the interests of the province. A renewal of the loan on the terms which the Treasurer had said he could have secured for renewal would have been better pending an improvement of the market and the securing of Imperial legislation allowing the securities of the province to be placed on the trustees list.

Mr. Harcourt urged generous grants towards the spread of scientific education, which was essential if Ontario was to advance in manufactures and agriculture. His comparison of the changed attitude of the Government compared with their expressed views when in Opposition on several important revenue measures was apt and convincing. Mr. Harcourt was heartily applauded by the Opposition members. Mr. McGarry will continue the debate, which may possibly be resumed to-day but may not go on again before Tuesday. He will be followed by Mr. Hislop for the Opposition.

Read a First Time.

The following bills were introduced in the House yesterday:

Mr. Lucas—To authorize the Supreme Court of Judicature of Ontario to admit W. W. Pepe to practice law in the courts of Ontario.

Mr. McGarry—Respecting the Southwestern Traction Co.

Mr. Auld—To amend the Assessment Act.

Mr. Kohler—Respecting natural gas wells.

Mr. Kennedy—To consolidate the floating debt of the Town of Fort Francis.

Mr. Fox—To amend the Municipal Act.

Smoking Car For Women.

London, March 23.—The first smoking car ever reserved for women in Great Britain left a big London terminus yesterday for Liverpool. The windows bore a label reading "Ladies' smoker." The innovation attests the spread of smoking among English women during recent years.

THE old-time miller did not concern himself much about the quality or purity of his flour.

He simply ground the wheat.

You would refuse to use his product to-day. The results would not satisfy you. You have advanced.

Yet it is possible that your advance has not kept pace with the advance in milling methods.

MINE GAS EXPLOSION.

Ten Known Dead, 25 Injured and 25 to 75 Missing.

Fairmont, W. V., March 23.—Ten men are known to be dead, 25 injured and from 25 to 75 missing and believed to be dead, as the result of an explosion of gas in the shaft of the Century Coal Co. at Century, a small mining town situated 50 miles south of Fairmont, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, yesterday afternoon.

Lies Unconscious in Snow.

Galt, March 23.—To be thrown from a cutter and lie by the roadside unconscious during the long, cold hours of Wednesday night, both hands and feet becoming frozen and his face frostbitten, was the experience of Adam Unger, who now lies in Galt Hospital in a critical condition. The prospect is that he will lose fingers and toes and be a cripple for life. Two miles below Sheffield the horse ran away. Children on the way to school found the man half covered with snow. Young Unger is the main support of a widowed mother and sisters. He is employed in the office of the Galt Knitting Co.

CURE THE MOST EXTREME CASES

Stone in the Kidneys Cannot Stand Before Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. E. A. Cassidy of Ottawa, Permanently Cured After Years of Suffering by the Great Colic and Kidney Remedy.

Ottawa, Ont., March 23.—Special.—While all Canada knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the standard remedy for all Kidney Complaints, it may surprise some people to know they cure such extreme cases as Stone in the Kidneys. But that is what they have done right here in Ottawa.

Mr. E. A. Cassidy, the man cured, is the well-known proprietor of the Bijou Hotel on Metcalf street, and in an interview he says: "My friends all know that I have been a martyr to Stone in the Kidneys for years. They know that besides consulting the best doctors in the city and trying every medicine I could think of, I was unable to get better.

"Some time ago a friend told me Dodd's Kidney Pills would cure me. As a last resort I tried them, and they cured me.

"I could not imagine more severe suffering than one endures who has Stone in the Kidneys, and I feel the greatest gratitude to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

If the disease is of the Kidneys or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

DEATH OF FAMOUS CHEMIST.

Prof. Doremus, For Nearly 60 Years, Was Columbia Instructor.

New York, March 23.—Prof. R. Ogden Doremus, for many years a noted chemist, died here yesterday, aged 83 years. It was as an expert on the effects of poison that he was best known.

It was he who originated the system of disinfecting ships, which is still in use at the Government quarantine station; he was one of the pioneers in the harnessing of electricity for commercial use and on account of his knowledge of explosives he was called to France by Emperor Louis Napoleon, where he rendered important service to the French Government.

Prof. Doremus had been connected with the New York University and the College of the City of New York as instructor in chemistry for nearly 60 years, and for more than 45 years he had occupied the chair of chemistry in the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, of which he was one of the founders.

RUSSIA'S PERIL.

Will Workmen Decide Upon General Strike or Revolution?

St. Petersburg, March 22.—The agitation among the workmens' organizations involves a bold plan on the part of the social democrats, revolutionists and other radical elements to send delegates elected secretly to a meeting to be called at some place in Finland early in April, at which an ultimate plan of operations will be decided upon.

A division of sentiment exists among the leaders. Some of them favor calling a general strike in the middle of April for the purpose of forcing the lower House of Parliament to demand the immediate convocation of a constituent assembly on the basis of universal suffrage, but the more audacious aim at setting up a provisional Government. They believe the time is ripe to organize a general uprising, and that if successful their representatives could boldly contest the authority of the Government. The authorities here have already gotten wind of the possibility of a general strike, and Interior Minister Durnovo has sent circulars to the Governor-Generals and Governors, apprising them of the state of affairs, and instructing them to "take the necessary measures" to meet the movement.

Premier Witte's project to permit the peasant banks to issue 5 per cent. bonds for the purchase of land from the proprietors and sell it to the peasants has been adopted by the council of the empire. The majority of estates are heavily mortgaged to the nobles and private banks with foreign connections, and the bonds will be used to satisfy these mortgages.

Neglect of Some Formality Debars Him From Commons Temporarily.

London, March 23.—The Canadian Associated Press has been informed that owing to Mr. Blake's agent in South Longford having neglected some formality at the last election, Mr. Blake is unable to take his seat in the House, and it is necessary for him to apply to the courts, which applications, the Canadian Associated Press believes, will be made at Antrim Court to-day.

IN FASHION'S REALM; OF INTEREST TO LADIES

MODES FOR THE SCHOOLGIRL

The Kilted Skirt Still In Favor. Ways of Lengthening Frocks.

Kilted skirts are still in high favor for young girls' suits and dresses—they're too useful and becoming a style to be dropped in a hurry—and are at their prettiest when applied to plaid suitings.

Shirt waists for girls are rather plain tailored affairs trimmed perhaps with fancy buttons. Lingerie blouses are made with long sleeves in absolute contradiction to the modes of the older ones, for short sleeves savor of more or less formal occasions, and nothing in the way of formal occasions must be connected with girls' clothes.

New ways of braiding are a boon to the woman whose sixteen-year-old daughter is growing "out of all bounds," for under those braidings clever piecings are concealed which make the wearisome task of letting down somewhat easier. Bands offer the same opportunity, especially those graduated ones with the lowest one perhaps twice the width of the top.

DRESS OF MAUVE VOILE.

A charming blouse for a young girl is of tucked crepe de chine in pale blue, with a yoke of Paris guipure veiled with double chiffon. The folded scarfs crossing the shoulders are inlet with herringbone stitchery, made with coarse silk of the same color. The yoke forms a point at the back, and the scarfs form a mitered point below the yoke. The sleeves are made on a fitted foundation of the crape, and the full bell overpart and the deep frills are arranged upon this.

The gown in the cut is of a pale mauve voile. The skirt about the waist is disposed in plaits and trimmed at the bottom with velvet ribbon several shades darker than the voile. The jaunty little jacket has a tiny vest of white cloth adorned with small gold buttons, and the velvet trimmings on the jacket are caught through gold buckles. JUDIC CHOLLET.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

The Models Makes Up the Princess Figure—Woolen Embroidery.

Princess gowns are now in full possession of the fashion field. If this gown is to look either smart or picturesque it demands a perfect figure, with full round curves and lines. Curiously enough, all the wearers of this style appear to have developed the princess figure. This figure, to tell the truth, is made to order. Horsehair neatly padded and quilted is the secret of the princess form. A breastplate of horsehair makes up for the thin bust. The shoulders and hips are thickly padded with the same material. Even the sleeves are molded into beautifully rounded curves over a couple of thicknesses of wadding.

A novel trimming has lately been introduced in the form of woolen embroidery for cloth gowns.

Striped materials are increasing in popularity every day, and many of the new brocades have wide velvet stripes quite in the style of many years ago.

Every mother who has a little tot to dress takes as keen an interest in juvenile modes as she does in fashions for herself. A child can never be unattractive in a freshly washed frock, no matter what its material, and all suits should be made with a view to frequent tubbing. This year the eyelet embroidery done entirely by hand is engaging the attention of enterprising mothers, and the result either on china silk, fine handkerchief linen or coarse weave is very effective.

A truly Parisian hat is a creation somewhat on the directoire order of fine yellow straw draped with the palest green gauze and topped by the palest blue tips.

Very useful and neat is the cooking apron depicted. It is made of fine though rather firm linen. It is nothing more than a triangular piece of the required size rounded at the top to fit the belt. The bib is fashioned in the same manner, with the fullness gathered into the belt.

FASHION'S FORECAST.

Some Handsome Reception Costumes. Pointed Toes on the Spring Shoes.

Long flowered silk jackets worn over lace or chiffon gowns are very effective for reception costumes. But the long silk jacket effect is rarely worn in the evening, although silk and satin boleros are to be seen on many of the satin and velvet ball gowns.

Extremely pointed shoes are the models promised for the spring.

or at either end with a graceful design in enamel in the middle are considered the most up to date styles in combs.

PRINCESS STYLES.

Hints For Wedding Gowns—Polonaise Effects and Tunic Draperies.

The princess style, which is having such a vogue, should not be used for the wedding gown. Most dressmakers seem to forget the important fact that the bride, the cynosure of all eyes, stands during the ceremony with her back to the entire assemblage of spectators, and the manufacture of the gown being fastened in the back precludes a good line there, or any trimming scheme save the scantiest. A front fastening or one concealed under the arm is far better for a bridal gown.

BRIDAL FROCK OF WHITE SATIN.

Polonaise outlines are beginning to assert themselves dentatively, but none the less unmistakably, and tunic skirts and draperies are hovering in the near future.

The princess skirt topped with a jaunty little bolero is a model that is high in favor at present. A recent variation of this was found in the tubbier all the way down the front of the skirt. This is one of the means whereby the required straight front line is achieved and the princess effect gained.

The princess gown appears among the "tub" dresses, but how it is to be successfully laundered is a much vexed question.

The wedding dress illustrated is carried out in princess style and fashion from soft white satin. Exquisite lace forms a front panel and continues as a border around the bottom of the skirt. Outlining the lace yoke is a wreath of orange blossoms. These flowers appear on the sleeves above dainty frillings of lace.

silk. The silk comes ready quilted by the yard, and the jackets themselves are easily made.

Pretty bows are worn in the hair, and every up to date girl should have a few of these dainty coiffure adornments.

Little boleros of lace worn over slips of chiffon or mousseline de soie are very popular just now for afternoon bridge parties. They have wide cape sleeves, terminating a little above the elbow to allow plenty of space for the filmy undersleeves. The favorite lace for this purpose is Irish guipure, inset with medallions of fine lawn embroidered in roses or bunches of flowers.

The newest thing in corset covers is the boned taffeta and fine jersey waists. The latter is tight fitting and often takes the place of the corset for thin people when wearing loose frocks and is worn by full figures as a corset cover. Many of these waists are laced in the back and on the shoulders.

The hat illustrated is one of the new spring turban shapes. It is charmingly evolved in a rough tan straw faced with tobacco brown velvet. About the crown is a twist of velvet, and at the side is a large bird with wings spreading downward on the hair.

THE CARE OF CHILDREN

Nowadays wise mothers do not dose their children with harsh, griping castor oil or purgatives, nor do they give them poisonous opiates in the form of so-called soothing medicines. Baby's Own Tablets take the place of these harsh and dangerous medicines and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that the Tablets are absolutely safe. Baby's Own Tablets cure indigestion, constipation, colic, teething troubles, diarrhoea, simple fevers and other little ills of childhood. An occasional dose will keep the children well. Mrs. R. E. King, Peachland, B. C., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets unsurpassed for teething troubles, breaking up colds, reducing fevers and other ills and they make a child sleep naturally. I now always keep them in the house." Ask for the Tablets at your druggists, or you can get them by mail from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, of

Women Angrily Aroused ALL OVER THE DOMINION

Information from various Provinces of Canada points to the fact that many women have been deprived and induced to use the weak and adulterated package dyes put up by unskilled and unscrupulous manufacturers to imitate the popular DIAMOND DYES.

Our Canadian women, thoroughly aroused, after loss of time and money, and valuable materials, through the use of muddy, blotchy and weak dyes, have directly laid the blame for their losses on the retail merchants who sold them the deceptive dyes.

This action of indignant women, has caused many of our retail and wholesale dealers to mark up and return to the manufacturers responsible their worthless and dangerous dyes.

Moral — When ladies decide to do home dyeing work it pays to use the celebrated and popular DIAMOND DYES, which have been the best friends of the ladies for over 21 years. When buying see that each package handed to you bears the words DIAMOND PACKAGE DYES. Users of DIAMOND DYES soon become experts in the fascinating work of home colouring and find that a ten cent package will renew the life of any faded and dingy suit, dress, skirt, blouse, jacket, cape or husband's or son's coat, vest or trousers. Allow no dealer to offer you the something he calls "JUST AS GOOD." No other dyes equal the DIAMOND DYES.

The new ribbons are wonderfully lovely and are used in many ways besides the traditional sash and girdles. Wide, soft ribbons are folded into fichu-like corsage trimming and also into draped waistcoats. They are set into skirts with open stitching or with lace bands and are used for cuffs, revers, girdles, knots and bows.

Bonnets have come into fashion for children and not only for very woe folks, but those of a more advanced age. The bonnets are of an old fashioned shape, with large scooped fronts, the brims in many cases being composed entirely of mousseline de soie and lace, with a tiny frill in front.

The dainty chapeau pictured is of white chip. The ribbon about the crown is a plaited affair carried out in cream and green shadings. The feathers are creamy white, toning into a light reseda. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Charmingly Thin Materials For Dainty Summer Frocks.

There are any quantities of charming materials for thin summer gowns, including dimities in dainty little stripes and floral designs. Tiny pin dots are another popular fancy.

A delightful gobelin blue linen frock has its full skirt inset with a four inch band of Irish lace. An all over design in this same lovely lace makes the short, straight jacket, bound and strapped with blue linen. The jacket is worn with an exquisitely fine lingerie waist of tucked handkerchief linen absolutely devoid of trimming other than this self adornment. A blouse of this description shows the design in the lace jacket to perfection.

A number of the simplest and prettiest of the summer gowns are tucked. The skirt, for instance, will have a deep ruffle tucked at the bottom and joined to the skirt under three or four deep tucks. The bebe bodice will be vertically tucked and also the puffed elbow sleeves.

Trimmings this spring and summer will be flat, a particularly effective adornment for afternoon gowns being brussels net with rings of velvet as large as a quarter.

Avoid fussy sleeves in your tailor made frock. They may be becoming

White lace gowns have the pattern of the flowers on the lace outlined with colored embroidery silk or narrow ribbons in paleet shades.

The spring gown illustrated is of black and white checked woolen. The skirt is in three fitted flounces, each one trimmed with scrolls of black velvet. The bolero jacket, which is a smart little wrap with shoulder capes, is ornamented with the velvet scrolls.

THE SEALING QUESTION.

From Tenor of News Despatch It May Be Reopened For the Benefit of Americans.

A London despatch intimates that negotiations will be opened for "a more satisfactory settlement of the Pacific sealing question." The item is evidently from an American source, for the United States is the only interested country that can hope for "a more satisfactory settlement" as the result of negotiations. It is true that the existing conditions are not perfectly satisfactory to anyone, but they are particularly galling to the United States. The suggestion that the American Government might give Canada a share in the great seal islands in Behring Sea is a most interesting one, and such an offer would, no doubt, be accepted; but it is not credible that the United States would make such a concession. The policy of the republic is to give nothing.

The sealing question has an interesting history, beginning, so far as Canada is concerned, when the United States acquired Alaska and the Aleutian Islands in Behring Sea. These islands are the great seal islands, on which the greatest of the world's rookeries are established. The United States Government did not long retain control of the seals, but sold out to the Alaska Trading Co., which did a most profitable business. The company had the exclusive right to kill seals on the islands, but this privilege does not mean as much as might be inferred, on account of the migratory habits of the seals. As is well known the seals swim hundreds and thousands of miles away from the home islands, and do not return for months. It is only necessary for them to get to land when young seals are about to be born. At other times they are as much at home in the sea as shoals of fish. Readers of Jack London's first novel, "The Sea Wolf," will understand how sealers (called "pelagic" because they kill their game afloat) follow the seals, which travel in great shoals, and spear them by the thousand, leaving sadly depleted herds to make their way back to the Aleutian Islands.

The practice of pelagic sealing, indulged in by sealers from many nations, chiefly by Canadians, entailed serious loss to the Alaska Trading Co. It therefore urged the American Government to come to its rescue. In a singularly irregular and precipitate manner the Government did so, by seizing several Canadian sealers. A protest was at once lodged with the British Government, and there ensued a protracted period of negotiations. The American Government justified its action on the ground that the Behring Sea was a closed sea, and belonged to the United States. This contention, if conceded, would justify seizures in Behring sea, and would bar out all Canadian vessels in future. But, as some of the sealers had been seized hundreds of miles away in the Pacific, it became necessary to justify this action as well. Therefore the claim was put in that as the seals were born on American territory they were American seals, no matter where they were found. In short, they were like domestic animals that had strayed away, but as they only strayed in the high seas, no counterclaim of trespass could be asserted.

Naturally enough these theories were very strongly opposed by the British Government, and by the Canadian Minister of Marine at the time. The theory of the closed sea was disproved by the argument that the Aleutian Islands were more than six miles apart. It is a well-recognized principle of international law that a country owns the waters within three miles of its coast. Had the islands been within six miles from each other, the American claim would have been granted. As regards the seals themselves, the British and Canadian argument was that the Americans had no more right to exclusive proprietorship than had Canada in the case of the Atlantic mackerel, which also come ashore to breed, and then put to sea to be caught by fishermen of all nationalities.

The international argument waxed fierce, the chief disputants being Lord Salisbury, Secretary of State Blaine and Mr. Foster. By the opening of the next season no settlement had been reached, and Mr. Blaine took refuge in a "bluff." He intimated that the United States was prepared to enforce its claims, and that armed cruisers would be sent out to capture British or Canadian sealers. To this warlike communication Lord Salisbury promptly replied that any such interference with vessels flying the British flag would be considered a casus belli. The British squadron at Victoria was sent north, and it appeared that the two great English-speaking countries were on the verge of war. The danger brought the American Government to its senses, and a request was made that the matter should be referred to a court of arbitration. This was satisfactory, and an international board was appointed, which met at Paris in 1893.

After several weeks' deliberations, the board decided against both of the United States' contentions. Nevertheless, in the interests of the seal, it established a close season, and decreed that there could be no pelagic sealing within 60 miles of the Aleutian Islands. Under this arrangement, the Canadian and American pelagic sealers were still able to kill many seals, and so the Alaska Trading Co. was dissatisfied. On several occasions since it has endeavored to have the whole question reopened. But the British and Canadian Government have steadily declined. The Paris treaty is still in force, and from what we know of the methods of the Alaska Trading Co. Canada would not be likely to secure as many advantages under any new arrangement satisfactory to this concern.

The Kidneys and Uric Acid

THE ALL-IMPORTANT WORK OF THESE FILTERS OF THE BLOOD AND HOW THEY MAY BE KEPT HEALTHY BY

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

When the whole vital process of digestion and assimilation of food is completed there still remains the work of removing from the blood the uric acids, salts and water, and this can be accomplished only by the kidneys. The failure of the kidneys to perform this work results on the whole digestive and filtering system, chokes up the liver, and by means of the circulation of the blood sends the poisonous waste matter through the entire body, giving rise to pains, derangements and disease.

Because of their direct action on the kidneys and their enlivening influence on the liver and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the most thoroughly effective treatment available for the cure of diseases of the kidneys.

Among the early indications of kidney disease may be mentioned:
Backache.
Fickle appetite.
Deposits in the urine.
Frequent desire to urinate, especially at night.
Rheumatism and sciatic pains, constipation and diarrhoea alternating.
Dropsical swelling.
Scanty, dark-coloured urine.
Persistent loss of flesh and weight.

Prompt relief is obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by persistent treatment the kidneys are restored to health and activity.

No medicine which acts on the kidneys alone can possibly prove effective, because in the great majority of cases the liver and bowels are also deranged. Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, they bring about satisfactory results in the most complicated cases.

By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills one pill a dose at bedtime, as often as is necessary to keep the bowels in regular, healthful action, you insure yourself against kidney disease and the consequent suffering from Bright's disease, dropsy, apoplexy, or other equally dreaded ailments. Convinced.

It is said that, although the celebrated advocate, Lord Erskine, was sometimes jocular and occasionally a little unfair in his treatment of witnesses, no man was better able than he to make them realize the foolishness or utter irrelevance of their replies without giving offense. At one time a witness obstinately refused to be sworn in the usual manner, but stated that, although he would not "kiss the book," he would "hold up his hand" and swear. Erskine asked him what reason he had for preferring such an eccentric way to the ordinary method.

"It is written in the book of Revelation," replied the obstinate man, "that the angel standing on the sea 'held up his hand.'"

"That is very true," said Erskine, with a smile, "but I can hardly see how that applies to your case. In the first place, you certainly are not an angel, and, in the second place, you cannot tell—you have no means of knowing—how the angel would have sworn if he had stood on dry ground as you do."

There was no flippancy or irreverence in Erskine's tone, and after a moment's reflection the stubborn witness yielded the point, impressed by the advocate's common sense view of the matter, and took the oath in the usual manner.

SPRING'S REVEILLE.

Fainter than a fairy horn
Over all the hills of morn,
Came the reveille,
And the sap, long sleeping, stirred
When the waking call it heard—
When the call that none may word
Came to shrub and tree.

Aye, the mystic trumpeting
Sought out every sleeping thing
Hid beneath the earth.
And the roots went fumbling out,
Strand by strand and sprout by sprout
Reaching, rambling roundabout,
To their newer birth.

Hidden leaves, all winter furled,
Felt themselves the least uncurled,
Knew the message deep
That full soon a summons keen
Would break them to living green,
Shaking, flaming in their sheen,
Springing from their sleep.

Roses, roses—all of them
Hidden in the slender stem,
Nestled in each bud,
Heard the call, and felt and knew
That ere long from them the dew
Should, as wine drips, show each hue
White, or gold, or blood.

Blow, O bugle of the spring!
Blow until each sleeping thing
Trembles from your art.
Blow, until full sweet and strong
Every measure of your song
Lives, and thrills, and echoes long
In the laughing heart.

GIVE YOUR BABY
Lactated Food
AND YOU WILL SOON NOTE A HAPPY CHANGE.

Many mothers upon perceiving that their little ones are not growing as healthy babies should, ask the question, "What shall we feed baby on?" We answer without hesitation "Lactated Food," the only nourishment perfectly adapted for infantile growth and expansion. Lactated Food is relished by every baby; it favours digestive strength, it prevents dysentery and diarrhoea, it enables the child to rest and sleep well and the mother is relieved of all care and anxiety. Lactated Food makes babies. All druggists recommend it.

No Chance to Kick.

"Gracious!" exclaimed the pretty girl as she returned to the parlor. "Papa says he has been sitting in one position so long waiting to see when you left that his foot has gone to sleep."

"Thank goodness!" breathed the late staying suitor. "Let us hope it is his right one."

The Balky Horse.

Nine times out of ten a balky horse is the result of a balky driver, declares an experienced horseman. Many high strung and nervous horses are completely ruined by bad management on the part of the one working them. If the attention of a balking horse can be diverted, half of the trouble is over, yet how few men will refrain from beating him at such times.

When a horse is inclined to be balky he should be put in charge of the best horseman about the place, and not driven by every one on the farm.

If he is inclined to stop, say "whoa!" sharply. Then he will not think he is stopping of his own free will. Get down and walk about him, lifting up one foot and then another; tapping them with a stone may answer in diverting his attention; pretend to fix his collar; perhaps his mane is under it and needs attention. There are many ways of diverting a horse's attention to make him forget his bad habits, like pouring a little water in his ears or rubbing sand in his mouth. Then, if you speak to the quiet horse alongside of him they may start off together, or they may not. In any event, keep cool. One scheme may work this time and may never work on the same horse again. The only alternative is to be ingenious, patient, long suffering, and kind until you find some other fellow that wants to take a hand at driving a balky horse.

How to Wash Fine Linen.

As to how fine linen should be washed and guarded a large linen manufacturer gives some excellent hints. He advises the best of washing soaps to begin with. Soaps full of alkali discolor linen. It is better to wring linen by hand or at least have the roller of the wringer fairly loose. Be sure that the rinsing process is thorough. A great improvement in doing up linen is this stock: Dissolve one ounce of gum arabic in half a pint of warm water, add one tablespoonful of the solution to a quart of water and wring out the linen in the mixture.

A Versatile Housemaid.

A clever housemaid employed by a family who took to motoring was told by her master that if she proved as good a chauffeur as she was a housemaid he would employ her to drive his car.

She took him at his word and learned motor mechanics, and now at a fine salary she combines the two posts. She is a capital driver, can do most repairs and after overhauling her car at the end of a day's run waits at the family dinner table.

CANADA'S RAILWAYS.

Great Development Has Taken Place Since Date of Confederation.

In 1861, six years before confederation, Canada possessed but 1,880 miles of railway, with a paid-up capital of $29,275,9[illegible]. Those lines carried 1,825,000 passengers handled 1,459,446 tons of freight and earned a net sum of $1,046,316, the aggregate earnings being $6,722,666. On June 30 last there were 20,661 miles of completed railway in the Dominion, an increase of 990 miles over the previous year, besides 2,622 miles of sidings. The paid-up capital amounted to $1,248,666,414, there were 25,288,722 passengers carried and the freight traffic was represented by 50,-693,957 tons. The gross earnings amounted to $106,467,199, and the net earnings to $26,489,625. Comparing the two periods it will be seen what enormous strides Canada has made in 44 years.

Twelve Months' Record.

Contrasting the last fiscal year with the preceding twelve months, the following gains are shown:—Paid-up capital, $62,119,496; gross earnings, $6,247,-768; working expenses, $5,414,413; net earnings, $833,351; passengers carried 1,647,994; freight traffic, 2,796,438 tons. Accident returns show a total of 469 persons killed, 35 being passengers 206 employes and 227 others, and in addition 1,857 injured, of whom 244 were passengers, 919 employes and 194 others. By train collisions and derailments 16 passengers, 81 employes and three others were killed, and 143 passengers, 181 employes and 9 others injured. In the work of coupling cars 27 employes were killed and 102 employes and one other injured, a total of 130, as against 178, 211, 241, 290 and 363 in the five preceding years respectively, a very satisfactory testimony to the efficiency and value of the automatic car coupler, now happily growing in general use.

Electric Railways.

The close of the last fiscal year witnessed the completion of 793 miles of electric railway. The paid-up capital amounted to $61,032,321, including $173,-000 of municipal aid. The gross earnings totalled $9,357,125, a gain of $903,-516, and the working expenses $5,918,-194 an increase of $591,677, leaving the net earnings at $3,438,931, a betterment of $311,839. There were 203,467,317 passengers and 510,350 tons of freight carried, being a gain of 23,777,819 persons and 110,189 tons respectively. Fifty-six persons were killed during the year, 30 being passengers, 3 employes and 23 others. The injured numbered 1,269, of whom 824 were passengers, 65 employes and 347 others.

Loss on Government Railways.

The net loss in operation of Government railways for the year was $1,855,-362. Mr. Butler, deputy minister, computes that a direct expenditure of not less than $250,000 was brought about by the unprecedented severity of the weather last winter. Furthermore, a cost of at least $140,000 resulted to the Intercolonial through the stalling for several months of 3,000 cars used for carrying hay to relieve the shortage of fodder in Prince Edward Island. Mr. Butler urges emphatically that some provision should be made for the recognition of long and faithful service in the case of men whose further employment on Government railways is considered undesirable. He also points out that the Railway Department is much undermanned, and suggests a reorganization and numerical increase the fixed staff, notwithstanding the rapid growth of the country during the last 21 years, having remained unchanged. He states that steps are in contemplation to secure annually more comprehensive returns from railway companies, containing details similar to those furnished by United States railway companies to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Most people of the younger generation will be surprised to learn that Canada had a Board of Railway Commissioners in 1860. It consisted of Hon. A. T. Galt, Minister of Finance, chairman; Hon. Joseph Cauchon, Commissioner of Public Works; Hon. Sydney Smith, Postmaster-General; Hon. Geo Sherwood, Receiver-General; J. G. Vansittart, secretary; Hon. H. H. Killaly and Mr. Samuel Keefer, Inspectors of Railways; A. de Grassi, Assistant Inspector.

Dean Swift Did Marry Stella.

The discovery of an unpublished letter in the library of Christ Church, Oxford, clears up the literary mystery of Dean Swift's relations with Stella. The letter was written by the Rev. Dr. Evans, Bishop of Meath, to Archbishop Wake, and is dated July 27, 1723. The Bishop writes:

"There was reported to be a promise of marriage between a young woman named Miss Van Omrig and the Dean. She designed to give him all her fortune, which was about £5,000, but on discovering that the Dean had already been married to Mrs. Johnson, daughter of Sir William Temple, she became indignant and made a new will."

The letter corroborates in detail the information as to Stella's announcement of the marriage and her wish that the correspondence with Dean Swift should be published, a request with which her executors refused to comply. Altogether the letter makes the evidence of Dean Swift's marriage too strong to resist.

The Traveler's Tree.

In the island of Jamaica there is a tree that is greatly admired by all visitors; hence its name—traveler's tree. It is similar to the palm tree, but in shape is like a fan. A curious feature of this tree is that its plume-like leaves sway and bend with the sun and the rain. In rainy weather the leaves bend almost to the ground, but in sunshine they raise themselves to their upright and more graceful position. The effect is very curious, for the leaves of this tree are immense. Any place of consequence in Jamaica has one or more of these specimens, but it is necessary to travel there for a sight of them, for they will not grow in any other climate.

Good Things to Know.

Don't hang skirts wrong side out when putting them away. They are bound to crease, and with light ones whatever dust has been collected by the lining and clung in spite of your brushing is bound to sift through to the right side and stick.

Blue linings for the bureau drawers or shirt waist boxes in which you store your prettiest blouses keep them more daintily white. Sleeve linings may take the form of tissue paper or of plain cotton stuffs, which are laid first in the drawer and folded over the pile of white clothes, or tufted pads, with some delicate, subtle perfume introduced into the cotton filling, fill the need in a fashion which is much prettier and cost but a trifle more.

White dresses, no matter of what material or what quality, invariably show a tendency to yellow, some even to darken, when laid or hung away. Bags of blue muslin or silesia—any inexpensive cotton stuff which is made of a color that doesn't "crock"—should be made big and loose enough to slip over a skirt or dress if it is one of the new princess styles.

Phillips Weekly Expenses $25.

Toronto, March 21.—A weekly expenses account of $25 paid to Joseph Phillips, ex-President of the York County Loan Co., was the chief subject at the Police Court yesterday. Mr. Phillips was not always out of town when the payments were made, and when he was away he put in vouchers for additional expenses. An adjournment was made until Thursday.

"His Ears Were Frozen."

One frosty morning a Gornal man called to his son to go and harness the donkey. As so happened that night, the door being left open, a young bullock had strayed into the stable and driven the donkey out. Johnnie, in his hurry, took no matches with him to provide a light and could not see the difference. Being a long time away, his father came after him to see what he was about, saying, "Johnnie, what are you doing?" Johnnie replied: "I can't get the collar over his head. His ears be frozen."—Birmingham (England) Post.

RAW BLEEDING SCALY ECZEMA

Locked More Like Piece of Raw Beef Than Human Being — Doctors Useless — Blessed Relief and First Real Sleep in Weeks After First Application; and

SPEEDY CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot, and looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. Blood and pus oozed from a great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body, and every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out with pain. My doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to end my frightful sufferings.

"My mother-in-law begged me to try Cuticura. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh, and brought me the first real sleep in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely, and took the Resolvent for the blood. Soon the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, my hair started to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. If any one doubts this, tell them to write to me.—Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Jan. 11, 1905."

Big Delivery Of Implements At Lakefield

Tuesday was "Massey-Harris Day" in Lakefield, the day on which Mr. W. Batten, the Company's energetic agent for that district, made his annual delivery of agricultural implements. The weather was anything but pleasant for the occasion, and on this account the usual procession was abandoned. Mr. Batten delivered over $2,000 worth of machinery to the farmers, all of whom spoke very highly of the manner in which they had been treated by the company through its popular agent. Every year the delivery assumes larger proportions, and Mr. Batten is rated as one of the company's most successful agents. Mr. Batten has served the company well and faithfully for fourteen years and the farmers have every confidence in him and the implements he sells. The company entertained their customers to dinner at the hotels, and the day passed off very successfully.—News.

SPECIAL LETTER ON NEW YORK FASHIONS

Special to The Examiner

New York, March 24.—April brings in a pile of sewing for the women who have children.

There is so much to be done that the easily discouraged ones think it probable that summer will see them still sewing away with little accomplished.

Warm days are more irksome to the small ones who have to wear their heavy clothing than to their elders because children are impatient and want at once what they can't get. To wait is to them the worst tragedy. That is one of the reasons they invariably have colds until the middle of July because they fling off heavy clothing at the first breath of spring.

This is to be a year of colours for children and I fancy most women are glad of it, for white certainly soils quicker than any colour no matter how faint it is. Then there is so much diversity in making frocks where trimming other than white lace is used.

Not that little children are to be dressed up in even pale pink or blue, that is children under 5 years old, but even they are allowed certain shades of cottons to wear in the house.

The prettier tones of galatea are immensely liked and have a wide use. Cream and dull blue, faint shades of old pink and dusty greens, are all to be made up in slips for house use. The modern child now has a decided change of clothing between the street and the house. The tiny youngster who crawls around the room should be provided with regular little bathing suits of gingham or demin which have bloomers attached to a shirt which is high-necked and long sleeved. These save the white frocks for the street or to wear when company is there.

They are not trimmed and are most simple to make.

For both boys and girls the straight slips are considered the best. they fit into the waist by an underarm seam and there is only half the fullness of other days. Even party frocks which usually have so much spring and flare below the waist now are often made with a straight up and down effect that is a direct return to methods of many years ago.

The material is put into narrow puffs that extend from neck to hem. These are carefully rolled and whipped and put together with lace. There are only two seams, those under the arms and the opening at the back. The hems are trimmed with a three-inch ruffle edged with lace and tucks. While these seem to be a far cry from the party frocks that the children of this generation have worn, they were common enough in the generation just gone.

A few mothers are beginning to make these in pastel colours but they should be kept to white or rather in that lovely shade of old yellow which has been revived to fashion this season. It can be obtained by dipping the white material in tea. Those mothers who prefer to put their children in the fluffy frock of tradition will use a single deep ruffle well tucked and edged with lace. This will be gathered to the waist, part by hand with streaked gathers.

The belts are quite a little above the waist line, in compliment to the universal Empire and Directoire effects that their mothers are wearing. Instead of the wide sashes tied in bows in the back, there are wide-folded belts of coloured silk, run through oblong buckles of kid or velvet to match. These are boned at the sides and back to keep them quite stiff.

It is not as popular to cut the frock off at the knees as it used to be. Until the child is 3 years old the skirt is quite long, as usual, but after that, instead of chopping at once to the knees, they are kept at about the line half between knee and shoe tops. This, with the wide-brimmed bonnet that is in fashion, gives a child quite a Kate Greenaway effect. It is probable that this style will come in again with force.

As for outdoor wraps, they are decidedly Directoire. And there is small chance of their being anything else. The coats are fascinating. They are in pale shades of grey as a rule, but the dull shades of green and dusty blue are also to be used. Preference is given to the gray above others, for it is more distinctive of the Directoire period. The coat is cut with a narrow belt under the arms and the skirt part is full and circular, quite long and finished with a deep hem.

It is cut with neatness at the waist line to give that requisite fit and smoothness which keeps the coat from being unbearably heavy. The upper part is plain and fastened to the neck. Over this severe body part is a shoulder drapery of three capes, cut circular also and either finished with a hem which is in keeping with the period or with a laid-over band of lace or braid. It is buttoned with quite large, flat buttons of smoked pearl or dull gilt. It is possible that the latter are more in keeping with the capes, but the latter are more in keeping with the child.

The sleeves are full and held in at the wrist with a wide turnover cuff of the material. There is a turnover collar of cloth faced with light of the same shade. The belt is of kid. With these coats they wear wide-brimmed hats of this felt, some in the Continental shape, with three short tips in front and wide strings from the sides. These are, when very fancy, of gray chiffon edged with narrow velvet ribbon. Evidently there is to be no end to the velvet used on everything this year.

These coats can be used for little boys and for girls of 10 to 15 years. They are exceedingly smart and are a decided change from what they have been wearing. This very fact is a gratifying one to mothers. They can be made of chiffon panama or chiffon serge, both of which are in style as new weaves and are woven in faint plaids of two or three tones of one colour.

For cloaks they are admirable. None of these wraps are lined with white as during last season.

If a child is quite young it is better to line with white, but when the youngster is old enough to wear plaids, which no child under eight should do, then the lining is of the dominant note of the plaid. This is also true of all coats for grown people. White linings went out, leaving not a spark.

China silk is a good choice for summer coats. The exceedingly thin weave should not be chosen for the heavy cloth outside will pull it to pieces or drag it out of shape.

Many home dressmakers have found American percale a good substitute for silk. There is a cotton back satin which wears even better than the finer qualities, but there is a certain harshness about it that takes away from the daintiness required of the inside of any properly made garment.

Little tots, by the way, are now wearing flowered things in their coats, which mothers may care to know, for not only is it such a pretty touch, but it offers a good chance to economize. Every one seems to have odd bits of floral silks, which might easily be pieced out to make a charming lining. If you want to be extravagant, as so often one can afford to be on the blessed's baby's best street garment, then get floral chiffon interlined with taffeta of china silk, the colours matching the bows on the parasol and the one on the lap-robe.

Have the cap lined to match and put a bow of floral ribbon on its top. The use of the Dresden ribbons has never been favoured until this year. But now, they seem to have everything their own way.

The weaves of thin cloths that have become so fashionable this year, give an excellent opportunity to make up little frocks for young girls that ride over the season in a better way than formerly, when we had to depend on genuine Suntnor goods to wear as soon as the early warm days arrived.

Everything seems to have been put through the chiffon process to judge by the names. Even the tweeds are softened to conform to the desire for fabrics without stiffening. All these weaves provide suitable cloths for the early Spring as well as the first as the first Autumn days.

If you are making school clothes get faint plaids and pin striped goods. Do not cut the skirts circular but with gores which are to be laid into pleats of all kinds. Children need skirts that do not sag and dip at the hems, for their skirts are decidedly short, and every unevenness shows in a marked degree. Steady the hem with a bias fold of the material from two to five inches wide, stitched only at the edges, for a great number of rows drag down the skirt and make it too heavy for comfort.

And, by the way, do not take a girl's age into consideration in choosing the length of her skirts by her height. A girl may be only 13 years, but several half inches over five feet tall, with thin ankles and she should not have skirts that put her at the worst advantage. They should be to her shoe tops.

What is uglier than the sight we see every day, of a child that would be rather attractive looking if well dressed, in a comical little frock that seems to be intended for her youngest sister? Too short, too long, too babyish. She is all feet and hands, self-conscious and ungainly. And, too often, she is merely a victim to a mother's desire to appear younger than she is.

Don't put gimpes with lower sleeves and berthas on an overgrown girl. This, too, simply adds to her awkwardness. Run her blouses up to the neck and finish with a wide turnover collar, with a full, loose bow of coloured ribbon.

Above all mistakes, don't make the one of putting separate lingerie or any kind of blouses on her. Under 16 years she should not wear skirts of cloth and waists of muslin without a coat. From the time she is 13 she can wear white cotton skirts and thin, white blouses in the summer, but until that age she should wear blouse suits of one fabric.

And while guarding against mistakes that take away from the grace of your child, avoid the ubiquitous coat suit until she is old enough to wear it. This time comes sooner to some girls than others, and it is always a question of height.

The New License Act Is A Bitter Disappointment

Rev. J. G. Potter, President Peterborough County Prohibitory Union, Tells Why It Does Not Meet the Temperance Peoples' Wishes—The High License a Retrograde Step—Local Option Tenderly Touched.

Rev. J. G. Potter, president of the county of Peterborough Prohibitory Union, in discussing the provisions of the liquor license bill, today, said:

"In view of the pronouncement made out to the late government, promising only on the ground of its refusal to carry out the will of the people, the present Government has certainly been left open to the graver charge of simply trifling with this great question. It is not a question of high or low licenses for the large body of the people of Ontario do not want to participate in the profits of this detestable traffic, for every cent of it is drawn from the agony, misery and soul of the unfortunate.

"It is no sign of progress to see a set of rulers building hope upon the magnificent income they will receive from the till of the saloon, as their share in the disaster of life and home and country. When there is a general and strong feeling in favor of the abolition of the treating system, and in addition a registered majority vote in favor of the banishing of the bar, together with the magnificent victories gained in the local option movement, and the system of reduction of licenses, the present government ought to act consistently with the confidence so lavishly reposed in it.

"We all want to stand by good government and therefore those who are longing to see our province rid of its greatest curse, cannot be blamed if they turned with much confidence to the new regime to make right what had apparently been neglected. In the city of Peterborough, at the present time is a very difficult thing to convict what are called the respectable houses of a violation of the act. (What would it be if the licenses were paying nearly double the present fee? The new act whereby a high license is placed on hotels, will mean the entrenching of the liquor traffic for many years, for the increased revenue to the province and the city would always stand in the way of any change therefrom. It simply paralyzes any effort that would be made to reduce liquor saloons of questionable character, for no commissioners will have the chance to use their moral power if it means cutting off $500 or $1000 from the government treasury.

"It has been admitted by dealers in liquors that if licenses were raised it would result in the adulteration of strong drink. If such adulteration was made with water, there would be no room to find fault, but everybody ought to know that the adulteration is with poisonous drugs that are death dealing in their use, and to in every conceivable way the proposed system would be retrograde and would create a condition of things that Ontario would not recover from during the next thirty years.

"If the present government is determined not to banish the bar, then let it continue to enforce the present laws, strengthen the hands of the license commissioners by compelling them to be free men—untrammelled by party influence; and then the municipalities can use moral suasion, or the theory of reduction to lessen the evil of intemperance, and to create a sentiment in favor of a sober country. With such an enormous income to province and city from the dreadful traffic, public sentiment will be in bondage to maintain in ten years, and we will have to fine for a new way to create public opinion. Meanwhile hundreds of thousands will spend their years out in wretchedness and misery, while disaster and ruin will be the portion of women and children."

The provision made in the act for selling liquor on railway trains and vessels, I consider highly objectionable and a most retrograde step."

Mr. Potter believes that the government is sincere in its determination to restrict the traffic, yet independent temperance people cannot hail with enthusiasm any legislation to perpetuate a system that they so forcefully demanded the last government to abolish.

Regarding the local option clause, Mr. Potter thinks it wise to have a strong vote in its favor, but believes the percentage named in the bill is too high.

BIG PRICE
—FOR PROPERTY—WAS PAID

Hon. Senator Cox Gets Sugar Company Property at $26,000.

At Rate of $787.37 an Acre---A Record Price Paid.

Some Brisk Bidding at The Judge's Chambers This Morning.

Seven hundred and fifty-seven dollars and fifty-seven cents an acre is the price which the Sugar Company property sold for this morning at the judge's chambers. There was the liveliest kind of a time there when the judge put the property up for sale, and the total amount received for it was $26,000, the purchaser being Hon. Senator Cox. If the shareholders and creditors had been there this morning their hearts would have been made glad by the brisk-head of the bidding and the evident anxiety to secure the property. The bidders were Messrs. Howden and Senator Cox, and when the latter secured it Mr. Howden gave him a run for his money and bid up to $23,750 before he stopped. As a final offer, the senator bid $25,000 and he got the property.

Those present when the judge considered the offer were Senator Cox, Messrs. W. G. Morrow, D. W. Dumble, R. G. Preen and Mr. Robertson, of the Carpet Company; A. P. Poussette, A. S. Dixon, A. E. Peck, J. J. Howden, R. E. Wood, Ald. Adams, Geo. Carton, W. A. McNamara, F. D. Kerr and a few others.

The judge stated that the terms of the sale would be 10 per cent. of the purchase price at the time of sale, and the balance by April 15.

Some discussion took place as to the best method of effecting the sale, Senator Cox suggesting that the better way would be to sell it by auction to-day, each of those who wanted the property to make their offers to the judge. He called for bids, and Mr. Peck, on behalf of the Messrs. Howden offered $18,100.

The bidding was brisk, Senator Cox making jumps of $1,000 at a time.

The offers were as follows:

Howden, $18,100.
Cox, $20,000.
Howden, $20,100.
Cox, $22,000.

At this point there was a lull in the bidding, and Mr. Poussette notified the judge that this offer from the Sugar Company of $22,500, $6,000 of which was in stock, was the highest, and that if it was sold at a price lower than that figure an injunction might be applied for to stop the sale.

The bidding was resumed and the offers were received as follows:

Howden, $22,100.
Cox, $22,600.
Howden, $22,700.
Cox, $22,800.
Howden, $23,100.
Cox, $23,200.
Howden, $23,300.
Cox, $23,500.
Howden, $23,550.
Cox, $23,600.
Howden, $23,650.
Cox, $23,700.
Howden, $23,750.

It looked as if the bidding was ended, and the Senator remarked that he considered a pretty fair figure had been reached, but as a last offer, said $25,000, at which price he obtained the property.

It is believed that at this figure it establishes a record price for farm land in the County of Peterborough. Senator Cox remarked after the sale that the property was worth $2,000 an acre, and the result will be that everyone who has property in that section will immediately jump the price of their land.

Arguments For Port Hope Route

The question of the Trent Canal and its outlet is a live question again now. The Board of Trade of Port Hope has issued a circular in which some arguments in favour of that route are given. In part the circular which is being circulated largely, says:—

Parliament is now about to decide whether the Trent Valley Canal will have its southern outlet at Port Hope or Trenton. Toronto, Hamilton and other cities and towns have advocated the Port Hope route by resolution.

After several years' discussion of outlets, public opinion has settled beyond argument that the Port Hope route:—

1.—Is much shorter and therefore quicker, alike in construction and navigation.

2.—Will cost less and be cheaper to operate.

3.—Is better adapted for the local traffic of the Canal, being nearer to the important centres, and whilst no farther to Montreal for grain and other traffic, it is much better situated for the western ports on Lake Ontario than Trenton.

4.—Is the only practicable route for a deep water outlet.

SODALITE
—IN QUANTITIES NEAR—BANCROFT

A Local Capitalist Interested in Large Company to Develop It.

Immense Wealth Said to Exist a Few Miles From This City.

Senator Sanford's Work Stopped by Untimely Death.

Local capitalists, it is understood, are interested in the prospective marble mining industry, which, it is confidently expected, will spring up around Bancroft. It is stated on good authority that prior to his death the late Senator Sanford had practically arranged a million dollar company in England to develop the industry, and that at least one local capitalist was to have been included in the Company.

Mr. C. J. Ritchie, of Akron, O., declares that a remarkable deposit of red, grey and blue granite has been discovered around the village of Bancroft, on the C.O.R. In addition to to these valuable building materials, extensive quantities of white marble, sodalite and other coloured stones of economic value exist. Mr. Ritchie opens across one vein of marble 1,200 feet by 400 feet. At present these valuable deposits are lying undeveloped on farm lands.

Already, however, Thomas Morrison, an Aberdeen man, has commenced working a sodalite mine near Bancroft, shipping his output entirely to England.

In discussing the value of the Bancroft granites, Mr. Morrison states that they vary in colour and texture, and are equal to some of the best Aberdeen red and gray granites, which are imported in the shape of monuments to Canada and the United States. "If two polished samples of the red granite," he continued, "were placed alongside the two Scotch granites, namely, Corrennie and Hill o' Fare, any practical mason would have to admit that for polish and colour the granites from Bancroft were equal to these Scotch granites."

This Bancroft granite can be delivered to Toronto in a rough block, he says, at $1.25 per cubic foot, and this is considerably less than the same variety of rough block costs at Aberdeen.

THE SOUTH WARD SCHOOL
—WHICH THE BOARD PROPOSES—
BUILDING UNDER CRITICISM

The High-Handed Action of the Board of Education and City Council is Condemned--Initial Expenditure of $35,000.00 Represents Payment of $75,000.00--A Re-consideration of the Question is Demanded--Mr. W. H. Moore Gives His Opinion.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—The astonishment of the public at the demand of the Board of Education for the sum of $35,000, for a site and new school for number One Ward, and the apparently complaisant conduct of the Council, has not yet, scarcely, found voice; but I believe I sufficiently know the feeling of the city on the subject to assure the Board, that if they proceed to expend nearly so large a sum as the above, for the purpose, they will receive the almost unanimous censure of the people.

School Board's Revenge.

This is nearly the same Board, which about a year ago asked for $100,000 for a Collegiate Institute, and, by a considerable majority, were denied one half of it. They now propose to have their revenge, it appears, by a line of action, in which they suppose they are outside the law, and supreme. If they proceed, they may rest assured they will have the erection of a Collegiate Institute relegated to the distant future.

Arbitrary Action.

No one disputes that a public school should be provided for the locality, but there is a great gulf here, which the Board refuses to recognize, between what is sufficient and what is uncalled for. Arbitrary conduct in any public body, will not be tolerated in this country. The members may go on for a while, until the people have an opportunity of expressing their opinion, at which date there is a moral certainty, the composition of the body will be instantly changed.

Council too Compliant.

Nor can there be too severe criticism of the Council, which had absolute and unqualified control in the premises and by signifying refusal to pass a bylaw demanded by the Board for $35,000, could have compelled and can still compel submission of the question to the ratepayers, as provided by the act of 1903, chapter 32, section five. It appears to me that the Council either misconceived their legal position, were intimidated by the Board, were wanting in courage, or recreant to the duty they owed to the ratepayers. At least it may be said that so sudden and extreme was the action of the Board and Council, they did not wait to allow their judgment to form, nor endeavour to ascertain the sense of the people in any public manner.

The Cost Counted.

Had they done so, they would have found, I believe, they were going wrong; and they would also have seen that they were creating a debt of $2,450 per year for sinking fund and interest for thirty years, the total amounting to $73,500, besides necessary salaries of teachers, etc., of at least $2,000 per year additional. Surely this would have given them pause and convinced them that so vast a sum should not have been voted away without the people's consent, and without knowing of the act until it was consummated. No one outside the Board ever thought they would ask for more than $20,000 for the school in question. The North Ward school is an example of a building quite equal to the demand for the South End, for the next fifteen or twenty years. The extra $15,000 intended to be expended will be a dead investment for this period, and will cost the city $1050 per year for thirty years, in all $31,500, for nothing, unless to gratify the hobby of the Board for erecting or attempting to erect, majestic edifices, or the ambition to surpass the Separate School Board.

Servants not Masters.

Finally, the Board should ever bear in mind that they are simply the servants of the people and that they should consult and reflect public opinion, and not wantonly, and openly, disregard and defy it, as they contemplate doing; and I would suggest that they now take the ratepayers, to whom they owe their office and who delivered to them a great trust, into their confidence, call a public meeting, and justify, if they can, what looks like most unwarrantable conduct on their part.

Or, better still, withdraw their demand and confess they made a mistake. The acknowledgement will be no disgrace, but rather an honour to their understanding." Then ask the Council to submit the matter to the electors, and the Board may depend on it, their decision, if unanswerable, will be responded to most readily.

BANWELL
—THIS MORNING GOT—
SENTENCE

Will Spend Four Years In The Kingston Penitentiary.

Mrs. Banwell Pleaded Guilty to Receiving Stolen Property.

Was Allowed Off on Suspended Sentence by The Judge.

Special to The Examiner.

Toronto, March 24.—Edwin St. George Banwell was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary by Judge Winchester this morning for the theft of $40,000 from the Crown Bank. His counsel, Mr. DuVernet, entered a plea for mercy on the ground of Banwell's youth, his small salary and the fact that he and his brother were supporting an aged and widowed mother, but the judge said an example was necessary. After Banwell had been sentenced and the court had adjourned, Mrs. Banwell appeared before the judge privately, pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property and was allowed out on suspended sentence.

Cold Storage Company Affairs

Heard in Court Before Judge Weller Yesterday Afternoon.

The affairs of the Peterborough Cold Storage and Provision Company were aired in court again yesterday afternoon, before His Honour Judge Weller. Mr. Middleton, the Secretary-Treasurer, was examined as to the transfer of stock made. The books of the company were put in as exhibits. Mr. Middleton told how the original directors had transferred all their stock with the exception of one share each. This had been kept because their solicitor had informed them that they could not retain their positions unless they owned some stock.

"You intended by paying $18.50 each," said His Honour, "to suspend the affairs of people paying a hundred times as much, that's a funny way of doing business."

Mr. Middleton said that the intention of the directors was to resign, but that the shareholders had refused to accept their resignations when tendered at a meeting.

The case of Mumford Wilson, of Garden Hill, was adjourned sine die, Mr. Wilson's interests were looked after by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

Peterboro' Team Produces 'Goods'

Toronto Saturday night this week makes some wise observations in reference to the game in Toronto on Saturday night, when the Peterborough team defeated the Marlboros. It says:—

"The hockey season in Toronto went out with a blaze of glory. Peterborough swept across our horizon like a comet or the Northern Lights, or any other celestial illuminations, and left a trail of sparks as well as amuses and digestions. The team is fully up to all the advance notices and spread-eagle advertisements that have issued from the banks of the Trent Canal since last December. Berlin has crowed even louder, but when called they did not, like Peterborough, produce the "goods", and raised a squeal when they found that championship matches did not observe the amenities of afternoon teas. Peterborough are made in a larger and more heroic mould. They play strenuously, not merely to win games, but because strenuousness is the very spice of their existence."

THE SUGAR
—COMPANY AND ITS—PROPERTY

Creditors and Shareholders Decide to Allow Judge to Sell It.

Three Offers Received at a Joint Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon

$15,000, $16,000 and $22,500, Latter Partly Stock, Were Offers.

Three propositions for the disposal of the Sugar Company's property were submitted to the shareholders and creditors at a meeting which developed some warmth yesterday afternoon in the County Council Chamber. Eventually it was decided that the whole matter should be submitted to the County Judge, who was authorized to dispose of the property as he considered in the best interests of the creditors—the shareholders were not given much consideration, because they will get nothing out of it in any event.

The meeting was called by the Judge to consider the offer made by Senator Cox, of $15,000 for the property. At the meeting yesterday two other offers were submitted, one of $16,000 from Messrs. W. G. and J. J. Howden, and another from the Trent Valley Sugar Company for $22,500, to be paid $16,500 in cash, and $6,000 in stock in the company.

The council chamber was crowded, nearly two hundred shareholders and creditors being present, and some spirited discussion took place, the particularly bright feature being passages at arms between the members of the legal profession, which was well represented. Mr. Dumble paid his compliments to Mr. Poussette, who represented the Trent Valley Sugar Company, which Mr. Dumble said, might, or might not be able to carry out the offer made, in answer to which Mr. Poussette advised Mr. Dumble to be careful what he said about the

Mr. Shannon has recently returned from a holiday trip in which he visited a number of American cities, where, of course, he sang the praises of Canada in general, and the districts in which he was born and in which he lives in particular.

He is enthusiastic over the future of the water power prospects of Campbellford. The town is preparing to submit a bylaw to raise $75,000 to erect a new dam and power house, where about 9,000 horse power will be developed. There will be a head of 27 feet and the volume of water passing over the dam will be considerably larger than at Peterborough.

A deputation will go to Ottawa next week and the Government will be asked to contribute $30,000 towards the cost of development.

After the power has been secured the first thing which the corporation will do will be to supply the demand for electric light, which at present exceeds the supply considerably. A proposal is also made to organize a company to construct an electric railway to connect with the C.P.R. at or near Havelock. Campbellford is feeling the necessity for railway competition and will take this means of securing it.

Mr. Shannon is confident that there is a great future for Campbellford, and the future success will be largely ascribable to the fact that [illegible] possesses such unlimited [illegible].

The Utica Globe of a recent date contains an excellent half-tone cut of Mr. Shannon, with a reference to his visit to the American cities.

Will Refer To American Ideas And Conditions

At both services at St. John's tomorrow, Rev. Canon Davidson will make reference to certain conditions and ideas of American life. His view of the fact that Rev. Mr. Davidson has just returned from a visit to St. Louis and Chicago, his remarks should be highly instructive and interesting.

THE CARPET FACTORY
—MR. PREEN INFORMS EXAMINER—
IS ASSURED TO CITY

The Sale of the Sugar Company Property To-day Means That This Industry Will be Located Here—Plans for Erection of the Buildings Will be Proceeded With—Senator Cox Will Get $5000 for Eight Acres With Buildings.

The Carpet Factory is now practically assured to the city. As a result of the sale this morning of the Sugar Property to Hon. Senator Cox, the negotiations proposed between the Carpet Company and the Senator, will be carried out.

This morning Mr. Preen, who is the Canadian representative of Messrs. Brinton, Ltd., informed the Examiner after the sale, that the Carpet Factory would be erected here. He would, he said proceed at once with the plans for the construction of the buildings which would be completed as quickly as possible. He appeared pleased at the turn which matters had taken by which the property was sold to Mr. Cox, because it meant that the arrangements by which the Carpet Factory would be located here could be carried out. The Company will pay Mr. Cox $5,000 for 8 acres with the building and in all probability the whole property will become annexed to the city with the arrangement that the rate of taxation for the whole property shall not exceed for a period of years the present Township Rate.

MOST MODERN ENGINE
—IN PASSENGER SERVICE ON—
HAVELOCK-TORONTO RUN

C. P. R. Will Shortly Place Powerful 215,000 Pounds Locomotives in Service From Toronto to Havelock—Will Handle 20 Per Cent. Heavier Trains and Will Run on Schedule Time—Improvement on Older Types of Engines.

The Pacific type of locomotive which the Canadian Pacific Railway is putting into service between Toronto and Havelock is similar in many respects to the big engines now in use in the United States for handling high speed passenger traffic. The weight of the engine without tender is 215,000 lbs. The constant increasing weight of trains has made it necessary to increase the boiler capacity of engines of the 10-wheel type which have been used in Canada for heavy passenger trains, and as a more powerful class of engine became necessary with increased grate area, the ten-wheel type was developed by the addition of a pair of trailing wheels to carry the fire box which is now known as the Pacific type. These engines will handle a twenty per cent. heavier train than the ten-wheel engines, and will make up time where the ten-wheeler will not. They will also enable a heavy train to be handled at a reasonable speed without fast running, as their power enables them to run up-hill considerably faster than the present engines, and this avoids the necessity of running fast down hill to keep on time.

INTERESTING EXPOSITION OF BROWNING'S "ABT VOGLER"

I have made it an invariable rule in the study of Browning to form my opinions independently before looking at explanation or criticism of any kind. The success I have met with has convinced me that the difficulties of his poetry have been greatly exaggerated, and that the student who approaches his works in the right spirit, though he may not be able to grasp all Browning's thoughts, will be richly rewarded for his efforts.

I am now making use of all the information within my reach, and, though I do not find that much new light is thrown on the poems, I have gained in ability to express myself clearly. It is very easy to give clear expression to the intellectual side of poetry, but, when we come to the spiritual, which is its chief province, it is much more difficult, and, in some cases, well nigh, or altogether, impossible.

This is especially true of Abt Vogler, and as I am more anxious that my readers, and especially the members of the Browning Class, should have a clear understanding of the poem than I am to distinguish myself for originality, I have decided, instead of using my own language, to copy, with slight changes, an article by Mrs. Turnbull, quoted by Corson, which expresses the leading thoughts much better than I ca nhope to express them.

After this explanation I do not think it necessary to make use of quotation marks.

BARTON EARLE.

Abt Vogler has been extemporizing on his instrument, pouring out through it all his feelings of yearning and aspiration, and now, waking from his state of absorption, excited, and trembling with excess of emotion, he breaks out into the wish, "Would it would tarry!" In stanza I. and II he compares the music he has made to a palace which Solomon (as legends relate) summoned all creatures, by the magic name on his ring, to raise for the princess he loved. So all the keys, joyfully submitting to the magic power of the master, combine to aid him, the low notes rushing in like demons to give him the base on which to build his airy structure; the high notes like angels throwing decoration of carving and tracery on pinnacle and flying buttress, till in stanza III. its outline, rising ever higher and higher, shows in the clouds like St. Peter's dome, illuminated and towering into the vasty sky; and it seems as if his soul, sweeping on the surging waves of music, had reached its highest elevation. But no. Influences from without, inexplicable, unconnected, join to enhance his own attempts; the heavens themselves seem to bow down and to reveal their inconceivable splendours on his amazed spirit, till the limitations of time and space are gone—there is no more near nor far."

In this strange fusion of near and far, of heaven and earth, presences hover, spirits of those long dead (or of those yet to be, lured by the power of music to return to life, or to begin it. Figures are dimly descried in the fervour and passion of music, even as of old in the glare and glow of the fiery furnace.

"What never had been was now; what was as it shall be anon;
And what is,—shall I say matched both? for I was made perfect too."

Stanzas IV. and V. are bold attempts to describe the indescribable, to shadow forth that strange state of clairvoyance when the soul shakes itself free from all external impression, which is true of all great composers—"Whether in the body or out of the body, I cannot say.

In stanza VI. we come to a comparison of music with the other arts. Poetry, painting, and sculpture deal with actual form, and the tangible realities of life. They are subject to laws, and we know how they are produced; can watch the painting grow beneath the artists touches, or the poem take shape line by line.

True it needs the soul of the artist to combine and interfuse the elements with which he wishes to create any true work of art, but music is almost entirely independent of earthly element in which to clothe and embody itself. It does not allow of a realistic conception, but without intermediate means is in a direct line from God, and enables us to comprehend that power which created all things, with whom to will and to do are one and the same.

These seven stanzas contain the music of the poem. In the remaining stanzas we pass to Browning's philosophy.

In stanza VIII. a sad thought of the banished music obtrudes—"Never to be again." So wrapt was he in the emotions evoked, he had no time to think o what tones called them up, and now all is past and gone. His magic palace has "melted into air, into thin air," and, "like the baseless fabric of a vision," only the memory of it is left. And, depressed by his saddest of human experiences, he turns away impatient from the promise of more and better, to demand from God the same—the very same. Browning with magnificent assurance answers,

"Yes, you shall have the same."
"Fool! all that is at all Last ever, past recall."
"Ay, what was shall be."

The ineffable name which built the palace of King Solomon, which builds houses not made with hands will satisfy their longings.

No other words in the English language compress into small compass such a body of high and inclusive thought as stanza IX. (1) God the sole changeless, to whom we turn with passionate desire as the one abiding place. (2) His power and love able and willing to satisfy the hearts of His creatures—

"Doubt that Thy power can fill the heart Thy power expands."

(3) Then the magnificent declaration, "There shall never be one lost good"—the eternal nature of goodness, while its opposite, evil, is a non-essential which shall one day pass away entirely, and be swallowed up of good.

Now follows an announcement, as by tongue of prophet or seer, that we shall at last find all our ideals complete in the mind of God.

The sorrow and pain and failure which we are all called upon to suffer here, are seen to be evidence of this great belief. Without the discords how should we learn to prize the harmony? Carried on the wings of music and high thought, we have ascended one of those Delectable Mountains—Pisgah peaks from which

"Our souls have sight of that immortal sea

and whence we can descry, however faintly, the land that is very far off to which we travel; and we would fain linger, nay abide on the mount, building there our tabernacles.

But it cannot be. That fine air is difficult to breathe long, and life, with its round of custom and duty, recalls us. So we decend with the musician, through varying harmonies and sliding modulations deadening the poignancy of the minor third in the more satisfying reassuring chord of the dominant ninth, which again finds its rest on the key-note—C major—the common chord, symbolising the common level of life.

Rev. J. Kirkman, of Queen's College Cambridge, says of Abt Vogler:—

"The spiritual transcendentalism of music, the inscrutable relation between the seen and the eternal, of which music alone unlocks the gate by inarticulate expression, has never had an articulate utterance from a poet before "Abt Vogler". This is of a higher order of composition, quite nobler, than the mere fretful rebellion against the earthly imposed here below upon earthly things, seen in "Master Hugues" (of Saxe-Gotha). In that and other places, I am not sure that persons of musical attainment, as distinguished from musical soul and sympathy, do not rather find a professional gratification at the technicalities than get conductedd to the law within the law. But in "Abt Vogler", the understanding is spell-bound, and carried on the wings of the emotions, as Ganymede in the soft down of the eagle, into the world of spirit.

"The beautiful utterances of Richter alone approach to the value of Browning's on music. Well does he deserve remembrance for the remark, that music is the only language incapable of expressing anything impure." They all (the poets quoted in the above omitted), comparatively speak from outside. Browning speaks from inside, as if an angel came to give all the hints we could receive.

"Of that imperial palace whence he came."

"He speaks of music as Dante does of Heaven, Hell, and Purgatory, because he has been there. Even the musical Milton, whose best line is "In linked sweetness, long drawn out", whose best special treatment of music is in the occasional poem, "At a solemn music," has given us nothing of the nature of "Abt Vogler". It should be perfectly learnt by heart; and it will be ever whispering analogies to the soul in daily life. Because, of course, the mystery of Him and the mystery of music make one of the most fundamental transcendental harmonies breathed into our being."

Annual Camp Re-union Held

An Enjoyable Evening Spent by Members of Y.M.C.A. Camp.

Some of the scenes of the memorable Y.M.C.A. boys' camp for 1905 were lived over again at the annual camp reunion held in the building last night. There was a good attendance of the members of the camp, a number of absentees expressing regrets.

In order to better recall the events of the camp a large tent was erected in the hall around which the boys gathered during the programme.

The camp roll was called, every boy responding in his camp name.

Musical selections were given by Messrs. Ho Agnew and Hall, and Tom Arnott, the cook, was on hand with phonograph, giving a number of enjoyable selections.

Readings were given by Max Dobbin, Geo. Martin and Wallace Armstrong. Camp cheers and calls were given and absent members duly honoured.

Then followed the camp dinner, which was a characteristic one, the bill-of-fare being a duplicate of one in camp.

After this each boy introduced himself by telling the number of camps he had attended. Each gave what he considered the best feature of the 1905 camp, and a suggestion for the camp of 1906. The gathering closed with "God Save the King."

THE SCIENCE OF LIVING

IS MAD RUSH THE WISEST WAY OF SPENDING OUR LIVES?

Telling Comparison Instituted Between Methods Which Obtain in England With Those in Evidence in Canada —Canadians Without Privacy—The Quick Change Feeder—How John Bull Wisely Mixes Pleasure With Business.

Writing in an English paper on the science of living in Canada as compared with England, J. D. F. says:

If there is one thing a Canadian visiting England has vividly impressed upon him, it is what he styles the science of living in the old land.

In Canada one encounters perhaps less formalism and red tape, there is a glorious freshness and optimism about everything; you admire the breezy phrase and the wonderful "go-aheadiveness," if I may be allowed the word. But when Johnnie Canuck gets home you will hear him end his glowing talk about Canada "knocking the spots off England" with the remark, "All the same, they have life down to a science in the old country, and when I've made my pile that's where I'm going to live."

It isn't hard to see why this English "science of living" is so attractive to the Canadian. Homes as artistic and even more comfortable than those of England abound in every Canadian town, but the sheltered garden, no matter how small, to which the Englishman retires to rest his jaded nerves and escape from the eyes of a too prying world, is almost as rare in Canada as a Kohinoor diamond.

Canada Frowns on Privacy.

Canadian public opinion frowns down on privacy.

"If you have a pretty bit of garden, why not let the public have the benefit of it?" is the remark you will hear on all sides. If you persist with your hedge or wall you will be taunted with exclusiveness, and it will hurt you in your business. So far is this war against privacy carried that in the majority of gardens even an iron railing six inches high is not to be met with, and the finest velvet lawn lies defenceless in sheer exposure to the street.

Then, take the telephone. As soon as you return to Canada you hear how far ahead it is of the mother land in the use of telephones. The telephone there is certainly everywhere. The man getting hardly £150 a year will have it in his house, but, with all its convenience, it becomes a nuisance when the woman who lives in the shanty across the road insists upon using it, and you hate to be unneighborly enough to be refusing it all the time.

If there is one thing which the Canadian enjoys in his English trip it is the leisurely way the Englishman eats his dinner. In Canada, driven by the electrically charged climate, the meals, and especially the midday one, are eaten with wolfish haste. Indigestion, of course, abounds, and the doctors and the patent medicine men get rich upon it.

As an illustration, I happened to be the other day in a friend's office at the lunch hour. He is accounted a prosperous man on the Stock Exchange, and quite comfortably situated financially.

"Come out and have lunch with me," he said.

I agreed, and, taking the lift, we dropped four storeys, ran across the street, took another lift upstairs, and found ourselves finally in a lunch room full of well-dressed men and uniformed attendats.

The Quick Change Feeder.

My friend ordered soup, fish, lamb and apple tart for both of us. Well, I had just got nicely into my fish as my friend was devouring the last spoonful of his tart. Seeing his hurry, and imagining that he had some big financial scheme tormenting him, I remarked that I wasn't hungry, and with a laugh at my small appetite we rose from our seats. Again we took the lift, rushed across the street, up the lift on the other side, and back into the office. Glancing at the clock I saw that, meal and all, we had been away exactly 15 minutes.

"You'll be busy now, old man," I said, "and I'm off."

"Not at all," was the reply. "I always allow myself a clear hour at lunch time," and, handing me a cigar, he tilted back his chair, and with his feet upon his desk, we talked on all the topics of the day for three-quarters of an hour longer.

Another novelty to the insular Englishman is the unshackled freedom of the press. The Canadian editor is as wide awake as the Yankee journalist, and as a rule far better informed on all world matters. He is ably backed up by a large staff of well-educated, tireless and hawk-eyed reporters, who have the entrance into every home, no matter at what hour of the day or night.

About the second day of my arrival I was stopping with a friend of mine whose father was quite ill with influenza. About 2 o'clock in the morning we were rudely awakened by a violent tugging at the door bell. Outside were two young reporters. They said that a local politician had died an hour before, and learning that my friend's father had been at school with him, the editor had sent them up to interview him. My friend said that his father was down with a bad attack of influenza, and at his age of 75 he didn't like to disturb him.

The reporters, however, were not to be shaken off, and were accordingly admitted. In a few minutes the old gentleman shuffled into the room in slippers and dressing gown, and, having ordered whiskey and cake for his persecutors, gave them the information their hearts wanted.

John Bull's Greater Wisdom.

Where is the Canadian who isn't in love with the way the Englishman mixes pleasure with his daily business? His easy mock at John Bull's all-pervasiveness the first month he arrives, but then the question forces itself to his mind whether the mad rush he is accustomed to at home is really, after all, the wisest way of spending the only visit he will ever make to this glorious planet.

The general absence of labour in Canadian life as a consequence results in a craving hunger for some form of meteor-like excitement, whatever the cost may be. The telling washerwoman as an antidote to her hard life leaves all her wages to buy a bicycle on the instalment plan and the hotter selling on some tenant belly in Grosvia, lugs him away on a steamboat excursion at the seaside. I once saw a woman who lived in a shanty, axe in hand, in her yard, chopping the woodwork off a wire mattress to get fuel for her dinner. An hour later, in a fine tailor-made blue serge suit, she was spinning along the city streets upon her up-to-date bicycle. The mattress had to be sacrificed in order to keep down the coal bill and make a presentable appearance in the public thoroughfares.

Canadians believe that there is a magnificent destiny before their country. There is plenty of justification for this view. For a short time some luxuries will be wanting, but there are so many grand compensations that these temporary drawbacks sink quite into the background.

TENTS FOR PATIENTS.

Treatment of Consumption in Perth County—Mr. Herald's Report.

The report presented at the recent meeting of the Perth County Council by Mr. Herald of Tavistock, chairman of the Committee on the Prevention and Cure of Consumption, deserves more than passing notice. The County of Perth was one of four counties grouped together to consider the wisdom of establishing and conducting a sanitarium for the cure of patients within the group. Mr. Herald reported against the proposal, because he said to be successful a sanitarium must be conducted on the latest and most scientific methods, with specialists and trained nurses in attendance and general surroundings of the very best. The expenses necessarily would be enormous—out of all proportion, he thought, to the revenue from the somewhat small population of a small group of counties. He therefore looked for a substitutional course for his county, and he found it in the use by patients of tuberculosis tents. He reported favorably on the work accomplished by the sanitoria at Gravenhurst, but the disposition and temperament of patients varied so that even Gravenhurst fell short in accomplishing all that was desired in many cases. The Perth county grant to these institutions had never been reciprocated by any one from the county, and this indicated that many would suffer till the end came, rather than enter as a free patient, and the expense to many was prohibitive. Again he realised that, with the young especially, home sickness, depression, and the constant sight of others in all degrees of illness materially undid the undoubted good these sanitoria accomplished and in some cases turned the scale the other way. His proposal was then, that the County of Perth should buy and fit up tents, such as had already proved so successful in Stratford; that these tents should be rented at a nominal figure to applicants on the certificate of the county physician, and thereafter should be under the control of the local health officer. The advantage of this treatment, as noticeable in Stratford, was, he said, that the tent being in the back yard or lawn or elsewhere, adjoining the home, the patient still had fresh air and never lost the happiness of home.

RARE CANADIAN STAMPS SOLD.

Sold in New York City at Fairly Fancy Prices.

The New York Times of Feb. 24 says: The two rarest postage stamps of Canada were sold last evening when the collection of Hiram E. Deats, formerly president American Philatelic Association was disposed of. One of these was the twelve pence black adhesive stamp of Canada having a portrait of Queen Victoria, and issued in 1852. It sold for $102 to John A. Klemann.

The other was the five-cent Connell stamp of New Brunswick. This is one of the most interesting of stamps.

Charles Connell was the Postmaster-General of New Brunswick in 1860 and on May 15 he issued this stamp, which bears his own portrait, while the ten-cent stamp and the seventeen-cent stamp of the same issue had respectively, the portrait of Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII.

On account of the five-cent stamp being adorned with Connell's portrait, the Government disapproved of it and ordered it to be destroyed. A few of the Connell stamps escaped destruction.

There were two specimens of this stamp in the sale. One was an unused mended copy, with a few of the perforations out close. It sold for $38. The other was a cancelled copy, in good condition. It fetched $118.

Influence of Architecture.

The character of the people will reflect the character of public buildings, says The Standard of Montreal. This might not seem obvious at the first glance, but moral character is affected by material objects. If a city be noble in its public architecture, a fine spirit of citizenship will be set up in the general breast. There may still be the corner policeman, and the jail may not be dispensed with; but in such a city, crime will be infrequent, while the outlook upon life will be wholesome, cheerful, and exalted. On the contrary, a low or ignoble physical environment inevitably makes for mean and narrow thoughts, for an impoverished, even brutal conception of life and conduct, and for irregularity and disorder of individual life in the community.

Tongue Twisters.

Some elocutionist has made a collection of more than two hundred "tongue twisters":

"A glowing gleam glowing green."

"The bleak breeze blighted the bright broom blossoms."

"Flesh of freshly dried flying fish."

"Two toads tried to trot to Tedbury."

"Give Grimes Jim's great gilt gig whip."

"Strict, strong Stephen Stringer smeared sickly six sickly silky snakes."

She stood at the door of Mrs. Smith's confectionery shop welcoming him in."

The first three are the gems of the collection. It is said to be impossible for anyone to repeat them rapidly.

An interesting discovery was made at Beaver Hills, Saskatchewan. It consists of a rectangular limestone, 8 by 11-2 feet and about 6 inches thick, and was found on top of the highest hill in the range, almost burying its entire breadth in solid soil. On one side was chiselled an image much like that of the Aztec sun god. The reverse side shows a representation of the setting sun. On the top edge is a figure, as weather-beaten as to be indistinguishable.

KING'S SECOND COUSIN.

Count Albert Victor Gleichen Now Attached in Military Capacity to U. S. Embassy at Washington.

Count Albert Victor Gleichen, who is attached in a military capacity to the British embassy at Washington, is, in spite of his German name and title, an English soldier and in every sense of the word a Briton. He is no stranger to this country, writes the Marquise de Fontenoy, which he visited about sixteen years ago, and on his return home published an article relating his American experiences and which appeared in Murray's Magazine, attracting a good deal of attention on this side of the Atlantic, owing to the fact that he had been imprudent enough to mingle with his praise some criticisms which were not altogether well received here. He is, however, a gallant soldier, one of the most popular men in the English army, alike with his fellow officers and with the rank and file, and besides that an extremely accomplished man, who paints, sketches, plays, and sings, as well as he writes. He is the author of several successful books, one of the most interesting of which is a record of his experiances as a member of Sir Rennell Rodd's mission to the Negus of Abyssinia.

Besides being the godson of King Edward and one of his equerries, Count Gleichen is his cousin. For his father, the late Prince Victor Hohenlohe, who, as Count Gleichen, rose to the rank of admiral in the English navy and distinguished himself in the Crimean war, was a favorite nephew of Queen Victoria, being a son of her half sister. Prince Victor Hohenlohe, on marrying Miss Laura Seymour, assumed the title of Count Gleichen, which belonged to his family, and abdicated his rights and prerogatives as scion of one of the mediatised or formerly reigning houses of Europe, descending to the rank of a mere noble. Otherwise he would have been compelled to marry Miss Seymour morganatically. Prince Victor's sister was the mother of the present German Empress, and Count Gleichen is, therefore, first cousin of her German majesty. Thanks to this, he has enjoyed an exceptionally privileged position at the Kaiser's court and in Berlin society, while acting as military attache of the British embassy there. His mother now bears the title of Princess Victor Hohenlohe by virtue of an order of Queen Victoria, though it is not recognized on the continent. One of his sisters, Countess Feodora Gleichen, has achieved no little fame both as a painter and as a sculptress, having won prizes both at the Royal Academy and the Paris salon, while another sister, Countess Valda, who possesses a magnificent voice, married a few weeks ago M. Machell, under secretary of state in the department of finance of the Egyptian Government, and a son of the famous sportsman, Capt. Machell.

Count Gleichen, who holds the rank of lieutenant-colonel in the Grenadier Guards, and who is covered with decorations, is a bachelor, far from rich, and there are no restrictions in the way of his marrying anybody he chooses. His wife will become through her union to him a first cousin of the Kaiser and of King Edward, a German countess, and the helpmate of a charming and accomplished man, who is generally known among his friends by the nickname of "Glick."

I may add that he has seen a good deal of active service, having taken part in most of the Egyptian campaigns, is a graduate of the staff college, has been attached to special missions in Morocco, a country about which he has written, and was so badly wounded in the last war in South Africa that he was reported as dead; in fact, his recovery were little short of miraculous.

How tactful he is is best shown by the manner in which he has managed to retain until now the affection and good will of his two kinsmen, the Kaiser and King Edward.

King Edward's Oldest Subject.

"Grandfather" McNally, King Edward's oldest subject, who lives at the Home for the Aged, London, maintained by the Little Sisters of the Poor, has entered his 116th year.

For fourteen years the Sisters, whose only funds are the alms they beg from door to door, have cared for the old man. It is twenty-eight years since he returned from the United States, and while he was there he buried his wife, whom he married in Ireland when she was a girl and he was a lad of eighteen.

"It is thirty years since she died, and she was eighty then.

"Yes, I have lived a very long while," he said to a visitor. "It is because I have always led a steady life. I was never the worse for drink in my life. I never ate too much. I never believed in ruining my stomach with too much drink or food. Aye, I am happy. I sleep well and enjoy my 'vittles.'"

TO SAVE FARM WOODLANDS.

There are some things in which the Examiner can commend the Government side of the Provincial Legislature, and of these the bill of Mr. Joseph Downey, of South Wellington, is worthy of special approval. This bill is in the form of an amendment to the eternally amended Municipal Act, and provides for the exemption from taxation of farm wood lots — an application to individual farms of the principle adopted by the Liberal Government, of creating and maintaining forest reserves. The weak point of the bill seems to be that its provisions are permissive — dependent upon the caprice of township councils, who very often are difficult to bring into sympathy with a progressive measure of this kind. When we see, as we can see in this very county, examples of the indifference of township councils, who, for the paltry price of a few dollars, will sell timber on highways, thus sacrificing magnificent clumps and lines of trees representing half a century of growth, and collectively an incalculable feature of beauty in the landscape — when township councils thus wantonly destroy tree growth, that money cannot replace, we cannot expect them to very readily bring into force a by-law under Mr. Downey's bill, should it become law. The bill should be made absolute, not permissive, and we shall reap the maximum of benefit only under the general adoption of such a bill.

The bill authorizes councils, on a two-thirds vote, to exempt from all rates, including school tax, an acre in ten, but not more than 52 acres, under one ownership. Wood lots must contain not less than 400 trees to the acre of pine, spruce, hemlock, oak, ash, elm, hickory, cherry, walnut, maple, tamarac, butternut, chestnut, black locust or catalpa, and must be specially set apart and not used for grazing. The last condition is the most important. The life of a tree plantation depends upon the fostering of the young growth. There is no such a thing in reality as the original forest. In what we call original forest, for ages trees have matured, fallen and decayed, to be replaced by younger trees that have sprung from seeds, and are permitted to grow unmolested, so that there was always a succession of mature trees, mingled with maturing trees. If these natural conditions and processes are permitted to exist, and be carried on on farm, wood lots—if only matured wood, that is wood that has ceased growing, and begun to decay, is removed, that wood lot will last a thousand years.

Not only for fuel and shelter purposes, but for climatic purposes, the ends sought by the bill should be encouraged. Our climate has changed, our farms are less well watered; fertility has decreased, and conditions unfavourable to good crops have been created by the destruction of our forest growth. The steady rainfall of former years has given place to violent storms of pounding rain, which wash away and leach out the soil, instead of being steadily absorbed. There are no more forest reservoirs to hold back the water, permitting it to be absorbed to feed springs, or to flow out quietly, and feed our brooks and streams. When wells fail, and farmers have no water for their stock, the farmers can put the blame upon the axe which chopped down the forest. Only when the farmer realizes the destructive influences which destruction of the forest growth has set in motion, will he realize the importance of preserving every plot of existing woodland, and of increasing it by tree-planting. The bill of Mr. Downey, of Guelph, is a move in the right direction, and it is to be hoped that it will become law, and be put into force, a circumstance which will be an untold benefit to the province at large.

In proof of the injury wrought in this regard of forest denudation, the Chief of the Washington Weather Bureau, in a bulletin, says: — "Streams are diminishing, or non-existing in summer, solely through the destruction of forests, which do not conserve the snowfall in winter and the rainfall in summer, and permit the precipitation to flow away gradually."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

As one of the evidences of material progress in Canada, it is interesting to note, says the Brantford Expositor, that last year nearly three miles of railway was constructed every day. Truly this is Canada's growing time!

The German Empire, acording to the census taken on December 1, has a population of 60,605,000. This showed an increase of four and a quarter millions since 1900. There is some excuse for the way the Kaiser asserts himself at times. He speaks for the second largest nation on the European continent, and decidedly the most progressive one.

An Excursion To British Isles

Correspondent Wants to Know If There Will Be One.

Editor Post Card Column:

There is a rumour going around lately that there is an excursion going to the 3 British Isles in the month of June for the sum of 25 dollars return fare and when the people land at the other side they get a railroad ticket free to their destination. Now, I would be thankful if you could find out if this is true as a great many people would like to know. Hoping you will permit this I will sign myself,

ONE DEEPLY INTERESTED.

The Examiner, on inquiring at all the city railway and steamer agencies, can learn nothing of the excursion referred to. Perhaps some reader will be able to inform the inquirer.

BASIS OF AN IDEA

Perfecting the New System of Tailoring, and its Advantages.

"Finished to measure in two hours," is the Semi-ready idea; and while there have been many imitators of their tailoring methods, no one has yet grasped the fundamental principle of the system which gives a gentleman the chance to see just how a good suit of clothes will look before he buys them. Semi-ready garments are never made from cheap cloths. There is the same skilled labour in a $15 Semi-ready suit as there is in their $25 and $30 suits; but who ever heard of a $30 Ready-to-wear Suit before Semi-ready taught men that there was more style and good work in their $30 suits than any high-class custom tailor could reproduce for $40.

Makers of Canada Praised in England

A great advance is gained when the London Thunderer refers thus approvingly of Canada and Canadian work: The Times says:—"A very handsome series of historical biographies of the Makers of Canada, is published by Morang & Co. When the twenty volumes prescribed are brought to a conclusion, the reader will be furnished with a survey of Canadian history passing from the early romantic period, when French nobles in brocade and high heels picnicked out amid rapids and pine forests peopled by wild Iroquois and coureurs de bois, down to the comparatively prosaic period of Confederation and modern colonial expansion."

The Deputation Will Probably Be 300

The Finance Committee of the City Council met last night, and considered a number of matters, mainly those in connection with the Trent Canal deputation to Ottawa. Nothing of any special importance was done, however.

Ald. Mason, speaking of the prospects for a large deputation next week to go to Ottawa, was hopeful that it would be a large one. He expected that at least three hundred persons would go to the capital to urge the completion of the canal. He had received assurances from nearly all the towns and cities along the line of the canal, that they would be represented, and next Thursday, when the deputation gathers at the Parliament Buildings, it is expected that there will be at least 300 of them.

To-morrow's Visit Of The Bishop Of Selkirk

Rev. J. J. Wright, who, during his stay in the far-north Yukon, came into personal contact through missionary associations with Right Rev. Bishop Stringer, the newly-elected Bishop of Selkirk, who speaks in St. Luke's to-morrow and in All Saints' on Monday evening, informs The Examiner that for 10 years, at the call of his church, he occupied Herschell Island in the Arctic, one of the loneliest outposts in the Empire—since that time doing splendid service in the Yukon. His own church has shown the esteem in which he is held by the honour it has given him, and Rev. Mr. Wright expresses the hope that St. Luke's will have large gatherings to-morrow, and on Monday evening at All Saints' to hear a simple story of fascinating interest and also to show our city's desire to give fitting welcome to a faithful Christian worker.

Hotel Rates For The Canal Deputation

Mr. D. Hughes Charles and Mr. K. Eardley-Wilmot returned this morning from Ottawa, where they went to make arrangements for the visit of the deputation next week in connection with the Trent Canal. They learned that the rates in the leading hotels are:

Russell House, $2 and $3 a day.
Windsor, $2 to $2.50.
Gilmour, $2.
Grand Union, $2.
Brunswick, $1.50.

The hotels are arranging for special accommodation for visitors to remain over night.

These gentlemen also arranged for a special street car service to meet the deputation on the arrival of the special train, as well as for when the party leaves on Thursday night. Mr. Charles also expects the deputation will number in the neighbourhood of 300 persons.

company, and the latter replied that he did not need to be very careful of anything he might say concerning any company which Mr. Poussette was at the head of.

Three motions and amendments were made, the first by Mr. Wood, to the effect that the different offers be submitted to the Judge, and that the whole matter of the disposition of the property be left with him to deal with. An amendment by Mr. Graham Weir that the liquidators be instructed to sell the property at public auction, and another amendment by Mr. Poussette, which declared that none of the offers made were considered satisfactory, but that the Judge, if he thought advisable, could sell to the Carpet Company eight acres and the building for $5,000, the price agreed upon between the company and Mr. Cox, and retain for the shareholders the remaining 25 acres. The last two were voted down, both by the shareholders and the creditors, the votes of which were taken separately.

Ald. Adams, liquidator, presided over the meeting, and explained the circumstances which led to the meeting being called. Mr. R. H. Wood, as solicitor for the liquidators and as representing one of the largest creditors, was the first to address the meeting, and advised accepting the offer of Senator Cox, as against that of the Trent Valley Sugar Company. Mr. Wood gave a history of the different stages through which the affairs of the company had passed during the last year.

Mr. E. A. Peck agreed that it was desirable to sell the property as soon as possible but thought that the highest price possible should be obtained, and on behalf of Messrs. J. J. and W. G. Hewden offered $16,000 cash for it.

Mr. A. P. Poussette spoke in the interests of the Trent Valley Sugar Company, which, he said, was prepared to carry out its offer, and further said that it would make the same offer to the Carpet Company which Mr. Cox had made. He pointed out that the claims against the company were nearly $14,000, and if the offer of $15,000 was accepted there would be but $1000 to divide among the shareholders, which would give them about five cents on the dollar.

Mr. Dumble explained that the offer of Mr. Cox was made merely to secure the carpet factory for the city, and was not for the purpose of speculating with it. He thought the price was a good one, and defied anyone to say that ordinarily the land was worth more than $250 per acre.

Mr. Graham Weir, a shareholder, addressed the meeting and suggested that a higher price than any of the offers could be secured. He offered to be one of ten to pay $2000 each for the property. He advised selling it by auction and was supported in his view by Mr. Joshua Smitheon.

Mr. G. W. Bennett suggested that if this land were so valuable it would be a good idea for the creditors to give the Carpet Company the eight acres for $5,000 and keep the other 25 acres for themselves; and eventually Mr. Poussette introduced a motion to this effect. He later agreed for the Trent Valley Sugar Company to take the remaining 25 acres for $17,500, $5,000 of which was to be in stock; allowing the company to sell eight acres to the Carpet Company.

On the vote being taken Mr. Wood's motion to turn the whole matter over to the judge to deal with was carried and the meeting adjourned.

Carpet Factory Now Assured For Peterboro'

Council Will Likely Meet on Monday Night to Complete Arrangements.

Ald. McWilliams, chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, when seen by the Examiner this afternoon said that the purchase of the Sugar Company's land this morning meant that the carpet factory would come to Peterborough. A meeting of the council will in all probability be called for Monday night, when the details of the agreement will be completed. Ald. McWilliams stated that there was no doubt but that the council would abide by the agreement made with the Carpet Company. In order to annex the land an order-in-council would have to be passed but he did not anticipate any difficulty on that score as the same privilege has recently been granted city of Hamilton and Peterborough's request could not very reasonably be refused.

Rapid Sales At To-days Market

Eggs and Pork Were Again the Prominent Articles.

The sales at this morning's market were the most brisk of the season. The large quantities of produce which arrived in from the country were rapidly bought up, and within a few hours the market was almost vacated. Once more a number of sleighs were in evidence, and probably on account of this the market was well attended.

The feature of the upstairs market was the large quantity of eggs and these were rapidly disposed of at 15 cents per dozen. The present prospects indicate another decline, in price not far distant. Butter still remains at the firm price of 25 cents per pound. Chickens have taken a rise and were offered to-day at $1.10 to $1.20 per pair, and many were glad to get them at that. A goose was offered for 75 cents; other fowl was not in evidence.

Pork again was the prominent article for sale on the outside market and was quickly disposed of at 10 and 11 cents for fore and hind-quarters respectively. Only one or two loads of beef were noticeable, selling at 5 and 6 1-2 cents per front and hind-quarters.

Timothy hay, of which there is a steady decrease in quantity was offered at $10 per ton.

Vegetables are getting scarce, and that part of the market was cleared up in a very short time. Russet apples sold at 90 cents, Greenings at $1.25 and Spies at $1.50.

Mr. Jas. Brown, the genial toll collector, gives up his duties next Saturday, and many fond good-byes were given before his departure.

The Gymnasium Demonstration A Decided Success

Some Clever Work Done at Open Meeting in Y.W.C.A.—Large Audience Was Present—Miss Adams a Skilful Trainer—Much Progress Made Since Last Performance—Recitations and Solos Enjoyed.

A BOUQUET FOR THE DIRECTORESS

Those who were fortunate in attending the gymnasium demonstration at the Young Women's Christian Association building last night witnessed some clever and artistic performances. It was the second of the open meetings to spectators since the classes began, and the improvement which the young ladies have made since the first of the series in December last must be exceedingly encouraging to the skilful young directress, Miss H. Adams.

The agility and grace which characterized each manoeuvre, both individually and as a whole, was the source of much favourable comment among the spectators. They, by their spirited applause throughout the unique demonstration, displayed a universal approbation and enjoyment of every movement.

Many of the costumes were of a most intricate character, yet the ease and gracefulness with which they were executed by the light-footed ladies were astonishing to even the military men among the audience.

The gallery erected for the occasion was filled by an interested audience long before the time for the introduction of the evening's programme. Extra seats were brought in from other parts of the building and these also were readily taken possession of by others who evidently anticipated the delightful nature of the event.

The honours for presenting such an artistic programme belong to Miss Adams, the directress, who clearly showed the enjoyment she felt in the successful issue of the demonstration. Her untiring efforts in perfecting the class in their physical manoeuvres are indeed commendable. Last night she acted the role of commander of the 36 young ladies, and the thoroughness of the training they have received was very conspicuous. As a token of the appreciation with which she is held she was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red roses by the graceful little Miss Dorothy Hill. This was probably the most appreciated incident of the evening.

The marching of the young ladies was a feature. The apparent difficult movements did not present the least embarrassment to them and almost all the letters of the alphabet were formed on the march with unconscious ease. Miss Stephens presided at the piano and performed the important role of accompanist most acceptably. The calisthenics were equally as enjoyable and were executed with the greatest precision.

Miss Mary Rush was present and her two solos were as usual thoroughly appreciated.

The work of the lady acrobats on the Swedish wall bars is worthy of more than a passing consideration, particularly the mid-air suspension with the body inverted.

Miss Sylvia Adams gave a clever exhibition of club swinging which elicited frequent applause during the performance.

The talented young elocutionist, Miss Heath, of the Conservatory of Music, gave two humourous recitations, "Seeing Things at Night," and for an encore, "The Boot-blank," which immediately captured the audience.

The bean bag and club game was a strenuous one, the girls being so well trained that not even one of the spectators was injured by a careless shot.

The work on the parallel bars was also of a very interesting nature and a good demonstration of the strength of the participants.

At the conclusion of the demonstration three cheers were proposed by Col. E. B. Edwards for Miss Adams and her class, and these were heartily given.

A demonstration of a similar, but of a more thorough nature, will be given by all the classes in the opera house on May 1, and undoubtedly will be one of the special attractions of the season.

Visiting Team Were Entertained

The members of the Varsity hockey team which played here last night were very pleasantly entertained after the game at a supper at McCallum's, by the Peterborough Club. The repast was as usual an excellent one and the hockeyists did ample justice to the good things provided by Mine Host McCallum. Speeches were made by the players of both teams and the occasion was marked with the same friendly spirit that characterized the game. The visitors returned to Toronto this morning.

Was Offered A Position In The A.O.U.W.

Mr. J. J. Turner Attended the Grand Lodge Meeting in Toronto.

Mr. J. J. Turner returned last night from Toronto, where he has been attending the Convention of Ancient Order of United Workmen in the Temple Building.

Mr. Turner expressed himself as much in favour of the proposition embodied in the report of the Special Committee on the options which make some changes in the regulations more favourable to the older members of the Order. While there Mr. Turner was tendered the position of Deputy District Master, but declined the offer on account of having too much work in other lines.

Important Real Estate Changes

Messrs. J. T. O'Connell and Co. Have Carried Through Several Deals.

Mr. James F. Crowley of Otonabee, has just concluded the purchase of Mr. E. Manning's house, No. 783 Water street, and has already taken possession. The transaction was carried through by the J. T. O'Connell Company, and the fact that firm secured possession for the buyer three days after the sale was effected, speaks well for the good service rendered by Messrs. O'Connell & Co. to their patrons.

Another change recently effected by the same firm is the sale of Miss B. Crowley's residence, No. 10, Inverlea street to Mr. John Holland of Bad Axe, Mich. Mr. Holland will take possession in a few days.

Attended The W.O.W. Convention

Mr. A. W. Gibbs Returned from Guelph This Morning.

Mrs. A. M. Gibbs, who has been attending the Woodman of the World Convention at Guelph this week, returned home this morning. Mrs. Gibbs was the first lady delegate to speak at the W. O. W. Convention, and she was very successful in gaining her point. The ladies of Fairwood Circle could have sent a representative more capable of looking after their interests than Mrs. Gibbs.

Editor Post Card Column:

Peterborough, March 24th, 1906.

Sir,—I notice by the Examiner of March 22nd, that the Board of Works has appointed Mr. F. W. Wilkins, surveyor, of Norwood, to define the boundaries of Riverside Park. I think the Board of Works is not doing right in giving this work to an outsider when we have two competent surveyors practising in the city, both heavy taxpayers. I refer to Mr. A. J. Cameron and Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald. I think when work of this kind is required to be done they should at least be given the preference.

Yours truly,

ANOTHER TAXPAYER.

Investments Of Companies Was Considered

Government Was Pressed to Enlarge Companies' Powers.

DRAFT BILL WAS PREPARED

Hon. Mr. Fielding's Absence Prevented Its Submission—Officers of Companies Asked For Extension of Limit For Investments—Only One Company Satisfied With Present Powers —The Insurance Investigation.

Ottawa, March 24.—When the insurance investigation opened yesterday morning Mr. Shepley read a memo. produced by Mr. Fitzgerald, sent to the department by the Canada Insurance Association through President McKay and Secretary Bradshaw in 1902, asking that the powers of insurance companies in regard to investments be increased, and that they be allowed to invest in bonds of coal, electric railway and electrical manufacturing, and iron and steel companies, all of which had been successful enterprises.

In a letter dated Feb. 7th, 1903, from Hon. W. S. Fielding to Mr. McCabe, the former said he had given consideration to the representations of the life insurance companies recently submitted to him with respect to an enlargement of their investment powers. He thought it might be possible to grant power to invest in some further securities, which by actual experience might prove to be of a satisfactory character. The managing director of the Dominion Life Insurance Co. of Waterloo wrote complaining that by the general insurance act life insurance companies were not permitted to hold real estate, not even the property occupied by its offices. No public interest was served by causing the companies to go to the expense of a special act, when a few lines in the general act would cover the case.

The Insurance Officers' Association continued to press for amendments that would enlarge the scope of their investments, including power to invest in real estate up to five per cent. of the total investments of the company. The insurance men in one communication claimed they were patriotic and enthusiastic, and in every way wished to build up Canada. Other things being equal, they would certainly give the preference to Canadian securities, but while Canadians, they were also business men, and it would be very unwise on their part to take inferior securities simple because they happened to be Canadian.

Questions by Mr. Shepley brought out the fact that while the insurance companies generally wanted wider powers of investment, there had been one exception, the Mutual Life of Canada, which was satisfied with the present powers.

A draft bill prepared early in 1905, but not introduced owing to Mr. Fielding's absence in Europe early in the session, was read by Mr. Shepley.

One provision was that authority be given to the department to place a limitation on a license renewed in any year, by limiting it to the several provinces and to less than one year if desirable. Another clause widened the field of investment to securities in Great Britain or any colony or dependency, or any country in which the company did business.

The Draft Bill.

During the afternoon Mr. Shepley took up and discussed with the superintendent the draft bill submitted by Mr. Fitzgerald to the Minister of Finance. It provided for greater liberty to the companies in the matter of their investments and for a more detailed statement in their annual returns. Apparently it did not receive a great deal of attention.

Some items were furnished by the superintendent as requested by the Sun Life. The foreign investments of that company increased from $7,826,426 in 1904 to $8,961,979 in 1905. The increase in cash on hand is quite remarkable. It has grown from $145,000 in 1903 to $1,080,478 at present.

TO INVESTIGATE BANKS.

What May Occur After the Insurance Inquiry is Over.

Montreal, March 24.—Leading financial interests have been advised that a Government investigation of the chartered banks of Canada will follow the insurance investigation.

In anticipation of the investigation some of the banks are already negotiating for the disposal of certain stocks they have been obliged to carry much too long, and are closing out large loans to industrial companies, the stock which have been watered to quite a large extent.

It is also claimed that the relations between some of the insurance companies and banks have been of too intimate a character.

ASK FOR $3,370,341.

Demand Upon McCurdy by the Mutual Life Insurance Co.

New York, March 24.—The first complaint in a series of eight actions already begun by the Mutual Life Insurance Co. against ex-President Richard A. McCurdy, his son Robert H. and the firm of Charles Raymond & Co., the company's former Metropolitan agents was made public yesterday. The company demands judgment against ex-President McCurdy for $3,370,341, with interest, as damages for alleged unfaithfulness and neglect.

Derrick Upsets Again.

Guelph, March 24.—The derrick used in lifting the girders at the Grand River bridge, on the Guelph & Goderich Railway upset again yesterday afternoon, but no person was seriously hurt. The engineer and fireman jumped, escaping injury, but several of the workmen had close calls, one of them, George Billings, receiving injuries about the face. This derrick killed two men several weeks ago.

All Quiet.

Lethbridge, Alta., March 24.—Perfect quiet prevails around the coal mines where the strike is in progress. About 50 men are at work.

Porcupine Gets $11,000.

Detroit, March 24.—Climbing the heavy trunk of a vine that covers the front of the home of Mrs. Ford, 1,180 Woodward avenue, Thursday night, a thief entered the house, went hastily from one room to another and secured nearly $11,000 worth of gems, among them a pearl necklace valued at $5,000 and a ring valued at $1,800.

Justice Britton Ill.

Berlin, March 24.—Justice Britton, who came to Waterloo to attend the annual meeting of the Mutual Life Co., was taken suddenly ill with erysipelas, and is now at the Berlin and Waterloo Hospital. Justice Britton had been in Stratford presiding at the Assizes. He is suffering from erysipelas of the head and face.

Had Grippe Yet?

If you have you are still feeling the effects of it in some form or other. It hangs on and undermines the constitution long after you are up and at work again. It keeps you weak and run down, and an easy victim for other forms of disease. It is preparing victims for consumption every day That's why a real cure should be a tonic as well. That's why Psychine is the greatest of all Grippe remedies.

Psychine kills the Grippe germs and builds up the general health at the same time. In that way it both cures Grippe and ensures against after effects. Psychine clears out all diseases of the throat, chest and lungs and leaves them strong and healthy. Psychine helps the appetite, tones up the stomach and blood-making organs. It puts the life-making organs in good running order.

Why is Psychine the greatest of all Spring Medicines? Simply because it clears out all the dregs and germs of Colds, Coughs, Grippe, Bronchitis, Pneumonia and Consumption, in addition to doing all that is claimed for other spring medicines.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

"I am sending you my photograph to show what Newbro's Herpicide has done for me.

Since I first tried Herpicide upon my hair I have used it exclusively in giving scalp treatments to others, and I would not think of trying to get along without it."

(Signed) MRS. ANNA CONNER.

2207 Archer Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Anna Conner

Hundreds of lady scalp specialists and hair dressers use and recommend Newbro's Herpicide, instead of products of their own manufacture upon which a much larger profit could be made. They claim that Herpicide makes friends for them and gives much better satisfaction. Some hair dressers use Herpicide for obstinate cases only, but why not use the best first?

Herpicide is a delightful dressing that can be used when there is no disease of the hair or scalp, and as an actual remedy for dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair it stands in a class similarly its own.

Many ladies' object to a gummy and sticky hair dressing, or one that is full of sedimentary chemicals intended to dye the hair. The marked preference for a clean and dainty preparation, particularly one that overcomes excessive oiliness and leaves the hair light and fluffy, is reflected in the enormous sale of Newbro's Herpicide. Discriminating ladies become enthusiastic over its refreshing quality and exquisite fragrance. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

NIAGARA POWER.

Representative Municipal Meeting Calls Upon Ontario Ministry to Establish a Government-Owned Plant.

Galt, March 24.—A large gathering of representatives of various Ontario municipalities looking for Niagara power, was held here yesterday afternoon. President J. H. Fryer of Galt Board of Trade was in the chair, and there were representatives from Guelph, London, Bridgeport, Tillsonburg, St. Thomas, St. Mary's, Berlin, Wilmot Township, Waterloo, St. George, Ayr, Georgetown, Paris and Preston.

In the discussion on the whole power question representatives from each place spoke. The necessity for immediate action to forestall the disposal of power to a private company, aiming to create a monopoly and perpetuate higher prices was pointed out. It was stated that the Hon. Adam Beck was anxious to have his hands strengthened in exerting an influence on the Government, who are represented as ready to act in accordance with popular expression of opinion on the power question.

A resolution was passed moved by President White, London, and seconded by President Hughes, Waterloo, that the Government of Ontario at once themselves establish a power plant at Niagara Falls or secure power produced under existing franchises for distribution to the reachable municipalities of Ontario; and that they devise plans to carry the same into effect at the earliest possible moment, this meeting pledging itself to do everything reasonable within its power to render such an action effective.

Other resolutions passed approved the action of the union of municipalities, which has secured power commission, and to which this gathering was designed as an auxiliary. Organization was effected for future action with J. H. Fryer, chairman, C. H. Goldie, Ayr, secretary, and representatives from Berlin, Galt, Guelph, Preston, Paris, Waterloo and Ayr.

West Hears Macedonian Cry.

Rossland, B. C., March 24.—In November last Rev. J. A. Day, D.D., visited this city and made an appeal for the children of the Macedonian Orphanage at Ashanta Regea, Macedonia, stating that their parents had been foully and cruelly murdered by infidel Turks, and that he desired to find homes for them among Christian families in order that they might grow up amid moral surroundings and influences. He gathered together $500 in this city and vicinity. Besides this he worked nearly every town of importance in British Columbia, and then went to Alberta and Manitoba. It is certain that in this way he got at least $20,000. The last heard of him he was operating near Medicine Hat in Alberta. The police are endeavoring to locate him.

LONE HAND PHILLIPS.

Thousands on Loan Paid Out on His Vise—Burt Collapses.

Toronto, March 24.—Disclosures showing in more intimate detail than have yet been brought to light, how the "one man" influence pervaded the affairs of the York Loan Co., were brought out in the Police Court yesterday morning by Crown Attorney Curry.

It appears from the testimony of V. Robins, a former director and secretary-treasurer of the company, that he paid out to individuals loans of thousands of dollars which simply bore the magic vise of Joseph Phillips. As a director he was not aware the company was going to erect the $60,000 piano factory, and he told Mr. Curry he had never, before it was shown him in court, seen the company's property book.

"You were merely a machine to record the will of Phillips, were you not?" was the way Mr. Curry summed up the attitude of this and all other directors.

Burt Collapses.

R. G. Burt, manager of the Lisgar Piano Co., was attended as to the records of payments and collections made by the York County Loan agents and handed over to Burt. "Where," asked Mr. Curry, "was the money deposited?"

"In the Bank of Montreal."

"Have you the bank book?"

"No."

"Who has it?"

"Miss Hudson."

The Crown Attorney called Miss Hudson for the book, and at the moment the lady stepped forward, Burt collapsed.

"Would you like a chair," asked the colonel sympathetically, but the witness replied in the negative. A few moments afterwards, however, he tottered and fell in the box, and appeared to be laboring for breath, making inarticulate sounds. "Send for Dr. Sheard," directed the colonel. Water was procured and Mr. Burt was placed in a recumbent position on the floor, with a ledger as a pillow.

The unhappy witness was soon restored, however, so that the services of the doctor were not required. Crown Attorney Curry took active part in the bringing round of Burt. The investigation ended for the day and will be continued Tuesday.

CANADA'S INDIANS.

Making Rapid and Continuous Advance Toward Material Civilization—Earned $4,500,000 Last Year.

In the generation or so that the Indians of Canada have been wards of the Government their progress toward material civilization has been rapid in the extreme. Each succeeding report of the Department of Indian Affairs furnishes evidence of this, and the last report is no exception to the general rule. That the past year has been a prosperous one is indicated by the earnings of the Indians, which have amounted to more than $4,500,000, an advance of a quarter of a million on 1904. No longer does the Indian accept payment in beads and gaudy flannel and gas-pipe guns. If he barters his services or his property he receives solid and substantial articles in return. Otherwise he demands coin of the realm, whose value he understands as well as another. So far has he traveled along the trail from savagery to civilization that it is hinted he may be permitted to vote later on. The report now under consideration remarks that a scheme of enfranchisement would tend to "the breaking up of separate racial communities * * * and their amalgamation with other national elements." This ideal, we venture to suggest, must remain remote until the "other national elements" are ready to intermarry with the Indian.

But though the goal may not be what some of the Indians and their teachers respect, it is well worth the reaching, and Canadians have every reason to be proud of their treatment of the Indians. The policy of consideration and conciliation, amounting to actual guardianship, for the Indians are the wards of the State, was framed and put into force by Sir John A. Macdonald, who saw that while the Redman would resist to the death every application of force, he was peculiarly amenable to friendly negotiations and loyal to treaty arrangements. So, while the United States was having its fierce and relentless Indian wars, Canadian agents and diplomats were in council with the head men of tribes, arranging for the limitation of their hunting grounds, paying for any concession the country sought in order to open up the way quietly to the inevitable white settlement. Those warriors of a generation ago who sat around the council fires, stipulating for a Government blanket once a year, a rifle or a copper kettle, arranged the modus vivendi between the two races. In time the gifts in kind were by arrangement commuted by money payments, so that last year in annuities, exclusive of relief and seed grain, the country paid $[illegible] to its Indian population.

Yet many influences tended to retard the civilization of the Indian. First of all, he was nomadic. Inherited instinct impelled him to roam from place to place. From season to season, for thousands of years perhaps, his ancestors had followed the chase over a broad continent. To live in a fixed abode and cultivate the soil, or raise cattle, was a new experience. Yet we have taught the hunter how to farm and to follow the pursuits of civilization, until to-day the annual income of the Indians of Canada is over four millions of dollars. Paganism was a heavy load upon the Indian. How faithfully and with what self-sacrifice the missionaries have labored has often been told. Their work is now well in hand. Of 127,627 Indians in Canada, all but 11,000 have espoused Christianity. The Methodist Indians are classified as follows: Roman Catholics, 47,000; Anglicans, 14,544; Methodists, 11,343; Presbyterians, 1,376; Baptists, 1,110; Congregationalists, 80; other denominations, 560. And many are the testimonies as to the simple sincerity of the Indians who have adopted the faith once delivered to the saints.

It is satisfactory to note that the Indian population is slowly increasing. The gain is small and fluctuates from year to year, but reviewing the vital statistics of a decade we find a gain of ten per cent., a gratifying result in comparison with the reverse tendency in the United States. Authorities have claimed that the high death rate among Indians generally is caused by the prevalence of tuberculosis and scrofula. At present Canada's Indians are visited by doctors, whose duty it is to report on their condition, and isolate sufferers from diseases likely to injuriously affect the general health. Intermarrying is held partly responsible for the Indians notorious lack of resisting power in the matter of disease. On the whole however, his health is much better than a few years ago, while consumption was held full sway, and the law of the survival of the fittest was permitted to operate unchecked.

As stated before, the Indians earned more than $4,500,000 in the year 1905, and to do so entered divers employments. In British Columbia the staple Indian trade is in the canning factories. In Alberta and Saskatchewan they are ranching in considerable numbers, besides both hunting and trapping are the Indians' business, while in Manitoba many of them are farmowners. In the eastern provinces lumbering, farming and the manufacture of Indian wares are the chief industries. On the Great Lakes they are fishermen, so it is plain that the Indian is not lacking in versatility. The money thus earned is often spent in improving and even adorning the homes of the Indians, and in the purchase of superior live stock. In fact, they seem to be just as capable of spending the $4,500,000 prudently as of earning it.

The Indian schools scattered all over the Dominion are exerting a good influence in many ways. Of these schools there are 309 altogether, 47 being undenominational, 104 Roman Catholics, 95 Anglican, 48 Methodist, 16 Presbyterian and 1 Salvation Army. More than 10,000 pupils attended last year, a very satisfactory percentage of the total population, and a gain on the figures for 1904. Naturally enough they do not manifest any particular desire for higher education, although the fine records achieved by the few Indians who have entered the learned professions might well inspire others.

At any rate, the Indian in Canada is no longer untutored, for he is poor, and no statistics are available to prove that he is less happy than in his days of savagery.

He was Welshed.

A Frenchman who is staying at a hotel in Edinburgh asked at the cashier's desk for his bill and was astonished to find it so large.

He felt that he had been plundered, but he paid the bill and asked to see the proprietor. The landlord came down in response to the call, beaming with smiles. The Frenchman rushed up to him, exclaiming:

"Ah, let me embrace you. Let me kiss you!"

"But why do you want to embrace me, sir? I don't understand."

"Ah, sairs, but look at ze bill."

"Your bill? Yes, but what of it?"

"Vot of it? Why, it makes me I s'all devaire, nevaire see you again, sairs."—London Answers.

Peterborough Defeats FAST VARSITY SEVEN In A Whirlwind Finish

The Final Score Was 12-11—At Half Time Visitors Led by 6-4, and With Seven Minutes to Play, Were Ahead by 11-6—Snatched Victory Out of Defeat.

"The most peculiar game ever played in Peterborough" was the general opinion of those who witnessed the contest last night between the Varsity seven of the Intercollegiate series and the Peterborough septette. It was a battle full of excitement all the way through, but the biggest surprise ever sprung on a Peterborough hockey audience, and one that was gratifying in the extreme to the local fans occurred in the last seven minutes of play, the only time the locals displayed their true form, when they simply ran away from the Collegians and piled up six goals straight. When they commenced their phenomenal scoring streak the tally stood 11—6 in favour of the visitors and the crowd had succumbed to the "blues" silently awaiting what they thought the inevitable—a defeat in the last game of the year after a most glorious season; but they were most agreeably disappointed and when the blue and white started in on their wonderful scoring, one dismal and sombre throng changed to a howling, yelling, enthusiastic mass and cheered like mad. When the tie was broken the shouts that rent the air were defeaning, and when the last tap of the gong announced that the game was over, that Peterborough had won a remarkable victory, the loudly voiced enthusiasm of the supporters of the home team knew no bounds. It was a piece of remarkable work, the like of which was probably never before equalled in the history of the game.

In the early part of the game the Peterborough team seemed to deplorably lack system. In the second half they showed up better and made many dangerous looking onslaughts on the Varsity citadel, but Keith in goal was always in the way and stopped a regular bombardment of shots that looked impossible. Between skill and luck he gave the most marvellous exhibition of goal tending ever seen in Peterborough. Harley at point and Broadfoot at cover gave him able assistance, the wonderful lifting of the latter being a feature. H. Clarke and Davidson were the pick of the forwards. Whiteroft was the fastest man on the ice and Morgan was also very effective. The local defence did not appear to grasp the situation as well as they have done in some games, but nevertheless did good work at times.

Ford refereed satisfactorily and had his hands full, as the game was very strenuous throughout.

THE PLAY.

The game started off at a lightning clip and it could be seen that the visitors were going to put up a stiff argument. Both forward lines rushed in succession from the start and the crowd had its money's worth. Wasson turned off a hot shot from Davidson, but the visitors were not to be denied. Toms scored the first goal in 3 minutes on a shot from Davidson.

The next few minutes were characterized by hard, fast playing. Crowley tore off a pretty rush and Graham followed with another, but there was no scoring. Finally Whiteroft got loose for a long dodging run, terminating in a scoot on a pass to Cavanah. Score 1-1.

Glover made a pretty rush, but Morgan missed the pass. From the resulting scrimmage Morgan put Peterborough ahead. Score 2-1.

The Varsity team were only 30 seconds in tieing the score. Herb. Clarke and Toms broke away together, the latter scoring. Score 2-2.

Davidson went off for slashing. Whiteroft went off a moment after for slashing Broadfoot. Cavanah and Morgan united well, but Keith saved a sure goal by a pretty stop. Davidson scored for Varsity on a shot from the side. Score 3-2.

Davidson got the next in short order. Score 4-2.

Morgan scored the next from a scrimmage after he and Whiteroft had made a nice rush. Score 4-3.

Varsity kept pressing, however, and it was not long before Toms found the nets on a pass from Davidson. Score 5-3.

Davidson was penalized for slashing. Morgan scored on a nice rush Score 5-4.

Peterborough made several rushes, but could not score. Keith made some saves of a spectacular nature. Finally the Varsity forward line showed out in front and Herb. Clarke beat Wasson with a neat shot. Half-time score 6-4.

Peterborough started off at a fast clip in the second half. Within 2 seconds Morgan scored on a pass from Graham. Score 5-5. Broadfoot scored in 30 seconds on a beautiful lift from coverpoint. Score 7-5. Varsity were going strong and looked like winners. Davidson made a nice rush down the coast and centred to Clarke, who scored. Score 8-5.

Whiteroft soon made it 8-6 on a neat rush. Toms was hurt and went off with Graham. Herb. Clarke got the next two for Varsity after combination rushes with Davidson. Score 10-6.

It looked bad for Peterborough, and when Herb. Clarke scored again making the score 11-6, and only 7 minutes to play it looked as if Whiteroft's wonders were defeated.

The brace came suddenly. The whole Peterborough team gingered up and the visitors play as they might, could not hold them off. Peterborough scored after a desperate scrimmage in which half the players went down in a heap. Score 11-7. Thirty seconds after Morgan scored on a nice rush and in 45 seconds more Cavanah found the nets on a great shot from quarter way. Score 11-9.

Peterborough could not be stopped. With only 4 minutes to play and 2 goals needed to win, Whiteroft rushed and passed to Cavanah, who did the needful. Score 11-10. Morgan started a rush and passed out to Whiteroft, who scored neatly. Score 11-11.

Glover started a pretty rush and passed to Graham, who came up nicely, and scored the winning goal with one minute to play. Score, Peterborough 12, Varsity 11.

Spectators Want Strenuous Hockey

Some Warm Words for the Style of Hockey Played by Peterborough Team—Toronto Saturday Night's Strong Approval.

Some of the most sensible remarks made by any of the Toronto papers on the game last Saturday in Toronto are those on the athletic page of Toronto Saturday night. In part the writer says, in addition to the quotation on page 7:—

"It is not surprising, when this team ran up against the Marlboroughs, strengthened by Young, Gee of Barrie, and Harold Armstrong, of Smith Falls, that a good game should result. It was easily the fastest and most interesting match this year, and it shows the liberal spirit of Toronto audiences that they applauded the victory of Peterborough (6-3) with true cosmopolitan sportsmanship. The players did what has only once before been done here this year, rushed the puck from first to last, and never wasted time by raising it into the rafters. Sometimes the rushes were individual, sometimes by combination, but whatever happened and whoever was hurt, the players kept zigzagging and dashing up and down the ice in a way that brought joy into the hearts of those who like a lively game. This is the style of hockey they play down east, and the style Toronto audiences will soon demand, whether by professional or amateur teams.

If Mr. Waghorne had been in the audience he would have heard many expressions of approval upon the heartiness of the play. The crowd want the players to be strenuous; they shout at them and exort them to the sticking point, but never applaud laggards or stragglers. Last Saturday's game was hard fought. There were some hard collisions, but it was all in the course of play. Players without the puck were immune. Defence is just as much a part of the game as offence, and it as much the duty of a forward to check back as to rush the puck. The players cannot play without coming into bodily contact, and, when men are going fast, nasty falls will often result. That is not illegal. It is the use of the stick for slashing, tripping and prodding an opponent's anatomy that is dirty. A referee should be cognizant of the distinction between legitimate and illegitimate roughness, and should remember that he is an adjunct of the play, not a vital part of the play, and that his function is to assist, not arrest, the progress of the game. Many a match is spoiled by a too officious a referee."

Cradle Pets Won Great Game

In the return game played this morning between the Never Sweats and Cradle Pets, the former team lost by a score of 7-0, thereby losing the round by 5 goals. Their excuse for the defeat was that they were unable to put their best men on the ice for this game. The Cradle Pets are so tickled over their victory that it is rumored around that they intend to challenge the Peterborough team.

Lakefield Met Defeat In Keene

Special to The Examiner.

Keene, March 24.—Lakefield Junior hockey team played the Keene juniors in the skating rink here to-night. Owing to the bad weather the attendance was small. Keene's team was much heavier than the Lakefield aggregation and defeated they by a score of 7-3. The half-time score was 5-1. The game was rather slow, neither teams playing good hockey. There was very little rough played and only one player was penalized. Keene's line-up was, —goal, Weir; point, Edwards; cover, Newton; centre, Taylor; right wing, Roach; left wing, Short.

On Thursday night last the Grocery Drivers trimmed the Barbers' Apprentices by a score of 14-4. The grocerymen were very aggressive all through and had their opponents outclassed at every stage of the game. The whole team played well and although the Barbers had some fast men on their line-up, they never had a look in at any stage of the game. Patterson and Campbell starred for the losers, while for the winners it would be impossible to select the best men as all played a good game.

Machine Methods Were Resorted to In Winning Game

Protest is Entered and Game Will be Played Again Monday Night.

The Tories won the civic contest as they always win—by slippery methods. The bold presentation practiced as represented by playing an imported ringer from Hogtown was another example of reversion to original type. It is an abuse of language to say the Tories won—they did not win—they got the decision by artful manipulation of the "machine".

Mr. Michael Tooley was the official referee and when interviewed by a representative of the Examiner, stated that W. A. Wilson, who played second stone for T. F. Matthews, was not eligible in Peterborough ranks and a protest has been entered. Mr. Tooley is no partisan and only wishes to see a square deal and he believes that all sorts of "graft games" should be timely nipped in the bud so that the royal sport shall still remain unpolluted as before.

Since the game the Tories have recognized the under-hand work that has been dealt out to the Grits and have agreed that the game shall be played again on Monday night. If fair, honest methods are used there can only be one result—a Grit victory.

The following were last night's rinks and scores:—

A proposition is on the wing to organize a cheap baseball league in the Canadian General Electric works for the coming season. Delegates have been appointed by each department to convene at an organization meeting the date of which has not as yet been decided. A league will then be formed and there should be at least ten teams enter it. As there are several prominent baseball men in the C. G. E. this shop baseball league promises to be a success.

STORY OF AN INGRATE.

A Gambler's Generosity and What it Brought in Return—A Characteristic Story of 100 Years Ago.

There is a well authenticated story of Scrope Davis, a London dandy of a hundred years ago, an inveterate gambler, but also a man of talent, a gentleman and a wit. One night he was introduced to a young man named Hastings, who had inherited a colossal fortune, much of which he had already gambled away. They commenced to play hazard, Hastings remarking at the same time that he must soon cut that sort of fun, as he was about to marry and settle down.

Scrope was in great luck. Main after main he won and as often wished to cease play, but Hastings, who continued to pour glass after glass of champagne down his parched throat, was pallid with excitement and insisted upon a chance to retrieve his fortune. The excitement became general. Other players left their own tables to crowd around the duellists. Time after time Hastings threw crabs, while Davis followed with the nick.

The rattle of the dice and the ceaseless flow of wines went on all night and far into the next day. Hastings was mad with excitement. Every pound and every security he possessed or could think of he pledged and lost. At last, like the gamester who staked his wife upon a cast of the dice and lost, he would have risked the welfare of the girl to whom he was engaged if the other would have accepted that kind of security. But he would not. Then Hastings hurled dice and box across the saloon, smashing a splendid mirror, and, throwing himself exhausted upon a sofa, burst into tears, exclaiming: "I can play no more. I have lost everything I have in the world. I am a beggar!"

Davis stood still, calm, unmoved, watching him. Then he said: "Mr. Hastings, listen to me. I will forego everything I have won to-night on one condition, and that is that you will take a solemn oath never to touch cards or dice again." The ruined gambler fell on his knees to thank his benefactor and to take the oath. The latter immediately restored everything he had won, and, oddly enough, Hastings kept his vow and lived a wealthy and prosperous man.

But the medal has a sordid reverse. When in after years Scrope Davis, reduced to great poverty, venti ... to ask him for some slight assistance, the hound wrote him a curt, formal reply in the third person, regretting that Mr. Hastings was unable to offer Mr. Scrope Davis any assistance.

Coincidences.

The late Lord Acton for many years kept a record of coincidences. A very strange one occurred in his own experience. A rumor spread that his wife had drowned herself. She had done nothing of the kind, but it was quite true that a Baroness Acton had drowned herself at Tegernsee, where Lord and Lady Acton were staying, and had drowned herself under their window.

The strangest of all coincidences noted by Lord Acton concerned Sir Edmund Berry Godfrey, who was murdered at the bottom of what is now Primrose hill, but was then known as Greenberry hill, in London. Three men were hanged for the murder. Their names respectively were Green, Berry and Hill.

Pet Phrases of Novelists.

As women have their favorite perfumes, as epicures have their favorite dishes, so novelists have their favorite phrases. This is a list of the favorite phrases of certain novelists, compiled by a book reviewer in an idle moment:

"Then a strange thing happened."—H. Rider Haggard.

"For what do you take me?" shrugged his interlocutress."—Henry James.

"But that's another story."—Rudyard Kipling.

"Incontinently I leaped forward."—Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Now, my dear Watson."—Conan Doyle.

"Well!"—Walter Pater.

THE TREATING CUSTOM.

Stupid and Dangerous Custom Is Here Very Vividly Described.

The custom against which Mr. McNaught's bill is aimed is not only dangerous but stupid. Four men forgather on the street. The weather is dry or the office or warehouse dusty. Something, anyway, has made one or more thirsty. It may be, indeed, that thirst has nothing to do with it, but just a desire on their part to show in some tangible way that they are awfully glad to see each other. So one proposes a drink.

It is quite likely that the word "drink" is not mentioned. Well-understood phrases in this connection are "gargling the throat," "irrigating," "having something," and so on; but the result is the same. They go to the nearest or the pleasantest bar, and A "sets them up." The whole four may feel that that is one more than they have any real desire for, but B, not to be outdone in showing his pleasure at meeting three such fine fellows, proposes another; and A can scarcely refuse, seeing that he brought them there, while C and D do not feel like voting contrary to A and B, or to "throw stones at the bar," as they jocularly remark to the bar-tender. By the time these two drinks have been disposed of, and have had time to begin their operations on the nerve centres, there occurs a slight impairment of the senses of accountability and obligation, and an excitation of the brain cells which loosens the tongue, brightens the wits, and casts a glow of interest over conversation, even if it is only one remove from absolute dullness. C feels that he ought to be well on his way home, and D knows that matters are waiting his attention at the office; but that curious lessening of the sense of obligation has occurred, and they each in their turn do their duty in the silly game, and by the time the fourfold alcohol has reached the right spot they variously forget that they have homes or offices, or anything else, and round and round it goes. On the following morning very early and very trembly, they may be seen slipping furtively into the nearest place for a "hair of the dog that bit them."

This is the treating system. All four probably drinking something they had no particular taste for, in order to show their friendly feeling towards each other, and really inflicting upon one and all a mutual injury. If we read this in a traveler's book about the manners and customs of some savage tribe we should indulge in a superior smile, and thank God we were not as the heathen are. If Mr. McNaught can devise a bill which will put down this foolish and perilous custom he will approve himself the most useful legislator who has ever occupied a place in the Chamber.

COLONIAL BORN.

New British Secretary of State and Some of His Work.

Lord Elgin, the new Secretary of State for the Colonies in London, and who enjoys the distinction of being colonial born, having come into the world up in Canada, has modified the decision of his Unionist predecessor to withdraw all British troops from the West Indies. This, it may be recalled, had aroused a storm of protest on the part of the West Indian colonists, and in consequence of their representations Lord Elgin has organized what is to be known as the "West Indian Floating Guard." Consisting of half a dozen officers and a couple of hundred non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Marine Light Infantry Corps, it will remain afloat on a scond-class cruiser and will pay periodical visits to the various islands, making its headquarters at Barbados. Duly provided with equipment, ammunition and machine guns for service either afloat or ashore, the marines will be always ready for service wherever their presence is required.

Of course, every mention of Lord Elgin's name serves to recall the story of the Elgin marbles, and in this connection it is only just to point out that when the seventh Earl of Elgin, grandfather of the present Colonial Secretary, purchased for a large sum of money the marbles of the Parthenon, the sale, far from being regarded as an act of vandalism, was lauded by all those who had at heart a proper appreciation of art and archaeology. Indeed, the cultured Greeks of the day not only approved and rejoiced in the sale of the marbles to Lord Elgin, as the only available means of preservation of some of the grandest masterpieces of the plastic art of ancient Athens, but positively groaned for the fate of those sculptures that Lord Elgin left behind, realizing that they were suffering well nigh daily injury from the weather, from vandal tourists and at the hands of natives, who looked upon the ruins of the Parthenon in the light of mere stone quarries. A full justification of the disposal of the Elgin marbles to the seventh Lord Elgin is supplied by the deterioration which the sculptures that were left in position at the Parthenon have suffered since his time. Indeed, even quite recently the dilapidation has been going on, for a careful comparison made by the late A. S. Murray of the British Museum of photographs taken in 1857 with plaster casts executed in 1872 shows the most lamentable and extensive injuries, whereas the Elgin marbles in British Museum have suffered no harm whatsoever since they were placed in that world-famed institution, more than three-quarters of a century ago—Marquise de Fontenoy.

Mysterious Death Of Former Resident In Detroit

Jno. J. Foster Supposed to Have Taken Arsenic—Awakes in Night and Dies Without Service of Doctor—Leaves $2000 Insurance—Was Foreman for the Late Mr. Hilliard—Lived in East City for Many Years.

Some information concerning the death of Mr. John J. Foster, who died in Detroit, a few days before the demise of his mother in East City, a few weeks ago, is gleaned from a clipping from a Detroit paper. The article which is reprinted in this column, strongly points to suicide by drinking arsenic while in a despondent mood. Mr. Foster was a former resident of Peterborough, a number of years ago, and while here acted as foreman for the late Mr. Hilliard, lumberman. He left Peterborough about twenty years ago and has since resided in Detroit. Mr. Foster is well known in Peterborough, particularly by the lumbermen of the county, who will regret very much to hear of his death.

The following account is given by the Detroit paper in reference to it:

Mystery surrounds the sudden death of John James Foster, aged 48, at his home, 120 Congress street east, about five o'clock yesterday morning. Coroner Toepel is conducting a rigid investigation of the case.

Although there is no positive proof indications point to suicide. Coroner Toepel said last night that the man possessed all the symptoms which would lead to the belief that arsenic had been taken.

County Physicians Forbes and Stapleton performed a post mortem examination and found that the man had suffered from a special of heart trouble aggravated by rheumatism. examination of the contents of the stomach will be made by County Chemist Clark.

Foster was employed as a teamster at the Detroit Shipbuilding Co. a position he had held for the last eighteen years. His wife is 78 years of age.

After spending the night on the couch down stairs Foster rose about 1 o'clock yesterday morning to get a drink, according to Mrs. Foster. "Later I heard him vomiting," she says; "he seemed to get worse right along. I got up and found my husband in agony. I sent for a neighbor to have her call a doctor. She couldn't get one. I guess it was too early for any of them to get up.

"I looked around for something to give him and found a bottle with whisky in it. I poured it out in a glass. There was just enough for me to wet my fingers with and moisten his lips. I couldn't have forced him to swallow any if there had been enough. I couldn't force his mouth open

"I stayed with him until he died, and I thought that the daylight would never come. About 5 o'clock he looked up at me, and said "Goodbye; I'm going."

Mrs. Foster's neighbours, who has lived next door to her for the last ten years, says that she never knew of any trouble between the couple.

Foster had some trouble with his employers, and there is a theory that he may have become despondent and ended his life. A box that he had been given to deliver was lost. Saturday night, according to Mrs. Foster, the company informed him that he must either pay for the box or lose his position. The box was traced last night and one of the employees of the company came and told Mrs. Foster of the fact.

Foster was a member of the A.O. U.W. and carries $2000 in insurance in that society. This amount goes to the widow.

Burleigh Falls Power Development Soon

Mr. J. A. Culverwell Says Work Will be Commenced Soon and That Peterborough Will be Supplied—Wants Lindsay Citizens to Subscribe for Stock.

At a meeting held in Lindsay on Thursday, the question of sending a deputation to Ottawa, in connection with the Trent Canal completion, was discussed, as was also that of power development.

Mr. Culverwell, the managing director, explained that the Central Ontario Power Company, proposed to develop Burleigh power at once, and they had sufficient power to supply Lindsay as well as Peterborough, Bowmanville and Oshawa along the proposed line to the lake, where there was a large market and as the main line would run within 17 miles of Lindsay it would be an easy matter to supply that town as well. The company did not ask any bonus but only that its citizens take a reasonable amount of stock in the project, which would show their interest. He went on to show that as a money investment, it was first class, as it was endorsed by reports of two of the leading engineers of Canada. There would be a 7 per cent. preferred investment at once and in all probability 10 per cent. on the common stock as soon as the power was developed and used to some extent.

Franchises had been secured from all the townships, and also Oshawa and Bowmanville, and as Burleigh Falls was naturally situated for the cheap development of power, it would only be a matter of $25,000 to put up a power house as the dam was built, and a natural raceway was formed in the rock.

Quaker Oats Company To Issue New Stock

Important Announcement Made by President Crowell at Annual Meeting—Surplus After Paying Interest on Bonds and Dividend, $578,540—Surplus is Now $959,433—Bonds of American Cereal Company to be Cancelled—New Mills Will be Erected This Year.

A recent issue of the "Canadian Grocer" has the following reference to one of the most promising of the industrial concerns of this city:—

President Crowell, of the Quaker Oats Company, in his statement to the stockholders at their annual meeting, says the company was never in a stronger financial position. The income account, which includes all the subsidiary companies, shows total receipts of $1,118,572, and a surplus of $978,540 after the payment of $541,857 as dividends and interests on bonds. This is for the year ended December 31, 1905. There is $80,629 cash on hand, and the surplus is $959,433.

The real estate and plants of the company, together with the stock and securities in the subsidiary companies, are valued at $13,826,663. There is due $460,000 from the under companies, the inventory foots up $2,782,587, and the accounts and bills receivable total $1,581,344. Accounts and bills payable aggregate $1,538,887.

In his report President Crowell says:—

The directors have decided to call in and cancel the bonds of the American Cereal Co., amounting to $1,000,000. Notice is to be given on March 1 and the bonds are to be paid June 1, 1906. The retirement of these bonds leaves all the milling properties of the company unencumbered, subject only to claims of the preferred stock.

The directors have also decided to adopt the policy of issuing and selling new stock for the purpose of furnishing money for new construction and developments, instead of taking them out of the earnings, as has previously been done. They will issue a call for a special meeting in March to consider an increase of $1,000,000 in the preferred stock and $500,000 in the common stock. This is to be offered to shareholders at par. Since the company formed there has been expended out of earnings or capital about $1,000,000.

The company expects to erect new mills during the present year. The company's mill at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has been entirely rebuilt. This crippling of the company's capital made it necessary to ship products from mills not so conveniently located, reducing the usual profit. The company's development in foreign lands is advancing with rapid strides, and the outlook there is fully as promising as at home.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"HER ONLY SIN."

Last season, when Mr. Lincoln J. Carter departed from his usual style of play-writing and announced "Her Only Sin," a drama of quiet but intense human interest, theatrical wiseacres wagged their heads eagerly and opinioned that the heretofore unrivalled producer of melodrama had stepped outside of his peculiar ability, and had made a mistake. The night after the initial performance at Mr. Carter's Criterion Theatre in Chicago, when the audience remained in their seats to bring both author and star and company before the curtain with salvos of applause the prophets of ill-omen were forced to confess their fault and join in the chorus of general congratulations. The production will be given at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday, March 28. Prices, 25, 35, and 50c; gallery, 25c.

REPERTOIRE ALL NEXT WEEK.

Plays, or technically speaking, productions of stories, written by the cleverest authors of the day, such as "The Banker's Wife," "For His Sake," "A Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Ned, the "Waif," "Lost in London," "Little Starlight," "The Indian Maid," "Nell Gwynne," "Kathleen Mavourneen," "A Woman's Sacrifice," and "The Girl from Frisco," which are the brains and pen work of standard playwrights for the class of entertainments offered by Marks Brothers to the audiences which nightly throng to the theatres where they appear. The company is headed by the charming and versatile actress, Mae A. Bell Marks, and the supporting company is a most capable one in every particular. In point of elaborate costuming, scenic embellishments and modern effects the company has no superior among popular priced attractions. A three nights and three matinee engagement will be inaugurated at the Grand Opera House next Thursday evening, at which time will be presented as the initial attraction the great comedy-drama "The Banker's Wife," with all special scenery, and electrical and mechanical effects. Seats on sale at box office.

"Leah, the Forsaken," was the drama played by the Summers Stock Company to a large audience at the Grand last night. This production, dealing with the persecution of the Jews in Austria during the early part of the 18th century, is a particularly strong one, and, played as it was last night, left nothing to be desired. Mr. Summers, as Dr. Ludwig, supplied the chief part of the amusement and as usual acquitted himself well. Miss Belle Stevenson, in the emotional role of Leah, the Jewish maiden, acted with her usual grace and ease. Oswald Roberts, as Father Herman, was strong in his setting. The specialties were of the usual high order.

The company closes its engagement to-night with the comedy drama, "Was She Guilty?"

Mr. M. C. Tooley, of the Queen's Hotel, has received a letter from Mr. Simeon, the well-known comedian, from this city, who is now making a name for himself in comedy down on the other side of the line. His company is at present at Middleton, Conn. Dan reports a very successful season.

VALUE IN A GOOD NAME

Canada's Commercial Growth Is Emphasized.

Some Trade Names and Good-will Values Earned by Making Honest Goods and Making Them Better Than the Average.

Newspaper men are fond of telling the story of certain well-advertised articles where the good-will value of the trade mark comes into consideration. When that value is represented in the stock lists the pessimist calls it "watered stock."

In Canada there are trade marks which could not be bought under a million dollars. The slate of the Slater Shoe, the two-hands sign of the Dunlop Tire, and the Wade mark name of the Semi-ready are perhaps the three best known trade mark signs in Canada. In one instance a proposed trade trust fell through because the owners of the trade mark refused a million dollars for their good-will. This shows what the market value of a good name may be. Solomon said it was better than rubies—but it has remained for the modern merchant to prove that it is more valuable than real estate, which is the best known security.

The introduction of the one-price system in tailoring, first inaugurated by John E. Kennedy, of Montreal, has been a leaven that has worked its influence throughout the continent. Honesty as a business asset was emphasized by the Semi-ready Company, in organization founded by young men. On every suit of clothes tailored in their factory on the new idea of individual making, they put their name, their guarantee, and the price at which the garment must be sold for in the Semi-ready stores.

The one-price system, as opposed to the popular plan of haggle, was reinforced by the making up of high-grade clothes which the ready-made clothier dare not put into his factory. The Semi-ready tailoring shops dropped the bizarre methods, which have existed since schmmers began.

The way to succeed is to keep faith with your customer, and secure him as a friend. That is a Semi-ready proverb which is taught in every Semi-ready store, and is perhaps a potential factor in making the name Semi-ready stand for a million dollars' worth of good-will.

Doesn't Affect Him.

Nothing Yet For The Shareholders

The Sugar Company Liquidators Makes a Statement in Reference to Affairs of That Company—Creditors May Get 50 or 60 Cents on the Dollar—Shareholders Who Are Not Paid Up Will Be Asked to Pay.

Some discussion has taken place since the sale of the Sugar Company's property on Saturday for $35,000 as to the effect which the sale will have upon the creditors and shareholders of the defunct Company.

Ald. Adams, the liquidator was seen in reference to the matter to-day, and stated that the creditors would not be paid in full. They would probably receive 50 to 60 cents on the dollar. The exact amount of claims against the Company has not yet been determined, since the liquidator has only the books of the Company which were not posted to date, when the estate passed into the hands of the liquidator. In a short time the creditors will be asked to send in statements of their claims, when the estate will be wound up. There was a statement made Saturday to the effect that since the property sold so well, there would probably be something for the shareholders, but Mr. Adams does not hold out much hope of this. He states that there are a number of shareholders who have not paid for their stock in full, and if the court orders them to pay for the stock subscribed for by them, those who have already paid for their stock may be given a rebate.

There will probably be some trouble in making these shareholders who have not paid for their stock, pay up, but the same thing is being done in the case of the Cold Storage Company.

The liquidator will proceed with the work of winding up the Company now.

A Citizen Of Prominence

It was not altogether the resemblance which the picture bore to the gentleman, as he appears to-day, that enabled a large number of persons to identify Rev. R. A. Langfeldt, in the picture in the Examiner on Saturday. It was taken, as was stated on Saturday, more than thirty years ago, and in Germany. Mr. Langfeldt was not alone in the picture. He was with his twin brother. Mr. W. B. Armstrong, who clerks for Mr. F. J. R. Mitchell, first telephoned its identification. Others who recognized it were H. H. Hillier, Mrs. (Dr.) Poole, Miss Lillian Grady, Miss C. Graham, East City, Miss Allie Cavanah, Mrs. Alexander, Reid street, Master Roy Atchison, Miss May Courtney, Mr. Percy Crane, Ald. McIntyre, Miss Kathleen Conners, Mr. W. J. Watson, Miss A. E. Johnston, Miss E. Strong, Miss Ida Wesley and Mrs. Sawyer.

A number of persons named other clergymen in the city, whom they thought the picture represented, and the one most frequently named, outside of the correct one, was Rev. Dr. Torrance.

The Examiner has decided to discontinue these pictures for the present, after the pictures which are in the possession of the paper at the present time, have been published, and no more pictures will be accepted. This has proved one of the most popular features the Examiner has ever introduced, and as soon as the pictures on hand are published, another feature, which it is expected will prove equally interesting, will be introduced.

Isolation Hospital On The Hilliard Property

To-morrow morning at 9.30 there will be a joint meeting of the Board of Health and Finance Committee to consider the question of an Isolation Hospital. The Hilliard property has been proposed as a site for that institution, and the meeting to-morrow morning has been called for the purpose of considering it. The committee of the Board which was appointed to confer with the hospital authorities in reference to the care of the patients in the Isolation Hospital by nurses from the regular hospitals will also report at the meeting to-morrow.

One of the plans of the Council when the Hilliard property was bought, was that it could be used as a site for the Isolation Hospital, when that building was erected, and there is a feeling in some quarters that it would be a desirable site.

Will The City Make Use Of Dredgings?

The dredge "Trent," now at work in the Otonabee river, has almost completed the second cut, and in about ten days work will be commenced on the third cut. The disposition of the dredging from this cut will have to be considered. Unless the City Council make representations to the Public Works Department to secure the earth, which will not be available to fill in the water lots, the department will dump it in the Little Lake. It is understood that if the city will undertake to fill in the space between the point where the first and second cuts have been deposited on the shore of the river, the dredge will dump the earth on top of the bank already made, from whence the city could easily have it drawn. In view of the fact that immediate action is desirable, it is probable that the Board of Works will take the matter up at once.

There is still considerable filling necessary before the plan to have a wharf entrance from Charlotte street can be carried out, and it would seem that this would be a good opportunity for the council to secure the material with which to fill in the space.

Grocery Business.

Mr. W. J. Routly has purchased the stock of groceries of E. G. Mackenzie, 186 Charlotte street, and has taken possession. He will continue the business in the old stand and will carry a full stock of new groceries and family supplies, which he will sell at right prices. Mr. Routly is an energetic citizen, and will doubtless meet with success in his new line of business. He will open up to-morrow morning and will be pleased to meet all his friends. 6d3

Junior Pupils Gave Very Clever Demonstration

Work of Miss Adams' Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Class Was a Success.

The junior pupils of Miss H. Adams gymnasium class at the Y.W.C.A. gave a clever demonstration of their work on Saturday afternoon. A large number of the friends of the young girls was present, and it is mild praise to say that they were delighted with the grace and agility displayed by the pupils under the capable direction of Miss Adams. The work was similar in nature to that done by the senior pupils on Friday consisting of marching and movements on the parallel bars, Swedish stall bars, and other gymnasium apparatus. The girls showed evidence of careful training and painstaking application to the lessons taught them, and the demonstration delighted all who had the pleasure of being present.

The programme was varied by a piano solo by Miss Jean Hill, and several recitations by Miss Mabel Pringle, all of which were warmly received. Miss Sylvia Adams, sister of the directress, delighted the audience with a remarkable exhibition of club swinging.

Missionary Labour Among The Esquimaux

Right Reverend Bishop Stringer, Bishop of Selkirk, Tells of the Work in the Arctic Regions—Field is Large But Labourers are Few—The Indians Easily Christianized—Hindrances to the Work.

SUBJECT A MOST INTERESTING ONE

In anticipation of hearing a stirring story of human life and church work in the northern confines of the Dominion of Canada, a large number attended St. Luke's church last night to listen to the Right Rev. Bishop Stringer, who has recently been appointed Bishop of Selkirk. Very few if any, were disappointed, for Bishop Stringer's address was of such a fascinating and also profitable character that its impressiveness could not fail but leave its mark on the minds of the congregation. His fourteen years' sojourn among the Aborigines of the Klondike region, has apparently given him a perfect knowledge of them and of their surroundings, as well as the other representatives of the human race who are seeking a livlihood in that distant part of the Dominion. Although not a very forcible speaker, Bishop Stringer has a soft, persuasive voice and the simple manner in which he told the story of life and work in that district undoubtedly left an indelible impression on many of his hearers. His powers of description are remarkable and many pathetic scenes which he had witnessed were depicted with a clearness which gave an exceedingly vivid conception of those north-western missionary fields in which the Bishop has laboured.

The speaker chose as the text for the evening's discourse the twentieth verse of the sixteenth chapter of the Gospel of St. Mark: "And they went forth, and preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following." Before our Saviour had departed from this earth He had given to his disciples a last great commission to preach the Gospel to all nations of the world and He gave them the promise that He would be with them. Since then the followers of Jesus Christ have been carrying out the orders of this Divine command and it is right that we should become acquainted with the work done by these servants. The speaker said he had come for this purpose and would endeavour to describe as simply as possible the nature of his labours of a decade and a half among the inhabitants of the Arctic regions. Until 43 years ago little was known of that vast land which we now term Klondike and the Yukon. To the pioneers some of whom are yet living, belongs a great deal of credit for the introduction of Christianity among the Indians. Now since the news of the hidden treasure has been circulated about the continent, thousands have flocked in to enrich themselves with gold. Travelling facilities to that district have improved so much within the last few years that places may be reached now in two weeks which formerly took months. Yet, unlike the treasure seekers, there is a deplorable scarcity of teachers of the Gospel in that region and the work of Christianization falls to a few.

The Bishop pointed out that the introduction of the white man into that region was detrimental to the Indian. Some of the very scum of the earth were attracted there by the lust for gold and these brought an evil influence to bear on him. He believes though that the natives of that land will favourably stand comparison with white men, in any place, taking into consideration the relative circumstances. "That the good Indians are the dead ones," he said was by no means true. Often by their example they teach others to do many a Christian act and although they have their imperfections he has known many who have journeyed 200 miles to attend service and take communion.

Until 1896 the inhabitants were chiefly Esquimaux and very little is known of the history of that land previous to this, except from a few lonely missionaries and the Hudson Bay Company. In that year when gold was discovered there were expeditions from all parts of the continent. Such was the stampede that hundreds perished in that far off land which had at first appeared so green to them. "What will men not do when gold is in sight and what excuses are put forth when asked to assist in the preaching of the Gospel, or when money is needed to send a missionary to such a land!"

The speaker then led his hearers in an imaginary journey through the prominent portion of that district, picturing minutely the work that is being done there and the difficulties that have to be surmounted. The severe temperature of the Yukon winter causes a lull in all lines of labour. During the present season the thermometer has often registered 60 and 70 degrees below zero. The cold affects the lungs of horses and the steel rails in the railway so that traffic has to be suspended.——The loneliness of the mountain districts and the distance from dear friends causes a despondency often bordering on insanity. Also the scarcity of money among the missionaries is a great hindrance. Plenty of it is taken from the earth, but this is immediately packed in boxes and sent to New York, Chicago and other places where the capitalists are situated, the miner getting nothing but a mere stipend as his wages. Over $8,000,000 are sent out of that district every year.

In the White Horse settlement, the one in which Bishop Stringer is situated, there are two churches besides the Anglican and these work very harmoniously together. The labours there are much the same as in any other town. Services are held both morning and evening on Sundays, passing visitors are entertained, Sunday School is held and the Indian children are taught. The work throughout that region is practically unlimited and fearless missionaries are urgently needed to go forward and lend a hand to the further Christianization of those poor inhabitants.

In referring to the Mounted Police, Bishop Stringer spoke in glowing terms of them. They retain order, protect the poor and assist the traveller among the dreary mountain chains of that Arctic land.

In conclusion the speaker said that it was the duty of the church to aid in the maintenance of those brethren and when asked to contribute for that worthy cause he hoped the members would realize the greatness of the work that has to be accomplished in the Northwest and also he hoped that God would raise up more labourers to assist him in that impending work.

C. G. E. Foremen Said Farewell To Fellow Workman

Mr. T. J. E. Molden, of the C.G.E. Tool Department, Was Presented With a Gold Watch by the Foremen of the Works and With a Gold Locket and Chain From the Angling Club —Two Appropriate Addresses Accompanied the Gifts.

MR. MOLDEN IS GOING TO TORONTO

Two presentations were made to Mr. T. J. E. Molden, foreman of the tool department of the C. G. E. on Saturday night. Mr. Molden has severed his connection with the C. G. E. to accept a position in Toronto with the Canadian Machine Telephone Co. During his residence in Peterborough he has made many warm friends who will be sorry to learn of his departure from the city.

He was very popular with his brother foremen and was also a well-known member of the C. G. E. Angling Club. Both of these organizations gathered at Mr. Molden's residence on Rubidge street on Saturday evening. Mr. F. A. Taylor, on behalf of the C. G. E. foremen presented Mr. Molden with a very handsome gold watch, while the following address, which was artistically embossed, was read by Mr. A. W. Paterson:—

T. J. E. Molden, Esq.,
Foreman of Tool Department,—

We the undersigned fellow craftsmen and artisans, occupying the position of foremen and co-workers, with the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough, express our regret at your departure from our midst to other fields where your sterling worth and brilliant attainments call you.

While in our midst you have endeared yourself to us one and all by your strict attention to business and to us to do our own part with rapidity and correctness. We will miss your footsteps and should at any future period your return to our midst be contemplated recollect "that the latch is on the outside of the door, as far as we are personally concerned.

On your new sphere bear us in mind, and when you draw from your fob this memento, a gold watch, may it cheer you. Think of the many warm hearts and friends you have left at the C.G.E. Co. and in the even time of your life, watch the course of these dear friends and each and every one trusts that our course will be onwards and upwards and when we all reach the Isles of life, may you and us be called and hear said, "Enter thou good and faithful servant into the joy of the Lord."

Bon voyage in your new sphere and we wish you and your family health wealth and prosperity.

Fare thee well, and if forever, fare thee well.

The Anglican Club were not to be outdone and at the conclusion of this ceremony Mr. Molden was presented with a valuable gold locket and chain. Mr. J. G. M. Wilson made the presentation on behalf of the club, while the following address was read by Mr. R. H. Shepherd.

T. J. E. Molden,
C. G. E. Anglican Club,—

Brother Fisherman,—The heart beats of sadness never cease. Hardly have we recovered from the departure from our midst of one brother than we receive the announcement that another is about to leave us and we begin to think that the earth will soon be covered by the members of the C. G. E. Anglican Club each representing an oasis and should we, as a club, start a pilgrimage, we should not have to go far to reach the glad hand of fellowship. Now comes your term and may the world shine bright wherever your travels on this earth may be and may the lessons in fishing inculcated whilst a member, be useful to you in your after life and "No suckers in your basket".

We have always esteemed you as one of our stalwarts and it grieves us greatly at your departure looking at our own standpoint in view, yet for your standpoint it is for your betterment, and in bidding you farewell, allow us to express that old but true phrase "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again, and request on our part that you accept this slight token of our esteem and regard and bearing with you our best wishes for you and your welfare.

Signed on behalf of your brother Fishermen,—R. H. Shephard, A. W. Patterson, J. G. M. Wilson, F. A. Shannon, P. Byshe, J. J. McCabe, F. Derocher, J. Trombley, J. Williams, G. Gunnell, R. C. Fortune, F. A. Taylor, F. Pope, H. J. Millard, J. B. Cuncannon, H. W. Christie, D. Craigie, W. H. Smith, T. H. Glover, J. A. Brown, A. Greig, P. L. Allison, J. A Sharpe, Geo. Tovey.

Mr. Molden heartily thanked his fellow workmen and brother anglers for their kind words and gifts and assured them that he would always have a warm regard for Peterborough and its people. The gathering dispersed after "He's a jolly good fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne" had been heartily sung.

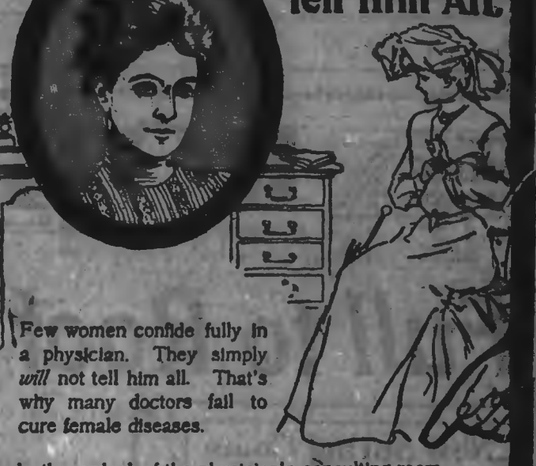
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days

Consults A Physician



But does NOT Tell Him All

Few women confide fully in a physician. They simply will not tell him all. That's why many doctors fail to cure female diseases.

Every woman dreads the ordeal of the physician's consulting room. A sensitive, refined woman shrinks from the searching questions and the physical examination.

It is not so in writing to Mrs. Pinkham. Thousands of women owe their present health and happiness (yes, and their good looks, too) to the fact that they have told all their physical troubles to Mrs. Pinkham and followed her advice and been cured of female diseases.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cures more women every year than any other medicine in the world. If you are in doubt about your case, write in perfect confidence to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. You will receive in reply a personal letter of advice free. Mrs. Pinkham is daughter-in-law of Lydia Pinkham, and for twenty-five years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered intensely with suppressed periods and pain every month for years, and could get no relief from physicians' prescriptions or other medicine. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and did so, and in a very short time the flow was regular, natural and without pain.

I am, indeed, a grateful, happy woman for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.

ELLEN WALBY, Wellington Hotel, Ottawa, Ont.

Mrs. Hayes also profited by Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote you describing my symptoms (fibroid tumor) and asked your advice. You replied and I followed all your directions carefully and to-day am a well woman.

Evangelists Pack The Grand Opera House

Messrs. Pearson and Black Spoke to 1500 People Yesterday Afternoon—They Preach the Existence of an Actual Hell—Human Depravity—Aggressive and Forceful Speakers Interest Large Audience.

The largest gathering that the Grand Opera House has contained since its erection was that which was held there yesterday afternoon, when Evangelists Pearson and Brock, addressed an audience which filled the building from pit to gallery, and on the lower and balcony floors a number of persons had to stand. Of those who were present, probably one-third were Sunday School children, and since the nature of the meeting made it one not especially interesting to them a large number left during its progress.

It was an evangelistic meeting of the usual type, and the address, the principal ones being delivered by Messrs. Black and Pearson, were along evangelistic lines, pointing out the depravity of human nature, and the need for a new birth. Both men are aggressive, forceful speakers, and used illustrations largely to emphasize their points. Mr. Pearson, who is the younger of the two speakers, and who is perhaps also the most radical, is a firm believer in an actual hell. He insists that the popular modern belief that the pictures of hell as given in the Bible, are not intended to convey the idea that it is really as represented, is a false one, and he makes the positive statement that there is a hell awaiting the Christ-rejecting sinners.

He preaches also the depraved and lost condition of human nature. To use an expression which, it it is not comforting, is impressive, he said that there was not enough goodness in the human make-up to cover more than a darning needle point.

The singing, which was one of the features of the meeting was led by Mrs. G. W. Mulligan, and the audience joined heartily, especially in the old hymn, "Rescue the Perishing," which was sung with a will by the whole house from the roof to the orchestra. Mr. Mulligan also sang as a solo, "O Calvary."

The meeting was opened by Mr. Gilchrist, who in announcing the first hymn, addressed a few general remarks to the audience, along evangelistic lines.

Evangelist Black followed in an address in which he drew from the story of the rich man who to house his crops pulled down his barns and built greater, and who did not take God into his consideration. He was characterized by Christ as a fool, and the speaker referred to the foolish practices of people to-day. It was, he said, only fools who did not "take knowledge of God."

Mr. Black spoke of the incidents connected with his conversion, and strongly urged his hearers to follow his example in this respect

Evangelist Pearson was the next speaker, and he based his remarks on Romans 3, which, he said, contained the fundamental truths of Christianity.

The human race, he remarked, was condemned already. This is the condition of every son of Adam. The true condition of men and women is Peterborough, he said, was similar to that of a man condemned to die for murder. Man, he said, is ruined, and from the crown of his head to the soul of his feet there is not a spark of good in him.

The heart of man, contains, in germ, at least, everything in hell, to-day. In fact, according to the speaker, the condition of man is so bad that God, with all due respect to His power, could do nothing with him, and He creates him anew. The speaker emphasized the statement that without Divine help men could not live right. 'You may say," he remarked, 'I am trying to do the best I can and hope to get to Heaven. I want you to stop right there." He stated that this was not what was needed, but new birth.

Referring to what he said was a popular modern belief of hell, the evangelist said that it was just what the Bible said it was, and that it was waiting for Christ-rejecting sinners. It did not matter much, he said, whether people believed in it or not, it certainly existed, and its existence would be proved by some of his hearers if they did not receive the new birth.

In concluding the meeting Mr. Douglas spoke briefly.

At night the evangelists spoke in the Gospel Hall, George street, to an audience which filled the hall.

Pulpit Pictures Of American Life And Conditions

The Rector of St. John's Referred to His Recent Trip to the United States—The Broadness of the American Life Was Made Subject of Appreciative Remarks—Liberality in Religious Belief is Ill-Founded, But in Other Ways is Worthy of Admiration.

UNCLE SAM WAS AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Uncle Sam, attired in his Sunday-go-to-meeting clothes, was present at St. John's Church yesterday. His old working suit, so popularly known, was left at home. His features were lit up with a well-pleased smile in spite of the unusual exertion of having attended church twice on the same day.

Rev. Canon Davidson incidentally referred to ideals and conditions of American life, as seen by him in his recent trip to St. Louis and Chicago.

The rector's remarks were of great interest to his hearers, and much in States, some of which he outlined known by the congregation.

In the morning Rev. Canon Davidson preached from the subject of "Successful Application of Spiritual Power," showing that just as in mechanics, power was being applied in higher and higher stages, and in greater intensity. It was correspondingly the case in the application of spiritual power, as its conditions became more generally known and were being complied with. Just as in mechanics, too, while the highest application of power had not yet been achieved. Still no man would assent their impossibility, but rather their probability, judged from past advances. The science of applied religion dealt with the highest power in existence and its principles, communicated by the great teacher of mankind, and increasingly revealed to-day by the Holy Spirit, were being more and more strikingly brought to bear.

From this the speaker passed on to the remarkable application of natural and spiritual power, brought into observance in the United States. Some of which he outlined. On every side was to be witnessed the scientific effective case of natural forces, resulting in gigantic achievements. The atmosphere of life was thus charged with power and was stimulating in the extreme. This was accompanied with a breadth of public sentiment, and a greater hospitality of life, which gave a remarkable opportunity to a stranger to see and enjoy such things in a short period of time.

He passed on to remark on the liberality which distinguished our country, in so far as this touched faith and opinion, the speaker held that it was ill-founded. Every belief and opinion was considered right or immaterial in defiance of the law that in right condition could only be the outcome of true belief. In their liberality, in so far as it concerned money, he saw a very happy side to their character. They evidently had understood and mastered the art of spending money with pleasing effect to the owners and everyone around them. In conclusion Rev. Canon Davidson said that in visit, while inducing admiration of American life, had brought out greater appreciation of our Canadian character, which was mentioned in the teaching and practice of religion as was not pretended to be done on the other side. Men lived here in the presence and with a recognition of supernatural, with a more healthy effect on our national life, which we did not sufficiently appreciate. This was certainly one of the reasons which placed Canadians at a premium in the United States, where their honesty and solidity of character were generally recognized.

Threatened With Paralysis

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

It is customary to consider paralysis, insanity and other diseases of the nerves as afflictions which come upon a person without warning and which are, therefore, unavoidable.

As a matter of fact, such results are preceded by months, if not years, of symptoms, which point to an exhausted condition of the nervous system. These symptoms are such, however, that many pass them by as not being of serious concern and thinking that they will wear away of themselves.

Sleeplessness, nervous headaches, indigestion, bodily weakness, fainting spells, twitching of the nerves, inability to concentrate the thoughts and loss of memory are among the most common indication of a run down nervous system. It is sometimes only a step from such symptoms to prostration, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or insanity.

Stimulants and narcotics, though sometimes affording temporary relief, only hasten the exhaustion of the nerves. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, on the other hand, reconstructs and restores the wasted and depleted nerve cells.

Naturally, gradually and certainly this great medicine instills into the blood and the nervous system the life-sustaining principles which replenish the nerve force in the body and an effect lasting benefit.

Miss Emma Scott, Athens, Ont., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good. I was troubled with fainting spells, bodily weakness, and spent restless, sleepless nights. I frequently had cramps in the stomach and would at times become entirely insensible, not knowing what was going on until others told me afterwards.

"I doctored with several doctors and they told me I was threatened with paralysis. They gave me relief, but could not cure me. After suffering for three years I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and it has done me more good than all the medicines I ever used."

Falls Not Gone To The Dogs Yet

This is What the Gazette Believes At Any Rate.

Fenelon Falls Gazette: The first effects of the shock caused by the fire on Monday of last week have to a large extent worn off, but residents of the village have not yet returned to their normal state of cheerfulness and optimism. The blow was too heavy to be forgotten in a few days and remembrances of it will probably remain for many years. But, although the loss is a severe one, to the whole community, as well as to the direct losers in hard cash, there is no reason to despair. The town has not gone to the everlasting bow-wows yet. The directors and others interested in the woodenware factory are unanimous in the belief that the firm was just entering upon a career of great prosperity.

MR. DRYDEN CHOSEN.

The appointment of Hon. John Dryden to an important position under the Imperial Government, is a compliment to Mr. Dryden himself, to Ontario, and to Canada at large. He has been made a member of a commission to inquire into the agricultural condition of Ireland, with a view of remedying whatever may militate against the country's agricultural prosperity. The Imperial Government could not have selected any Canadian who is more throughly qualified by practical knowledge of either farming or administrative methods, as applied to the promotion of the farming industry. The selection shows that in Great Britain there is a growing tendency to a recognition of Canada's important relation to the Empire, and especially to the Mother Country. It is also a further evidence of the important place Ontario plays in the production of experienced officials, whose services are sought everywhere. Hon. Mr. Dryden employed Prof. Robertson, and the skill the latter acquired in this province provoked his call to a higher position in the Dominion. Mr. Archibald Blue was another Ontario trained official, whose services were commandeered by Ottawa, and now we have Hon. Mr. Dryden chosen by the Imperial Government to perform the duties of a great trust. Verily, many things conspire to suggest the truth of Sir Wilfrid's claim that "the twentieth century belongs to Canada." Increased home recognition of our greatness of resources, and our splendid adaptability for providing homes for millions, and bread for the Empire, as well as the capability of our citizens, for Imperial service, will promote the settlement of our fertile areas, increase our population, and in every way stimulate all the activities of the country.

THREE TRIES.

Our contemporary the Review, may not be broad-minded but it has spacious columns when it can devote two or three of them to a discussion that might be presented in much more compressed form. In 3 long articles which it prints on Saturday it has one idea in each—a pretty large average. The Review's references to the School Board and its defence of its high-handed action, in conjunction with the Council, in imposing an expenditure of $35,000 for an unnecessarily large school in one corner of the city, without consulting the ratepayers, resolve themselves into a plea from a "little more confidence and abiding faith in the Trustees and Council." The Examiner has all the confidence in the Council and Board these autocratic bodies deserve. They refused to take the people into their confidence, but in a high-handed manner thrust through the Council an appropriation of $35,000, which with interest and sinking fund will run up to about $75,000, without taking into their confidence the ratepayers who must pay the shot. The School Board and City Council get just as much confidence from the people as they place in the people who pay. The Examiner does not reflect upon the honesty of the School Board, but protests in the name of common sense, in taking from the people $35,000 which the Board admits is not presently needed, for a school of a size which is not at present needed, and will not be needed for years and years to come.

The Review also rushes to the defence of the Whitney Government in its proposed action to make local option difficult, if not impossible to carry. This is perhaps not too large a majority, to ensure moral force behind local option in the interests of effective enforcement, but the Review and Conservative temperance people denounced the Ross Government for attaching a majority condition to the prohibition referendum with a similar object in view, and the temperance people that regarded this as an enormity are ready to applaud the Whitney Government for handicapping local option with practically impossible conditions.

The Review seeks to excuse its blunder in regard to printing an article in reference to the military camp by the tu quoque argument. It sneers at the Liberal representative of West Peterborough as lacking in influence with the Government. The Review helped this influence, didn't it by its blundering anxiety for "news"! It ignores the fact that this same representative of West Peterborough has done more solid work for the good of Peterborough and West Peterborough than any precedent Conservative representative has done in ten years.

The bill of Mr. Lennox before the Legislature in Toronto, in regard to automobiles, was considered too drastic in committee, because it would seriously handicap a growing industry, which is coming to have a prominent place in manufactures. The opposition to the bill is justifiable, if this is the case. Whatever legislation or regulation interferes with manufacture, or free exchange, is injurious to the interests of the country. Quebec's tax on commercial travellers may yield a little revenue, but it will kill a great deal of trade. We spend millions to promote trade, by promoting facility of interchange and movement, in the construction of canals and railways, and then in a moment of folly neutralize all the trade advantages these expenditures represent by imposing a tax that may add a few paltry dollars to the treasury at the expense of thousands, tens of thousands, and hundreds of thousands loss of trade.

WANT AND NEED.

There's a big difference between what a baby wants and what he needs. Deny him the one, give him the other. Most babies need Scott's Emulsion—it's the right thing for a baby. It contains a lot of strength-building qualities that their food may not contain. After a while they get to want it. Why? Because it makes them comfortable. Those dimples and round cheeks mean health and ease. Scott's Emulsion makes children easy; keeps them so, too.

Strangers' Club Held Meeting

An Interesting Session at the Y. M. C. A. Yesterday.

Yesterday was Strangers' Fellowship Club Day at the Y.M.C.A. and proved to be an inspiring one, both to the many strangers present, and to the club.

There was a good attendance at the men's meeting. The club occupied seats on the platform, and the president Mr. R. E. Harding, was in the chair. The subject was "The Story of the Runaway Slave," which was told by one of the members of the club in a very impressive way. It was the story of Onesimus. The whole was applied to the sinner who runs away from God. Five members of the club then told the story of their conversion.

Mr. F. W. Miller and Mr. R. Freund, sang appropriate solos, which were given with much feeling.

The Strangers' Tea followed, which was attended by a large number of strangers; the following points were among those represented: St. Albans, and Manchester, Eng.; Beeton, Albany, N.Y.; Buckham, Montreal, Deseronto, Owen Sound and Stratford.

The tea was provided by the ladies of St. Paul's church; Mrs. J. C. Shook acted as convenor of the committee.

CORRESPONDENCE ON CURRENT TOPICS

AN EXPLANATION.

Peterborough, Ont., March 26, 1906.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—An article signed "Another Taxpayer" appears in Saturday's edition of your paper, in reference to the employment of an outsider by the Board of Works, to define the boundaries of Riverside Park. I am aware that this is a very small question and of little interest to the general public. I think however, as my name has been mentioned in connection with the matter, you will, in justice to me, insert the following:—

While I wish to sincerely thank "Another Taxpayer" for being kind enough to mention my name in connection with this small survey, I also wish to assure him that I am perfectly willing and able to paddle my own canoe. I may say I also had the pleasure of reading the report on the deliberations of this august committee of our City Council, and while I have not the time or inclination to refute the slurs cast by some of its members, on the profession to which I belong, I beg to inform the erudite gentlemen who compose the Board of Works, that all Surveyors are equally independent in making surveys, and are sworn to perform such duties "Without favour, affection or partiality." Let me also remind "Another Taxpayer" that neither J. W. Fitzgerald nor his father before him, who have been heavy taxpayers, successively, in Peterborough for the past fifty years, have ever received, for professional services, to the value of one single cent, from the corporation of Peterborough; and God help J. W. Fitzgerald and those of his ilk if they had to depend for employment on the justice, impartiality or fair play, of at least the great majority of the men sent to represent this fair city at her council Board.

Yours truly,
J. W. FITZGERALD.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries of replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Would it not be a good idea to have someone in authority instruct the Street Commissioners to clean the mud which to-day is several inches thick, off the Hunter street bridge? It is most annoying to ladies walking on this bridge to have their clothes ruined by mud splashes from horses trotting across. The roadway is so close to the sidewalk that when the weather is mild in the middle of the day, and the mud thaws out, it is almost impossible for a lady to walk across the bridge without having her clothing spoiled. I'm not a lady, but my wife is, and when she comes home after having been to an afternoon tea, with four or five mud spots on her dress, I'm the one who has to catch it, and I do catch it, too. So won't you please ask the Board of Works or the Mayor to have this matter attended to.

Commendation Of Bishop Stringer

At St. John's church yesterday morning the rector spoke in the highest terms of appreciation of the work of Bishop Stringer, of Selkirk Diocese, who is at present in the city and urged all his parishioners who could do so to attend the service at St. Luke's to-night, and the meeting in All Saints' to-day, at which Bishop Stringer speaks. He expressed the assurance that the meetings would be interesting.

Hymn-Writer Was Honoured

Fanny Crosby's Birthday Celebrated Yesterday.

Saturday was the 86th birthday of Fanny Crosby, the famous hymn writer, and yesterday afternoon in the George street Sunday School session, recognition was made of the fact. Hymns written by her, of which there are about forty, in the Canadian Hymnal, were used in the session, altogether, and in addition to the regular hymns, Mr. Jas. Browne and Miss Chasty sang solos, the former's being "Saved by Grace," and the latter, "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," the school joining in the chorus in the latter. After the lesson had been taught, Mr. W. J. Stubbs gave an address, in which some incidents in the life of Miss Crosby were referred to. There was a good attendance of the members of the school, and the session was an interesting one.

Reception Was Cold Storage One

Keene Young Men Think That All Women are Fickle.

Two young gentlemen from Keene visited the city yesterday and learned that the maxim, "Out of sight, out of mind," is unfortunately only too true in some cases. A Peterborough girl has been gladdening the eyes of the natives of Keene on the occasion of a recent visit, and among the victims of her charms were the two young men mentioned above. When she returned to civilization, or rather, Peterborough, the two young gentlemen determined to visit her, and believing that in union there was strength, they went together. The expedition must be classed as a failure, as the reception they received was of a cold-storage nature. The outside of the front door was the nearest they could get to the door, and after two hours of fruitless negotiations, the two departed, sadder but wiser men, and with a deep conviction that fickleness is the very spice of woman's existence.

CARPET COMPANY EXPECTS MACHINERY TO-MORROW

His Company is Rushing Matters in Connection With its New Factory--Looms Will be Here Shortly--Construction Work at Once--Mr. Preen a Practical Carpet Man--Knows the Business Thoroughly.

That the carpet people mean business is evidenced by the fact that the same day that the property was sold to Mr. Cox, Mr. Preen telegraphed to St. Johns, N.B., to have the machinery, which was stored there, shipped on to Peterborough at once. This machinery was shipped to St. Johns shortly after Mr. Preen and Mr. Brinton left for Canada, which was to be held at that city until a location had been decided on. Mr. Preen expects that it will reach this city by to-morrow in all probability, and it will be stored until the company has a roof on the building now partly constructed, which will be as quickly as possible. Mr. Preen is having plans prepared now for the completion of this building and the work will be rushed.

A number of persons who have met Mr. Preen have expressed surprise that a man so young in years as he evidently is, should be given the control of the Company's business in Canada. Of course Mr. Preen is not telling his age, and in any event it has very little to do with the matter, because those who have had business dealings with him have been impressed with the fact that he was quite capable of attending to the interests of the Company in a manner satisfactory to the firm.

Mr. Preen is a practical carpet manufacturer. He knows the business from the ground up—started in to learn it at 17 years of age and worked at everything in the factory until he had mastered the details, with the result that his Company has sent him to Canada to establish its business here in the most promising city in the premier colony of the Empire.

Wants To Test The New Steam Fire Engine

This morning Ald. Adams, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council, received a letter from Mr. Hugh Cameron, selling agent for the Waterous Engine Company, stating that he would be here to-morrow for the purpose of making a test of the new fire engine. His intention was to have the test made on Wednesday, but this will be impossible because the aldermen will be in Ottawa with the Trent Canal deputation. The prospects are that Mr. Cameron will have to make another trip for his test.

MR. T. H. CROWLEY ON RICHES OF COBALT

Says 40,000 People Will be in That Country Before May First—A Real Estate Boom Is On—Lots Selling From $500 to $5000 Each--People Are Law-Abiding --Mr. Crowley Tells of Mineral Wealth of Hastings County.

The Sault Ste. Marie, (Ont.) News has the following reference to a Peterborough resident, formerly a citizen of the Soo:—

"Timothy Crowley, who has won considerable fame as a mining prospector during the past couple of years dropped into the Evening News editorial rooms this morning and laid a number of samples of ore on the desk. One was of tourmalin which he found in north Hastings county where he has now seven claims located. Others were of ore from the Cobalt district, including native silver, taken from a fissure vein in the calcite formation, cobalt and silver and calcite showing free silver. He says the latter assays 300 ounces to the ton. It was taken from a claim he staked about a week ago in the township of Burke.

Mr. Crowley further states that practically as many claims were staked during the winter while the snow was on the ground as during last summer. They were discovered and located by trenching, all of which goes to show that the country is of wonderful richness.

The spring rush into the district is now in full swing. The Temiskaming railway is operating two seven coach trains daily and standing room is always at a premium. People are there from all parts of the world and Mr. Crowley says they are conducting themselves in most law-abiding manner and there is very little trouble in the camp. Merchants who have been unable to house their goods leave them out and lose none by theft. Real estate is booming and lots are selling at prices ranging from $500 to $5,000. It is expected 40,000 people will be in the district by May 1.

Subject: 'Heaven, Do We Enter at Death; Shall We Recognize Friends Long Dead?' Next Sunday a surprise awaits the congregation in the personnel of the preachers. There will be three. The Rev. F. J. Scott, of Murray Street, preached most acceptably in the morning.

SPRING TWEED STYLES

What Gentlemen Will be Wearing in the Summer of 1906.

As Elbert Hubbard, the unique preceptor of Royeroftiam, observes, "The man who now wants to be really well dressed, wears Semi-ready apparel." The Semi-ready Company have attained to be the leaders of fashion in men's clothes, and they are never behind in the changing styles of the season, whilst every Semi-ready store keeps a clean new stock on hand by following the system laid down when this great business was founded some seven years ago.

"Said the sales manager of the Semi-ready tailor store. "In fancy tweed suitings this year our suits stand quite apart as far as fashion in colours are concerned. There are a few dark blue styles shown which will be popular for town wear but the bulk are fancy mixtures of dainty colours. Block checks are very popular, but as in the worsteds the prevailing tones are in dark and and light gray with good class checks. The hard lines of the checks this season are toned down by a softer grouping of the designs."

Deaconess' Work Will Be Subject

To-night the Deaconess' Work will be the subject at the Charlotte street Epworth League. Mr. Emmerson will have charge of the subject, and no doubt the meeting will be an interesting one. The work of the deaconess is now forming an important feature of the church's enterprises.

The Coal Miners May Strike Yet Is The Opinion

Wage Scale Conference is No Nearer Agreement.

225,000 MINERS MAY GO OUT

Unless Agreement is Reached Before Saturday Next When Present Wage Scale Expires — Operators Issue a Statement Showing Why They Will Have to Raise Coal $1.20 a Ton — Mitchell is Firm.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 26.—After being in joint conference through committees since Tuesday afternoon coal operators and miners of the central competitive district and of the southwestern district Saturday night were no nearer an agreement on a wage scale to go into effect on April 1 than they were when the former joint conference adjourned in disagreement on Feb. 2.

The present wage scale will expire next Saturday, and unless an agreement is reached before that time 225,000 union bituminous miners will, it is said by the union miners, be called from the mines in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania, Mississippi, Kansas, Texas, Arkansas and Indiana territory.

The joint scale committee of the central competitive district adjourned Saturday afternoon to meet Monday, when a motion to report a disagreement will be offered with the probability that it will be carried. The session of the joint conference to receive this committee report will, according to the present program, be called to meet Monday afternoon.

Operator's Divided.

During the four days the operators have been confronted with serious dissensions in their own ranks. F. L. Robbins of the Western Pennsylvania operators has agreed to pay an advance of 5.55 per cent., which is the demand made by the miners, but the operators of Illinois Indiana and Ohio have firmly refused to pay any advance.

Mitchell Stands Firm.

President Mitchell of the mine workers has firmly declared that no settlement will be made unless an advance in wages is given.

Whether the officers of the mine workers will allow the miners to sign the scale and go to work in districts where the advance is allowed while the operators tried in vain to get President Mitchell to answer. The only expression Mr. Mitchell has made on the subject was Saturday, when he remarked in the committee meeting that the course the operators were taking might bring that situation about.

Why Coal Goes Up $1.20.

New York, March 26.—The anthracite coal operators gave out the following statement yesterday:

Much enquiry has been made as to the precise calculation by which the anthracite coal operators establish the fact that in order to grant the demands made by the coal miners it will be necessary to raise the price charged the consumer by $1.20 a ton.

The demands of the miners provide for a threefold increase of wages:

(1) An increase of 10 per cent. to all miners engaged in cutting coal, or other men engaged on contract work.

(2) The establishment of a minimum day wage for each class of labor. This minimum day wage, in many instances, is 100 per cent. greater than the rates now being paid.

(3) The establishment of an eight-hour day, instead of a nine-hour day, without any reduction in a day's pay.

By careful calculation from the payrolls of the operating companies the effect of these three increases is to add an average of 21.64 per cent. to the actual labor cost per ton of coal. This is equal at the present labor cost of $1.55 to an increase of 33.61 cents per ton on all sizes of coal which are mined. The so-called "steam sizes" of anthracite, which are a by-product—come into direct competition with bituminous coal and must be sold for a price regulated by soft coal. The result is that all the added cost of the entire industry must be borne by the "domestic" sizes, which comprises 65 per cent. of the entire output.

One of the important awards of the Roosevelt arbitration board, "the sliding scale," demands that the present distribute of wages must be paid for every ton of coal sold at tidewater for $4.50. Every 5 cents increase on this market price of coal under the sliding scale adds 1 per cent. to the wages of every class of labor. Out of every 5 cents of additional price the miners employed by the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., for instance, must receive 2.9 cents, and the operator 2.1 cents. If the market price of coal should be increased 50 cents, the operator would receive only 21 cent to recoup him for the 31.8 cents added labor cost per ton before the increase began.

HE MURDERED RAINVILLE.

Rancourt Says He Had Himself Been Threatened With Death and Was Terrorized Into Deed.

Montreal, March 26.—A wire from St. Joseph, Beauce County, says that Bernard Rancourt was put on trial Saturday morning for the murder of Johnny Rainville. Friday the widow Rainville said she did not believe Rancourt killed her husband, but the young woman's theories were upset Saturday by a confession from the accused to High Constable Dulac of St. Mary's.

"Several times Rainville had threatened me with death," began the accused, "and he said things to me so terrible that they are still ringing in my ears. 'If you do not obey me in everything,' he declared, 'I will kill you like a dog.'

"Meeting him alone in the road the night of Aug. 25, I was more frightened than ever because I believed my life to be in danger. In fact, I was afraid of my life whenever I would meet him. For the last few days before his death, Rainville became still more terrible in his threats, and I feared for my life."

A HORRID CROWD.

Witnesses of Execution Anxious For Souvenirs of Event.

Mount Holly, N. J., March 26.—Rufus Johnson and George Small were hanged Saturday for the murder of Florence Allison. Owing to the fact that there was no guard in the jailyard, the crowd rushed in after the execution and began cutting off buttons and portions of the clothing worn by the murderers. The crowd pulled and hauled at the bodies until some person finally informed the sheriff and the mob was driven away. Both men confessed before going to the scaffold, each claiming to be the actual murderer.

"Miss Allison screamed when I started to run, and I came back," said Johnson. "There was no help for it; I must stop her noise. I caught her by the throat and held her tight to stop her from screaming.

"She sank to the ground and lay quiet; I got up and started to come out. She got up again as though to come after me.

"I knew she would scream, so I grabbed her by the throat again and threw her to the ground once more. I cut a strip from a horse blanket and tied it tight around her neck. That kept her from screaming.

"I watched her for a minute and she kept still and quiet. She was dead."

Here is what Small said: "I killed Miss Florence Allison. Rufus Johnson, my pal, was robbing the house while I choked the woman to death in her barn. I just couldn't see Rufus hang for a crime which he didn't commit."

DEAD BODY OF BABY.

Gruesome Discovery in the Church Shed at Port Credit.

Toronto, March 26.—A week-old baby was found under a pile of wood in the Presbyterian Church shed at Port Credit Saturday afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock by Miss McKeith, the caretaker.

Though no marks of violence were discernible, suspicion points towards murder. It is claimed that the body has been hidden there a week.

When the discovery was made known many residents made statements that a short, stout woman, probably 30 years of age, who came in from the city on the 4 o'clock car on Saturday week last, carried a child dressed in a white shawl.

"Everybody in Port Credit saw the woman suspected," said John Burns, who took charge of the little corpse. "Why she put herself on exhibition. She got on the car at Streetsville and came out here."

He says she went back on the car, too. That was March 17.

Dr. Sutton will hold an inquest.

$115,000 a Season to Tenor.

New York, March 26.—Enrico Caruso, Mr. Conried's star tenor, has made more money this season than any other masculine artist that ever demonstrated his vocal abilities within the walls of the Metropolitan Opera House, not excepting Jean de Reszke. Caruso will take back to Europe with him $115,000, minus his personal expenses.

Killed on Railway Track.

Calgary, Alta., March 26.—A man about 50 years of age was found dead on the railway track Saturday morning. Both legs were cut off above the knees, the right arm severed at the shoulder, and the left at the wrist. The name, W. A. Enycart, was found on some papers, and also in a Bible, which was found in his bundle.

Worship Ordered to China.

Manila, March 26.—The American battleship Wisconsin sailed at midnight Saturday for Shanghai to join the American fleet there, rush orders to that effect having been received from Rear Admiral Train.

Findings Of The Americans On The Falls

What is Necessary to Save the Fall of Niagara.

IMMEDIATE ACTION NEEDED

Mutual Agreement Between the United States and Canada Suggested—Recommend That Permits For 25,000 Cubic Feet of Water Per Second Be Granted to Power Companies and No More.

Washington, March 26.—If Niagara Falls is to be preserved as one of the wonders of the world, immediate action by the United States and Canada is required, according to the findings of the American members of the International waterways commission, which has for the past year been studying the condition at the falls and in the tributary great lakes. This report is signed by Gen. A. H. Ernst, chairman, and the other American members of the commission.

The United States section of the international waterways commission, reporting as to Niagara Falls, says:

Charters have been granted to corporations which propose to divert additional amounts in quantities not now limited. The sums of money invested, or being invested, in the works new in operation, or under construction, and in the industries dependent upon them, amount to many millions of dollars. It is probably not expedient to attempt the withdrawal of the rights thus utilized. The commercial value of the water-power at Niagara Falls is very great, but if compared with values set aside by wealthy communities elsewhere for park purposes, this value is not too great to be devoted to similar purposes. The place is visited annually by about 300,000 people.

If the falls are to be preserved, it must be by mutual agreement between the two countries. As a step in that direction it is recommended that legislation be enacted by which the Secretary of War will be authorized to grant permits for the diversion of 25,500 cubic feet per second, and no more, from the waters naturally tributary to Niagara Falls. All other diversions of water which is naturally tributary to Niagara Falls to be prohibited, except such as may be required for domestic use or for the service of locks in navigation canals.

The prohibition to remain in force two years, and then to become the permanent law of the land, if in the meantime the Canadian Government shall have enacted legislation prohibiting the diversion of water which is naturally tributary to Niagara Falls, in excess of 36,000 cubic feet per second, not including the amount required for domestic use or for the service of locks in navigation canals.

Confidence in Dr. Chase.

"My mother has kept Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as long as I can remember, and we are all well acquainted with their merits. I have used them for kidney and liver disease and they always helped me. Mother has had Dr. Chase's receipt book for twenty years and I tell you that it is a good one."—Mr. John Miller, South Saltspring, B.C.

Winnipeg Street Railway Strike.

Winnipeg, March 26.—A strike is imminent on the street railway system here, and unless a settlement is arrived at by the company granting concessions demanded by the men, trouble will be inaugurated to-day. The men demand a substantial increase in pay and a ten-hour day.

The New Test Grounds.

Kingston, March 26.—A detachment of the Royal Engineers will likely leave this week for Petawawa camping grounds to begin the work of rearing the needed buildings there. "A" and "B" Batteries, R. C. H. A., will likely go by the first of June.

Does Your FOOD Digest Well?

When the food is imperfectly digested the full benefit is not derived from it by the body and the purpose of eating is defeated; no matter how good the food or how carefully adapted to the needs of the body it may be. Then the dyspeptic often becomes thin, weak and debilitated, energy is lacking, brightness, snap just vim are lost, and in their place come dullness, lost appetite, depression and languor. It takes no great knowledge to know when one has indigestion, some of the following symptoms generally exist, viz.: constipation, sour stomach, variable appetite, headache, heartburn, gas in the stomach, etc.

The great point is to cure it, to get back bounding health and vigor.

is constantly effecting cures of dyspepsia because it goes to the root of the matter, it tones the entire system, it purifies the blood, it regulates all the organs involved in the process of digestion, removing all clogging impurities and making easy the work of digestion and assimilation.

Mr. R. G. Harvey, Almonte, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with dyspepsia for several years and after using three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters I was completely cured. I cannot praise B.B.B. enough for what it has done for me. I have not had a sign of dyspepsia since."

Do not accept a substitute for B.B.B. There is nothing "just as good."

$50.00 PROFIT

ONLY $25.00 INVESTED

Do you want to make $50 profit by investing only $25 in a lot in beautiful Summit Park, Port Arthur, the great lake port town of N. W. Ontario.

Port Arthur is the County Seat of all Thunder Bay District, and is the lake terminus town of the three great transcontinental railroads, which carry their immense quantities of Western freight to ships bound for the East and Europe.

Port Arthur is the only municipal ownership town in America, and made last year over $30,000 net profit out of its Street Railway, Electric Light and Power, and Telephone Franchises.

Port Arthur has the largest grain elevator in the world.

Port Arthur doubles its population in the last 5 years and we believe it will double again in the next 5 years.

Port Arthur is the gateway between the East and the extensive West, and can have no competitor.

Summit Park is a high, level plateau, furnishing a beautiful view of Thunder Bay, and lots purchased in this park at present prices will bring big profits before many months.

Edward Greer Was Remanded

On Charge of Stealing Gold Watch and Twenty Dollars.

Edward Greer appeared at the police court this morning, on a remand from last Monday, charged with stealing a gold watch and $20 from a man by the name of Sheehan, who is employed at the McDonald lumber camp, but who, the police thought, was engaged at the Dickson Company's camp. Greer was remanded from last Monday, and the police were to have located Sheehan in the meantime, but it was impossible to do so owing to the misunderstanding concerning the camp. The case was remanded for a week, but will come up again before that time if Sheehan is located in the meantime. Bail was fixed at $200 in two sureties of $100 each.

"I don't like my boarding house, Chief," said Greer to Chief Hoseil.

"O'h, you're looking well," was the Chief's reply.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for the defence.

WEARY DAYS AND SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Many men and women toss night after night upon sleepless beds until near dawn. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system that it cannot be quieted. Or, again, you have heart palpitation and sensation of sinking, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps you wake up from your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. Allow these conditions to continue and you will feel your health declining.

It is the nerves and heart that are not acting properly.

They can be set right by the use of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action and removing all symptoms of heart trouble, which is often the cause of nervousness and sleeplessness.

Mrs. Rosie Chambers, Massey Station, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with dizziness, weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad at times I could not lie down in bed at nights but would have to sit up. I doctored for a whole year and got no relief. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and was so completely cured I have not been troubled since. I cannot recommend them too highly."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or sent direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

M'CURDY WILL TELL.

Result of the Suits Brought Against Former President of the Mutual Life Insurance Co.

New York, March 26.—Charles A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., has informed one of his most intimate friends that he intends to resign the presidency just as soon as he can sufficiently put the company's affairs in order so as to turn his office over to his successor. His resignation may occur at any time. At the furthest it will take effect before June 1.

These facts came to light Saturday morning. It also was learned that President Peabody's desire to resign was occasioned by the suits which have been brought against Richard A. McCurdy.

McCurdy to Tell Secret.

President McCurdy informed the Truesdale committee before the suits were begun that if he were sued for restitution he would tell all he knew about the company and would spare no one. It is known that he will charge that only a small portion of the enormous commissions paid to Raymond & Co. went into the pockets of the members of that firm, and that in reality the firm was run for the purpose of enriching the trustees. He will allege that whenever a trustee secured a policyholder for the Mutual he received the fill commission and the renewal commissions likewise, but that on the books of the company it appears as having been paid to Raymond & Co.

McCurdy will return from Europe to be present in person when the suits are tried in court. He is in close touch with Andrew Fields, the Mutual's former legislative agent. Fields is a stanch adherent of McCurdy and is said to have placed at his disposal all the information he possesses.

Jail Yawns For Some.

Said a member of the McCurdy family Saturday: "People have thought Andrew Hamilton has told a great deal. Well, we'll begin where Andrew Hamilton left off. It's no longer a question of who among the trustees was not at fault, but of who will keep out of jail."

It was said yesterday by a prominent insurance man that the Mutual trustees would have refrained from bringing the McCurdy suits at all if they had dared brave public opinion.

It developed that new suits which are to be brought against the McCurdys by the Mutual company will seek to recover an aggregate sum of over $5,000,000 from the family.

"A TRUST" IS STANDARD OIL

State of Missouri is Now in Position to Impose Full Penalties Under the Law.

New York, March 26.—Cornered by the decision of the court, Henry H. Rogers, the executive head of the gigantic Standard Oil Co., which Attorney-General Hadley of Missouri stigmatizes as the meanest combination on earth, inasmuch as it thrives on the necessities of the poor, Saturday admitted that the corporation was a trust within the meaning of the law.

That admission was made before Commissioner Seaborne, appointed by the State of Missouri to take testimony.

Mr. Rogers' admission was in a long and carefully worded answer, prepared practically under Hadley's dictation, by the lawyers for the respondents.

It means that Mr. Hadley can now return to his home state with evidence on which the courts must find the trust concerned guilty as charged and inflict the penalty which is either confiscation of all the oil trust's property in the State of Missouri, a forcible ejection from the state, or a heavy fine to be repeated every time the offence is committed.

It was the first time in all the long years of litigation that the powerful aggregation has ever been forced to admit that it was a combination in violation of anti-trust laws.

Heinrich Zoelner Dead.

Waterloo, March 26.—Heinrich A. Zoelner, druggist, one of Waterloo's oldest citizens, died at the hospital at 1 o'clock yesterday. His health has been failing for some months. Mr. Zoelner was born in Oldelsteben, Germany, and before coming to this country was a druggist in Dornburg, Germany. For the last 30 years he conducted a German drug store in Waterloo, retiring about three years ago. His great work for German music and song in Canada endeared him to all music loving Germans in Canada.

Widening Soo Canal.

Sault Ste. Marie, March 26.—The Chandler Dunbar Power Co. has deeded to the United States Government all the land necessary for widening the ship canal and for future locks needed to handle the traffic of St. Mary's River. The deal disposes of all legal complication. It is announced that the Government will let the contract for widening the canal within 60 days. The sum available for the work is $1,200,000, and it will take at least two years to complete improvements.

Fire at Galt.

Galt, March 26.—Struthers' block, Main street, was saved from destruction and a big fire avoided by good work yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The Reformer Printing Co. was most damaged. The stores of Campbell & Spittall, confectionery, and Wm. Kirkland, druggist, suffered from water and smoke. The business college located on the top flat was not reached by the fire. Insurance covers all losses.

Burning Ship Runs In.

St. John's, Nfld., March 26.—The steamer Titian, bound from New York for Liverpool, arrived Saturday night, and fire was discovered among inflammable materials in the cargo three days ago. An attempt to subdue the flames by injecting steam into the holds was unsuccessful, and the vessel headed for St. John's. The extent of the fire is unknown, but is apparently not serious.

Sunbury, Pa., March 26.—Seven persons, representing three generations of one family, were killed Saturday on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Haas' Crossing, one mile south of this place. The dead are: G. W. Neidig, aged 62 years; Clarence Neidig, aged 42 years; Silas Neidig, aged 36, son of the first-named; Mrs. Clarence Neidig, aged 30, and three children—Mary, aged 4 years; Blanche, aged 6 years, and Gilbert, aged 2 years. They were driving to the home of G. W. Neidig when struck by the engine.

John J. Foster Died From Heart Disease

Post Mortem Examination Revealed This Fact Concerning the Peterborough Man Who Died in Detroit—Had Been Drinking Heavily and Lost His Job—His Wife Was 26 Years His Senior—Married for Money.

Further information has been received concerning the mysterious death of John J. Foster, a former Peterborough resident, in Detroit, some time ago. In Saturday's paper an article from a Detroit journal stated that on account of the nature of his demise, a post-mortem examination was held. This did not reveal that death was due to arsenic poison, which was at first suspected, but rather that heart disease was the cause of death.

The following is the later account from the Detroit paper:—

John J. Foster, aged 49, 239 Congress street east, until last Saturday employed as a teamster by the Detroit Shipbuilding Co., died at 3a.m. to-day under circumstances making a post mortem examination necessary.

Last week, it is said, that owing to excessive drinking, he lost a valuable package from his truck, and was threatened with discharge. He returned home on Saturday in a very despondent mood, and refused to eat his supper. He told Mrs. Lauer, a neighbour, at 120 Hastings street, that he felt very "blue."

On Sunday he got up about seven o'clock and left the house, returning about nine o'clock, and lay down on the lounge, refusing to get up all day or partake of any supper. He again left the house about 10 o'clock in the evening and upon his return went to bed. About 2.30 in the morning his wife was awakened by his groans, and upon going to his room found him in extreme pain. She called Mrs. Lauer to come to her assistance, but before medical aid could be obtained he had died.

Coroner Teepel ordered County Physician Forbes to make a post mortem examination, which revealed the fact that Foster was suffering from heart disease, the mitral valves of the heart being affected. The stomach has been turned over to Mr. John E. Clark for analysis. In the absence of poison, about which there is some suspicion, Dr. Forbes says the diseased condition of the heart would be sufficient to cause death.

Mrs. Foster, who is 75 years old, says her husband died of a broken heart at losing his job.

Mrs. Lauer, the neighbour, suspects that Foster took arsenic, as from a conversation that he had very her lately she feels that he had been thinking for some time of committing suicide.

"I am not surprised that John is dead as he has been drinking heavily of late and the loss of a package from a truck has worried him considerably," said Mrs. Lauer. "While his wife did not chide him, he felt that she blamed him. On Saturday when he got his pay envelope it contained a red slip which means 'You are discharged.' I went over to his house on Saturday with the hope of cheering him up, but could do nothing for him.

"I do not believe that he had any family troubles as his wife thought the world of him for all his faults, and notwithstanding the difference in their ages. I think that he did not eat anything on Saturday night or Sunday so that he could not vomit and relieve himself when he took the arsenic powder.

"I understand that the reason for his marriage was on account of his wife having had considerable money left to her by her first husband who, I believe, committed suicide, by throwing himself into a river about 25 years ago. Mr. Foster married his wife about 20 years ago in Canada."

At the Detroit Ship-building Co., it was denied that Foster had been discharged but it was admitted that there had been a little difficulty over a lost package.

Bishop Stringer Tells Of Life In Yukon Territory

Has Spent Over Two Years at White Horse—Expenses are Very High in That District—Two Kinds of Miners—Copper Mines at Windy Arm—Life on Herchell Island, Arctic Ocean.

WHITE HORSE IS RAILWAY TERMINUS

The Right Rev. Bishop Stringer, Bishop of Selkirk, who conducted the services in St. Luke's church yesterday, is still in the city and when called on by an Examiner representative this morning gave a very interesting account of the character of the country in which he is stationed.

Bishop Stringer is of Irish descent and his fourteen years' untiring labours in the north have gained for him an esteemed position in the Church of England. After his college course he went direct to the Arctic Coast Region, where he was stationed for over ten years among the Esquimaux. Some two years ago he succeeded Bishop Bompas, often referred to as the Apostle of the North, who remained for three decades in the Yukon territory without a break. Bishop Stringer is located at the White Horse settlement, a place with a population of from 500 to 1,000. This, however, does not suggest the importance of the town as it is one of the most prominent in the Yukon District. It is the terminus of the railway built from Skagway on the coast and is the centre of one of the most important copper mines of that territory.

The country in the neighbourhood of White Horse contains both white men and Indians. It is varied in its physical features, being composed of valleys, rivers and mountains. Stunted spruce and pines grow in abundance in some parts; these are chiefly used for fuel although considerable lumber is also manufactured. The soil in the valleys is very fertile and numerous and healthy vegetables are grown. Around Dawson City the farming industry is extensively pursued. Wages are exceedingly high. Miners and other labourers receive from 50 to 60 cents an hour. Expenses, however, are equally as high so that very little surplus is obtained by day labour. Butter is worth from 50 to 60 cents a pound, in White Horse, and eggs the same price per dozen. At Dawson City the latter sell at from 75c. to $1.00 per dozen. The Bishop recently received a letter from a clergyman in that district, stating that for one Sunday it took 11-2 tons of coal to heat the church. Coal there is worth $17 a ton. The winter weather in White Horse is as cold as almost any point in Canada. With the temperature ranging from 70 to 90 degrees below, winter life is very trying. The Mounted Police have had to prevent the stages from running on account of the horses' lungs freezing from the intense cold.

Navigation to the White Horse settlement from the coast is closed for about eight months of the year, from the middle of October to the end of May.

In the summer season White Horse may be reached from Vancouver, B.C., a distance of over 1,500 miles in about one week, but necessitates three days longer in the winter. By way of Edmonton it takes over a month and a half to reach the Yukon territory.

There are two kinds of miners in that district—the prospector and the man who works the mine. The former is never satisfied with his conditions and always seems to have the desire for new and greener fields. The shoestring or green miners are those who work behind the prospector and who reap the benefit of his labour.

The Windy Arm district which is about midway between White Horse and the other coast is at the present time attracting the attention of those who are seeking for the hidden treasure. Near this settlement copper has been discovered in rich quantities, but as yet no definite information has been given out as it is just being prospected. Bishop Stringer expects when these mines are developed that there will be a sudden influx of miners there which may even rival that of Dawson City a few years ago. Experts declare that the deposits are worth from $400 to $1,000 per ton.

The Bishop also gave a short account of his life among the Esquimaux of Herschell Island, where he previously had been stationed. The severe weather there was a great hindrance to the missionary work. The natives there live on fish, whale, caribou, muskrats and seal. They dress in deer skins and can endure a great amount of cold. In winter they build their houses from snow.

This afternoon the Bishop gave a lecture in the East Ward school, concerning the Esquimaux and their life in Herbert Island. He also showed a number of curios to illustrate his address which proved a very interesting event to the pupils of East Ward school.

Jerking of the Limbs.

"Before using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I could not sleep, had no appetite, hands and feet were cold, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made a radical change in my condition, built me up, the system and strengthening the nerves." — Mr. William Bratton, Stringer is located at the White Horse settlement, a place with a population of from 500 to 1,000. H. W. Christie Honoured By Brother Anglers

He Was Presented With a Gold Locket and an Appreciative Address By the C. G. E. Anglers' Club on Saturday Night—Mr. Christie Leaves To-morrow for Brandon, Where He Has Accepted a Position.

EMPLOYEES GAVE SHAVING SET

The C. G. E. Angling Club assembled at the residence of Mr. H. W. Christie on Saturday night, to say farewell to Mr. Christie, one of the club's most popular members. Mr. Christie leaves to-morrow for Brandon, where he has secured a lucrative position.

Mr. Christie was presented with a beautiful locket by the club in remembrance of the many enjoyable outings held by the organization.

Mr. N. Munro made the presentation, which was accompanied by the following address, read by Mr. H. E. Layfield:

Mr. H. W. Christie and Bro. Angler, —It is with feelings of regret that we have heard of your intended departure from our midst. Truly, the C. G. E. Angling Club has of late lost many of her stalwarts from the fold. As a fisherman we have found in you many qualities and virtues which are so essential to make a real follower of Izaak Walton. We trust that the admonitions taught you in many of our rambles will have a lasting effect and a warm corner in your heart. We have not forgotten the day when you crossed Rice Lake from Manly Point. That voyage will always be a reminder of the good old days gone by. We shall miss your genial and smiling face in our future outings, and remembrances of the past will be gone over again and again. We wish you every success in your new sphere and field that you will uphold the integrity of the dear ones you are leaving here. Life is like a moving picture, short and sweet. We bid you farewell and you may rest assured that you carry with you the heartiest best wishes of your brother anglers. Allow us to present you with this small token of our esteem—a locket. May you belong spared to wear it, is the wish of your brother Anglers.

Signed on behalf of the club,—

R. H. Shepherd, A. W. Patterson, J. G. M. Wilson, F. A. Shannon, M. Beale, J. L. McCabe, F. Dorother, J. Kennedy, J. Williams, G. Greenhill, B. C. Fortune, F. A. Taylor, F. Popp, H. J. Millard, J. H. Cameron, D. Carlisle, W. H. Smith, T. H. Glover, J. A. Brown, A. Greig, F. L. Allison, J. A. Sharpe, T. J. E. Madden.

Mr. Christie made a suitable reply after which he was seized by the club and initied into the mysteries of the third degree. This ceremony did much to make the affair most enjoyable.

Miss Mabel Christie, the little daughter of Mr. Christie, gave several recitations in a clever manner, and was warmly applauded.

Mrs. Christie very kindly served refreshments before the assembly dispersed.

On Friday Mr. Christie, who is inspector of the Meter S. and E. and Punch Press Department, at the C. G. E., was presented with a valuable silver set by the employees of that department.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

ONE OF STRONGEST COMPANIES TRAVELLING.

The Marks Brothers' Dramatic Company, headed by the charming and popular actress May A. Bell Marks, which appears at the Grand Opera House, for nine nights and three matinees, commencing next Thursday evening, is considered this season, the strongest repertoire company travelling at popular prices. The entertainment that Mr. Marks offers is always clean and bright and he has earned the reputation for faithfully carrying out all he ever promised. He gives more for the money than has ever been given by any other organization of its kind. The plays are all new and are brought out by a clever company of ladies and gentlemen. Originality and novelty are the earliest features. Everything has been offered by this liberal manager to obedience their success and all lovers of good acting and clever specialties should not fail to attend the performance Thursday evening and witness the best performance ever given by a popular priced company, at which time the great comedy drama "The Banker's Wife," will be presented, with all special scenery, electrical and mechanical effects, the same as the original production. High class specialties will be presented between the acts making a continuous performance. Seats on sale at box office, Tuesday at 10 a.m. Popular prices, 10, 20 and 30 cts.

The Summers Stock Repertoire Co., Consolidated, a very successful week at the Grand on Saturday night, by the presentation of the strong drama "Was She Guilty?" For the second time this season the company while here has entertained large audiences of Peterborough people nightly, and the impressions left are only favourable. The production on Saturday night was equally up to the standard of the previous presentations, Miss Stevenson again acquitting herself as a superior actress. Mr. George H. Summers, as usual, was the producer of the fun, which interspersed the different portions of the drama. The next production at the Grand, Lincoln J. Carter's, "Her Only Sin," with Julia Gray, in the leading role, is attracting a great deal of favourable comment.

The date of Albani's concert has been changed from April 9th to April 21st.

To-night the pupils of Mr. Alfred Davies and Miss Helen Davies will give a recital in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, at 8.15 o'clock. Among those who will take part in the programme will be Miss Katherine Burnett, Miss "Dot" Routley, Miss Gladys Crane, Miss Gertrude McCollom, Miss Katie Leary, Miss Hazel Sanderson, Miss Jennie Robson, Miss Edgar Watson, Mattie Robertson, and Miss Geraldine King.

Mr. Jack Richards, whose home is in Peterborough, and who with Mr. Bert Peters, also of this place, form the musical specialty team of the Bijou Comedy Company, was in the city to-day.

A Friend Told Me About

THE GENTLE MONEY CURE

Hundreds of people, who have been cured of Kidney Trouble by Dr. Jr., were first induced to try this wonderful remedy by friends who had themselves been cured. The sales of Dr. Jr. are daily increasing, because everyone who takes them is benefitted—and there is little left to others. So the good news is spread.

"I have used Dr. Jr. with great benefit in myself and family, and recommend it to others. It is a good medicine for all Kidney Troubles and Rheumatism.

"I think Dr. Jr. the best remedy made."

Yours sincerely,
JAMES KELLY.

3000 Immigrants Pass Through Peterborough

Three Special Train Loads Went to Toronto During Last Night—Conversation With the New-Commers Leads to the Belief That They Will Make Good Citizens—Their Impression of Canada.

During the hours of darkness last night three special immigrant trains passed through Peterborough on their way to Toronto. The first went through at 8.10, and the others at intervals during the night. This is the largest contingent of immigrants that ever passed through the city in that period of time in its history, and it is estimated that fully 3,000 new-comers landed in Toronto during last night. The immigrants were landed at St. John's N.B., on Saturday night, from the steamers Lake Champlain and Lake Manitoba. On the latter were some 300 Salvation Army settlers.

A gentleman who travelled on the first special, that which reached here at 8.10, from Havelock to Peterborough, got into conversation with a number of the new citizens. He stated that he was pleased with their appearance and predicts that they will make good citizens. There were on the first train a number of men with families, the great majority of them from England, and these will remain in Ontario, where they expect to secure work without much difficulty. The new settlers were in varying moods when they were seen last night. Some of them were most optimistic, and were of the opinion that they had come to a land flowing with beer and skittles, the bright sunshine which they had experienced since landing on Canadian shores, putting them in good spirits. Others took the matter more seriously and seemed to feel the responsibility they were taking upon themselves, and, while they were hopeful, were not going to allow their enthusiasm to run away with their reason.

The majority of the immigrants, particularly the men, were intending to take work on Ontario farms, having been told in England that there plenty of work at good wages on the farms of this province, and since the majority of the men wanted to eventually embark in farming themselves they were taking this means of getting a start. The size of Canada, seemed to be the greatest surprise to the immigrants, and they expressed the greatest amazement that they had been travelling since Sunday and were still many miles from their destination. "Why," said one of the new comers, "we could go the whole length of England and Scotland in that time, and they tell me, we're just nicely started on our journey now." He was one of the men who intended going to the Northwest, but was going to Toronto first to join a friend, who had preceded him to Canada.

They stated that in England there was a great movement for immigration to Canada. Many hundreds of workmen are out of employment, and they hail with delight the prospect of plenty of work at good wages in this country.

On the whole the immigrants were a creditable lot and will, it is believed, make first-class citizens.

Miniature Flood In Centre Of The City To-day

A Section of McDonel Street Under Water—Drain Was Choked Up—Sewer Pipe Not Large Enough—Mr. Hicks' Wood Yard Suffers—Water in Creek Rose Three Feet in Four Hours—Cellars Partially Filled.

A miniature flood occurred on McDonel street, between Aylmer and Bethune streets, to-day. The rain which fell this morning, together with the melted snow, appears to have converged on McDonel street, and in Mr. R. Hicks' woodyard there is this afternoon a small lake. Many of the cellars in that vicinity are partly filled with water, and in Mr. Hicks' stables it was from one and a half to two feet in depth, necessitating the removal of the horses. Waggons, wood and lumber are floating about in the small lake.

The cause of the abnormal height of the water there is due to the fact that the old drain is filled up with rubbish, preventing the entrance of the water into Paterson's creek. It is also said that the new sewer pipe which was laid a short time ago is insufficient in diameter to carry off the surplus water.

Paterson's Creek rose three feet this morning from 8 o'clock to 12.

On Bethune street between McDonel and Murray the water was running over the thresholds of the front doors of some of the houses, and was at one o'clock to-day steadily rising.

The Downie street creek was also over the road and sidewalk on that street between Dublin and Smith streets. It is at this point the council intends to divert the source of the stream and any person who saw the flooded condition of that section to-day must acknowledge the wisdom of the corporation's intended action.

"Water Lily" Enlargement Is Proceeding Well

The work of rebuilding the steamer Water Lily is proceeding satisfactorily. In a short time the hull will have been re-planked, and it is expected that inside of five weeks the little steamer, enlarged considerably, and improved very much, will be ready to resume her run.

She will give accommodation to a much larger number of passengers as well as having an increased area for freight storage.

Bill Posting Business Prospects Are Good

The present prospects are that this summer will be a most prosperous one for the bill-posters. Mr. Stocker stated to-day that his business had increased to such an extent that he had to place another wagon on the road. With the first of April a large number of big company month contracts for billboard space would commence, and thousands of sheets of posters have been sent out by the Bill-Posters' Association to the members of that body to be put up on Monday.

In the majority of cases the billboard publicity is used to supplement the newspaper advertising, the wise advertisers realizing that the latter is essential to a successful publicity campaign. It is understood that a number of new advertisers will be in the field this summer.

The Meetings In Montreal

Adjutant Jennings returned last night from Montreal, where he spent Sunday conducting special meetings in No. 1 Barracks. In the afternoon the adjutant spoke on the work with which he is identified, that of immigration. He describes the day's meetings as being most successful.

Group Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."—Mrs. William McGee, 42 Wright Avenue, Toronto.

Mr. Wm. Irwin Buys Furniture

Purchases the Chemong Park Hotel Furniture From Mr. George Brown.

Mr. Wm. Irwin yesterday bought the furniture of the Chemong Park Hotel from Mr. Geo. Brown, who for a number of years has conducted the business. An auction sale was announced, but before the hour for the sale Mr. Irwin bought the goods by private sale. It is understood that the hotel will be leased to a gentleman who will conduct it this summer. This will be good news to the many persons in this city who spend part of the summer at Chemong.

Military Camp Site Unsettled

Military Council at Ottawa Has Made No Selection.

Special to The Examiner.

Ottawa, March 27th. — The Military Council met at noon to-day, but the camp site question was not discussed. It is thought, however, that there will be a meeting soon and a definite arrangement made as to where the site will be — at Peterborough, Cobourg or Kingston.

Mrs. A. St. A. Smith Died In Keene

Lady Well Known in Peterboro' Passed Away To-day.

A sad shock was given her many friends in this city to-day when it was learned that Mrs. A. St. A. Smith had died at her home in Keene this morning. The blow was all the more severe because of its suddenness. She had been ill only since last Friday, and the first that many of her friends here knew of her illness was when they learned that she was dead. Pneumonia was the cause of her death, and the severity of the disease, coupled with the fact that she was worn out by her constant attendance upon, and anxiety for the condition of her little son, Harold, who is also very ill with the same disease, account for her sudden death.

Prior to Friday she was suffering from a cold, but nothing serious was anticipated. On that day, however, she took to her bed, and rapidly sank until her death, which occurred this morning at 11.30.

The late Mrs. Smith, whose maiden name was Mary Denne, was the third daughter of Mrs. Henry Denne, of this city, and was thirty-seven years of age. Fourteen years ago she was married to her now sorrowing husband, who at the present time is manager of the Bank of Toronto at Keene, but who for a number of years was accountant of the branch of the same bank here. About three years ago Mr. Smith was promoted to the managership of the Bank of Toronto, at Millbrook, and two years later was entrusted with opening a new branch of the Bank at Keene, where he has since resided. Mrs. Smith leaves besides her husband, two sons, Harold and Harry, and two brothers and eight sisters. The brothers are Messrs. T. H. G., and Roland, of Peterborough, and the sisters, Misses Margaret, May, Eva, Emily, Helen, Hattie and Gertrude, all except Miss Eva living in this city, the latter being in Sioux City, Iowa, and Mrs. Graham, of Kingston. Funeral from Mrs. Denne's residence, 723 George street, to Little Lake Cemetery on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The Barber's Cash Register Stolen

Was Taken With its Contents in Daylight.

A prominent local barber is to-day mourning the loss of his cash register. It appears that yesterday afternoon while the staff were temporarily out of the shop, someone entered and made off with the register, which, it is understood, contained considerable cash.

When the proprietor of the shop returned, he was surprised to find that the register, with the cash, had disappeared. It was quick work, because the men were only out of the shop a very short time, and the supposition is that it was no amateur who pinched the cash.

The proprietor has a well founded suspicion as to the person on whom to fasten the deed, and it is understood that his past record is one which would tend to the belief that he was entirely innocent.

The proprietor of the shop states that the best thing the guilty person can do is to return the register, or there may be some unpleasant proceedings.

We invite you to an early inspection of our high-grade collections of wall-papers, and novelties for spring, 1906. It is no exaggeration to say that we have the most beautiful papers in high-art treatments. Come and admire the new stripes, grass cloth effects, burlaps, Art Nouveau, Tapestry papers, etc. A. H. In a Class by Itself

It is quite true FERROL is an emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and a particularly good one at that. But it combines Iron and Phosphorus with the Oil, and these are just what are needed to make the emulsion perfect and they are just what all other emulsions lack.

FERROL

is unique because

It combines Iron and Phosphorus with Cod Liver Oil.

It is pleasant to take and easy to digest.

It holds the record for increasing the weight (95½ lbs from the use of 25 bottles).

The formula is freely exposed and its bona-fides are vouched for by eminent analysts in Canada, the United States and Great Britain.

It is endorsed by prominent physicians of all schools.

It is used in all the leading Hospitals, Sanitariums and other Public Institutions.

The London (Eng.) Lancet, after careful analysis in its own laboratory, fully endorses it.

We are prepared to substantiate all the above statements.

POOR PACKAGE DYES MAKE Women Miserable and Cross

Diamond Dyes

Have Made Millions of Wives Mothers and Daughters Happy and Contented.

Women who buy and use any of the adulterated, weak and worthless package dyes put up in imitation of the reliable and never-failing DIAMOND DYES, must expect to meet with sad trials and disappointments in the home.

Crude package dyes with only fancy names to recommend them, and sold by some dealers for the sake of large profits, are the direct cause of much of the feminine bad temper and irritableness manifested in many homes.

If our women and girls would avoid trouble, loss of goods and hard cash, they must insist upon getting the DIAMOND DYES whenever home dyeing work is to be done. One ten-cent package of the time-tried DIAMOND DYES will always colour more goods than will two packages of other dyes, and give brighter, fuller, more brilliant and more lasting shades. Once used, DIAMOND DYES become the chosen dyes for all well-regulated homes.

Send your name and address to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P.Q., and you will receive free of cost new Dye Book, Card of Dyed Cloth Samples and Booklet in verse, entitled "The Long Johns' Trip to the Klondike."

Summer Hockey In Brantford

Mr. J. W. Matthews of Brantford, stated to-day to the Expositor, that as soon as the rink had been fitted up for roller skating he intended to organise a polo club. Roller skating polo is played on practically the same principle as hockey, except that a rubber ball is used. Mr. Matthew has received assurances from nearly all the hockey players in town that they intend to play the game. There is a possibility that a city polo league will be formed.

Faith

You cannot be expected to have faith in Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, as a cure for Colds, Coughs and all diseases of the air passages, if you have not tried it. We have faith in it, and we guarantee it. If it doesn't cure you it costs you nothing. If it does it costs you 25c. That's fair. Try it to-day.

Shiloh has cured many thousands of the most obstinate cases, and we do not hesitate to say that it will cure any Cold, Cough, Throat or Lung trouble. If we did not believe this we would not guarantee it. Shiloh has had an unbroken record of success for thirty years. It has stood every possible test without failure. Further is found in the many testimonials of those who have tried Shiloh and been cured. Mrs. Archie Taylor, Asaph, Pa., writes—"I bought a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure and found it very beneficial. I have two children, and they had a terrible cough. I gave them something I could get at any store, but it failed to relieve them, so I bought a bottle of Shiloh. We gave it to the children when they went to bed, and they slept all night. It cured them immediately. I shall always keep it in the house."

All Saint's W. A. Have Closed Splendid Year

Reports of the Officers Presented Yesterday Afternoon at Annual Meeting—Parochial Collections Exceed Those of Any Previous Year—Bishop Stringer Gave Very Fine Address on Mission Work in the Eskimo District.

A RECORD ATTENDANCE GRACED THE OCCASION

The annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' church was held yesterday afternoon in the basement of the church from 3.30 to 5 o'clock. The room was filled with members of the Auxiliary, the meeting being the largest and most successful in the history of the institution. The reports of the different officers were presented, showing a most successful year in every respect. All the members have laboured faithfully in the cause, and the Auxiliary was never in a position to do as effective work as it is now.

The proceedings were opened with a hymn, and prayer by Mr. Major.

Miss Chamberlen, the president, then read her address in which she expressed her sincere gratitude to her sister officers and members for the assistance rendered her in the transaction of the business of the Auxiliary.

The report of Mrs. Latimer, the energetic secretary, was very optimistic, and the financial portion of the statement was particularly gratifying. She stated that the average attendance at the regular meetings numbered 16.

Mrs. Gilbert, treasurer, was the last officer of the Auxiliary to present an annual statement, and her report disclosed a comfortable balance on the credit side of the ledger.

Mrs. Bloss, president, and treasurer of the Junior Auxiliary, pre-a report dealing with that branch of the work. The Junior Auxiliary lends much assistance to the principal institution and its help and co-operation are an important factor in the successful carrying on of the work in general. That department is also in a very flourishing condition, financially and numerically.

Mrs. Buller, the parochial secretary, gave the pleasing information, that the church collections during the past year were larger than at any time since the church has been established, a condition of affairs that the members may well feel proud of. The fact that the treasury of the church has been so perceptibly swollen is due in no small degree to the energetic work of the parochial collectors. Mrs. Buller, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Metherel, Mrs. Hickey, Miss Chamberlen, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Williams, Miss Hutchinson, Mrs. Hopkins and Mrs. Best.

BISHOP STRINGER.

Bishop Stringer gave a delightful talk on the Esquimaux. This topic, which he so cleverly dealt with, was particularly interesting to the Auxiliary, as most of their contributions go to support the missions and missionary work in the district where the Esquimaux live. He showed and described several of their curios, the dress they wore, the deer skin shoe-packs, the peculiar pipe the women smoke, the knives the men and women use, and numerous other articles of domestic and tribal importance and use among among the almond-eyed residents of the frigid Arctic regions.

The women, said His Lordship, are beautiful needle workers, and he displayed several splendid specimens of their work.

The Bishop's address was of about three-quarters of an hour's duration, and was most helpful and instructive. The speaker urged the necessity of more help in the northern mission field and commended the Auxiliary for the splendid support they had already given the work.

A most successful meeting was closed by the Bishop pronouncing the benediction. Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES Itching, Blind, Bleeding, Protruding Piles, Druggists are authorized to refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

A New Saw Mill For Young's Point

Messrs. O. Dunn, of this city, and Edward Young, Young's Point, are making preparations for the rebuilding of their saw-mill which was burned last July at Young's Point. A large quantity of timber is ready to be manufactured and the erections will be proceeded with at once.

The new structure will be a modern one, equipped with the latest machinery and a building worthy of the enterprising little village of Young's Point. The dimensions of the mill will be 60 x 22 feet.

New Engine Test This Afternoon

This afternoon the new fire engine which the city purchased from the Waterous Engine Works Company, is being tested under the direction of Mr. Hugh Cameron, through whose agency the sale was effected. The original intention was to have had the test made to-morrow, but since the council would be away in Ottawa it was decided to have the test a day earlier. Mr. Cameron arrived in the city last night and is conducting a test this afternoon.

IN MEMORIAM.

The following lines are composed by a friend as in memory of Earl Francis Doran, who died on February 5th, 1906, at the early age of four years eight months and twenty-six days.

A precious one from us has gone,
His pain and sufferings past;
And all his work on earth is done
He is numbered with the blest.

This little bud so young, so fair,
Called home by earthly doom,
Just come to show how sweet a flower
In Paradise would bloom.

Ere sin could harm or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care,
The budding flower to Heaven conveyed,
And bade it blossom there.

His loving parents will often mourn
When their journey they recall
For five in number they left their home
But only four return.

On the 27th day of December
They left their happy home
Go spend one month, a long promised visit,
With friends they loved so dear.

In joy and pleasure the month sped o'er,
But oh! their journey was dampened so;
On the day they must start on their homeward trip
Poor little Earl was taken sick.

And all the work of loving hands
By parents and friends given
Could but a moment break the chain
That linked their darling to Heaven.

The morning of February 5th arrives
Noon brings the word "he is yet alive"
Slowly comes round the twilight of day
At 7.10 in the evening Earl passes away.

Yes, I know you miss your darling
Grieve for him when you're alone.
God was kind to lend him to you,
Kinder still to take him home.

Sometimes you perhaps will wonder
Why God took Earl away.
You'll all know why He took him
When the mists have cleared away.

Ye might have pictured him as noble
Had he lived to manhood years,
But remember he is happier
Than if he lived for years.

Pick up all his little playthings
Hide them carefully away
They will make you weep so often
Make you think of days gone by.

He for earth was not intended
His home is with his Heavenly band
His bright being is extended
In a sweet happier land.

For God who doeth all things well
And always works in love
Saw best to take him to Himself
In yon bright home above.

We wish he'd stayed, but God knew best;
So sent His angels to give him rest,
With tear-stained face and aching heart
We say farewell when we must part.

—A Friend in Sympathy.

IN MEMORIAM.

In memoriam of Lillian Isabella Towns, who died March the 14th, 1906, aged two years and five months.

Little daughter, thou hast departed,
And we miss your handsome face;
Tears we've shed, when broken hearted,
Thinking of your fond embrace.

Death deprived us of your charms,
Leaves us lonely to lament,
Took you away from all alarm
To the home of bright content.

Where you'll know no grief nor sorrow,
Where you'll feel no pangs of pain,
In the land, where each to-morrow,
Joys and bliss shall ever reign.

Still we can't but give expression
To nature's forcing keen demand
Thinking of death's quick decision
To take you away from our command.

Thinking of your chat so pleasant,
Thinking of your smile so bright,
Thinking how your sweet eyes glistened
When your parents come in sight.

Thinking how in your last illness,
Patiently you bore the pain,
Smiling as to show your willingness,
Never flinched nor did complain.

Isabel is up in Heaven,
God has called her for His own,
Bliss with angels. He has given
Before His bright eternal throne.

Let us pray, when we are called on,
That we, too, in bliss shall dwell,
In the land where grief's unknown,
Forever with sweet Isabel.

Tea Flavor and Strength

THE greater body and richness of Indian tea when combined with the delicately flavored but thinner tea of Ceylon, produces that "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea—a tea that is strong and goes further—requires less to make a cup of equal strength than any brand of Ceylon tea alone.

Red Rose Tea combines the strength and richness of Indian tea and the delicacy and fragrance of Ceylon tea.

A Splendid Lecture At All Saint's

His Lordship, the Bishop of Selkirk, Speaks on the Klondyke—The Illustrations Were Very Realistic — Possibilities of the Vast Frozen North—Apparently Great Future for Conrad City as Quartz Mining Centre.

THE ATTENDANCE WAS VERY LARGE

His Lordship Bishop Stringer, of Selkirk, gave a very comprehensive and eloquent discourse on the Klondyke, at All Saints' church, last night, beautifully illustrated by one hundred splendid limelight views. His Lordship is a very fluent and lucid speaker and has the happy faculty of making himself thoroughly understood.

The audience that listened intently to his able lecture was one of the largest that ever graced All Saints' Church, and not only were the seats full but the aisles and vestry as well, and people were crowding the steps that lead to the church door proper. The views depicted the scenes in the hardships of actual experience in mission work in the Klondyke and Herschell Island, which is within the Arctic Circle, and the most northerly post of the Hudson Bay Company. Several towns and cities were shown on the canvas, probably the principal views being of Dawson City, the Yukon capital and mining centre, Car Cross, White Cross, Bullion City, and Conrad City, a place of great promise. Superb sketches of the mining country were also shown, and a minute and instructive description of the different methods of mining was given. The story of the discovery of the Klondyke by Archdeacon Macdonald in '61 was one of the most interesting features of the address, and it was told how the reverend gentleman sent specimens of the gold over to his name in London, England. His find of the precious metal created a sensation at the time, but the interest subsequently waned, and it was not until 1890 that the first real "gold fever" seized the treasure-seekers and caused them to direct their footsteps to the frozen north to prospect for the much sought after metal. The methods of travelling in the Klondyke and vicinity were also clearly described, and were very interesting to the audience. There are many methods of transportation, chief among which are by river boats, Peterborough canoes, dogs and sleds, snowshoes, stages and narrow gauge railways. The pictures of the native Indians and Esquimaux in their native garb, and their places of habitation, as well, were shown. Their houses are of snow, logs and sawed lumber.

Conrad City was referred to as being rich in possibilities. Its rock is rich in quality, the mining of which is likely to become a great industry. Colonel Conrad, after whom the city was named, was in Toronto a short time ago, and formed a company with a capital of one and a half million dollars for the purpose of carrying on this industry. Conrad City is apparently a place of much wealth, and judging from appearances, if its natural resources are properly worked, will be productive of much wealth to those who follow up the quartz mining industry.

Several views of churches and mission houses were shown, and a picture of Bishop Bompas, "Apostle of the North," who has laboured incessantly in that region for the furtherance of the Christian faith.

The lecture was interspersed with hymns.

Special illustrations of the North-west Mounted Police, that fearless body that has for so many years fully safeguarded Western and Northern Canada, were thrown on slide, and several of the barracks were also shown. A silver collection was the only admission fee charged and the proceeds will be equally divided between the W. A's of St. Luke's and All Saint's churches.

To Loosen The Cough

AND BRING ABOUT A THOROUGH CURE OF COLDS, USE

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

It is sometimes dangerous to stop a cough.

The aim should be to loosen the cough, relieve the tightness and pain in the chest, and aid expectoration, so that the obstructing and irritating mass may be passed out of the air passages.

This is exactly what is accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

It is not a mere cough mixture, and not intended to stop the cough, but rather to cure the cold.

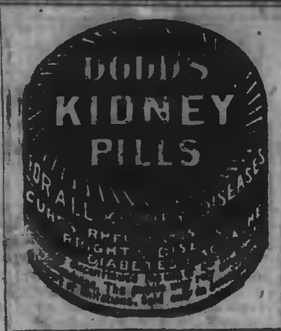
If you have tickling in the throat, pains and tightness in the chest, sensations of irritation, of oppression or suffocation, this great family medicine will afford almost instant relief, and thoroughly overcome the cold which gives rise to these symptoms.

Not only is Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine a positive cure for croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and severe chest colds, but is also a preventive of all diseases of the lungs.

It has time and again proven its right to a place in every home, and is the stand-by in thousands of families.

Miss Ada O'Brien, Cape Cove, Gaspe County, Que., writes: "Eight months ago I was taken with a severe cough, which lasted three months, and though I had tried all sorts of medicines, they failed to do me any good. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and I was completely cured by two bottles. I can recommend it as a splendid medicine."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.



HERE'S A WAY TO SAVE DOCTOR BILLS.

Physicians Give Free Advice by Which Parents May Profit.

It was an association of gentlemen, professionally physicians and chemists, all of whom were born in the drug trade, so to speak, and who have been connected with it all their lives, who first gave to the world Castoria, which as everyone knows is a pleasant and effective remedy for the ailments of infants and children. It has always been recognized as a meritorious preparation, and its reward has been the greatest popularity ever enjoyed by any remedy ever put upon the market; attained, not by flamboyant advertising or appeals to ignorance or vulgar prejudice, but by inherent merit. All physicians recommend it, and many, very many, prescribe it.

Much is printed nowadays about big families. Dr. William J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., is the father of one of these much-read-about families. Here is what he says:

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Medical journals are reluctant to discuss proprietary medicines. Hall's Journal of Health, however, says: "Our duty is to expose danger and record the means for advancing health. The way for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health by regulating the system, not by stupefying it, and our readers are entitled to the information." 14-w

Fife Wheat Is Manitoba Hard

The death of Mr. William Fife of Otonabee Township, recalls the importation into Canada of the celebrated Fife wheat, known also as "Scotch" and as Glasgow" wheat. It is a spring wheat that grades as "Manitoba Hard" in the Northwest. So far as the history of the grain is known it came originally from Russia to Scotland. A Scottish farmer experimented with a small quantity of wheat imported from Dantzic, and he was dissatisfied with the result, except in the case of three heads growing from a single grain. From these three heads came all the wheat of this rust-proof and highly glutinous variety now found in Canada and the United States. The first man who imported it into Canada was the late Mr. John Fife, whose son has just died in Otonabee, at the age of 79.—Globe.

It is rather a proud thing that a resident of the best township in Canada should have been instrumental in introducing into Canada the best wheat in the world, "No. 1 Manitoba Hard."

May Change Anti-Dancing Footnote

That the famous footnote in the Methodist discipline prohibiting dancing, theatre-going and other so-called questionable amusements, would probably be modified was debated at the next Methodist General Conference, was the opinion expressed by the Rev. E. N. Baker at Monday morning's meeting of the Toronto Methodist Ministerial Association. Rev. Mr. Baker and the Rev. E. W. Hill each read papers calling attention to the various important matters which would have to be considered at the conference. It is expected that several of the church services, including the baptismal service, and the covenant service, will be changed.—Toronto News.

Pitchfork Struck Him On Shoulder

A man named Manley was somewhat severely injured at a local livery stable yesterday morning. A pitchfork was accidentally dropped from a hay-loft, striking the unfortunate man on the left shoulder, inflicting a painful wound. He was removed to the Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance. His condition is not regarded as serious, and it is expected that he will be recovered sufficiently to resume his duties in a short time.

TUESDAY, MARCH 27, 1906.

FAITHFUL TO A GREAT PRINCIPLE.

The Wiarton Canadian announces with grave serenity that at the annual meeting of the North Bruce Conservative Association at Tara "the Conservatives of this riding did themselves honour in being true to their traditions, in that no officer of the Government should hold office in the Association, or take a prominent part in politics generally. Since the last meeting of the Conservative Association over a year ago, nearly every officer and member of the Executive Committee has secured a public office or offices. There is no howl about that fact. Every one of them appears entitled to what they secured, and are capable of filling the positions they were appointed to. At the meeting each man of these resigned, and uninterested persons were elected in their places. It is customary for the officers to hold their positions for two years, and in this particular it was hard. Mr. R. E. Moore, who was one of the most efficient officers the Association has ever had, gave up the presidency cheerfully, though in office only one year, and his presence, his advice and his ability will prove a distinct loss to the Association. But a principle is a principle, and he willingly bowed to a principle he has fought for for years. The other officers followed Mr. Moore's course promptly. Such actions cannot but strengthen the party, as it shows the members of it in North Bruce are anxious to be honest with themselves and with their leaders in the great cause of Conservatism."

This reveals, says the Toronto News, a singularly happy and disinterested temper among North Bruce Conservatives. The accession of the party to power seems to have resulted in a perfect shower of blessings in the peninsula. In the first place, the officers of the Association are advanced to public offices, and the vacancies in the Association filled by other good Conservatives who thus also receive a special mark of distinction, and have only to advance one step further in order to get on the Provincial payroll. Nothing could be more satisfactory, and nothing more eloquent of the certain reward which awaits the disinterested patriot.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. DRYDEN.

It is a satisfaction to know that the Hon. John Dryden has been nominated to a seat in the Imperial Commission which has been named to consider the condition of Irish agriculture. It is doubtful if any other man in Canada has quite Mr. Dryden's qualifications for such an appointment and while his nomination confers a certain honour on this country, We may be sure that the Commission will be greatly strengthened by his presence and advice. It will be a long time before Ontario will have a better Minister of Agriculture than was Mr. Dryden, and as the years pass, he will receive in his own province an increasing recognition of the splendid work he has done for its agricultural interests. —Toronto News.

Evidence accumulates, justifying the inquiry, as to whether the people of Ontario made any improvement in exchanging the capable ministers of the late Ross Government for the aggregation that now controls the destinies of Ontario. The people wanted a change and they got it, and there is no very outstanding proof that the situation has been bettered. We have now a Finance Minister who boasts a surplus derived from sources of revenue provided by his Liberal predecessors in office, a Finance Minister who shows a magnificent extravagance in adding to the provincial expenditure, a Finance Minister who has shown his great ability in finance by selling an Ontario dollar for 96 cents.

FORESIGHT.

The American members of the International Waterways Commission, have submitted their report. This contains at least one significant paragraph. After referring to the impairment of the scenic beauty of the falls by power development, the report says:

"In return for the impairment of the falls thus far authorized, the state of New York will receive practically nothing for the 342,000 horse power authorized on that side, and the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park will receive an annual rental of $270,000, or an average of $5 each for horse power, for the 454,000 authorized on the Canadian side."

This is a fine tribute to the foresight of the Liberal Government. It has provided an important source of annual revenue for the province, while the wide-awake Americans have neglected to protect the interests of their people. The annual revenue of $270,000, supposing no new development is permitted, represents a capitalized sum, at 4 per cent., of nearly $7,000,000—$6,750,000. Mr. Whitney, the leader of the present Government, would have swept all this revenue away. He declared in favour of making Niagara Falls Power as "free as air," and added that if he ever had the power he would see that this was done. But since he has come into the responsibility of office he has wisely refrained from disturbing so valuable a source of revenue, as he has restrained his hand from abolishing succession duties, and the tax on corporations, as he had threatened to do. Foresight is one of the most important ingredients in statesmanship, and the Liberal Government deserves the gratitude of the people for protecting their interests in the way they have done in connection with the development of power at Niagara Falls.

BANISH THE BAR.

The following resolution adopted by the London, Ont., Temperance League, in regard to the new Provincial license measure, is commended to the Review, which considers that the Whitney Government has done all that temperance people expect it is to do.

"We consider that the bill is not calculated to reduce the number of licenses or the amount of liquor sold to any appreciable extent, as is not such a measure as will satisfy the advanced temperance sentiment as expressed in the referendum."

This shows that some temperance people hold the Whitney Government responsible for carrying out their wishes, as expressed in the vote on the prohibition referendum, which they regard as equivalent to a demand to "banish the bar.

A DOUBTING THOMAS

Had His Failing Hair Stopped, and Dandruff Cured, Without Faith.

H. B. Fletcher, Battle, Mont., Oct. 20th, 1899, says: "Like many other people I have been troubled for years with dandruff and within the last few months my hair came out so badly that I was compelled to have what I had left clipped very closely. A friend recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I confess that I doubted his story but I gave Herpicide a trial; now my hair is as thick as ever, and entirely free of dandruff. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect." Herpicide is a delightful hair dressing for regular use.

Evangelists Said Farewell

A large number were present at the meeting in the Gospel Hall last night. Brief addresses were delivered by Messrs. Pearson and Black, the visiting evangelists, and they together with Evangelist Gilchrist, bade good-bye to Peterborough friends. They left the city this morning. Evangelist W. P. Douglass is still here and will remain for some time.

Our testimonials are not from people in the States, but from your own city. Dozens of cases that have been under their physician's care for weeks and even months, have been cured by one or two bottles of Dr. Roscoe's Rheumatic Remedy.

A banquet will follow the initiation ceremonies.

Mysterious Letter From "Observer"

The Examiner received this morning a short letter for publication, signed "Observer." It is difficult to understand the drift of the letter or to what circumstance its origin is due, and without more light on the subject it cannot be printed. With the letter came enclosed a sum of money, for what purpose cannot be imagined. If the writer will call at the Examiner office the money will be returned. If not called for within a few days it will be turned over to the funds of the Children's Aid Society.

If Mothers Delight in Health Babies, They Should Feed Them On

Lactated Food

The large demand for Lactated Food is not due to extensive advertising, but to the fact that those who use it recommend it to their friends and neighbours. No one knows better than the experienced mother the importance of giving the proper food to a baby, and for this reason those who have used Lactated Food feel they are doing the greatest possible kindness when they recommend it to their friends.

If mothers want their babies to be healthy and happy, let them stick close to a diet of pure Lactated Food. Specialists in children's disorders prescribe it, intelligent parents recommend it, and babies living upon it show how perfectly the food is adapted to infant life by their healthy condition, their plump, happy faces and their bright eyes.

Methuen Farmer's Painful Accident

Mr. Edward Yeomans Had Finger Crushed.

Special to The Examiner

Lasswade, March 26. — Mr. A. Wilson is moving to Castleton. He will be greatly missed by his large number of friends here. We wish him success.

We are all glad to know that Ambrose Dingman is recovering from his illness.

The McCall brothers are rushing business with their new saw-mill.

Mrs. H. Woodbeck was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cassan on Sunday.

Mr. George Woodbeck arrived home from New Ontario, on Saturday. His friends are all glad to see him again. He gives a good account of the country and thinks that it is a long way ahead of Chandos for farming.

We have been experiencing real March weather for the past few days.

Mr. A. Weese is still drawing logs in the Seeney camp.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Newberry, and daughter, have gone back to their home in Moosejaw, after spending the winter with friends in the East.

Mrs. W. E. Daniels of Coe Hill, has been visiting her mother for the past week.

Mr. Edward Yeomans of Methuen, met with a painful accident on March 24th. While he was untieing his horses one of them became unmanageable and caught his hand with the rope cutting two of his fingers very badly. Dr. Bell was soon summoned and the fingers bound up, but it is thought they may have to be amputated yet.

Mr. J. R. Owens has moved his family into the Shaw house and it looks quite homelike to see some one occupying the house again.

OBITUARY.

MRS. (REV) ROSS.

The death occurred last night of Maggie Greig, wife of Rev. J. Ross, Boswell street at the family residence. Mrs. Ross had been ailing for some time and on Friday last received a stroke of apoplexy which was the cause of death yesterday. She was a daughter of the late Alexander Greig, of Oshawa, where she had a large number of sympathizing friends. She was married to Mr. Ross in 1878 who at that time was working in the Presbyterian Mission fields at Waubaushene and and the Ottawa River. The following year he laboured at Edsn Mills near Guelph, subsequent to the completion of his theological course. He was afterwards called to Bethesda and Alnwick, near Rice Lake, where they have still a host of friends, and about four years ago came to Peterborough, and have since resided in Peterborough. Mrs. Ross always took an active part in church work and assisted her husband in his Christian duties. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, W. O. Ross, attending Medical College, Toronto and also two sisters, Mrs. Steele, of Germany, and Mrs. Thos. Stewart. Dr. Greig, of Toronto, is a brother of the deceased lady.

The funeral will take place to-morrow from the residence at 2.30 p.m., and the remains will be buried in the Little Lake Cemetery. Dr. Torrance of St. Paul's, will perform the funeral services.

JAMES McWILLIAMS.

Yesterday afternoon at 5.15, at the family residence, No. 7 Romaine street, the death occurred of Mr. James McWilliams, from pneumonia. The deceased was only 33 years of age. He had just been ill since Sunday last and his death came as a shock to his sorrowing wife and friends. He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife, three small children, and also two brothers, John and Thomas, of Weir street, and two sisters, Mrs. F. Mahood, of the River Road, Otonabee, and Miss Eliza, at home, survive him. He had been a lifelong resident of Peterborough, and was a much-respected one among all who knew him. His father predeceased him last August, but his mother is still living. For the past seven years he had been a member of the Odd Fellows Otonabee Lodge, which order will have charge of the burial. The funeral will leave the late residence of the deceased, at 8.30 p.m. to-morrow, and the remains will be interred in Little Lake Cemetery.

MARTIN LAWRIE PARNELL.

Among the numerous deaths chronicled to-day is that of Mr. Martin Lawrie Parnell, who passed away this afternoon at his residence 40 Union street. Death was due to erysipelas, after a very short illness. Mr. Parnell was 54 years of age and a much-respected resident by all who knew him. He was a son of the late Richard Parnell, who will be remembered by many throughout the county. He had been a lifelong resident of Peterborough County, and at one time worked with his father on his farm in Smith Township. He married his wife, formerly Miss Lee, about 28 years ago, who still survives him. The deceased man leaves three sons, Richard, Harbur, and Roy, and one sister, Edith, all of Peterborough. Three sisters, Mrs. Spentry and Mrs. L. Turner, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Chambers, of Montreal, also survive him. The funeral will take place on Thursday from his late residence, and the body will be buried in the Little Lake Cemetery.

Sir,—As the Saturday nights pass by, and being a close observer of the long hours, the many merchants indulge in, it seems to me something might be done to give the merchants more rest before Sunday so they won't be too tired for Church Sunday morning and not only that, but the business could be done in much shorter time if the people would only come along. I know of several cases where good people will walk up and down George street enjoying themselves until 9.30 o'clock and then come in and order goods to be sent up. Now if the council would pass a by-law to close at nine then everybody would be out early, or in other words, "Johnny on the spot".

May Prohibit Exportation Of Electric Power

Government Proposes to Exercise Strict Control.

QUESTION OF EXPORTATION

Hon. Mr. Hyman's Statement in the House — Canadian Industries Must Have First Consideration—Preserve Scenic Beauty of Niagara Falls —Premier Refuses to Suspend Coasting Laws—Fenian Raid.

Ottawa, March 27.—In the House yesterday a Federal policy for water-powers, which will prevent the export of energy developed at Niagara to an extent to starve Canadian industries, was announced by the Minister of Public Works. The matter arose in discussion on the motion by Mr. Monk for a return describing all water-powers under Dominion control. Mr. Hyman said there was no doubt of Federal control over the export of electric power. The Government had therefore laid down a policy to govern their course, several applications being now before them. Right to export would only be granted subject to revocation at short notice; there would be no claim against either Provincial or Dominion Government arising out of such revocation, and the companies would be subject to such rules and regulations as the Government saw fit to impose. Action would also be taken to prevent spoliation of the scenic beauty of the Falls.

Mr. Hyman's Statement.

Hon. C. S. Hyman heartily sympathized with the object of Mr. Monk's motion. In the past so little had been thought either by the Provincial or Dominion Governments of the value of these waterpowers that up to the present, upon the whole question of jurisdiction in reference to them, all were very much at sea. The Dominion Government had control of the Chaudiere power on the Ottawa River on the Ontario side by virtue of the fact that the Ontario Government surrendered it some years ago, but power on the Quebec side was sold by the Quebec Government, with the land, to private owners. The question of Niagara Falls power is being dealt with by the International Waterways Commission, and he hoped that the commission would be able to make such a report as would be accepted by the Governments of the United States and the Dominion, and lead to a treaty which would meet with the approval of the people of both nations. Companies had been authorized to develop power at Niagara Falls by both the Dominion and Provincial Governments, and in the charters granted by the Ontario Government attempts have been made to control the operations of these companies. Those companies holding Dominion charters were under the jurisdiction of the Federal Government. The jurisdiction of the Ontario Government in granting these powers to different companies was one which might very well be questioned—(Mr. Maclean—Hear, hear)—but, whether this was the proper time to raise the question he was not prepared to say.

Export of Power.

But there was one point that Mr. Maclean had referred to—in regard to the export of power generated at the Falls from Canada to the United States—upon which he did not think there could be any question. Jurisdiction in reference to that matter must remain in the Dominion Government. The situation, however, was a difficult one, from the fact that authority has been given for the development of a large quantity of horse-power on the Canadian side, and for the Government to say not a single horse-power should be exported to the United States might very largely interfere at this moment with the development of power, always provided that we on this side of the boundary are not prepared to utilize that power at present. He thought the Government had laid down a policy with reference to the disposal of power which for all time to come would give them full power to meet the requirements of this side of the boundary. Applications have already been made for authority to put wires across Niagara River for the purpose of carrying electric power. He did not think, for the reasons stated, that the Government should say, "You shall not export electric power." What the Government proposed to say was: "In the first place, that any permission to be given is revocable on short notice; in the second place, there shall be no claim, on any possible account, either against the Dominion or any other Government, for the revocation of any authority that may be temporarily given for the export of power; and, in the third place, to any company asking power to export the Government proposed to say it should conform to all rules and regulations which have been made or which may hereafter be put in force in reference to the export of power."

With that carefully guarded he thought the Government would have to consider from time to time whether that power could be used in Canada, and they would have in their own hands, and entirely under their own control, the utilizing of every horse-power developed on this side of the river.

Scenic Beauty of the Falls.

In reference to preservation of the scenic beauties of the Falls, apart from sentiment, he believed they had a commercial value, and he hoped a solution would be arrived at by the commission whereby the development of power would not be allowed to impair those great natural beauties. Another meeting of that commission will be held shortly, and in the meantime they can be notified that no spoliation by power companies will be permitted.

A Hydrological Department.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier approved a suggestion by Mr. Bourassa that the Government should establish a hydrological department. Several other matters of importance arose during the day.

The Premier, discussing the proposal to make easy the suspension of coasting regulations in emergencies, more especially to meet such cases as that of Prince Edward, disapproved of that method, and thought a better one could be found.

Early in the afternoon the House had some amusement out of the Yukon rainmaker, and at 6 o'clock emerged to find the fast old-fashioned downpour of the season. A division last evening on the motion to recognize the services of Fenian raid veterans revealed a Government majority of fifty.

FATHER GAPON'S OPEN LETTER.

Replies to Sundry Allegations of Personal Misconduct.

St. Petersburg, March 27.—Father Gapon in an open letter yesterday replies to the attacks on his public and private life, announces that he has instructed his lawyer to bring an action for defamation of character against his detractors, and denies the charge of betraying and abandoning a girl while he was a prison chaplain. Gapon explains that, refusing to follow the rule of the orthodox church prohibiting the marriage of priests he took as his wife a girl whom he loved and that she is still living with him.

Gapon declares that of the $15,000 which Premier Witte gave for the restoration of the Gapon labor organization, he received only $3,500, all of which was used to help the workmen. The remainder was stolen by Mathiesenuity, the press agent. Regarding the charge of gambling at Monte Carlo with "mysterious money," Gapon says: "During the bloody uprising at Moscow I received money for literary work and while abroad, out of simple curiosity, I played for small stakes."

When he returned to St. Petersburg Gapon admits that he communicated with Count Witte, who gave him permission to live here, considering that his work was "constructive and not destructive."

The latter made a good impression, but Gapon's sincerity is sneeringly attacked by The Russ, which calls Gapon a friend of General Fullon (former chief of police of St. Petersburg), and a pensioner of Count Witte.

Awful Cruelties.

Moscow, March 27.—M. Teslinko, counsel for Miss Spiridonova, the 17-year-old girl who shot M. Luzhenovsky chief of the secret police at Tamboff, and who was found guilty on the charges, declares that the tortures of the Spanish inquisition were tame when compared with the cruelty the girl has been subjected to.

Off to Siberia.

Yalta, Caucasus, March 27.—The Governor-General has deported to Siberia five employees of a small bakery who recently went on strike.

Winnipeg, March 27.—According to the statement last night of F. Robbins, president of the union of the street car men, Winnipeg will have a strike on its hands before the week is over. The company has refused point blank to give in.

With a Razor.

Fort William, March 27.—J. P. Sowland, a guest at the Empire Hotel, suicided yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor.

More Terrible Than War!

More terrible than war, famine or pestilence is that awful destroyer, that hydra-headed monster, Consumption, that annually sweeps away more of earth's inhabitants than any other single disease known to the human race.

"It is only a cold, a trifling cough," say the careless, as the irritation upon the delicate mucous membrane causes them to hack away with an irritable tickling of the throat. When the irritation settles on the mucous surface of the throat, a cough is the result. To prevent Bronchitis or Consumption of the Lungs, do not neglect a cough however slight as the irritation spreading throughout the delicate lining of the sensitive air passages soon leads to fatal results. If on the first appearance of a cough or cold you would take a few doses of

Prospects Of a Long Session Of Local House

Legislature Has a Heavy Program Before It.

ONLY 32 MEMBERS PRESENT

Amendments to Mr. Hoyle's Bill Respecting Prospectuses Issued by Companies—Mr. MacKay's Interest in the Measure Leads to Valuable Suggestion—May Yet Be Adopted—Bills Advanced a Stage.

Toronto, March 27.—Very little business was transacted in the Legislature yesterday, largely owing to the absence of members, only 32 being in their seats in the House. An effort was made to advance a number of bills, but comparatively few could be taken up for the reason stated. The large number of private and public measures, as well as the importance of the Government bills on education, license law and railway matters, render it inevitable that the session will be prolonged, the opinion of old Parliamentary hands being that the House will not prorogue before May 10.

The House again went into committee on Mr. Hoyle's bill respecting prospectuses issued by companies.

Mr. MacKay, who has taken a lively interest in this measure, particularly with a view to protecting intending subscribers to the stock of companies, was informed that an amendment had been inserted that no payment could be made, under any circumstances, that was not specifically stated in the letters or supplementary letters patent. Mr. MacKay, who expressed himself as opposed to all payments of commissions to parties subscribing for stock, contended that if such were legalized they should appear on the prospectuses, and every amount so paid should be shown to every intending subscriber, else he need not pay his subscription. The point was discussed for a brief while, and finally it was decided that it would come up again when the bill was under consideration for third reading. This apparently indicates that the promoter of the bill and the Government members are not disinclined to accept the suggestion of the member for North Grey.

Second Readings.

Second readings were given Mr. McNaught's bill to make the expiry of the two years' term of office for the Board of Education coincide with that of the proposed two-year civic term, and Dr. Jaffeson's bill to allow cement and concrete structures to be included in fire limits with brick and stone structures. Several other bills were read a second time.

Mr. Little was allowed to introduce a bill respecting the North Midland Railway, although no petition had been presented and the time had passed. The Premier explained that the petition had been lost and was found only on Monday.

Confidence in Dr. Chase.

"My mother has kept Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as long as I can remember, and we are all well acquainted with their merits. I have used them for kidney and liver disease and they always helped me. Mother has had Dr. Chase's receipt book for twenty years and I tell you that it is a good one." —Mr. John Miller, South Saltspring, B.C.

Alien Labor Case Fails.

Toronto, March 27.—Magistrate Denison yesterday dismissed the charge against James G. Merrick, secretary of the Employers' Association, of infringing the labor law by bringing over Henry M. Perry, a lithographer and pressman, to work with Ralph, Clark & Co., last August. When it was stated that Perry told Merrick, and also a member of the firm, that he was born in Toronto, the magistrate remarked that Perry must have naturally thought he was a Canadian. It seemed that Perry got $16 a week in New York and $9 more in this city.

Explosions Kill Four Firemen.

New York, March 27.—Four firemen were killed and about a score of firemen and citizens were injured yesterday in a fire accompanied by a series of explosions that demolished a six-storey factory building at Bedford and Downing streets, in the Greenwich village district, on the lower west side. The damage is estimated at from $300,000 to $400,000. Three hundred men and women were in the factory when the first explosion occurred.

Latest News Of Sports

THE SEASON OF SUMMER SPORTS IS NOW AT HAND

Peterborough, It Is Said, Will Have an Intermediate C. L. A. Team This Summer--Will Peterborough and Lindsay be Refused Admittance to Midland Baseball League?--Other Sporting Gossip.

With the end of the hockey season at hand and spring in sight the thoughts of the sporting fraternity naturally turn to the sports that belong to summer, and more particularly to lacrosse, baseball and football. A word or two therefore about the prospects for these popular pastimes may not be out of place

Bright Lacrosse Prospects.

It is said by those who know that lacrosse will flourish in Peterborough this summer. The record of the team last year was a particularly good one and the national game regained the firm hold in the city which it had lost in the years preceding. The attendance at the games was very encouraging and great interest was manifested in the welfare of the team. The prospects this year are said to be of the brightest. One gentleman, and well qualified to speak on the subject, informed the Examiner that Peterborough would have an intermediate C.L.A. team this summer, and with the material in sight a twelve could be selected that would give the best of them a hard argument. Every member of last year's dozen is still available, and in addition several first class players have located in the city since last summer, and judging from their past performances, should have little difficulty in securing a berth on the Peterborough team. Among the new comers is A. Regan, the fast defence man of the Beaverton club, who played on the champion Peterborough rugby team this fall. Clarke, a home player from the famous Elora Rocks, is in the city, and will turn out with the bunch. He is said to be a very speedy player and should prove a decided acquisition to the locals. Mr. E. M. Best, of the Peterborough Club, has been nominated for the C. L. A. Council and his chances for election should be very bright. No better man could be elected for the position.

The Baseball Outlook.

With regard to baseball it is hard to say just what will be doing this summer. Although the season is almost here no steps have been taken to organize the team, although other clubs in the district have gotten under way. It behooves those interested in the game to get busy at once. If is known that there is a strong feeling among the clubs in the towns along the front that Peterborough and Lindsay should not be admitted to the Midland League this season. The objection is said to be that Peterborough and Lindsay are too far away from the front and destroy the compactness of the league. Whatever the objections are there is certain to be strong opposition offered at the annual meeting on Good Friday, to the admittance of these clubs, and unless the local management take some preventive steps the Peterborough club is likely to find itself outlawed.

In Lindsay, while the club has not yet organised, the fans are already talking baseball, and a Peterborough boy, who has been in Lindsay for some months, is the authority for the statement that the Scugog settlement will have a speedy nine this summer. The intention is to bring Curly McLaughlin, Lindsay's renowned south-paw, back from the west to do the twirling. It is rumoured that "Bill" Cinnamon, who has long since reached and passed the Ozlen stage, has decided to retire. This resolve, if carried out would be a severe loss to the small boys all along the circuit to whom the visit of the doughty Bill and his band of redskins is second in importance only to a circus or a minstrel parade. A Lindsay team without Bill Cinnamon would be like "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out.

Returning to the prospects in Peterborough, there should be no difficulty in rounding up a good bunch of players. All that is necessary is an energetic, capable manager, who will look after the team in the proper way. Last year the team reached the Midland League finals and there is no reason why they should not go a step farther this season. Of last year's team Quinlan, Graham, Callaghan, Shea, Connors, Sheridan and Pilling are still here. "Dubbie" Shea, the fast short stop, who played such consistent ball last year, and who led the bunch in batting, will likely remain in the city. Rattray, the back stop, is in Toronto at present but will return to Peterborough. Quinlan should be in great shape this year with the experience gained in the Midland League and should be able to shoot them over. With these players and the younger material at hand a nine could be corralled that would make them all skidoo.

Those interested should call a meeting at once as it is important that the club be started as soon as possible.

Football Prospects.

As far as association football is concerned the prospects for a good team were never brighter. The organization of the Peterborough Quakers means that at least a team representative of Peterborough has been formed. There is a wealth of material in the city and the soccer game should boom this season as never before.

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW

Thousands of women suffer untold miseries every day with aching backs that really have no business to ache. A woman's back wasn't made to ache. Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to help her bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Hours of misery at leisure or at work. If women only knew the cause. Backache comes from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause in the world.

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it's not to be wondered that they get out of order. Backache is simply their cry for help.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

will help you. They're helping sick, overworked kidneys—all over the world—making them strong, healthy and vigorous. Mrs. P. Ryan, Douglas, Ont., writes: "For over five months I was troubled with lame back and was unable to move without help. I tried all kinds of plasters and liniments but they were no use. At last I heard tell of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had used three-quarters of the box my back was as strong and well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

Grits Defeated A Second Time

Pleasant Social Evening Spent After the Game.

The Tories won again. By the appearance of their lead over the Grits—24 points—it looks as if the latter gave the game away. W. G. Morrow was the only Grit sleep who won; "Jimmy" was evened up with "Charlie" Brown. However, the great political fight is over and unlike most of that character, the greatest of harmony existed throughout.

Probably the most important incident of the evening's pleasantry was the short time spent in the rink parlours as the last end was concluded. Everybody, (whether spectator or player, was called in to partake of the hospitality of the generous members of the curling club. About sixty sat down to the long dining table decorated with sandwich, cake, fruit and coffee and an enjoyable social evening was spent.

At the conclusion of the regale, T. E. Brightman, the genial president, of the club, took his well-known place on the platform and addressed the gathering in a few appropriate words. W. G. Ferguson on behalf of the Grits acknowledged their defeat by better curlers. He also proposed the health of the Tory aggregation, which was very heartily drunk. Three rousing cheers were given the victors and the old familiar song "See them smiling" was sung. John A. Cameron responded with an eloquent speech and also proposed the toast to the Grits with the singing of "He's a jolly good fellow" and the usual cheers.

One of those delightful evenings which the curler knows how to produce was brought to a close with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King.

This is the result of the polling:—

Will Banquet Them On The 9th

The Date Fixed for the Complimentary Supper to Charlotte Street Team.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the City Hockey League was held last night at Lang & Maher's store, when the banquet to be tendered the Charlotte Street Guild team, the champions of the league, was considered. The date was fixed on Monday, April 9th, and the banquet will be held at McCallum's restaurant. President Clarke and Vice-President Maher were in attendance and members of other clubs in the league were also present. The committee in charge is making all preparations for the forthcoming affair which promises to be very successful.

Midland League's Annual Meeting

Baseball Managers Will Meet at Cobourg on Good Friday.

The annual meeting of the Midland League will be held in Cobourg on Good Friday afternoon. In former years the meeting has been held in the town where the President resides, but as the last annual meeting Bill Cinnamon had a vision of Lindsay landing the championship and so introduced a motion which was carried that in future the annual meeting should be held in the town which won the championship in 1906 and as a consequence the baseball magnates will journey there on Good Friday and discuss all the burning questions pertaining to the Midland League.

At the last gathering of the Midland League representatives they passed a motion increasing the umpire's fees to $4.00 and hotel expenses. Now it is rumoured that they want another increase. Better give them the gate receipts, probably the easiest way out of it.

BASEBALL

The Charlotte Street Guild Baseball team meets to-night in the Guild Room at 7.30, sharp, for the purpose of selecting a representative to attend a meeting of the Guild Baseball League at the Y.M.C.A. parlours Friday night.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Hamilton Times contains the following maxims on sport that any true sportsman may frame and hang up over his bed and read in the morning and at night:—

Follow sport for sport's sake, and be a sportsman. Get skill, but don't neglect your lessons; get strength, but keep within your strength.

Play the game within the rules and lose or win with honour.

True sportsmen are courteous and friendly in their sports.

A sportsman must have courage; a coward is not worthy of the name.

The umpire shall decide the play.

Honour for the victors but no derision for the vanquished.

The true sportsman is a good loser in his games.

The sportsman may have pride in his success, but not conceit.

HOCKEY

The Toronto Telegram pays its respects to Eric Hamber in the following terms:—

"Toronto and Ontario hockey loses in the transfer of Eric Hamber to Calgary, one of the best all-round athletes Toronto ever had. Whether it was in hockey, football or rowing, he was one of the best of the best. He was game and had the ability, and was not backward in using it."

Under the heading "Bouquet for a Thoroughbred", the following "tribute" has been handed to the Examiner:—

"Elder Burridale, the fast point of the Centrals played last night and showed his great ability as a stick-handler. He is a peach. Some of his rushes were of lightning character and when he got going he was pretty hard to stop. He is an excellent skater, has a very wicked wrist shot, checks and rushes in A 1 style. He is nearly as good as Indian, Wigwam, Nigger or Snowball Wade. The team that nabs Burridale next year will certainly make a catch. Hurrah for Leo Cider

A rather rough game of hockey was played last night at the Brock street rink from 7 to 8 o'clock, between the Thoroughbreds and the Mongrels. The former won by the score of 5-0. For the winners Davidson was a very speedy one and was very hard to stop. Hartley used his weight well and stopped and broke up several rushes. The line-up was as follows:—

Thoroughbreds.		Mongrels.
Meldrum	Goal.	Anderson
Burridalle	Point	Hartley
Fox	Cover	Perten
Fitzgerald	Rover	Pratt
Davidson	Centre	Mein
Carton	Right Wing	Warren
Long	Left Wing	Harrison

BASKET-BALL.

A good game is promised for Friday night when the Belleville Seniors and the Arrows will meet. Mr. Freund, the popular local tenor, will sing.

Omemee Marriage Leads To Divorce

W. H. Sargent Has to Face Charge in Vancouver, B.C.—Married His First Wife in Omemee in 1892—Later Married Another—Was Released on Charge of Bigamy—His Wife Now Sues for Divorce.

Readers of the Examiner will remember that some months ago an article was published in its columns from a Revelstoke, B. C., paper, in which reference was made to the case of W. H. Sargent, charged with bigamy. An interesting despatch from Vancouver to the Toronto News gives some additional information concerning it. The despatch follows:

Vancouver, March 26.—An exceedingly strange story involving episodes in the married life of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sargent and the peculiar legal opinions of some justice of the peace in Revelstoke is laid bare in the application of Mrs. Annie Yarie Sargent, of Revelstoke, for a divorce from her husband.

The peculiar points in connection with the affair are that last July Sargent is alleged to have journeyed from Toronto to Revelstoke, where he appeared before his legal wife and calmly told her that he had in Toronto married Grace Elizabeth Pinch, and he presented the second wife to the first in proof of his assertion.

Sargent Arrested.

The upshot of this action on the part of the husband was that the legal wife caused his arrest. Sargent was held in jail at Revelstoke for some days, and then came from some judicial mind the strange freak which set him at liberty. Sargent had been charged with bigamy, and it is set forth in an affidavit of Provincial Constable Upper that proofs of the man's marriage to Grace Pinch has been obtained from Toronto. Constable Upper declares in his affidavit the following unheard of reason for the discharge of Sargent from custody:

"On the said charge of bigamy the said Sargent was discharged on account of the information being laid in this jurisdiction instead of the place where the alleged offence had been committed, and he thereupon left Revelstoke for parts unknown."

If this were good law, a man could commit bigamy in one province, step over into another, and run a very good chance of escaping punishment.

Now in South Dakota.

At all events, Sargent left this province, and when last heard of he was resident in Aberdeen, South Dakota. Miss Pinch disappeared from Revelstoke when Sargent left.

Mrs. Sargent states in her petition that she was married to the man in Omemee, Ont., in 1892, and that two children followed the union, one of them a girl, now twelve years of age, and the other a boy, aged ten years. To the usual grounds in the petition for divorce is added the charge of bigamy. No appearance has been entered to the suit by the respondent.

She Cannot Be Awakened

A case is reported of a lady living on Park street, who went to sleep on Saturday and has not since awakened, and all efforts to arouse her have proved, so far, unavailing.

FIVE BOYS ESCAPE.

Mimico Industrial School Losing Its Enforced Pupils—One of Them Assisted by His Mother.

Toronto, March 27.—Five boys escaped from the Mimico Industrial School within 24 hours from midnight Sunday. Of these two have been captured. The pair, who escaped in their nightgowns, are still at liberty.

The most sensational escape occurred yesterday afternoon right under the nose of Superintendent Ferrier and the rest of the staff. George Cameron is only 14 years old.

Later yesterday Mrs. Ferguson, his mother, living at 62 Beatty avenue, Parkdale, called at the school and requested permission to see her son. She drove up in a buggy, and to all appearances looked the lady from the top of her expensive hat to the sole of her patent leather shoe. Mr. Ferrier granted the request readily.

After interviewing the son, the mother prepared to go away from the institution, and her son, convicted of housebreaking on Wilson avenue, returned to the ranks of the prisoners filing into the supper-room. Suddenly he broke away upon seeing his mother opening the front door of the institution. She hurried after him and followed him into the buggy, covering him with the driving rug until beyond danger from pistol shot.

Before the startled officials could recover their wits she was down the roadway, driving the horse furiously, and her son with her. Her house, on Beatty avenue, was searched last night but without finding trace of either mother or son.

ARREST OF FIVE CLERKS.

Failure of the Enterprise National Bank Given Cause.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 27.—Five arrests were made yesterday as a result of the failure of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny last October, following the sensational suicide of its cashier, T. Lee Clark.

Those taken into custody were Forest B. Nichols, private secretary to Wm. H. Andrews; Chas. Manssmer, George R. Ralston and Edward P. McMillan, employes of the Enterprise National Bank, and George E. Cook, an alleged partner of Cashier Clark in real estate deals.

The charge against Manssmer is that he certified cheques drawn by persons who had not sufficient funds on deposit. Nichols is charged with conspiring with an officer to abstract and apply unlawfully funds of the bank. Ralston and McMillan are charged with making false entries to defraud the bank, while Cook is charged with conspiring to defraud by getting false credits.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PIANO AND VOCAL RECITAL.

There was a large gathering at the Y.M.C.A. Hall last night to enjoy, as they doubtless heartily did enjoy, the recital given by the pianoforte pupils of Prof. Davies, and the voice pupils of Miss Helen Davies. Those who, judging, perhaps, by past experiences, may have expected to patronizingly or tolerantly listen to juniors exploiting rudimentary etudes or marches, were delightfully disappointed, for the programme presented was a most enjoyable one, comprising some pretty stiff compositions, and though performed by young pupils the latter gave evidence of careful and skilful instruction, and intelligent appreciation of the character and spirit of the works, in the main, and cleverly performed. Without venturing to particularize it may be remarked that there were displayed, excellent technique, fine touch, good tone, good expression, delicate shading, musicianly taste, beautifully executed arpegii, and all the general elements to go to the making, or the promise of making, under the same or similar good instruction, pianistes of unusual capability. Without exaggeration one may say that there is often heard on the concert stage, pianoforte solos by adult performers, less artistically executed than these given by some of the musical debutantes last night. The pianoforte programme was composed of the following selections:—

Gans, piano duet, ... "Qui Vive"
Misses Katheryne Burnett and Frances Routley.
Delacour, piano solo, "Zephyrs de Mai"
Miss Gladys Crane
Wilson, piano solo, ... "Memory"
Miss Katie Leary
Liszt, piano solo, "Liebestraume" No. 3
Miss Hazel Sanderson
(a) Rubinstein, piano solo, "Polka Bohemienne"
(b) Chopin, piano solo, "Waltz in D flat"
Miss Katheryne Burnett.
Benj. Godard, piano solo, "Fourth Mazurka"
Miss Elgan Watson
Hummel, piano duet, "Rondo in E flat"
Misses Gladys Crane and Mattie Robertson
B. Godard, piano solo, "Valse Chromatique"
Miss Geraldine King
Jensen-Niemann, piano solo, "Murmuring Zephyrs"
Miss G. McCollum

The contributors to the vocal part of the recital were Miss Gertrude McCollum, who sang "Love's Echoes," by Newton, and Miss Jennie Robson, whose selections were Cowan's "Snow Flakes," and two songs by Somervell, "So Let It Be" and "The Dew." Both these young ladies are pupils of Miss Davies, and gave evidence of having grasped much of the excellent method and artistic style of which the latter is so brilliant and effective an exponent.

Both Professor and Miss Davies are to be congratulated upon the excellent manner in which their pupils did justice to the good instruction they have received and are still receiving.

Ottawa Journal On Marks Bros.

Marks Bros.' Dramatic Company will commence a nine-night and three-matinee engagement at the opera house on Thursday evening in the great three-act comedy drama, "The Banker's Wife." The following is from The Ottawa Evening Journal:

Marks Bros.' Company No. 1 has commenced its second week's engagement in the Grand Opera House, and the audience was as numerous last evening as for each performance last week and just as liberal in its applause and appreciation of the performance offered. This was perfectly natural, for the performances given have been uniformly good. The whole play is presented in a natural and forceful way which carried the audience along in thorough sympathy.

The moving pictures were good, as might be said of all the specialties. May A. Bell Marks in her illustrated songs won encores, as did also George and Maude Marks in their singing. Emerson, Codare and Co. in "Frenzied Juggling," are worth seeing at any time, and last evening certainly made a distinct hit with the audience. The prices for the above engagement are 10, 20 and 30 cents and seats are now on sale at the Box Office.

Canadian Insurance Commission Wants More Light.

AFTER OTTAWA AT TORONTO

Some Points With Which the American Investigators Are Better Acquainted Demand the Attention of Chairman Judge MacTavish and Counsel Shepley—Expect to Finish Sittings in Ottawa This Week.

Ottawa, March 27.—In the investigation of the operations of the Canadian insurance companies the Canadian Insurance Commission has proceeded largely along the lines of the Armstrong inquiry in New York, as disclosed by the newspaper reports of proceedings. Last week several copies of the official report of the New York commission were received, but as several points upon which the Canadian commission desired light are not fully covered in the report Chairman MacTavish and Mr. Geo. F. Shepley have gone to Albany in order to obtain the desired information from the counsel and principal parties concerned in the Armstrong inquiry.

The present indications are that the commission will finish its sittings in Ottawa this week and the inquiry will be continued at Toronto or Montreal, probably at the former city. The companies have so far shown no disinclination to give the information requested by the interrogating circular sent out by the commission, although several managers have represented that it will take some time to collect and compile all the information asked for.

ROCKEFELLER DEPOSED.

Standard Oil is Directed By Aggregation of Experts.

New York, March 27.—John D. Archbold, vice-president of the Standard Oil Co., testifying at the hearing in the Ouster proceedings brought against the Standard Oil Co. by the State of Missouri, said that John D. Rockefeller knows nothing about the matters concerned in this suit.

"He dislikes very much the notoriety and cartooning," said Mr. Archbold. "If Attorney-General Hadley wants to go to Lakewood and question him, I am sure he will find him willing to answer any questions."

"There is only one way to examine witnesses here," the Attorney-General interrupted, "only one way."

Mr. Archbold said John D. Rockefeller is president of the Standard Oil Co., but has taken no active interest in the business affairs in some years, owing to ill-health.

"Who is the active head of the Standard Oil Co?" asked Attorney-General Hadley.

"There is no master mind in the Standard Oil," replied Mr. Archbold. "It is made up of an aggregation of individuals." The business was controlled by men, experts in their respective departments.

TAKING BANWELL TO KINGSTON.

Bank Recovers Remaining Cash and Property—Shortage Was $1,751.66

Toronto, March 27.—This morning Sheriff's Officers Walter Stewart and James Severs will leave for Kingston, having in charge Edwin St. George Banwell, sentenced for four years for stealing from the Crown Bank; Charles McCrea and John Comisky, who will do three years for highway robbery.

Yesterday afternoon Sergeant Duncan and Detective Black turned over to the representatives of the Crown Bank the money and jewelery found on the Banwells when arrested. The amount handed back was $38,588.67, of which $2,170 was in jewelery. The amount stolen was $40,350.33. This leaves a shortage of $1,751.66, which was spent by the young couple on their trip. In addition the bank spent $4,600 to capture the fugitives.

HOLLAND'S EXTRADITION.

Canadian Charged With Stealing $13,000 on the Victorian.

Toronto, March 27.—Christopher Holland, ex-bookkeeper for the Ideal Bedding Co., will arrive in Halifax from Liverpool, Eng., on April 12, if the steamship Victorian is on time. He will be in charge of Detective Mackie.

Holland is charged with stealing $13,500 from the Bedding company.

Since Holland skipped from Toronto, a relative died, leaving him £500. R. S. Le Vesconte, counsel for the Bedding company, went to England for the purpose of attaching this money. Detective Mackie, in a letter to Sergt. Duncan, states he was unsuccessful. The English lawyers who acted for Holland claimed £150. The balance has been claimed by the father-in-law.

Electric Shock Kills A Valuable Team Of Horses

Met Sudden Death While Doing Their Duty—Ground They Trod on Was Alive With the Concealed Force—Mr. Gibbs the Loser—Number of Dogs Felt the Same Sensation—Three Occupants in the Cab—The Probable Cause.

With a suddenness which almost seems inconceivable, two horses were last night the victims of a severe shock of electricity, at the corner of George and McDonel streets. The team was the property of Mr. Robert Gibbs, the well known Chambers street liveryman, and the loss he sustained will be no inconsiderable amount.

The team was attached to a cab, and driven by Mr. William Martin, an employee of Mr. Gibbs, and the startling suddenness of the death of the unfortunate animals was indeed bewildering to him.

He had just been down to the Grand Trunk station to meet the 8.36 G. T. R. Belleville train, and was driving home a party of three ladies, who were equally as much astounded as he was by the accident. On reaching the spot where the fatal power was concealed, the horses reared and fell to the earth. One of them expired instantly; the other after a few faint struggles shared the same fate.

Martin, not comprehending the state of affairs at first, was quickly on the ground to save if possible the dying beats. The moment he touched the ground he experienced a shock, and immediately the cause of the accident dawned upon him.

Several youths were standing near by who had been previously watching the effect of the current on the pedestrians and dogs that passed, and exhorted Mr. Martin to make as speedy an exodus from the locality as possible. They, unfortunately, did not recognise the perilous character of the electrified ground, and were simply being amused, but subsequent to the accident they speedily took their departure. The occupants of the carriage, Mrs. H. Dennc, Miss Boswell and Miss Smith, who had just returned from Keene, were very much perturbed, and scarcely knew what course to follow. They first attempted to leave the conveyance by the left hand door, but were quickly prompted by the bystanders, and made their exit on the right, and unchirged ground.

In a very brief period of time a crowd of interested spectators gathered around, and during the hour the dead horses lay on the street hundreds of persons viewed the scene of the disaster.

About 8.30 o'clock, a half hour previous to the accident the same driver while on a different commission, experienced a somewhat similar incident at the same spot. He was driving along McDonel street towards George, and on reaching the fatal corner his horses commenced to rear and kick, but he was at a loss to fathom the cause.

Dr. Coughlan's horse went through the same ordeal. He had considerable trouble in keeping the animal from getting beyond his control, and only by turning down McDonel street did he accomplish this.

Bystanders state that several dogs unconsciously ran into the same silent but destructive force. One received a shock which partially rendered it unconscious for a time. Mr. J. S. Knapman was walking by during the period that the road was magnetized, and suddenly became surprised at the peculiar antics of his spaniel, which dropped in the mud. He reached out his umbrella, which the knowing canine instantly seized with its teeth, and voluntarily was dragged off to neutral ground.

Numerous pedestrians also report similar sensations and are wondering at their narrow escape.

Theories as to the cause of the accident vary, but the most generally accepted one is that an electric wire came in contact with a Machine Telephone pole which, however, had, as yet, no wires strung upon it. The wet pole conducted the current to the earth and intensely charged the coating of slush in the vicinity and the frozen earth beneath, acting, as a non-conductor, prevented the dispersion of the electric current, which became concentrated in the coating of slush, and when the horses came into this area, their steel shoes acting as a conductor, produced the fatal shock.

An authority on electricity stated to the Examiner that the incandescent light wire, if that wire were concerned in the accident, would contain in the neighbourhood of some 2000 volts before being reduced by the transformer. He also said that 300 volts might kill a horse. By the presence of steel shoes on Mr. Gibbs' team they would be much more susceptible to a current, and if they had been unshod it is very probable the accident would have been averted. The rubber tires of the cab may also have been the means of saving a life, or lives.

Mr. Gibbs' team was one of the best in Peterborough, and were a pair that cannot easily be replaced. Their ages were six and eight years, and they were a gentle and faithful team. A number of horsemen of the city valued them in the neighbourhood of $400.

Mr. Gibbs stated that an action would be entered against the company or companies censured for the accident, providing recompense for his loss was not procurable otherwise.

Entertained St. Andrew's Choir

Last night Mr. Carl C. Forsythe, choirmaster of St. Andrew's choir, and Mrs. Forsythe, entertained at their residence, 112 McDonel street, the several members of that choir. The time was very pleasantly spent in social intercourse, brightened with music, the evening concluding with the serving of refreshments. A delightful evening was passed, and Messrs. F. E. Kerr and George Laing, on behalf of the choir, gratefully acknowledged the charming hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Forsythe, and the incidental strengthening of ties between the leader and the choir.

BIRTH OF THE "BLUNOZ"

An Experience Which Many Manufacturers Might Copy to Advantage.

A Made-in-Canada Fair held recently in Ottawa netted the King's Daughters over $1,000. A similar fair held in Brockville the year before by a committee of ladies profitted their organization several thousand dollars. The growth of the made-in-Canada idea is good for Canada.

The president of the Semi-ready Company, tailors of men's clothes, says that they have to import $250,000 worth of fine worsteds and tweeds every year. A few years ago they set out to propagate a better making of Canadian serges and tweeds. They selected the best woollen mill in Canada. Ideas were exchanged, and makers and manufacturers co-operated. This was the birth of the "Blunoz" serges and tweeds, and in some of the best garments tailored by the Semi-ready the "Blunoz" has proven itself worthy of the made-in-Canada loyalty.

W. J. Hooper Was Honoured By Dairymen

Presented With Address and a Purse of Gold Last Night.

Last night at the residence of Mr. Walter J. Hooper, the well-known local dairyman, 604 Rubidge street, his brother dairymen presented him with an address and well-filled purse of money. The presentation was in the form of a surprise and took Mr. Hooper quite unawares. He thanked in a very feeling manner those who had so kindly remembered him and stated that their generous gift was entirely unexpected and very much appreciated. The evening was spent in the playing of games, music and social intercourse. Miss Mae Brady presided at the piano and rendered several selections in a very finished and musicianly manner.

Following is the address:—

Mr. Walter J. Hooper,
City.

Dear Sir,—Your fellow dairymen of Peterborough, on the occasion of enjoying your generous hospitality, desire to formally acknowledge the faithful services you have rendered the industry in which we are all interested.

As the pioneer city dairyman, you have not only led the way in this industry, but by your upright, honourable and faithful conduct you have served the interests of your patrons so well as to win respect and give a good name to the city dairy industry. We would specially acknowledge the service you have rendered the dairymen of the city both by your example and by the active exertion taken in promoting their general interests.

In recognition of these services and in acknowledgment of your good fellowship, we ask your acceptance of this purse as a reminder of the respect in which we hold you.

Signed on behalf of the dairymen,—
JOHN SMITH,
Chairman
T. HETHERINGTON,
Secretary

Victoria House Changes Hands

Mr. Fred. Morgan Has Given Over the Business.

The Victoria House at McCracken's Landing, one of the most popular Stony Lake summer resorts, has changed hands. Mr. Fred Morgan, the former proprietor, who has been in charge of it since its inauguration a number of years ago, has leased it to Messrs. John Freeman, of Lakefield, and Ernest Carveth of Dummer. The change will take place on the 16th of April, at which time the new proprietors will take over the business.

Needless to say the proprietorship will be under efficient masters, and everything in connection with the Victoria House will, as has been the case in the past, be run in the most modern style.

License Holders Object To Hanna's New Law

Letter Sent Out to License Holders in This City From Secretary of Ontario License Holders Association Calling Attention to Objectionable Clauses—Means That No Shop Keeper Can Canvass for Orders for Liquor—Other Features to Which Objection Can be Taken.

That the Ontario License Holders' Association is objecting to the proposed amendments to the Ontario License Act is evidenced by the fact that the secretary of the association has sent circular letters to the holders of licenses in this and other cities in which the objectionable clauses are referred to. Attention is called to section 199 of the bill, which reads:

"Every holder of a license to sell liquor by retail, who, by himself, his servant or agents, canvasses for, or receives or solicits orders for liquor at any place other than upon licensed premises shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall incur the penalties provided for the sale of liquor without a license therefor, by law required," to which the latter adds: This seems to mean that no licensed shopkeeper will be allowed (if this bill becomes law) to canvass or receive orders for liquor, either by himself, his driver, or any other person in his employ, unless such orders are received on the licensed premises; furthermore, that no licensed shopkeeper will be allowed to sell in other licensed districts, in either wholesale or retail quantities. The penalty for violation of this section is the same as that for selling liquor without a license, first offence $50, second offence $100, third offence jail.

Attention is also called to sub-section 55, as follows: "In case such licensed premises are situate upon or within the distance of 300 yards from the grounds of the Toronto Industrial Association or of any district township or other agricultural or horticultural society, then during any day or days upon which the annual exhibition, or fair, of such association, or society, is in progress, etc., etc." The comment on this section is: This applies to wholesale and retail liquor stores, as well as to hotels, and means that any license which is within 300 yards of the grounds in which a fair is held, that such licensed premises must be closed during the continuance of such fair.

The first section of this communication will necessarily strike the average licensed shopkeeper very hard, and if you are affected by it you should at once bring it to the attention of your member, showing him the unfairness and injustice of the section, and request him to use his influence to eliminate this section.

The second section regarding the closing on fair days will affect a large number of license holders throughout this Province. This, and the other section referred to, seem unnecessary and unjust, and therefore may I ask that you will urge upon your member to oppose it.

Port Hope In Darkness Scene Of Daring Hold-Up

There was a daring hold-up committed on Monday night shortly after midnight, and the perpetrators could not have selected a better night. The unfortunate man was Mr. Robert McMahon, and he was seized by two men while passing under the viaduct at John street. It was intensely dark, especially so at this place, and Mr. McMahon did not notice either men until they had taken hold of him. Mr. McMahon made a strong effort to free himself but was thrown on the ground, and one of the party drew out "Cut his throat." They made a thorough search of his clothing and removed eighteen dollars in cash. Mr. McMahon hurried home as soon as possible and informed his brothers but the guilty ones had made good their escape by this time. The place where the hold-up was committed, although much travelled, is one of the dreariest in town and a light of some description should be placed there at once.—Guide.

"IT SAVED MY LIFE"

PRAISE FOR A FAMOUS MEDICINE

Mrs. Willadsen Tells How She Tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Just in Time.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Iowa, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

'I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude to you in words.

Mrs. T. C. Willadsen

"Before I wrote to you, telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady and spent lots of money on medicines besides, but it all failed to help me. My monthly periods had ceased and I suffered much pain, with fainting spells, headache, backache and bearing-down pains, and I was so weak I could hardly keep around. As a last resort I decided to write you and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so thankful that I did, for after following your instructions, which you sent me free of all charge, I became regular and in perfect health. Had it not been for you I would be in my grave to-day.

"I sincerely trust that this letter may lead every suffering woman in the country to write you for help as I did."

When women are troubled with irregular or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of an organ, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion or nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. Refuse all substitutes.

A Strong Case Made

---FOR AN EARLY COMPLETION---

By Canal Deputation

Memorial Which Will be Presented to the Minister of Railways and Canals To-morrow—Expected That This Deputation Will be Largest in History of Dominion—Special C. P. R. Train Left To-day at 1 O'clock—Indisputable Arguments in Favour of Canal Completion.

What is expected will be one of the largest, if not altogether so, of any deputation that has ever waited on the Premier of the Dominion on any matter, will pay their respects to-morrow morning to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Minister of Railways and Canals to urge the completion of the Trent Canal in the general interest of the public. The special train carrying the members of the deputation left here at 1 o'clock over the C. P. R., and the number will be supplemented by those who will board the train at Indian River, Norwood and Havelock.

The advocates of the Trent Canal have the satisfaction of knowing that up to the present time the canal interests hold the record for large deputations to the capital, that which went to Ottawa a number of years ago having been the largest in the history of the Dominion. It is expected, however, that to-day's will surpass in point of numbers that to which reference has been made. Those who have had charge of the arrangements report that they expect to-day's deputation to be one of the largest that ever went into the capital.

The local committee has prepared a memorial which will be presented to the minister to-morrow. It sets forth the claims of those interested in the canal's completion, and is as follows:

The Honourable

The Minister of Railways and Canals:

Sir,—

We represent to-day twelve counties of Central Ontario, with 1,000 miles of shore line bordering the Trent waters and more than 300,000 people, and we have the honour to submit for your consideration the following reasons why the Trent Canal should be completed without further delay:

The great Trent Valley, which extends across the province from northwest to southeast, manifestly in ages past connected the waters of Georgian Bay with those of Lake Ontario. Great stretches of lake and river lie along the whole route.

The distance between these points is only 203 miles, of which 160 miles are now navigable.

The work which remains to be done presents no unusual engineering difficulties, and, for a few millions of dollars a splendid national waterway can be completed.

The annual saving on coal freights alone to the district served by this waterway will be sufficient to pay the interest on the whole expenditure.

We believe and now affirm that this work is destined to be one of the great lines of grain transportation from the West to the sea, and a more potent regulator of railway corporations, freight rates, car shortages, demurrages, and discriminations, than the Railway Commission itself, that most useful and popular creation of the present Government.

Over 5,000,000 of dollars have been invested in the work already done, and to leave that very large sum of money sealed up and almost useless, as it now is,—with the central portion completed, and with two blind ends,—would, we respectfully urge, be an act of folly such as the Laurier Government, and yourself, as the head of your great department, can never contemplate for a moment.

We take it for granted, sir, that you intend to complete this work. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has told us so, you have told us so, and every Minister of Railways and Canals who has preceded you has affirmed that this work must be completed.

Our object in coming here to-day is not to ask you to renew that promise, but to ask you to finish this work now, to let the contracts for the northern and southern portions of the work, and give to Canada a water route for barges which will forever preserve to us our own carrying trade, and which will direct to the port of Montreal the Canadian and American grain, which otherwise is certain to find its way to the port of New York through the Erie Canal now under enlargement.

We believe in a barge canal.

The depth of water on the lock sills of the Trent waterway will be 8 feet 4 inches.

A deep water canal, costing from 80 to 100 millions is a dream which may be realized some day, but is too costly to contemplate at the present time.

A steam barge of 800 tons burden towing 4 consorts in the Trent Canal can handle a cargo of, 120,000 bushels, equal to 120 loaded railway cars, and can carry grain at 1 1-4 cents per bushel from Midland to Montreal at a good margin of profit, as was proved by evidence taken before the Royal Commission on Transportation at its session at Peterborough on the 24th and 25th of March, 1904.

It is a matter of common knowledge that large vessels cost too much when moving long distances at slow rates in confined waters.

The information collected by our neighbours in the United States, on this and kindred subjects, is at our disposal, and cannot be ignored, and the reasons which have led New York City and the Empire State to vote 101 millions of dollars for the enlargement and improvement of the Erie Canal, apply with equal cogency to the completion of our own canal.

The Trent Valley is destined to be the greatest manufacturing section of Canada. Everywhere there is water-power, and the day is rapidly approaching when this water-power will be more largely required than at present, to manufacture the goods demanded by our vast population in the West.

Since the discovery of the art of smelting iron ore by electricity, the possibilities of the district have vastly increased, for we possess, in the district tributary to the Trent Canal, the finest ore in America in unlimited quantity.

No longer will Pennsylvania hold her supremacy in the iron market by reason of her coal deposits.

Ontario has the iron and the water-power, and needs but transportation facilities to bring the two together, and thus lay the foundation of a national asset, second only to the teeming wheat-fields of the West.

The Trent route, measuring from Sault Ste. Marie, and counting the return trip, is 500 miles shorter than the Erie Canal route.

This handicap, in our favour, is sufficient to make Montreal the greatest export city on the American continent, if we only use the advantageous features which nature has provided.

The great railways are making preparations to handle the immense volume of grain which will soon find its way to Georgian Bay ports.

The Grand Trunk is about to double-track its line from Midland to Port Hope.

The C.P.R. is building a parallel road through the same territory, which is called the Trent Valley, but what, we ask, is the Government doing?

As Sir William Van Horne has remarked, "The hopper is full; but the spouts are too small." While, then, the great corporations are preparing to cope with the future, let us be equally far-sighted, and seize now the opportunity to finish this work which will do much to secure cheaper carriage and better prices for the Western farmer.

Georgian Bay is the point where the grain will be focussed.

The railways are all securing harbours and building elevators there, and everything we can do to relieve the situation at that point has a national importance.

Eastern Canada relies upon the Intercolonial Railway to which you have devoted so much care and attention, and we are satisfied that the Government should so administer that railway as to make it a bond between the east and west, and a regulator of traffic for the benefit of our people down by the sea.

The benefits of that national highway do not directly touch us in Ontario, but the same reasons which justify the building and operating of the Intercolonial justify you in giving us the Trent Canal, for it also is one of the great links which helps to bind the east and the west together. Its objects are national and patriotic, and the Government which completes the great work will receive the universal commendation of the business men of Canada.

And your memorialists, as in duty bound, have the honour to subscribe themselves,

THE SENATORS,
MEMBERS of PARLIAMENT and
PEOPLE OF THE TRENT VALLEY.

Entertainment At Riverdale A Successful One

Number of Peterborough Talent Assisted in the Programme.

The Riverdale Sunday School entertainment which was postponed from Wednesday night of last week on account of the disagreeable weather was held last night. Although the night was again a very uninviting one a large number assembled in the Riverdale Hall and a very pleasant programme was listened to. A number of Peterborough talent was present and assisted greatly in the success of the event. Little Miss Christie, the popular young elocutionist, who is receiving much praise wherever she appears, was there, and all her selections were appreciated and encored. The other numbers of the programme were also enthusiastically applauded and a most delightful evening was spent.

The chairman, Mr. J. Holmes, introduced the following programme, with a few appropriate remarks:

Recitation—Miss Martha Alexander.
Drill—School Girls.
Recitation—Miss Annie Christie.
Solo—Mr. Clark.
Dialogue—"Wanted, a Servant," Six ladies and one gentleman.
Recitation—Miss Gertrude Saunders.
Duet—Miss and Mr. Anderson.
Solo—Mr. Clark.
Recitation—Miss Annie Christie.
Dialogue—"The Terrible Mystery."
Recitation—Miss Martha Alexander.
Recitation—Miss Annie Christie.

At the conclusion Mr. Holmes made a few remarks in reference to the decrease in attendance and exhorted all to assist in the Sunday School work so that the labour would not all be left to the few.

The financial issue of the entertainment, which was for the expenses in painting and decorating the Sunday School, was satisfactory.

Those who attended from Peterborough were hospitably entertained at the residence of Mr. Wm. Anderson, where refreshments were served before their departure.

No Exclusive Franchise Granted In Lindsay

Representatives of Bell and Canadian Machine Telephone Companies Addressed the Council—Former Supported and Latter Opposed Exclusive Franchise—Bell Company Offered $300 a Year—The Machine 'Phone in Peterborough Was Well Spoken Of.

The Lindsay Post says: All members of council were present at last night's committee meeting when the principal business was the discussion on the question whether or not an exclusive franchise should be granted the Bell Telephone Company. The Machine Telephone Company, which recently secured a franchise in the city of Peterborough was asked to have a representative at the meeting and accordingly sent Mr. F. D. McKay. The Bell Company was represented by Mr. A. T. Smith, of Montreal.

The telephone question was then taken up seriously, and as both representatives were present it was moved and seconded that Mr. Smith, of the Bell Telephone Company, Montreal, be heard. Mr. Smith said he had not much to say, but would be pleased to answer any questions that should be put to him. He did not come to secure a franchise, as they already had that, but if the council saw fit to grant an exclusive franchise, then he would submit them a proposition.

Mr. McKay, of the Machine Telephone Company, was then asked to speak. He said that it was not his purpose in coming to ask the council to grant his company a franchise, but what he wanted was that the council should see fit not to grant to any company an exclusive franchise, competition was the sure way of getting a good service, as all competitors would give their best attention to the business.

Some informal discussion then took place on the subject. Ald. McFadden said he had visited Peterborough last week with the curlers, and had taken the opportunity to inquire about the Machine Company's telephone and how it worked in that city. He stated that wherever he went everyone had words of praise, and the storekeepers all said that the two telephones brought them more business, and that the instruments paid for themselves all right.

It was finally moved by Ald. Begg, seconded by Ald. Rea, that an exclusive franchise be not granted. All voted for the motion but Ald. Eyres, who did not vote either way.

Nervous Diseases No Longer a Fad

ALL CLASSES NOW SUFFER FROM EXHAUSTED NERVES—SPLENDID RESULTS OBTAINED FROM THE USE OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

"The breakdown of the nervous system is no more society craze from which it is fashionable to suffer, but is becoming a national calamity which bids fair to rob our descendants of many of those qualities which have done so much to make this empire what it is," writes Dr. Guthrie Ranken, an eminent London physician.

The keen competition of life is now felt in all grades of society, and as the result prostration, paralysis and insanity are becoming more and more common as the natural outcome of exhausted nerves.

Sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, headache and general lack of energy and ambition are among the early indications of nervous troubles, and with women the result is not infrequently derangements and irregularities of the feminine organism.

If a committee of experts on diseases of the nerves were to prescribe for you they would give you just such a formula as that of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this medicine is composed of the most powerful nerve restoratives known to medical science.

This is no idle boast, as we shall be pleased to prove to you if you will have your physician call at these offices and examine the formula.

What we consider as better proof of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do for you is to be found in the letters of recommendation published from time to time in Dr. Chase's Almanac and in the newspapers of this country.

Naturally and gradually this great food cure forms new, rich blood, the substance from which the brain creates new nerve force. This is the only means by which diseases of the nerves can be actually cured. Stimulants and narcotics give temporary relief, but with great expense to the nervous system. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food slowly but certainly revitalizes the wasted nerve cells and by filling the body with vitality overcomes pain, sickness and disease.

A favourite means of proving this is by noting your increase in weight while using this medicine. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Port Hope Has Trouble Over Street Lighting

"It is not safe to traverse Port Hope streets at night. All the lighting we have comes from lanterns."

A Port Hope civic delegation gave the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature this information yesterday morning, in asking for authority to pass bylaws for the construction and operation of an electric plant.

According to the mayor, the Electric Light Committee had objected to the last assessment, and wanted to appeal. The time having expired, the question was not re-opened. Then the company gave six months' notice, and the street lamps went out.

"We have offered to light the streets, but they don't want to do it," complained the company's lawyer. "They want to drive us out of business. A petition in our favour was largely signed, but the council has not met since. I don't insinuate anything. It may be a coincidence, nothing more."

"The council met last night," said the mayor.

"I was not in Port Hope then," said the company's counsel.

"I think you had better get together and make a bargain," advised Chairman Carscallon. "If you don't, the committee may make short work of somebody to-morrow."

Somebody suggested that he committee decide.

"Then I shall nominate three members to confer with you, gentlemen," presented Mr. Carscallon.

"I am perfectly willing to agree," said H. A. Ward, M.P., of Port Hope, a member of the civic deputation, "but not to what the committee may recommend."

The Private Bills Committee laughed.

"Though," Mr. Ward hastened to say, "I shall be guided strongly by what is reported."

"Settle it yourselves," Mr. Carscallen said, in despair, "but report in the morning."

Philomathean Society Met

Held Delightful Entertainment in the Y. M. C. A.

The regular meeting of the Collegiate Philomathean Society, was held on Monday in the Y.M.C.A., and an excellent programme was presented. If possible the meetings increase in interest, and the executive, with their energetic young president at their head, deserve great credit for the progress of the society this year.

The minutes were read and approved, and then some business was dealt with. It was moved that the three lower forms be admitted to the Society, and the motion was carried. Miss Smithson moved that the $5 which Mr. Walker has very kindly offered as a prize in the coming elocutionary contest be accepted with many thanks. The motion was easily carried.

Three recitations were given, by Miss Merrill, Miss Corkery and Miss Casey respectively.

A piano solo by Miss N. Duncombe, afforded much pleasure. Mr. Kenneth Shook, an ex-pupil, kindly consented to play, and his selection was much appreciated.

The other musical features were a duet by Misses Connor and Fife, and a solo by Miss H. Sanderson, which was very enjoyable.

Instead of a debate the evening was devoted to Canadian poets. Miss Jean Campbell gave a paper having the general topic, "Canadian Poets." She spoke of the great natural resources of Canada, and its beauty of scenery, which have always inspired the poets. She then spoke of a number of the best known Canadian poets.

Mr. Bruce Ingham's paper was on Lampman; and showed careful preparation. It was very well written, and his distinct reading of it added much to the pleasure.

Miss Gladys Crane dealt with the life of a poetess very familiar to Peterborough people—Miss Isabella Valancey Crawford. It was a very interesting paper and the reading of several typical selections from Miss Crawford's poems proved a most happy feature.

Mr. E. Mann also had a paper, on Drummond. After giving a short account of his life and work, he recited one of his poems, mastering the dialect splendidly.

After a hearty singing of "God Save the King," the meeting adjourned.

New Omnibus For The National

The conveyance is a most handsome as well as artistic one and on its initial trip this morning was the centre of a great deal of attraction. The omnibus was manufactured by the Jas. The interior is finished in the parlour car style, and has a seating capacity for fourteen.

The driver's box is covered with a canopy top parallel with the roof of the omnibus.

WEDNESDAY MARCH 28, 1906.

SUNDAY OBSERVANCE.

Many of the requirements of religious observance have not only the moral obligation arising out of their character but a human reasonableness. Those who do not practice the abstinence of the Lenten season for religious reasons would be much benefitted physically by its observance, coming as it does at the end of the winter, which, by its comparative indoor confinment and lack of outdoor exercise, renders fasting physically beneficial. Those who do not care to keep holy the Sabbath day in obedience to the Divine command feel physically benefitted by observing it as a day of rest. So that on purely secular grounds, to speak of no higher reason, the setting apart of one day in seven as a day of rest is good for mankind, and must be maintained. As to how this rest shall be taken, and as to what its nature shall be, there is difference of opinion. So is there difference of opinion as to the kind of observance the Divine command imposes. The Jews reproached even the Lord of the Sabbath for healing a sick man on the Sabbath day, and it would seem as if, according to some extreme modern Sabbatarians, the Jews were right, and our Saviour wrong. This situation is suggested by the Bill introduced into the House of Commons by Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick, to regulate observance of Sunday, which, if passed in the form in which it was introduced, will be an extremely drastic measure in some respects. The following clause is claimed as the key note of the bill:—

It shall not be lawful for any person on the Lord's day to sell or offer for sale or purchase any goods, chattels, or other personal property, or any real estate, or to carry on or transact any business of his ordinary calling, or to do or employ any other person to do on that day any work, business, or labour, in connection with such calling (add "or for gain") except as herein provided.

The exceptions include those for holding divine worship, medical attendance, selling medicines, the sending or receiving of telegraph or telephone messages, conveying travellers and mails, hiring vehicles, maintaining fires in buildings. Trains loaded with perishable freight or live stock in transit when Sunday begins, may go on to their destination.

These exceptions seem liberal, but a little reflection will show that the law, as proposed, will be rather rigid. It places a ban on Sunday street cars, though thousands weak or old, or distant from church, in cities, use them for attending divine worship.

This law will also prevent newspaper reporters from reporting Sunday sermons, and even the most bigotted of Sabbatarians have never been known to denounce this as a sin.

It will prevent the staffs of morning newspapers from going to work on the Monday edition till 12 o'clock Sunday night—a distinct case of hardship.

It will prevent the supply of electric light to churches on Sunday or of electric power for driving church organs.

It will be a great hardship on industries. A flour mill, for instance, cannot be run to its full capacity; for if this law comes into effect it will have to be shut down during the week for repairs absolutely necessary to its efficient working.

This condition would very seriously hinder the operations of many of our local factories—which could not make needed repairs on Sunday—such as the Canadian General Electric Company, the Hamilton Industries, etc., etc.

One could not hire a horse for a Sunday. A man or woman tied up all week in a stiffling factory and too tired to walk, could not hire a conveyance for a drive to enjoy a little fresh air and change of scene, or to enjoy the beauties of nature or to visit friends.

A cabman could not take out his team to make a family party happy by a drive.

The list of innocent pleasures and enjoyment could be largely extended. This proposed law forbids them. To what good end?

The breach of Sunday does not consist in disregard of the letter, but of the spirit, of the law. Our Blessed Lord flayed the Jews for their hypocrisy in stickling for the letter of the law. He permitted His disciples to pluck corn on the Sabbath day, without reproof, which was equivalent to approval. He even, according to the Jews, Himself outraged the letter of the law by healing on the Sabbath day.

A man taking his family for a drive on Sunday in a hired vehicle necessarily means no outrage on the spirit of the law demanding the sanctity of Sunday.

There is no need of argument in this connection, but there is great need for the exercise of common sense and reason and Christian charity. Human laws must, to insure human regard, convince human reason, and it is folly to pass laws that the reason of the people forbids them to respect—so rigid and exacting that they breed the spirit of revolt instead of the spirit of respect. There is no country, bar, perhaps, Scotland, where the Sabbath day is better observed than in Canada. Let us retain this condition by judicious application of existing laws with improvements if desirable, and not imperil it, by passing laws whose very severity will defeat their object.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The most reasonable explanation of Mr. Matheson's failure to get more than 96 cents on the dollar for the first loan ever put out by Ontario, the only province or country in the world without a debt, is, the Brantford Expositor suggests, that the English financiers have been reading some of the "blue-ruin" speeches delivered by him while in Opposition.

The Globe now knows that the apple of discord, is not a myth. Though the libel suit of Coyle of Colborne, against the Globe for libel, which consisted in printing an extract from a Government report, is still sub judice, it may be safe to remark upon the danger the enterprising newspaper incurs these days. The Globe was prosecuted, or persecuted, for publishing plumbing poetry, and now it is brought to book for an attempt to protect the public, and save the reputation of Canada and the interests of the export apple trade.

The Pioneer, the organ of the Dominion Alliance, does not regard the Hanna License Law very favourably, and heads its review of it, "Local Option Smashed." It also declares that the measure, as a whole, falls far short of what was expected. As for the Anti-Treating Bill, the Pioneer is somewhat sympathetic, but before being passed, it says it is in need of radical amendment in order to make it workable. When the Pioneer adversely criticises a measure of "temperance reform" introduced by the Whitney Government, it must be very bad.

WONDERFUL EFFECT OF FRUIT.

"Fruit-a-tives" (Fruit Liver Tablets) are concentrated fruit juices. And it is these fruit juices that cure Constipation, Biliousness, Headaches, Indigestion, Palpitation of the Heart and all Troubles of the Stomach and Kidneys. A leading Ottawa physician discovered a process by which he could combine the juices of Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes and by adding another atom of bitter principle from the Orange peel, completely change the medicinal action of the fruit juices, giving the combination a far more powerful and more beneficial effect on the system. "Fruit-a-tives" are tablets made of this combination of fruit juices—and they have made most wonderful cures of Stomach, Liver and Kidney Troubles and of Blood and Skin Diseases. 50c a box.—Ask your druggist.

HARMONIOUS WORKERS.

Encouraged by the success of the local option campaign in almost one hundred municipalities throughout the province since the new year, a vigorous fight is being put up by the temperance people of the township of Mountain, Dundas County, who on Wednesday hope to carry a bylaw closing all the hotels within the municipality. The campaign is unique in this respect, that Protestant and Roman Catholic clergy have joined hands in the effort to carry the bylaw. The spectacle of a Roman Catholic priest speaking from the same platform as a Presbyterian and a Methodist minister, as was witnessed in that township on more than one occasion this week in unfortunately rare in this country, yet such an occurrence demonstrates the unity which should exist among the clergy of all denominations when a matter vitally affecting the moral interests of a community is the issue before the people. It is understood the plan of organization of clergy of all religious beliefs for the fight in Mountain will be continued in the local option campaigns to be inaugurated in the townships of North Gower, Nepean, Richmond, March and Huntley at the next municipal elections.—Ottawa Free Press.

Officers Discuss Brantford Trip

57th Officers Held First Meeting of Season Last Night.

Matters connected with the trip of the 57th Regiment to Brantford on July 1 were discussed last night at a meeting of the officers held in the mess rooms. The question of transportation was considered, but nothing definite was decided. The matter will be further discussed at the next meeting of the officers on Tuesday, when the first drill of the season will be held.

The new uniforms which should have been received in time for the trip to Ottawa last year will be issued this spring, and the regiment will look spick and span when they visit the Telephone City on Dominion Day.

E. W. Argus Leaves For Detroit, Mich.

Will Accept Superintendency of Mason & Co. There.

Mr. E. W. Argus, who for the last two years and three months has been living in Peterborough, carrying on the business of an architect, has decided to leave the city and return to Detroit, Mich., where he will rejoin the firm he was with prior to coming to Peterborough. He has been offered the superintendency of the firm of Mason & Co., architects, of Detroit, and will leave on Saturday for that city.

Mr. Argus, since he came to Peterborough, has handled several good contracts, the largest being the new Separate School, recently completed.

Mrs. Argus, whose musical ability was frequently given evidence of in the T.A.S. entertainments, will also be missed considerably.

House of Refuge Inmate Injured

A Fenelon Resident Jumped Out of Lindsay House of Refuge Window.

On Saturday afternoon a regrettable and unfortunate accident took place at the Lindsay House of Refuge, when Mrs. Bonny, an elderly inmate, hailing from Fenelon Falls, apparently attempted to do injury to herself by jumping from a third story window to the hard ground below.

She evidently was a trifle deranged in her mind as on several occasions she has threatened to jump from the window. On Saturday last she managed to carry out her intention and as a result is in a somewhat critical condition, her injuries including a fractured leg.

Suffered for 23 Years With Kidney Trouble.

CURED AT LAST BY GIN PILLS.

Whether you are just beginning to feel the first twinges of kidney pains—or whether you have tried for years to find relief—Gin Pills will cure you. Surely you can't doubt their virtues after such a letter as this:

"I sent for a free sample of your Gin Pills some time ago, and found them to give me great relief, so I put myself under the treatment, and am now using the third box, and feel myself entirely cured. I have suffered with my kidneys for 23 years. At the time I began taking Gin Pills I could not turn in bed without pain. If I moved at night, the pain would be so great that it would wake me up. Now I am free of pain, and feel as well as I did 23 years ago. I feel it my duty to let you know about Gin Pills, so that it might be the means of relieving some other sufferer.

"HENRY WAKEFORD, Toronto."

Gin Pills hold out a guarantee of certain, quick relief. They will stop the pain—heal the sick kidneys—and build up the whole system—or your druggist will refund your money. That shows our confidence in Gin Pills. We will do more. We will send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free if you will write asking for it and state the name of the paper in which you see this. You can thus test them at our expense and see for yourself whether or not Gin Pills are all that we claim them to be. Gin Pills are for sale at all druggists. 50c a box—6 boxes for $2.50. THE BEST STOVE CO

NEW WATEROUS ENGINE

—PURCHASED BY THE CITY—

MEETS ALL CONDITIONS

A Most Successful Test of the City's New Fire-Fighter Was Made Yesterday—Steam Generated and the Engine Working in Eight and One-Half Minutes From Cold Water—Chief Rutherford Subjects the New Engine to All Ordinary Requirements and She Meets Them All--The Officials Pleased With Work of the Engine --A Triumph of Mechanical Skill.

Yesterday was not favourable, so far as weather conditions were concerned for making a fire engine test, but Mr. Hugh Cameron, the selling agent for the Waterous Engine Company, was not to be daunted by such a small matter as unfavourable weather, and not only did his engine go through the test, but it demonstrated, in spite of the conditions which were against its successful performance, that it was a machine which could be relied upon to do all that a fire engine could reasonably be expected to do.

The engine tested yesterday was that purchased, conditionally upon a satisfactory test, of course, from the Waterous Engine Company, by the Fire, Water and Light Committee and its purchase is the first actual step towards the improvement of the Fire System which the ratepayers authorised on New Years Day. Those who had charge of the test yesterday, as well as those who were witnesses of it are alike pleased with the results, and the assurance that the city has at least a steam fire engine which can be depended upon in a time of need will be one which will be learned with satisfaction by the ratepayers, to the great majority of whom the former unenviable position of the city in this respect was not one conductive to peace of mind.

A Satisfactory Test.

In a drizzling rain the engine was given the usual tests and to all the requirements she responded satisfactorily, the result being that the committee will recommend on the advice of the Chief, who directed the tests, that the engine be accepted by the city. In spite of the very disagreeable weather there was a good crowd on hand to see the tests applied, and general satisfaction was expressed at the result. The citizens generally seem to be taking a deep interest in the purchase of the engine, and the Waterous, by her performance of yesterday, made many friends. Two series of tests were applied, the first that of lifting water from a stream, and the second taking it under pressure from the hydrant. One steaming test was made and through all the tests made the engine came out with flying colours, with credit to herself and her makers.

The new engine which is now practically the property of the city, is not only a handsome piece of machinery, but she is effective, as her work of yesterday demonstrated. Her ability to throw a stream of water a long distance was amply proven, and under every ordinary condition it was shown that the new engine was one in which implicit confidence may be placed.

Steaming Qualities Good.

The steaming qualities of the engine are particularly good. Starting with cold water, fire was lit and a stream of water was thrown in 8 1-2 minutes yesterday, with 60 pounds steam pressure. Under more favourable weather conditions there is no doubt that even a better record would have been made.

The negotiations which have led up to the purchase of the Waterous engine by the city are decidedly interesting. It will be remembered that last fall a test was made here of another fire engine made by a competing company. At that time a challenge was issued to the Waterous Company to a competition test in Peterborough, which the latter company for business reasons refused to accept. Later, however, they issued a challenge to the company which had challenged them here, to a test in Montreal, both engines to be in charge of University men, who were familiar with machinery, and the decision as to which was the better engine was to be rendered by them. This was not accepted, and later when both companies were again in the field to supply Peterborough with an engine, after the ratepayers had sanctioned its purchase, the Waterous people again challenged their competitor to a test here, and sent a marked cheque to back up their challenge. This offer was submitted to the council at its first regular meeting in March, and a report of the challenge in connection with that meeting from the Examiner is as follows:—

Challenge to Competiors.

The Waterous, Messrs. Hugh Cameron & Son, "further challenged the Canadian Fire Engine Company to hold a competitive test in Peterborough under conditions similar to those submitted for the proposed test in Montreal. Three experts to be appointed by the city the selections to be made from the McGill University, Montreal; the School of Practical Science, Toronto, and any professional expert obtainable from the United States. Each company is to deposit with the city treasurer $500 and an obligation to be prepared by the city solicitor to defray any expense incurred in the test in excess of $1,000, placed in the hands of the city solicitor, share and share alike. The challenge must be accepted by March 10th, 1 o'clock p.m., and the test to take place within three months from date of challenge. The writers enclosed a marked check for $500 as evidence of their good faith."

This challenge again was not accepted, and the result was that after some further negotiations the Fire, Water and Light Committee decided to purchase the Waterous engine, subject to a satisfactory test, as being in the best interests of the city.

The tests yesterday were made at the London street bridge, and on Water street, opposite the market. At the first place the lift was six and a half feet from still water, and the usual tests with one and two streams off water were made. Steam was generated from cold water here, and the quick steaming qualities of the engine pleased those in charge and those who were witnesses of the test.

The record is as follows:—

Quick Work.

That the Waterous engine made a good record, and that a demonstration was given that in this particular, at any rate, it was superior to the engine formerly tested, here, is evidenced by the following which are the official figures:—

From time torch was applied to the kindling, until 40 lbs of steam was generated, the London engine took 10 1-2 minutes; Waterous engine 7 1-2 minutes.

The London engine started with 40 lbs. of steam, raised in 10 1-2 minutes, and the Waterous engine started with 60 lbs. of steam raised in 6 1-2 minutes.

Eighty pounds of steam were raised by the London engine, (working) in 22 1-2 minutes; by the Waterous engine, (working) in 12 minutes; one minute later the Waterous engine had 100 lbs. of steam and 100 lbs. water pressure. Five minutes later the Waterous engine had 120 lbs. In four more minutes the indicator on the steam guage had been moved up to 140 lbs., when the safety valve popped. The first test was made with only 100 feet of hose and an inch and a quarter nozzle. The second trial was made with two lines of hose and the steam remained at 140 and the water pressue climbed to 180 lbs.

An inch and a half nozzle was used and also a two inch nozzle. The last was made with a Siamese coupling—two lines to one nozzle, and the steam still remained at 140 lbs, and water pressure climbed to 195 lbs.

During the test the engine was handled by Mr. J. J. Quinlan, who is a thoroughly practical man, and the fireman was Mr. Ed. Nelson, who has the art of generating steam quickly down to a science. The steaming qualities of the engine impressed those who saw the test, most favourably, and since this is a most important feature of any fire engine, the conviction that the Waterous machine is a most efficient engine is emphasised. The finish and general appearance of the engine is also most satisfactory. It is substantial and at the same time symetrical in design.

The Tests.

After the test at London street the engine was taken to a point opposite the market, where water was taken at city pressure from the hydrant and thrown from one and two nozzles, considerably over the clock tower on the market hall building.

Delighted with City's Purchase.

After the test Chief Rutherford, who directed it, expressed himself as satisfied. The engine had performed all that the makers claimed for it and he was confident the machine would prove to be one which would give the city good satisfaction. Other practical men who followed the test closely, expressed themselves as being pleased with the performance of the engine, and the feeling is that the city has made a good bargain, and secured an effective fire engine.

Canada And A Welcome To Connaught

Mr. Borden Expresses the Sentiment of the Commons.

HON. MR. PATERSON CONCURS

Opposition to Mr. Fisher's Plans Manifested—Small Item For Improvement of Exhibit at Imperial Institute Haggled Over For Four Hours—Standard Size of Milk Cans—The Indian Estimates.

Ottawa, March 28.—The Opposition showed feeling against Hon. Sydney Fisher yesterday by debating for four hours a small item for improvement of the Canadian exhibit at the Imperial Institute. During part of the time the discussion was carried on in the form of a joke. It is noteworthy that Mr. Lewis of West Huron, whose defection from the Opposition on the autonomy bill has not been forgotten, had arranged to speak yesterday afternoon on the overloading of lake vessels, but his turn never came. Eventually the House got into supply, and made good progress on the Indian estimates. Before adjournment a few words of welcome to Prince Arthur of Connaught, who landed at Victoria yesterday, were spoken by Mr. Borden and Hon. Mr. Paterson.

Standard Can of Milk.

Among the petitions presented yesterday were a number which Mr. Arch. Campbell handed in praying for a law establishing eight gallons as a standard can of milk and four gallons as a half can.

Hon. Mr. Brodeur introduced a bill respecting powers of the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal, which, he explained, gave the commissioners power to erect a statue to the memory of Sir John Yonge within the city of Montreal, as no suitable site could be found within the harbor.

The House went into Committee of Ways and Means for raising supply voted on items contained in the supplementary estimates.

APPOINTED LIEUT.-GOVERNOR.

Judge Fraser, Ex-M. P., Accepts Honor In Nova Scotia.

Ottawa, March 28.—Judge Duncan Fraser, ex-M. P., was appointed yesterday afternoon Lieutenant-Governor of Nova Scotia.

It is understood that he will be succeeded on the bench by Frederick A. Lawrence, the sitting member for Colchester, N. S.

Mr. Fraser was appointed to the bench in February, 1904, and his acceptance of the governorship will involve the sacrifice of a life salary, of $6,000. His salary as governor will be $10,000, but the term of office is only five years.

In political circles, he has been familiarly known as the Giant of Guysboro. He is 61 years of age, and has been in public life since 1878. He was elected grand master of the Free Masons of Nova Scotia in 1892, and was named judge in February, 1904.

Dueled Council With Revolver.

Montreal, March 28.—An exciting scene took place in the Lanquedil Council on Monday night, when Maurice Perrault, M. P. He held the meeting in suspense, and went on talking.

Charles Reddy Drowned.

Georgetown, March 28.—A drowning accident occurred here yesterday morning. Charlie Reddy, while engaged in fighting the ice blockade on Sykes' dam, slipped and fell into the water. Dead at 105.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—Lacking just one month of being 106 years old, Mrs. Bridget Coleman, died yesterday at her home in this city. She was born in Ireland in 1800, and came to America in 1849. She was the mother of 11 children, four of whom survive.

The Wornout Nerves, The Weak Heart, The Tired Brain, The Wasted Strength,

What a multitude of women there are who feel that these words exactly suit their case. From early morn until late at night they have been on the go, year in and year out, attending to the daily household duties, looking after the wants of her children and spending the rest of her time attending to social and church work. Is it any wonder then that sooner or later there comes a general collapse? The action of the heart becomes weak and palpitating, the nerves become unstrung, the brain feels in a whirl half the time and the usual force of vitality is lacking.

It is at this time a woman should look after herself. If she does not, serious female disorders may set in and often cause weary months and years of helplessness and miserable suffering. What she wants is something to build up her system. For this purpose there is nothing to equal

They are the woman's friend in every sense of the word.

They will strengthen the weak heart, tone up the shaky, unreal nerves, make the brain clear, and restore the lost vitality.

Mrs. George Lohnes, Shanley Station, N.S., writes, "I was greatly troubled with weak and dizzy spells and was so run down I could not attend to my household duties. I bought two boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking them I found that my trouble had all passed away. I am now strong and healthy again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25. If your dealer does not handle them, send direct to The Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

BREAD is never better than the flour it is made of.

Often it is not nearly so good, but that is the fault of the bread-maker.

Without good flour, good bread is impossible, no matter how skilfully it is handled.

Now, good bread must be good to eat, as well as good to see or to taste. Good-to-eat bread is bread that nourishes.

Insurance Methods In The Mother Land

British Policyholders Interests In House of Lords.

BRITISH MANAGER RESIGNS

Mr. Haldeman's Resignation From the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York—N. Y. Assembly Legislates Mutual Directors Out of Office—Three Big Men to Be Arrested in City of New York.

London, March 28.—The Earl of Granard (Liberal), in behalf of the Board of Trade, replying in the House of Lords yesterday to the Earl of Onslow (Conservative), who on March 9, gave notice of his intention to ask the Government whether, in view of the disclosures made regarding certain American insurance companies, it intended to compel foreign companies doing business in Great Britain to keep in this country a sufficient proportion of their securities to cover the claims of British policyholders, said the Government would appoint a select committee to consider the question.

In introducing the subject, the Earl of Onslow spoke strongly of the alleged practice of the officers of insurance companies in advancing large sums to companies in which they were personally interested and of the control of the three large American companies doing business in Great Britain.

No Guarantee of Safety.

He review the evidence of the Armstrong committee from which he concluded that there was no guarantee that British policyholders might not awake some morning to find that the assets had disappeared.

In England, Lord Onslow added, a quarter of a million of people were interested in the affairs of the American insurance companies and the country could not allow, that the slightest risk of loss should exist for those who had invested their small savings in insurance. He hoped the Government would introduce legislation such as had been adopted elsewhere compelling the companies to deposit approved assets to meet their liabilities.

Not Unreasonable.

During the course of his reply the Earl of Granard said that the suggestion of a guarantee to policyholders on the part of foreign insurance companies was not unreasonable. The Government had carefully considered the matter and had concluded that the best way to meet the request was by the appointment of a select committee which he hoped would be able to move shortly.

British Manager Resigns.

D. C. Haldeman, British manager of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, has resigned, owing to differences of opinion between himself and the New York officers over matters which he considers of vital importance to the British policyholders.

Legislating Mutual Life Directors Out.

Albany, March 28.—The Assembly yesterday advanced to a third reading without debate the bill of the Armstrong committee legislating from office the present directors of the Mutual Life Insurance Companies in this State on Nov. 15th next, and providing for the election of their successors, under the direction of the State Superintendent of Insurance.

To Arrest Big Men.

New York, March 28.—District Attorney Jerome yesterday appeared before Magistrate Moss, in the Tombs Police Court and applied for warrants to be used in testing the legality of the contribution of insurance companies' funds to political campaign committees. The names of no person or persons were mentioned at the time.

Mr. Jerome later asked Justice O'Sullivan if he would not, sitting as a magistrate, issue a warrant for the arrest of George W. Perkins, former vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co., in order that a writ of habeas corpus might be obtained and the matter taken at once to the higher court.

Mr. Jerome also suggested that if contributing to campaign committees by officers of the insurance companies constituted larceny, the matter involved Chairman George B. Cortelyou and Treasurer Cornelius N. Bliss of the Republican national campaign committee in a matter of receiving stolen goods.

Magistrate Moss said concerning the matter: "I told Mr. Jerome very frankly that if a crime had been committed he would have to tell me about it. I told him that in my judgment that could be best done by deposition, and he agreed to submit them to me. The names of no person or persons were mentioned at that time."

Taken Ill on a Car.

Detroit, March 28.—Taken from a Port Huron interurban car at noon, Duncan McPhail of Camalachie, Ont., remained in an unconscious condition at the Emergency Hospital until 9.30 Monday night, when he died. McPhail became ill on a car and could not explain his illness. A stomach pump was used, but the man continued to sink. A post-mortem examination showed the cause to have been apoplexy.

Goes For Trial.

Prince Albert, Sask., March 28.—James Sinclair, the D. R. O. in Prince Albert district, has been committed for trial for ballot-stuffing and conspiracy. The Provincial Righters are the accusers. Sinclair is out on $3,000 bail. T. J. Agnew is the justice of the peace who is hearing the case.

Down For Twenty Years.

New York, March 28.—Robert H. Spriggs, the negro recently convicted of detaining white women against their will in a resort frequented only by negroes, was yesterday sentenced to serve 20 years. Sallie Bennett, who assisted Spriggs in conducting the resort, was sentenced to 10 years.

Big Fire in Alaska.

Los Angeles, March 28.—A cablegram dated Juneau, Alaska, March 26, from United States District Attorney Boyce, says that the Town of Wrangel, Alaska, has been almost destroyed by fire. Total loss, $100,000.

Confidence in Dr. Chase.

"My mother has kept Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as long as I can remember, and we are all well acquainted with their merits. I have used them for kidney and liver disease and they always helped me. Mother has had Dr. Chase's receipt book for twenty years and I tell you that it is a good one."—Mr. John Miller, South Saltspring, B.C.

St. Catharines' Woman Assaulted.

St. Catharines, March 28.—Miss Chase, a well-known and highly respected woman, was chased by an unknown man Monday night about 8 o'clock and brutally assaulted. He knocked her down and kicked her on the head. Her screams attracted help and the ruffian ran. Her injuries were attended to at the hospital, but owing to the meagre description of the man the police have no great hopes of arresting him.

London, Ont., March 28.—John Gilbert, a well-known McGillivray farmer, and a young man named McMahon, were driving home on Saturday evening at a lively pace from Ailsa Craig, with a loaded wagon, when one of the horses dropped dead. The animal fell underneath the other horse, and the vehicle was upset. McMahon jumped and escaped injury, but Gilbert was thrown out and crushed to death under the loaded wagon. COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to be. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and better than the plain oil.

Good Ice In The Brock Street Rink

To-night the Brock Street Rink will be open to skaters. The frost of last night put the ice in good condition again, and to-night it will be about as good as it has been all winter. Mr. Thorabeck, the superintendent, is hoping that the present cold snap will continue for a few days, and if it does he promises the patrons good ice for the close of the season.

Will Deer Hunters Be ALLOWED TO USE ANY Dogs In The Future?

An Amendment to Ontario Game Laws That Will Seriously Affect the Hunters—License Fee for Americans and British Subjects Outside the Province May be Increased.

A bill to amend sub-section 6 of section 8 of the Ontario Game laws and one that all novices will be vitally interested in has passed its first reading in the house and whether it will pass its second or not is a matter of much serious speculation. This above sub-section now reads that deer shall not be pursued by dogs during the close season, but the amendment reads that they shall not be pursued by dogs at any time, and also exonerates any person who shoots a dog pursuing deer at any time. The amended sub-section reads as follows:—

"No owner of any hound or other dog known by the owner to be accustomed to pursue deer, shall permit any such hound or dog to run at large in any locality where dear are usually found at any time. Any person harbouring or claiming to be the owner of such hound or dog shall be deemed to be the owner thereof, and any hound or dog found running deer at any time shall be deemed to be at large with the permission of the owner thereof, and may be killed on sight by any person, who shall not be liable to any penalty or damage therefor."

The License Question.

The act also provides for an increase of the license fee for shooting deer for Americans from twenty-five to one hundred dollars and for British subjects outside the province twenty-five dollars. The fee for the resident hunters of Ontario still remains at two dollars, the fee which hitherto has also been charged all British subjects. The change in the law is known as an act to amend Ontario game law protection and passed its first reading on March 9th last.

The Christian Science Views Are Defended

Weat the Ottawa Citizen Says In Regard To It.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Now when we are passing through those days of evangelistic excitement, when men are given to making false accusations, and circulating tracts, that are as far from the truth as the east is from the west, I wish to say a few words. When they state that Christian Scientists do not believe in Christ,—when some of those leaders and so-called teachers declare in our hearing that the Methodist Church as well as Christian Science is of the devil, we are led to think we are in the days spoken of by Paul in II. Timothy, 3, 1 to 5.

Now, Sir, I sincerely believe, if you can make room in your valuable paper for the following clippings from the Ottawa Citizen of March 17th, statements of Mr. Bicknell Young in a lecture on Christian Science, in the Russell Theatre, and also the remarks of Rev. Wm. McIntosh, who presided, and who is an able expounder of Holy Writ, a gentleman full of love for his fellow-men, which is evidence of love for God, you shall give the public more genuine truth than they can possibly receive by false assertions from what should be the sacred desk, boasting on street corners, or blowing of trumpets. Hoping I am not intruding on your space, and with thanks for past favours, I am,

Sincerely yours,
R. J. TODD.

The article in the Citizen is as follows:—

The lecture of Mr. Bicknell Young C. S. B., on Christian Science, in the Russell theatre last night, attracted a large attendance and the gifted speaker was closely followed in his lucid arguments. The gathering was honoured with the presence of Rev. William McIntosh, pastor of the First Congregational church, who presided. In introducing Mr. Young, the chairman said: In this conservative city it may be a surprise to some to see a pastor of one of the city churches acting as chairman at a lecture on Christian Science. While I offer no apology for this action, a word of explanation may not be out of place.

I hardly need to say that I am not a Christian Scientist; that so far as I understand the teaching of Mrs. Eddy, the founder, there are statements in that teaching which it is impossible for me to accept at present. But the same is true of every section of the Christian church. We can see truth only from our own standpoint, and none but God can reveal to the individual the lonely human soul. Each must be fully persuaded in his own heart. But while we have truth, and rejoice in it, we may not, as intelligent people, conclude that we have all the truth. We are no monopolists of wisdom. Truth is broader and higher and nobler than all human conceptions of it. Hence it becomes us to stand ready to receive light from whatever quarter it may come. The movement called Christian Science demands our respectful attention. It comes to us with the message of the love of God, who is the true Saviour of man, who reveals the Father to the race. It accepts the Scriptures as containing the word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and conduct.

The world is full of sin, hence full of pain and anguish. Any teaching that brings a note of hope and uplift to the broken hearted race by doing away with sin and wiping away the tear from the face of sorrow, is welcome. I am sure, therefore, that I can confidently bespeak for the lecturer of the evening a respectful and sympathetic hearing from an Ottawa audience. He comes to us with an honourable record, not only in his own country, but from beyond the sea. I have much pleasure in introducing the lecturer of the evening, Mr. Bicknell Young.

It has sometimes been asked if Christian Scientists believe in Christ. Who is a believer, the one who preaches merely, or the one who practices? Who believes in a science such as the science of numbers, for example? Surely it will be answered, he who trusts his affairs to it. Who believes in honesty? Is it not he who is honest. Who believes in patriotism? Not necessarily the one who declaims about it, but rather he who, like our forefathers, pledges his life, his fortune and his sacred honour to maintain the integrity of his country. Who believes in Christ? They who only say they do, and fail to do the works of Christ, or they who trust absolutely in the teachings of Jesus and strive to do the works that he commanded? I say without fear of successful contradiction that of all people on earth, Christian Scientists believe most absolutely in Christ. They utterly repudiate the assumption that they are unchristian. They accept the teachings of Christ Jesus without reservation. Theories as to what constitutes orthodox religion, on the other hand, reject the healing power from the gospel and attempt to explain their failure to obey the command of Jesus to heal the sick by saying that it was intended for His time only, although there is nothing in the Bible to justify such an assumption. Hear this: "And as ye go, preach, saying, the kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils." (Matthew 10, 7 and 8.) If one of His commands was intended for His time only, then all were, and the whole Christian religion falls to the ground. The fact is the healing power continued to be exercised in the early Christian church for about three centuries, and was then lost through the introduction of ecclesiasticism. "The teachings of Jesus rest upon eternal truth, and his commands were equally intended for all time. He did not say that Christ would leave the earth when he left it. He declared the eternity of Christ. "Before Abraham was, I am." "I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you." His career reveals the power of God to govern man righteously—here through the mind that was in Christ Jesus, the mind that Paul admonishes us to have. Theoretical religion in a futile endeavour to reconcile religion with changing and shifting human conditions and beliefs, has always tried to make an amalgamation of good and evil. Christian Science shows that they are opposed to each other, and that no good thing is ever attained by means of evil, not by compromising with it. Like all other denominations Christian Science affirms that God is all power, presence, being and mind, but unlike them all it abides unwaveringly by its affirmation. It declares God to be divine Principle, and that Christian Scientists reflect that Principle practically by trusting God absolutely to heal and to save.

HEALTH IN SPRING.

Nature Needs Assistance in Making New Health-Giving Blood.

Spring is the season when your system needs toning up. In the spring you must have new blood, just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it. Without new blood you will feel weak and languid, you may have twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia, occasional headaches, a variable appetite, pimples or eruptions of the skin, or a pale, pasty complexion. These are sure signs that the blood is out of order. A tonic is needed to give new energy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic in all the world. They make new, rich, blood—your greatest need in spring. They clear the skin, drive out disease and make tired, depressed men and women bright, active and strong. Mrs. Chas. Masson, Yamachiche, Que. proves the great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in building up people who have become weakened and run down. She says:—"In the winter of 1905 I was very much run down and lost flesh rapidly. My blood was poor. I suffered from indigestion severe headaches and general debility. In this condition I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and thanks to this valuable medicine I am again enjoying perfect health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the ailments due to poor blood or shattered nerves. That is why they cure anemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, kidney trouble, indigestion and the secret ailments of women and girls. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville Ont.

Havelock Man Charged With Uttering Forged Paper

Came up for Trial Before Judge Edmison Yesterday—Case Was of a Very Serious Nature—He Acknowledged His Mistake and Prosecution Was Dropped—Was Belmont Reeve—Buffalo Robe Thief Sent Up for Trial.

County Magistrate Edmison was in Havelock yesterday attending to a couple of police court cases, one of which was of a rather serious nature. Mr. Joseph Johnson, reeve of Belmont, was charged by Mr. Richard Stacey with uttering and putting off as genuine, an order for $40, made on the municipality of Belmont and Methuen, and purported to be signed by Mr. Stacey, knowing that the note was a forged one, and with intent to defraud.

A number of witnesses were present, and it was discovered that Johnson had gotten an order from Stacey on the treasury of the municipality for the $40. He took the order to the treasurer, writing Stacey's name on the back, and received a cheque payable to Stacey, which he carried back and got him to endorse in order to get the money.

From the evidence it was clearly seen that Johnson did not recognize the seriousness of the charge, and by acknowledging the mistake the Crown Attorney and Mr. George Sherry, the counsel for the prosecution, agreed upon dropping the charge.

The other case was that of a Mr. Clapper, charged with stealing a sleigh robe. Clapper was sent up for trial before Judge Weller. The case will probably be tried in the course of a few days.

Navigation Will Open Early On Trent Canal

Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, is of the opinion that navigation in the canal will be open earlier this year than in 1905. He reports that from Lakefield north the waterway will be open for navigation by April 15, which will be several days earlier than last year. From Lakefield to Peterborough it will probably be May before that stretch will be open. While the small cut of wood this winter may affect the freight traffic on the canal this year to a certain extent, Mr. McClellan looks for an increased passenger traffic. The scenic beauties of the canal will no doubt attract a large number of excursions, which Mr. McClellan expects to be numerous this summer.

Mrs. G. Singleton's Pleasant At-Home

Mr. and Mrs. George Singleton, of 168 Stewart street, entertained a number of intimate friends at their comfortable home on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The pleasant occasion also marked the anniversary of Mrs. Singleton's birthday, although it did not partake of the customary birthday functions.

The guests were hospitably entertained and a very pleasant social time was spent. The host and hostess were congratulated on their exemption from the ills of life and their enjoyment of excellent health.

Mr. and Mrs. Singleton are known to be zealous Christian Scientists, and their understanding of divine metaphysics has often been beneficially exerted in the cases of sickness and other troubles, as can be attested by numerous residents of the city and county of Peterborough. They have many well-wishers who will be pleased to know that they continue to maintain a vigour and freshness not usual at their age, and that "the measurement of their lives by solar years does not rob them of their enjoyment of life."

BABY COVERED WITH SORES

Would Scratch and Tear the Flesh Unless Hands Were Tied—Wasted to a Skeleton—Awful Suffering for Over a Year—Grew Worse Under Doctors—Skin Now Clear.

WOULD HAVE DIED BUT FOR CUTICURA

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sores come out on his face. I had a physician treat him, but the sores grew worse. Then they began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then one came on his chest, worse than the others. Then I called another physician. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in cloths at night to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh.

"He got to be a mere skeleton, and was hardly able to walk. My Aunt advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. So great was her faith in them that she gave me a small piece of Soap to try and a little of the Ointment. I took it home without any faith, but to please her I tried it, and it seemed to dry up the sores a little.

"I sent to the drug store and got a cake of the Soap and a box of the Ointment and followed the directions, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He has never had any sores of any kind since.

"He is now strong and healthy, and I can sincerely say that only for your most wonderful remedies my precious child would have died from those terrible sores. I used only one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. (signed) Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D., No. 1, Woodville, Conn, April 22, 1905."

"The Government Of Canada Is In The Canal Business For Keeps," Says Minister Of Railways And Canals

Assurance of Hon. H. R. Emmerson to One of the Largest Deputations That Ever Visited the Capital---Acknowledges That Government is Committed to Completion of Trent Canal---Estimates and Plans Will Not be Ready Till November Session --The Deputation Well Satisfied With Visit and Encouraging Reception.

Ottawa, March 28th. — "The Government of Canada is in the canal business, and in it for keeps," was the statement made by the Hon. Minister of Railways and Canals this morning in reply to the largest deputation which has appeared in Ottawa this season, and one of the largest in the history of Canada, to urge immediate construction of the terminal sections of the Trent Canal.

The Railway Committee Room in the Parliament Buildings was crowded with enthusiastic and insistent delegates representing twelve counties and three hundred thousand persons. The request, if not demand, of the different speakers, comprising the deputation, was for definite information respecting the policy of the Government in connection with this, to the people of Peterborough, and whole Midland District, most important question of the completion of the Trent Canal.

This information was given by Hon. Mr. Emmerson, in the regrettable absence, through indisposition, of the Premier. His reply to the deputation was to the effect that the Government was, by virtue of the large expenditure of money already made, committed to the completion of the canal. The further statement was made by the Minister that the Government was in the canal business to stay.

HON. H. R. EMMERSON,
Minister of Railways and Canals.

Estimates and plans of routes will, in all probability, not be ready for this session, but will be submitted at the November session.

The Ministers who were present to receive the deputation were Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon. William Patterson, Minister of Customs, and Hon. C. S. Hyman, Minister of Public Works. The deputation was introduced by Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., West Peterbrough. The speakers were Messrs. J. W. McLaughlin, K. C., Lindsay, J. H. Kilbourne, Lakefield, Barlow Cumberland, Port Hope, C. Munson, Cobourg, Mayor Miller, of Orillia, and a number of others.

The members of the deputation are well satisfied with the results of the visit, and express great confidence as to the ultimate success of the project.

Five Wrecked Engines Passed Through City

One of the strangest trains that ever came to Peterborough passed through early this afternoon. It consisted of a G.T.R. engine drawing five dilapidated engines that looked like a South African armoured train after it had run the blockade. The engines were remnants of two recent wrecks. These locomotives were from the smash-up at South River, where an emigrant train crashed into a double-headed freight. The three are almost complete wrecks, and give some idea of the destruction caused by a head-on collision. The other two engines were in a wreck at Bracebridge, and are almost as badly damaged.

The outfit is on its way to Montreal, where the engines will be repaired. The speed is necessarily very slow, the rate assigned to the train crew being 10 miles an hour. "Will get there in a week," said a trainman this afternoon.

Chinese Lyncoe A Peculiar Plant

A rare and peculiar plant is on exhibition in the window of Mr. Wm. Mark's drug store. The common name is the Chinese lyncoe, and the botanical name is trapa bicornis. The plant grows in a jar of water from a seed somewhat the shape and appearance of a sheep's horns. Nothing except water is necessary in which to grow the plant, which blooms in about six weeks' time. The flowers are in the colours pink, red and white, about the shape and size of a large pansy blossom.

North Monaghan Case Of Cruelty To Cattle

Information Laid Against Offender and Prosecution Follows —Case Will be Heard To-morrow.

Several days ago the Examiner published a communication, alleging serious cruelty to animals in North Monaghan, involving almost criminal neglect. The Examiner was informed on authority that purported to represent the authorities, that the matter had been investigated, and that the alleged facts had been overstated. However, this morning Mr. Geo. [illegible] possession on the 1st of April, is "an Cumbrans, High County Constable, went out to North Monaghan to make investigation. What he discovered it would be indiscreet at present to mention. However, on the strength of what he saw and learned, he has laid an information against Bernard Navin, and the case will be heard before County Police Magistrate Edmison at the Court House at three o'clock to-morrow.

License Holders Object To The "Hanna Bill"

A despatch from Toronto states that a deputation of the Province of Ontario license holders have been granted a hearing by Premier Whitney on Wednesday, April 4, 1906. It is understood that license holders have serious objections to several provisions of the Hanna Bill, and will strenuously object to its being passed without numerous and important amendments.

Car Strike At Winnipeg

Employees of Street Railway Company Quit Work.

Winnipeg, Man., March 28.—After an all night meeting, the employees of the Street Railway unanimously decided to go on strike this morning, and as a result the Street Railway system to-day is at a stand-still. The Company attempted to man some cars, but crowds of men held the cars up, removed the trolley poles and when the cars had been brought to a stand-still, threw stones at them, window and doing other damage. Several persons were injured, but not seriously. The police force at present is too small to cope with the victors. [illegible] disturbances.

Good Harvest From Revival Services

The revival services at Bethany Tabernacle are still being continued. Several new converts were added to the list of converts last evening. This evening the pastor hopes to speak on "The Four Months." A baptismal service will follow. To-morrow evening the service will be in charge of the young people of the church. The young people of the church and community are specially invited. There will be no service on Saturday evening of this week.

Overwhelming Victory For Local Option

South Monaghan Decides in its Favour by a Large Majority.

Special to The Examiner.

Bemsfort, March 28. — Local option was voted on in South Monaghan on Tuesday and was carried by a large majority; 107 votes were polled altogether, 101 for the bylaw, and 6 against. This was about one-third of the total number of voters in the township.

The Veterans Of Harts' River

Annual Meeting Will be Held in Toronto Next Week.

The annual meeting and dinner of the Harts River Veterans' Association, will be held in Toronto on April 2nd and 3rd, in commemoration of the battle in which the Canadian volunteers so signally distinguished themselves. It is probable that some of Peterborough's Veterans will attend although it is not yet decided who will go.

Roll Call Meeting Was Successful

The annual roll call meeting of the Murray street Baptist church last night, was largely attended, and deep interest was manifested. Rev. F. J. Scott presided. The meeting was wholly devotional in character. Mr. Benj. Matthews, one of the oldest members, and a very faithful attendant at the roll call, gave a concise biographical and historical sketch, which proved to be highly interesting and instructive.

On Friday night the Boston Choir will meet, and Mr. Thomas will give an address on "Hope-Evening."

Mr. Lancaster was agreeably surprised when his friends presented him with a beautiful gentleman's companion, accompanied by the following adress:

Dear Earl,—Having learned that it is your intention to leave our little town to locate in another part of this fair domain, we, a few of your friends, gather around you on this occasion to assure you that we have always duly recognize the worth of those manly characteristics which you possess in a marked degree. Whether on the fields of sport or in every-day, friendly associations, we realize that you have ever shown the fairness of discussion that intelligence and earnestness in action, and above all, that warmth and fidelity of friendship which have so endeared you to us.

The loss we sustain in your departure gives us great sorrow. It is our sincere hope that in your new environments you will be thrown in contact with kindred spirits, those who will appreciate even more than we have done, your goodq ualities to which we have referred, and many others which you happily possess.

Kindly accept this gentleman's companion as a little token of our esteem, and be assured, when in the future your thoughts revert to the boys of Havelock, that by them you are remembered in that kindly manner which it is difficult to express, either in words or by action. In conclusion we would say that if your success is one-half of what we would wish it to be we will soon hear that you are at the head of your profession.

Signed on behalf of the boys.

THE ROYAL TOUR.

Train De Luxe to be Furnished by the Grand Trunk Railway System for H.R.H. Prince Arthur of Connaught for His Tour Through Eastern Canada.

The Royal Train that the Grand Trunk Railway System will furnish for Prince Arthur, the distinguished visitor who is coming to Canada next month, will be the finest and the most luxurious in the world. It will consist of four cars, including a Pullman composite buffet smoking car, a Pullman dining car, a Pullman compartment sleeping car, and the Grand Trunk private car, "Violet." The entire train will be a revelation to those accustomed to railway travel.

First in order will come the "Viceroy," the composite car. Twelve deep leather-upholstered chairs, invite a smoker, rivalling in luxurious comfort the lounge in an alcove of the same apartment. Conveniently joining the smoker is a buffet with a barber shop, and white tiled bathroom annexed to it. The architecture of the interior of the car is a simplified treatment of the German "Modern Style," the finely grained "Koko" wood being dark brown with a conventional flower motif in marguetry, to lend colour to the panelling. Blending harmoniously with this the furnishings are of deep olive and brown, with the burnished gold metal lamps contrasting effectively with the tout ensemble. A portion of this car is provided for the storage of baggage.

No less attractive will be the second car, the diner "Munroe," which in architectural design and beauty is entirely different to the "Viceroy." Here the Flemish style prevails; the richly carved oak, stained, and Antwerp brown, extending in a wainscoting to the lower portion of the ceiling, which is squared off, making the car seem like the dining hall of a palace. The lighting of this car is also unique, for besides the electroliers in the ceiling, a small candelabrum branches over each of the ten tables, and antique lamps are hung at intervals along the sides of the car. Third in succession, but equal in beauty, will be a Pullman compartment sleeping car, containing seven communicating state rooms, and two drawing rooms. Each compartment has its individual colour scheme and furnishings, and its complete toilet appurtenances each rivalling its neighbour in exquisite furnishings. Covering the floors of the three cars is heavy "Wilton" carpet of exquisite designs and of a colour to harmonize with the surroundings.

The three cars referred to above were awarded the Grand Prix at the World's Fair at St. Louis, in 1904, and are conceded to be the handsomest, most luxurious and comfortable in the world. The last car on the train will be the "Violet," the handsome private car built for Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, K.C.M.G., C.B., the president of the Grand Trunk Railway System, and will be occupied by Prince Arthur and his equerry. In addition to its beautiful architectural design, the richness of its furnishings, the large comfortable bedrooms, the roomy dining room, and spacious cosy observation end, and its interior air of elegance, it is a car which offers all the requirements for comfort and ease in travelling. Two of the rooms in the "Violet" are supplied with baths, cleverly concealed from view in the floor of the car. A library containing the latest books has been installed, and everything that will tend to make the Prince's visit while on the Grand Trunk, a pleasant one, has been done, while a trip over the only double track line in Canada will give the visitors a good impression of Canadian railways.

The entire train will be electrically lighted from power generated in the baggage compartment of the composite car, special turbines and dynamos having been installed for the purpose. A telephone system will be provided whereby communication can be had by 'phone from one car to the other while the train is in motion, and while train is standing connection will be made giving the opportunity of using the local circuit or long distance lines at any point.

The prince will take the train at Ottawa on April 20th, and will be conveyed by the Grand Trunk from Ottawa to Toronto, Hamilton and Niagara Falls, then back to Montreal; from thence the party will proceed by the Intercolonial Railway for the tour through the Maritime Provinces. It

Epworth League Was Re-organized

Other Interesting Doings Around The Glen.

Special to The Examiner.

Hall's Glen, March 27.—The blustry weather and the last two days' snow storm has made fresh prospects for sleighing.

The Hill camp has commenced operations again although on a lower scale. There are others manifesting a strong inclination in that direction.

We note that the season's great supply of hard wood has completely over stocked our markets; and if the last cord is never delivered it will always be there.

Some of the young people of Lakefield were renewing their health in a social way with their old friends on the lake shore, one evening last week.

The re-organization of the Epworth League took place Tuesday evening 20th, inst. The following officers were elected:—President, Miss M. Brown; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. W. Carveth; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Jos. Moore; 3rd Vice-President, Miss E. E. Crowe and 4th Vice-President, Mrs. A. Darling; secretary, H. Little; treasurer, D. Brown; organist and assistant, R. and L. Carveth.

We advise the aggressive blacksmith to reinforce his staff in order to meet his ever growing trade from his impatient customers from the north.

Mr. A. C. Carveth is still proving himself to be an excellent entertainer, and the 3rd line last evening was favoured with his genial presence and his travelling companion, the phonograph.

The village shingle mill is about to commence operations again in order to manufacture a large order of shingle to re-roof the new state, the old roof leaking badly upon the crowded occupants. The village council is also enacting for the re-shingling and tar-papering the "White Maria" and having the smoke-stack extended as a ventilator.

Sudden Death Of Mr. John Glenn In Havelock

Electric Light and Power Company's Affairs—Trent Canal Deputation — Literary Entertainment Held by the Public School Pupils — Important Speakers Will Conduct Ceremony With Installation of Officers of Order of Chosen Friends—A Presentation.

VISITING MINISTERS CONDUCT SERVICES

Special to the Examiner

Havelock, March 22.—The annual meeting of the Havelock Electric and Power Company, was held in the town hall on Thursday March 15th. A statement of the receipts and expenditures of the company since its inception, Dec. 31st, 1905, was read and adopted. It was ordered to be printed and distributed among the shareholders. The following Directors were elected:—

Messrs. Alex. Rose, Geo. Young, Wm. Webb, Wm. Fairman and Dr. Holderoft, all of whom were on the Board of Directors last year.

The Directors held a meeting immediately for the purpose of electing officers. The following were elected:—

President—Mr. Wm. Fairman.

Vice-President—Mr. Geo. Young.

2nd Vice-President — Mr. Wm. Webb.

Manager—Dr. Holderoft.

Secretary—Mr. Alex. Rose.

The revenue at present amounts to over $3,000 a year, the expenses being about $1,500, leaving a profit of about $1,500. There are 60 shareholders in the company, two of whom own the controlling interest. The debt on the property, which is being rapidly reduced, amounts to about $10,000. The authorized capital is $20,000, but only about $12,000 worth of stock has been paid up. Owing to the increasing needs of the plant the Directors feel that it will be necessary to instal an additional water wheel.

Reeve Thompson of town, has been appointed by the town council to represent Havelock on the deputation to Ottawa in connection with the Trent Canal.

The sudden death of Mr. John Glenn, occurred on Tuesday night. Mr. Glenn for some time past has troubled with asthma. After ascending the stairs to prepare for bed he was compelled to sit down from a choking sensation in his throat. His daughter, Mrs. Thomas Wright, came to his assistance but he suddenly expired in her arms. The funeral took place from his home to the Maple Grove cemetery on Friday at 2 o'clock, the services being held at the house.

The pupils of the public school held a literary entertainment in the school a few evenings since. There was a large attendance of the pupils and citizens. Rev. A. E. Camp, B.A., was the chairman, and the subject of the programme was a debate, "Resolved that Wellington was a greater general than Napoleon." The affirmative was taken by J. Knox,

The Penalty Of Overeating

THE LIVER FIRST TO SUFFER, BUT KIDNEY DISEASE COMES LATER —GOOD RESULTS FROM THE USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Few people realize that it is not what they eat but what they digest and assimilate that goes to form new blood and repair the waste effected by the act of living.

Hurried eating and lack of proper mastication of the food are among the most common causes of indigestion, and overeating is undoubtedly the beginning of trouble with the liver and kidneys.

Kidney disease and rheumatism are not usually the first indication of a deranged system, but these troubles follow unheeded headaches, constipation and bilious attacks.

Because of their direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are effective in whatever stage of such derangements they may be used, except when the structure of the kidneys has been wasted away by Bright's disease.

What we would emphasize, however, is the advantage of beginning this treatment at the first indication of trouble with the liver. It is the liver which first feels the result of overeating because of its difficulty in filtering the bile. Keep the liver right by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills and you not only prevent headaches, biliousness and constipation, but entirely escape derangements of the kidneys, which are at once as dreadfully painful and fatal.

Reliability is the word most frequently applied to Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills, as well as to his other medicines, for people have come by experience to know that, as a means of ensuring the regular and healthful action of the kidneys, liver and bowels, there is no medicine to be compared to this.

With these filtering and excretory organs in health, indigestion and bodily pains are unknown and one runs little danger of contracting colds or contagious diseases.

Mrs. M. Garrison, who leaves on Tuesday for Rudy, Sask., was agreeably surprised on Friday, March 9, when a number of her friends and neighbours gathered at her house and presented her with a beautiful gold watch and chain, with the following address, which was read by Miss E. Swan, the presentation being made by Miss Rose Warren:

Preneveau, March 9, 1906.

Mrs. Mary Garrison,
Preneveau.

Dear Mrs. Garrison,—It was with the depest regret that we learned of your intended departure to the far West; yet we realize that even as we lose one whom we esteem very highly, that others will gain a lady whose integrity and pleasing demeanour have made for her many friends here, and will entwine many friends around her in her future and distant home.

We drift along in life calmly, sometimes thoughtlessly forgetting, perhaps, that friends must part, and when that separation is suddenly thrust upon us, and those we respect and love take up other abodes, all our tender sentiments are aroused, feelings which have lone lain dormant, are quickened into life, and we would ask, "Why?" but even as we do so we feel assured. We know that our Heavenly Father works altogether for the good of His children.

Although in the near future your familiar countenance will not be seen by your Preneveau friends, yet we shall hope that the journey extending over the vast tract of prairies may be re-travelled, and that you may come back once more to be heartily welcomed by us. But before you leave we wish you to accept this watch and chain as a slight token of our friendship, with our hopes that God may graciously prosper you and yours and comfort you always by bestowing those blessings which He only can bestow.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours.

J. A. Sexsmith.
F. Hooper.
J. H. Spinks.

Mrs. Garrison's brief reply expressed her thanks to her friends' kindness, and her regret at leaving them.

WEDNESDAY MARCH 28, 1906.

BURY THE WIRES.

The accident on George street on Tuesday night, though serious enough in regard to loss of property, is far more serious as disclosing a possibility of danger to human life under similar condition. Though at this writing there is no clear explanation of the cause of the conditions which made the accident possible, this much is stated on good authority. A gentleman associated with electric installation says that local or rather topical conditions, or conjunction of conditions, account for the accident, and that similar conditions exist in many places—two hundred he said—in the city. If this be the case, the necessity of taking measures to place all electric wires in the city under ground is emphasized. It is rather uncomfortable to have the feeling that the air about us is vibrant with latent lightning, which though, under control and therefore harmless, may, under conditions which, we are assured exist, break its bonds with fatal, and where human life is concerned, appalling effect. All the danger so lightly dormant which exists in the complicated net work of electric wires that web our streets, would be removed by the simple expedient of under-grounding electric wires.

Not only has the accident of Tuesday night revealed a terrible source of danger, justifying a demand for the burying of electric wires, but there is additional justification for such a demand. Especially on our business streets, the lines of wires constitute so serious interference with the play of hose streams and the use of firemen's ladders, that on the occasion of a large fire these wires might be easily responsible for very important loss of property, if not of life, by obstructing fire extinguishing operations. Then the removal of the ghastly poles that rear their naked ugliness in our streets, planted very often, without regard to the wishes of owners of property or to the disfigurement and obstruction they constitute, would be hailed with delight by all our citizens.

The placing of electric wires in underground tubes would not be a very great hardship to the corporations interested. Of course the initial cost would be considerable, but, apart from maintenance, that initial cost would be insurred once and for all time. We shall have to come to underground wiring before very long. The growing scarcity and consequent increase in price of poles, will make them, especially in view of their being perishable and not permanent like tubing, more expensive than the conduit system. The Machine Telephone Company set a splendid example by burying its wires in the chief business streets and it might have been a blessing in disguise to the company, as it certainly would have been to the city, if our city authorities had made subterranean wiring a condition of the franchise.

But cost or no cost, the city is confronted with the duty of seriously considering a practical means of dealing with and removing the deathly danger existing in the multiplicity of electric wires, charged during the day with the electrical elements of a thousand thunderbolts. To bury the electric wires is a radical remedy.

LOCAL OPTION AND LICENSE.

The following letter, written by Rev. F. D. Roxburgh, M. A., of Smithville, well known in Peterborough, presents a subject for serious consideration:

To the Editor of the Globe: Might I have sufficient space to draw the attention of the public to the need of licensed hotels in local option districts? The commercial travellers have recently petitioned the Government to introduce legislation with a view to providing better hotel accommodation in localities where local option has been carried. At the matter stands at present, the hotel business under local option, must be carried on by men who formerly sold liquor under license, or by temperance men, who might be induced to try the experiment. If by the former the temptation to break the law is going to be insurmountable, and the difficulty of enforcing the law correspondingly great. The latter will not engage in the hotel business without protection. Could not provision be made for granting a license which will compel the holder to supply good accommodation to all who apply and at the same time force him to keep the law? If a liquor man obtains the license let him be always under the threat of losing it, unless he observes the liquor laws. If a temperance man obtains it he has protection against those who might make an opposition business successful by unlawful means.

The success of local option is hanging in the balance in this district. There are temperance men who would enter the business if they had the protection of a license.

Should not the attention of the Government be called to the need of some provision for securing hotel accommodation under local option, without running the risk of unlimited law-breaking? The public demand good hotels, and they do not desire liquor selling where local option has carried, but both of these cannot be realized under present conditions.

This suggests the consideration of the responsibility of the Government in relation to providing accommodation, in lieu of that done away with by the adoption of local option. That is, accommodation that can be depended upon; that can be demanded, and commanded. The prevention of the sale of strong drink does not necessarily extinguish hotels, but it, practically, does so. That is, hotels in the real sense of the word—hotels under license, and therefore under control — which will be compelled to provide accommodation of the kind and of the character the conditions of a license may require. This is an important matter to commercial interests. Much of the business of the country is done by means of agents of wholesale houses, known as commercial travellers. These gentlemen must visit all parts of the country, whether under local option, or otherwise. They require accommodation, and must have it. As conditions are now, a so-called hotel in a local option district, can give or refuse accommodation — refreshments for man or beast. It is under no control, no supervision. It may be either clean or dirty, and no one can call the proprietors to account. The Government is responsible for supplying under regulation and control hotel accommodation or its equivalent, in local option districts. Those responsible for local option adoption as a measure of temperance reform, also have a responsibility. Local option is considered by them the next best thing to prohibition, but, if, through lack of accommodation for the travelling public, there is revolt against local option, there may be reaction, and a return to license law conditions. It is therefore the duty of those favouring local option — they are morally bound — to see, or to try to see — that proper hotel accommodation under license is provided. As Rev. Mr. Roxburgh points out, local option is hanging in the balance. A man may have voted for local option, may believe in it, but he will hardly go hungry and bodless for the sake of local option. Mr. Roxburgh's letter raises a very pertinent question that the Government and the friends of local option must answer in a practical way. If the hotel with the bar, was licensed, and subjected to Government control, in the interests of the travelling public, the hotel, without the bar, should be placed in the same relation to the Government and the travelling public.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

In the Ross regime the battle cry of temperance advocates used to be "banish the bar." Since Mr. Whitney's advent the slogan has been abandoned, and it would now seem to be, says the Brantford Expositor, a case of "license the bar"—and the license is pretty high at that.

School Board And Council

COMBINE TO IGNORE

The City Ratepayers

Autocratic Action in Urging and Voting $35,000 for Unnecessarily Large School in an Undesirable Location, Without Consent of Taxpayers—Re-consideration Involving an Appeal to Ratepayers Strongly Indicated.

If King George III., the pig-headed—pest on him in this regard—had not taken the course of taxing the British colonists of America without their consent, the whole of the North American continent would very probably have remained under the blessings of British rule.

The Peterborough School Board are worthy followers of King George in this respect, and the City Council are good seconds.

The School Board was not justified in demanding the unnecessarily large sum of $35,000 for a new South Ward school, without thinking of asking the consent of the people who have to pay, and the Council was weakly compliant in granting $35,000 for a school of an unnecessarily expansive character in a quarter of the city where the number of school population did not justify so large a building.

No one denies the necessity for increased school accommodation for Number One Ward. It must be provided.

But this provision should take a reasonable form, both in the matter of extent of building and cost, and in the manner of providing the means.

Now the Board and City Council have assumed a haughty and arrogant attitude towards the ratepayers in regard to providing the money needed, of in excess of the requirements of a suitable school building.

It must be known and have been known to both of these bodies that there was great popular dissatisfaction with the proposed amount of expenditure, the size of the building, and the one-sided site fixed upon.

It is true they were acting within the permissive powers the statute gives—that is, the letter of the statute; but they both violated the spirit of the statute, which really does not contemplate that the people who pay should be ignored.

Whether or not the School Board feels that it has acted precipitately in the matter, it is pretty certain that some of the members of the City Council feel that they were stampeded by the Board and urged unthinkingly into passing the large grant of $35,000 over the heads of the people without as much as thinking of asking "by your leave."

And no doubt many of the members of the Council would like to revise their sudden action and undo their act of disrespect to the people implied in forcing through a grant of $35,000 without consulting the people, considering the amount at issue and the attendant adverse conditions.

It is not too late for the Council and the School Board to reconsider their action and purge themselves of the contempt they are guilty of towards the people who pay.

The people of the South Ward no doubt want a school in that district, but it is safe to say that they do not favour the one-sided site selected, nor the expenditure of so large a sum as $35,000.

The people of the city generally recognize the necessity of increased school accommodation for the South Ward, but the people of the city outside that ward will have to pay the bulk of the cost, in the form of increased taxation. They should have some voice in regard to deciding what burden of taxation they shall assume.

Now, $35,000 is not a large sum by itself, but it is only a part of the city's additional indebtedness, which is rapidly approaching the million dollar mark.

We need this school, but we also need other things as badly. As before pointed out, we must have a new Collegiate Institute. A new waterworks dam and filtering basin are proposed—we have continual additions to our debt for pavements and sewers. George street must be paved, and the accident of Tuesday night suggests some consideration of the necessity of putting electric wires underground.

All these mean necessary expenditures, and all are deserving of a share. Under these circumstances, is it wise, is it prudent, is it right to devote so comparatively extravagant a sum as $35,000 for a school in a quarter of the city where the accommodation it provides will not be required for years? — and that without consulting the people who pay.

The ratepayers are primarily concerned in this matter—the people who pay. And they should have a voice in the matter. If the people vote for a $35,0000 or a $50,000 school they should have what they want, but when a $20,000 school would be ample if placed in a more central position where sufficient school population is available, only $20,000 should be spent—if the people who pay say so.

Therefore the ratepayers should have a chance to give an opinion, and it isn't too late for the Board and the City Council to revise their autocratic attitude, reconsider their action and win the public confidence by taking the public into their confidence, and giving the people who pay a chance of pronouncing upon a proposal which deeply affects their pockets as well as other interests.

There should be the greatest confidence between our representative bodies and the people. If our School Boards and City Council get the habit of overriding or acting without regard to the people's will, even in cases where they have technically, if not morally, the right to do so, it may easily come to pass that when these bodies have some legitimate proposition which the people have to approve, the latter may be disposed to assume an attitude of hostility, provoked by high-handed representative action, and thus the general welfare and progress of the city might be easily greatly imperilled.

Endless Annoyance and Misery.

The itching and the burning was almost beyond endurance but Dr. Chase's Ointment gave me quick relief, and I believe the cure is a permanent one." — Rev. William Thomas, Brownsville, Ont.

Had Narrow Escape From Suffocation

Serious Dilemma of Mr. Harry Bradshaw.

Mr. Harry Bradshaw, who clerks at Oke's fruit store, had a very narrow escape last evening from suffocation. On returning to the store after supper Mr. Bradshaw noticed there were signs of gas in the store, and, on investigation, found on examining the banana room in the cellar that the cause was due to the gas escaping from the stove used in that apartment. Mr. Bradshaw naturally entered the room to remedy the trouble, but the gas being so strong he was nearly overcome. Having presence of mind, for which he is noted, he staggerd out, and, after regaining consciousness, he went upstairs and turned off the gas at the meter. It was a close call, and it is hoped that Mr. Bradshaw will not have any serious results after his narrow escape.—Com.

Pump Would Not Do Its Work

Gas Supply Shut Off for Some Time.

The Gas Works had to close down yesterday afternoon owing to the fact that the pump which forces the crude oil into the gas, making machines to illuminate the super-heated steam, was put out of commission. At the time of the breakdown there was a considerable quantity of gas on hand. A large number of citizens, dependent on gas for illumination and cooking purposes, had to do without their gas until repairs were effected between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning.

BANQUET WAS MOST ENJOYABLE

The largest number of triple linked brethren that ever assembled in the Oddfellows' Hall, gathered last night to witness the inaugural use of the paraphernalia which has just been purchased conjointly by Otonabee Lodge, No. 13, and Peterborough Lodge, No. 111.

It was a memorable occasion, and one that will always be recalled with pride and pleasure by the disciples of Friendship, Love and Truth. It was a field night, and more degrees were conferred on local and visiting brethren than during any night for many a year past. Members of the Order who had not been seen inside the hall for years came last night, while there were visitors from Lakefield, Havelock, Pontypool, Hastings, Norwood and Millbrook.

The contingent from the latter place numbered over 50, and was headed by Bro. W .S. Given. They returned by a special train at an early hour this morning. Bro. Ward Patterson, D.D.G.M., of Havelock, was also in attendance, as well as nearly all the Past Grands of Peterborough and Otonabee Lodges. The first, second and third degrees were conferred in splendid style, and the team work has never been surpassed. The exemplification of the different degrees was greeted with hearty applause. Bros. Ed. Wand and L. S. Jackson were in charge of the combined team work from the two lodges. The new paraphernalia may be described by one word—gorgeous. The equipment cost over $1000, and is probably the finest possessed by any Oddfellows' Lodge in Canada. The newly decorated rooms also presented an inviting appearance, and have emerged from the recent scorching and smoke caused by the blaze in the hall a few weeks ago grander and more superb than ever. The walls have been hung with paper of a handsome design on which the emblems of the Order are set forth in gilt. The effect is very striking, but thoroughly in keeping with the beautiful surroundings. The curtains and draperies have also received attention, and it is doubtful if a more palatial lodge room can be found in any similar sized city in Canada or across the border.

But to return to the degree work. Twenty-six candidates took the degree of "Friendship," thirty-two "Love," and a like number "Truth." Many of the members were visiting brethren, the majority being from Millbrook.

After the degree work an excellent repast was enjoyed in the dining room, being served in splendid style by Bro. W. J. McCallum. The long rows of tables were twice filled, as there were 300 people present. Afterwards the brethren re-assembled in the lodge room, where a flashlight photo of the gathering was taken by Bro. R. M. Roy.

Then Cyzicus Sanctorum, No. 24, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection met and the degree of Humility was conferred upon some forty-four candidates.

Last night was one that will not soon be forgotten by those who attended, and it marked an epoch in local Oddfellowship. Both Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges are in a flourishing condition and have recently added considerably to their membership. With the expensive new paraphernalia and the redecorated rooms, the apartments formerly used by Eko Camp having been secured as a property quarters, the prospects for the future are exceptionally bright.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario meets here in August next, and all the members will give the visiting seven or eight hundred delegates a cordial reception. The gathering will be one of the most notable and representative ever held in this city.

The brigade responded quickly, but there was nothing doing.

The body of the late James McWilliams, who died on Tuesday last was laid to rest yesterday afternoon. The burial services at the house and grave were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Potter, and the funeral was under the charge of the Oddfellows' Order, in which the deceased was a respected member. The pall bearers were Messrs. Sills, Mitchell, Murduff, Dytcher, Mason and Burry. A large number of floral wreaths decorated the coffin and grave of the deceased. Among these were the Oddfellows', the Porcelain Works and the Street Car conductors. The latter, a very suggestive one, was designed in the shape of a wheel with one of the spokes broken.

Happy Lindsay Couple In City

The city was honoured last night by the visit of a Lindsay couple, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shouldice, who had just enjoyed the connubial state for a few hours. They registered at one of the local hotels, and intended to spend their honeymoon excursion in this city. From their appearance they appeared to be strictly amateur in the marriage game, but this did not prevent them from seeing the wonderful and singular sights in the shop windows of Peterborough.

No doubt when they return to their native town to the north there will be heard some mysterious stories of their long trip and experience in the big city. Mr. and Mrs. Shouldice will conclude their wedding trip at Pontypool.

First Division Of Session Over County Council Bill

Party Strength Tested Over the County Councils Bill.

ADVICE OF HON. G. W. ROSS

Government Should Go Slow and Have the Measure Considered For a Year or Two—Heavy Day's Work in Committee—Many Bills Read a Second Time — Mr. Thompson Resumes the Budget Debate.

Toronto, March 29.—On the amendment offered by Mr. Hislop to read the Government County Council bill three months hence the Legislature divided last night for the first time this session, after an interesting debate. The vote was 18 to 56, giving the Government a majority of 38. The occasion attracted a considerable attendance in the galleries, which were all well filled. The debate was closed by Hon. Mr. Ross, who pleaded for a year or two's consideration of the measure, and Premier Whitney, who in the course of his remarks said he hoped to see Toronto represented approximately by ten members. During the afternoon a large amount of legislation was advanced through committee and second readings. The vote was taken about 10.30 o'clock, after which Mr. Thompson (Wentworth) resumed the debate on the budget and spoke until 11.40.

The Temiskaming Bonds.

Hon. Mr. Matheson informed Mr. Harcourt that the Government had received no information about the amount of Temiskaming Railway bonds underwritten in England. The bonds would bring 95 5-8 per cent., and the 5-8 per cent. would go to pay the Government stamp tax.

Second Readings.

Mr. Crawford's bill to amend the High Schools Act by repealing the clause providing for a contribution by the city to the cost of pupils at school in adjoining municipalities, was referred to a special committee.

Hon. Dr. Pyne said it was not the intention of the Government to introduce any high school legislation this session.

Mr. Pratt explained his bill to amend the Ontario Game Protection Act, which came up for a second reading.

Hon. Dr. Reaume said the Government was reviewing the game law with a view to the adoption of amendments, and he asked Mr. Pratt to withdraw the bill.

According the bill was withdrawn.

Width of Sleighs.

Mr. Tucker asked for the second reading of his bill to regulate the width of sleigh runners. The width is fixed at three feet ten inches, and makes it uniform all over the province. The bill was referred to the municipal committee.

A second reading was given Mr. Pattinson's bill to compel houses of refuge to admit indigent consumptives.

Mr. Neely, in moving the second reading of his bill to amend the High Schools Act, explained as the chief object the preventing of pupils who properly belonged to one school in a municipality going to a school in another municipality, the former having to bear the cost of tuition.

Mr. Kidd's bill to make the election of councillors in townships, towns and villages resolve itself into a question of numbered classes was withdrawn after some discussion.

To Assess Shares.

In passing the second reading of Mr. Carscallen's bill to bring shares in banks, trust or loan companies, insurance, railway, telegraph companies, etc., under assessment, the Premier gave a warning against tampering with the Assessment Act, whose provisions were mutually dependent upon one another.

The Provincial Treasurer raised objections to Mr. Auld's bill to assess the mineral output of a property. In the case of oil wells that were being worked, he made no demur, but saw a danger of foreign capital being kept out of the province by the general provisions. A second reading was given.

Second readings were given the following bills:

Mr. Mahaffy—To amend the Municipal Act.

Mr. Carscallen—To amend the Municipal Light and Heat Act, the Municipal Waterworks Act and the Municipal Act.

Mr. Brower—To amend the Toll Roads Expropriation Act.

Mr. Fox—To amend the Municipal Act.

New Councils Authorized.

The first division of the present session took place in the Legislature last night on Mr. Monteith's new county councils' bill. It resulted in a straight party vote, being carried by a majority of 38, the line-up being 56 to 18. Briefly outlined, the act provides that each municipality have a representative in county council, the unit of representation being fixed at 1,000, thus increasing the number of councillors from 519 to 615. A spirited debate took place, and the House adjourned, after the vote was taken, at 11.45 p. m.

Emasculate Toronto's Bill.

When the City of Toronto bill got through the municipal committee there was very little left of it except the title. The committee defeated the proposal for a two-year term for aldermen; abolished the two-year aldermanic qualification for controllers, and decided that the people must vote on the rotary increase.

Municipal Power Committee's Report.

The municipal power committee was in session yesterday, and this official statement was handed out after supper last night:

"At a meeting of the municipal representatives from the following places, viz., Toronto, London, Brantford, Guelph, Stratford, Woodstock and Ingersoll, to consider the municipal commission's report on Niagara power, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Moved by Ald. J. W. Lyon of Guelph, Ont., seconded by Ald. Wyatt of London, Ont.

"That this meeting heartily congratulate the municipal commission on their very valuable and exhaustive report. The great saving shown in the cost of power and the impetus that would be given to the industrial life of a large portion of the province is beyond question.

"Having considered the report, and the various means by which it is possible to obtain this power, the conclusion arrived at is: That the Province of Ontario should develop or obtain and distribute, by expropriation or otherwise, Niagara power, to all municipalities within reachable and profitable distance.

"Believing that time is of the greatest importance, we strongly urge that immediate and final action be taken at the present session of the Legislature to bring about the above results."

Oppose License Bill.

To-day at 11 o'clock a large temperance deputation will wait on the Government and point out their objections to the new license bill. The brewers had their say yesterday. The deputation consisted of John Labatt and T. Henry Carling, London; Robert Bowie, Brockville; H. J. Taylor, St. Catharines; S. A. Griggs, Walkerville; C. W. Huether, Berlin; Alex. Turner, Hamilton; Eugene O'Keefe, A. Ballantyne, W. Hawke and W. T. Kernahan, Toronto. They objected to the increase in fees, the "tied" house provisions, the licensing of bartenders and some minor clauses.

Don't Neglect a Cough or Cold

IT CAN HAVE BUT ONE RESULT. IT LEAVES THE THROAT or LUNGS, OR BOTH, AFFECTED.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP IS THE MEDICINE YOU NEED.

It is without an equal as a remedy for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Pain in the Chest, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Quinsy and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

A single dose of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will stop the cough, soothe the throat, and if the cough or cold has become settled on the lungs, the healing properties of the Norway Pine Tree will produce its great virtue by promptly eradicating the bad effects, and a persistent use of the remedy cannot fail to bring about a complete cure.

Do not be humbugged into buying so-called Norway Pine Syrups, but be sure and insist on having Dr. Wood's. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cts.

Mrs. Henry Sattrock, Hepworth, Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past three years and I consider it the best remedy known for the cure of colds. I have cured all my children and myself."

Confidence in Dr. Chase.

"My mother has kept Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as long as I can remember, and we are all well acquainted with their merits. I have used them for kidney and liver disease and they always helped me. Mother has had Dr. Chase's receipt book for twenty years and I tell you that it is a good one."—Mr. John Miller, South Saltspring, B.C.

THE GLOBE UPHELD.

Cobourg Jury Sustains the Rights of the Press.

Cobourg, March 29.—The jury to whom was left the decision in the case of Robert Coyle, sen., against The Globe for $10,000 damages for an alleged libel contained in a bulletin sent out by the Department of Agriculture, and published in The Globe and in many other papers throughout Canada, decided yesterday after over two hours' consideration that The Globe had not libelled Robert Coyle and that he must bear the cost of the unjustifiable action latched by him. Mr. Justice Clute, in his charge, stated that The Globe was under obligation to prove that the statement issued by the Government was true in substance and in fact. This was evidently done to the satisfaction of the jury.

The Insurance Investigation Shows Shortage

Directors of the Imperial Life Had to Make It Good.

WRITING UP THE ASSETS

The Minimum Interest Rate on Reserves —Superintendent Fitzgerald Had Taken the Initiative in Procuring That Legislation—Opposition by Certain Companies — Commission Authorizes New Letter.

Ottawa, March 29.—Some "improprieties of the Imperial Life," to quote Mr. Shepley's phrase, gave interest to the closing hour of a dull day yesterday before the insurance commission.

In its annual report for 1902, this company showed a credit for income appreciation of $847.

In verifying this item, Mr. Blackadar encountered some peculiar bookkeeping and also speculations forbidden by law. On March 16, 1903, the Imperial Life Insurance bought 200 shares of Dominion Coal common stock at 117, an investment amounting to $23,400. It sold July 6, 1903, at a loss of $2,619. On Jan. 2, 1903, this same insurance company bought bonds of the Dominion Iron and Steel Co., of the par value of $50,000, for which it paid $44,000. Half of this block was sold at the close of the year for $16,419. The other half was taken from the company at cost by the directors. The net loss upon these illegal investments was $10,084.

It was stated by Mr. Fitzgerald that ultimately the directors made up the loss.

In addition to writing down these losses the Imperial Life, in its report, entered as an item written off, some $3,318, for office furniture that should have been charged to expense.

As counterbalancing these "writings down" which also included some $1,100 in bonds of the Atlas Loan Co., there were ledger values "written up" which included $16,176 in Sao Paulo, $721 in Toronto Electric and $2,389 in Canada Northern.

Mr. Fitzgerald insisted upon the directors making good, and after some delay carried the entire matter to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, the president of the company.

A Letter to the Companies.

At the morning session, Mr. Shepley submitted a circular letter that he desired to send to the various insurance companies, in answer to numerous queries and complaints concerning the list of questions mailed to them on the 19th inst. It requested "that such of the questions as are capable of immediate answer or of answer within a short time, should be answered without awaiting the completion of answers to the whole series, if the latter course involves delay in any particular case." The commission decided that the letter should be sent to all the companies.

Mr. Shepley then took up the matter referred to in various communications from Mr. Blackadar to Superintendent Fitzgerald, in which it was pointed out that the staff in the Insurance Department was insufficient.

Some Opposition.

The legislation of 1899, changing the reserve from 4 to 3 1-2 per cent. to a 3 per cent. basis, first received attention. Mr. Fitzgerald said that he had taken the initiative in procuring that legislation. He had sent a circular letter to the insurance companies, and as a rule they agreed with him and appeared before the committee of the House to urge that the change be made. It was T. B. Macaulay and the Sun Life who opposed the amendment.

G. W. Perkins Arrested.

New York, March 29.—On a charge that his connection with the contribution of $48,763.84, from the funds of the New York Life Insurance Co. to Cornelius N. Bliss, treasurer of the Republican national committee on the campaign of 1904, constituted grand larceny in the first degree, George W. Perkins, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and until recently first vice-president of the New York Life Insurance Co., was arrested yesterday on a warrant issued by City Magistrate Moss. A writ of habeas corpus took him out of the magistrate's hands. Mr. Perkins appeared before Justice Greenbaum, and at the request of his counsel the hearing in the case was adjourned until Friday.

Brock Street Rink Has Closed For The Season

While There Has Not Been as Much Ice as Last Year the Season Was Comparatively Successful—Praise Due to Messrs. Thirnbeck and Blade, Caretaker and Assistant, Respectively, for Their Satisfactory Work.

There will be no more skating at the Brock street rink this year. The management have decided to close the rink after, taking the weather into consideration, a most successful and highly satisfactory season.

This season there has only been eighty-four days skating as against one hundred and twenty-five last year and despite the fact that there were forty-one days more skating last year the rink was patronized by by much larger crowds this year and there is very little difference in the receipts,—a most gratifying showing. The number of hockey matches this year, taking into consideration scrub games, of course, total ninety, about the same as that of last season.

The rink company and shareholders have every reason to be satisfied with the success of the rink this season.

It would be hardly just to let the opportunity slip of giving due credit to Mr. John Thirnbeck, the competent caretaker of the rink and his able assistant, Mr. Arthur Blade. They both have given the greatest satisfaction to the ticket holders and there has always been good ice whenever the weather permitted. Mr. Thirnbeck has always been courteous to patrons of the rink although he has been insistent and properly so that good order be maintained. Taking his work and that of his assistant all through, it has been generally most satisfactory. Mr. Thirnbeck will be at the rink until 9 o'clock every evening during the remainder of this week and all of next for the purpose of receiving all accounts due and in order that any who have property in the rink may take it away. After next week the rink will be closed for the season and it will be difficult for those who left any articles there to obtain them until next year. The lovers of skating and hockey are sorry to say good bye to Jack Frost, but the advent of spring always marks the introduction of summer sports and though perhaps loth to do so the "frozen water" devotees will have to hang up their skates and sticks till next season.

Hastings Will Have Good Team

Annual Meeting of Lacrosse Club Was Held.

(Hastings Star.)

That Hastings will have a lacrosse team for 1906, was the decision at a well attended meeting in the Clarendon House on Monday evening. Whether the team will enter the C. L. A. or not is yet to be decided. The boys seem to be very enthusiastic over the prospects of a lacrosse team here this season. Of the 1904 team, seven are still in Hastings and five have signified their intention of getting out to play again. There are fully ten juniors who will turn out and endeavour to catch the seniors, besides a couple of players who have recently come to Hastings to reside.

The following officers were elected:—
Hon. President—Mr. A. U. Bailey.
President—Mr. A. B. Spellman.
Vice-President—Messrs. L. F. Clarry, and G. R. Fowlds.
Captain—Jas. Welsh.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. J. Smith.
Committee — The President, Captain, Secretary, and W. J. Rice, Jas. McCarthy and F. Dodd.

The committee will meet at the Clarendon House at 8.15 o'clock on Friday evening to consider business which requires prompt attention.

HOCKEY

The Port Hope Guide says the All-Star game there the other night like all exhibition games did not attract a very large crowd. It was only when the exhibition games commenced in Peterborough that the crowds did come.

The Wornout Nerves, The Weak Heart, The Tired Brain, The Wasted Strength.

What a multitude of women there are who feel that these words exactly suit their case. From early morn until late at night they have been on the go, year in and year out, attending to the daily household duties, looking after the wants of her children and spending the rest of her time attending to social and church work. Is it any wonder then that sooner or later there comes a general collapse? The action of the heart becomes weak and palpitating, the nerves become unstrung, the brain feels in a whirl half the time and the usual force of vitality is lacking.

It is at this time a woman should look after herself. If she does not, serious female disorders may set in and often cause weary months and years of helplessness and miserable suffering. What she wants is something to build up her system. For this purpose there is nothing to equal

They are the women's friend in every sense of the word.

They will strengthen the weak heart, tone up the shaky, starved nerves, make the brain clear, and restore the lost vitality.

Mrs. George Lohnes, Stanley Section, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with weak and dizzy spells and was so run down I could not attend to my household duties. I bought two boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and after taking them I found that my trouble had all passed away. I am now strong and healthy again."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25. If your dealer does not handle them, send direct to The Milburn Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

Albert College And The Arrows

Will Play In Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium on Friday Evening.

A splendid game of basketball will take place at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Friday night between the fast eastern quintette from Albert College, Belleville and the Arrows of Peterborough. Both teams play nice ball and as a basketball match has not been witnessed in Peterborough for some time, a large crowd shou'd turn out to see what promises to be a rattling good contest. Mr. John Laing, who is a very popular and impartial referee, will officiate in that capacity. A preliminary game, commencing at 8 o'clock sharp, will be played between the school boys and the intermediate gymnasium team. Mr. Freund, the well-known local tenor soloist, will sing. The Arrows' line-up will be:—

Forwards — Cressman, Richardson.
Backs — Donson, Green.
Hodgson — Centre.

BASEBALL

The Lindsay Post says:—Peterborough claim that this year they will have no difficulty in rounding up a fast senior nine to enter the Midland League, but they are in need of an energetic and capable manager. Of last year's nine Peterborough still have Quinlan, the clever young twirler, who won glory for himself last season; "Chris" Graham, the redoubtable veteran; Callaghan, "Dubbie" Shea, who held the position of short-stop down pat in 1905; Connors, Sheridan and the little badge-seller of the nine, "Toddy" Pilling, without whom the Peterborough nine would be incomplete, then there is Rattray, the lanky backstop, of Toronto, who is somewhat of a jollier as well as a catcher. Then there are others to fall back on. Jack Pilling and Stroud, the latter the manipulator of the famous "Stroud" tea, of which the papers make headlines. And then there is "dear old Maggie" Whitcroft—he of hockey fame. Fred., it is rumoured, will again don the old blue and white duds and get into the game, probably in his same old position at second bag, where he officiated as captain once upon a time, and did good work, too. Who will do the twirling is hard to guess. Of course, there is Quinlan, but he is young yet. Anyway it won't be "Mull" Douglas and "Danny" McCabe will be kept busy getting his Lakefield suburbanites into shape.

* * * *

It is pretty nearly time something was done towards organizing a City Baseball League. The City Hockey League was more successful than even the most enthusiastic thought it would be and if a City Baseball League were organized it seems no reason why it shouldn't be a success as well. Baseball has always been a popular game among the younger residents of Peterborough and there seems to be no impediment to the organization of a good live local baseball league. There is certainly lots of material and all that is needed is enthusiasm.

LACROSSE

There will be a meeting of the officers of the Shamrock Lacrosse Club at the T. A. S. rooms next Friday evening at 10 o'clock. Every officer is urgently requested to be present.

The Banquet Of City League

The committee in charge of the City League banquet are making very complete arrangements to have it a decided success in every respect. The dinner will be given in honour of the Charlotte street seven, champions of the City League, and a notable feature of the occasion will be the presentation of the Stratton trophy to the winners, by the donor of the cup, Hon. J. R. Stratton. Other gentlemen of distinction will also be present and make short addresses. The affair promises to be most enjoyable and successful.

The Railway Commission Takes Telephones

To Be Placed in the Hands of Railway Commission.

HON. MR. EMMERSON'S BILL

Interchange of Business Between Companies—Mr. Borden Approves the Object—A Lively Debate on Mr. Maclean's Railway Bill—Conservative Members Freely and Frankly Criticize Member For S. York.

Ottawa, March 29.—Another long step was taken in control of the great public corporations of Canada, when Hon. H. R. Emmerson introduced a bill, the great feature of which is the placing of telephone rates under control of the Railway Commission.

The Minister of Justice announced the Government's intention of making this control as effective as that now exercised over railway freight and passenger rates by the same tribunal, a control which has not elsewhere been equalled in the world where private ownership prevails. The bill also provides for the interchange of traffic between telephone companies, and removes a barrier to the entrance of independent telephones to railway stations by removing from consideration in settling the compensation any exclusive contract between the railway and any other telephone company.

The speeches of Mr. Emmerson and Mr. Fitzpatrick were received with every mark of attention, and the leader of the Opposition gave assurance that he would do all he could to assist in perfecting the measure.

The evening was spent on Mr. W. F. Maclean's bill to put express companies under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission, and to make the railway passenger rate two cents per mile, and occasion was taken by several Conservatives to express very frank criticism of their fellow-member from South York.

Amendment to Railway Act.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson made a lengthy explanation in introducing the bill to amend the railway act, 1903. The majority of the sections, he said, were designed to correct little difficulties in the administration of the railway act, but the most important changes had reference to control of the telephone companies. Later sections would be found to correct what must be recognised as a grievance in connection with the telephone administration in this country. It would be seen that the bill did not go as far as some would expect, but at any rate it would be a distinct advancement. Without being revolutionary, the bill recognised the public interests, and he trusted all other interests would be found to be preserved. The first section of the bill gave leave to appeal from the Railway Commission to the Supreme Court on the question of jurisdiction. The second section permits acceptance of evidence in the form of affidavits or declarations where a witness is not convenient to Ottawa or the place of the commission's meeting. Section three permits directors of railways to declare dividends, which is now done in practice, but is not legal. Section four gives the Minister power to accept route maps of railways in sections instead of for the whole line.

Provisions For Uniformity.

The board is given authority in another section to provide for uniformity in construction of rolling stock of a railway, and for uniformity of rules for the operation and running of trains; also to make regulations designating the number of men to be employed; also authority to require coal to be used on all locomotives instead of wood in any district, and generally for the operation of trains and accommodation and safety of the public and employes. Provision is also made for reporting to the Canadian Railway Commission by head officers of railways of all accidents in which any person is killed or injured, or traffic interrupted, with a penalty of $200 per day for delay. Another section requires fuller returns to be forwarded to the Government of statistics of traffic and the company's affairs. Section 13 added the provision that in fixing compensation to be paid by a telephone company for entering a railway station no consideration shall be given to any contract whereby the railway company gives exclusive privileges with respect to its station to any other telephone company or person. "That," said Mr. Emmerson, "had been a matter of serious complaint in many sections of Canada, if not in all sections, and it has been a matter of some irritation. It is hoped that this provision will remedy the abuse which has grown up."

Interchange of Traffic.

Other sections provided for interchange of traffic, subject to a standard of efficiency being reached by the company desiring the interchange; regulation of all telephone rates by the Railway Commission, and for direct oral communication in case of connection between two or more companies.

Hon. John Haggart complained of the powers given to the Minister to say what the location of a railway might be.

"It does not change the law in that respect," Mr. Emmerson replied.

The bill was briefly debated by Messrs. W. F. Maclean, R. L. Borden and Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick, and was then read a first time.

After the Express Companies.

At the evening session W. F. Maclean (South York), introduced his bill to amend the Railway Act.

The first section provides for putting express companies under the jurisdiction of the railway commissioners.

The third section limits the maximum passenger rate on railroads to two cents a mile.

Mr. Maclean spoke strongly in favor of his bill, and the debate was continued by Hon. Mr. Emmerson in reply, and Dr. Sproule, Barker (Hamilton), Alcorn (Prince Edward), Ingram (Elgin), Lancaster (London), Lennox (Simcoe), Lalor Bain Smith, (Westworth) and Broder. The bill was read a first time.

There wouldn't be so many breach of promise suits if Cupid didn't get cold.

FALL ASSIZES FOR KLEINGBEIL

Evidence Wanted From Europe — True Bill Against Mrs. Diamond.

Belleville, March 29.—The Kleingbeil murder case was traversed to the fall Assizes, as Mr. Porter, lawyer for Kleingbeil, said he wished to communicate with Kleingbeil's relatives in Prussia, and with a doctor who had dressed a wound on Kleingbeil's head, which he received in the war between Prussia and Austria. The defence will likely try to prove that the wound in question caused Kleingbeil to become temporarily insane.

The grand jury brought in a true bill against Mrs. Susan Diamond, charged with murdering her daughter-in-law by poisoning. Mrs. Diamond was not under arrest, but will be arraigned today.

Hangs Himself.

Niagara Falls, March 29.—George B. Whiteman, aged 48, who has for the past 20 years been depot master and ticket agent of the Erie Railway at the Falls, New York, hanged himself about 6 o'clock yesterday morning in his barn.

LENTEN SERVICES

ST. JOHN'S.

Rev. C. J. James, of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, gave a powerful address at St. John's last night, at the regular mid-week Lenten service, on "The Unrest of Man." A fair-sized audience was present, the services being taken by Rev. Canon Davidson.

God rules all, said the speaker. Men may think themselves omnipotent, but it is only God that is all-powerful. Man has been the greatest mystery to himself, and has seen great mysteries all around him, and he was restless until he could unravel all these mysteries. Man first worshipped the sun, the moon, the stars, the great powers of the universe, and the beauties of nature; then he began to wonder how all these wonderful things began to exist and found that a God lived and reigned, who was responsible for all these things. Man sees marvellous things in the great earth, and deep, impressive ocean. He studies everything from the minutest the earth holds, to the grandest existing objects, and writes down his knowledge for the benefit of coming generations. All these things are the will of God, and indications of unrest.

"Criticise the Bible," said the speaker, "and it will come out of the criticism stronger than ever." The criticism of the Bible, and even of our Redeemer, has shown unrest and disquietude in the minds of man. We who live on this side of the Atlantic don't want military grandeur, but rather peace and quietness, and prosperity among the people. If the millions England has spent on her navy had been devoted to help the British poverty-stricken, to how much more useful a purpose would it have been put. The hearts of men and women in Canada will be restless until commercial crookedness and crime is entirely eliminated. All unrest and disquietude will give way to the calm and peace of God's Kingdom.

ST. LUKE'S.

Last night's Lenten service at St. Luke's church was conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon Dr. Sweeney, of St. Philip's Church, Toronto. Dr. Sweeney is a very forcible and eloquent speaker, and delivered an impressive and helpful sermon on the duties of the Christian during the Lenten season. His texts were taken from the third chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Hebrews and the first verse,—"Wherefore, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the apostle and High Priest of our profession, Jesus Christ;" and also the twelfth chapter of the same book and the third verse,—"For consider Him that endured such contradiction of sinners against Himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds." In treating the subject, Dr. Sweeney first dealt with the three weeks of Lent that have passed, and following that the remainder of the Lenton season. As a traveller who reaches a resting lodge in ascending some steep incline and stops to look back over the steps he has taken, and also the light-topped summit to which he is aiming, so should those who profess to observe the Lenten rites profit in the latter half from the experiences of the former. On looking backwards a long vista of splendid opportunities to do good are seen to have been neglected. An opportunity offers itself but once, and if not seized immediately it can never be recalled. The minutes and hours as they pass by with their possibilities flow on into the ocean of eternity and are lost forever. In referring to the guide to follow during the remainder of the Lenten season, the speaker showed the benefits to be derived from the experiences of the past. Jesus Christ, who endured such contradiction of sinners against Himself should be always an example and a pattern to pursue. He exhorted all to beware of the objectionable actions which constituted a conventional Lent. There are many so-called Christians with long faces who repeat long prayers in their attempts to perpetuate pretences. Such persons are very small in the sight of God. There are many things which because they cannot be grasped by the hand of flesh are considered unreal. Incredulity is the cause of many sins, so that we should seek from God alone the path of right, and it will be given. Between light and darkness we meet with the great law of contrast, but there is none so striking as that between Good Friday and Easter Day, the commemoration of the death and the resurrection of our Saviour. These are days to be hallowed by all who profess to own the name of Christian.

Stratford Expected Carpet Factory To Locate There

Stratford is not to get the Canadian branch of Brintons', Limited, carpet manufacturers of Kidderminster, Eng. It goes to Peterborough, where through the public spirited interest of Senator Cox they get eight acres of land and the foundations of the defunct Sugar Company's building, which are said to have cost $15,000, all for $5,000. Mr. R. S. Robertson, of Robertson & Coughlin, barristers of this city, was present at the auction sale in Peterborough on Saturday, representing Mr. G. P. Breen, the Canadian representative of the Brintons. It was through Mr. Robertson's representations that the representatives of the Brintons visited Stratford and inspected the Thread Mills building. Hopes were entertained that this building would have suited their enterprise, and it would had not the superior offer of Peterborough intervened. The Brintons get there a larger piece of land and a building partly constructed which is of much greater value, besides being alongside the Trent Valley Canal and adjacent to a railway track and a street car line.

A despatch from Peterborough says: — Hon. Senator Cox has again shown himself a good friend to Peterborough, which owes him so much. He has made it possible for the city to secure an important industry, which but for him would not have located here, as it will now do. Brintons, Limited, of Kidderminster, have completed negotiations with the city council for the establishment here of a branch of their British carpet works, to employ 50 hands by the end of the present year, and 100 within another year. The city was to give Brintons 15 acres of the Sugar Company's property and a fixed assessment. Application was made in the city of Peterborough bill for authority to carry out this arrangement, but the Private Bills Committee threw out this clause. At this stage Hon. Senator Cox offered the liquidator of the Sugar Company $15,000 for the 33 acres, with a view of giving Brintons eight acres for their factory, at $5,000. This offer was submitted to a meeting of the creditors and shareholders, who were unwilling to accept either this, or that of the Trent Valley Sugar Company for $16,500, and the disposal of the property was left to County Judge Weller, who offered the property to bidders on Saturday. The first offer was that of Messrs. Howden Bros., who bid $18,100; Senator Cox advanced the bidding till the figure of $25,000 was reached, at which he secured the property, or at the rate of $757.57 per acre. This permitted the Senator to carry out his arrangement with the Brintons, by which they are to get for $5,000 eight acres of land, including the foundations of the Sugar Company's building, said to have cost $15,000.—Stratford Beacon.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN HAYES.

An old resident of the county and city passed away last night, at nine o'clock, in the person of Mrs. John Hayes. The deceased, who has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Geoffray O'Brien, 105 Gilmour street, was taken ill with apoplexy on Tuesday night after supper, and never rallied from the attack. Previous to the seizure she had been in her usual good health.

The late Mrs. Hayes was 72 years of age, and was born in County Monaghan, Ireland. She came to New York state as a baby, and grew up, and was married there, to the late John Hayes, who predeceased her five years. The family afterwards moved to North Monaghan, where they lived on Clonsilla Hill, better known, probably, as Chamberlen's Hill. A year ago Mrs. Hayes came to live with her daughter, Mrs. O'Brien.

She leaves to mourn her loss, three sons and two daughters. They are Messrs. T. L. Hayes, J. E. Hayes and William Hayes, Peterborough; Mrs. Geoffrey O'Brien and Mrs. Jos. Potvin, Brockville.

The funeral will take place on Friday morning at nine o'clock, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery, for interment.

ROBERT DUNLOP.

The death occurred on Tuesday last at Little Current, New Ontario, of Mr. Robert Dunlop, a former resident of North Monaghan, at the ripe old age of 63. After Mr. Dunlop left North Monaghan some years ago, he moved to Omemee, and afterwards to Lindsay. From there he went to Little Current, where he conducted a hotel. His wife survives him, also three brothers and two sisters. He had no family. He was a well-known and much-respected resident of both Peterborough and Victoria counties, and also in New Ontario, where he had recently lived. The funeral will take place to-morrow from the Omemee station on the arrival of the 11 o'clock train, and the remains will be interred in the Omemee cemetery.

Lindsay Will Not Get Tent Factory

Mr. Walter Wesley Will Remain With J. J. Turner & Sons.

The Lindsay Post says:—The tent and awning business we announced as being one of Lindsay's new enterprises, has already been absorbed. On Monday Mr. J. J. Turner, of Turner & Sons, Peterborough, came to town and made such terms with Mr. Wesley that his business was closed up in town, and he will resume his position with the Peterborough firm, who value his services too much to lose him. There are enough Turners in the Peterborough concern to spare us one of the enterprising chips off the old block and so give Lindsay a prosperous tent and awning factory.

A Post Funeral Will Reading

There was quite a scene at the house of Captain Webster Augustus, of Kingston, late inspector of Inland Lloyds, when the will was read after the funeral Monday. Mrs. Augustus, his second wife, produced a will dated seven years ago, at the time of their marriage, by which she got all the property. Her husband, however, had made another will last October, leaving Mrs. Augustus his house while she lived and remained unmarried. At her death it is to go to Brock street Methodist church. Five hundred dollars was left to the Kingston House of Industry. Mrs. Augustus and her sisters vigourously denounced the late will before the assembled friends of the deceased.—Brockville Recorder.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

HER ONLY SIN.

A large number greeted the production of Lincoln J. Carter's great play, "Her Only Sin," at the Grand Opera House last night. Miss Julia Gray played the leading roll in an effective manner, and was in every respect fully up to the advance notices given her. The production was of the melodramatic character, interspersed with comedy, setting forth the evils resulting from the drink habit. Julia Gray was strongly supported by a well balanced company that faithfully portrayed their respective characters in a pleasing style, and the audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy the whole production.

To-night the famous Marks Bros.' Company will present "The Banker's Wife."

Old Resident Of Hastings Dead

The many friends of Mrs. Duncan Tucker, in this city, will regret to hear of her death at Hastings, where she passed away on Tuesday last. The Hastings Star gives the following as of her death:

The death of Mrs. Duncan Tucker removes another land mark in the history of our town. For nearly thirty years she has been a resident of Hastings. During these years she has seen many changes and many other landmarks removed. About ten years ago her husband, Duncan Tucker, was somewhat suddenly removed by death, and her daughter, Edith was also called away suddenly, so that she had her own trials to endure. Notwithstanding such trials she endured patiently and was always of a cheerful disposition. Even to the last her cheerfulness kept her bright amid much suffering. She has suffered much during the past seven weeks, and it was a happy release to her when the end came. Most of her family were with her in her last moments. They have the sympathy of the entire community in their loss. The funeral takes place on Thursday from the Presbyterian Church, of which she was a good and consistent member, at 1.30 p.m. "The end was peace."

"Weep not for me my friends so dear,
I am not dead, but sleeping here,
I am not yours, but God's alone,
He loved me best and took me home."

Deputation Results In Promise

---MADE DEFINITELY BY HON. MR. EMMERSON---

To Complete The Trent Canal

Minister of Railways and Canals States That Not Later Than November Session Decision Will be Made as to Route--Appropriation Will be Made for Completion of the Work--The Deputation is Greatly Pleased With the Outcome of Their Visit--Three Ministers of the Cabinet Hear the Views of the Advocates for the Canal Completion--The Result of Visit Satisfactory.

"The Government of Canada is in the canal business for keeps."—Hon. H. R. Emmerson.

Fresh assurance of the intention of the Government to complete the Trent Canal at the earliest possible moment was given yesterday, when the largest deputation that has visited the Dominion capital this session, and one of the largest, if not altogether so, that has ever waited on the Government in connection with any matter, was received in the Railway Committee room in the buildings. It was filled to its utmost capacity, in fact the seating capacity was insufficient to accommodate those comprising the deputation, which numbered about 400 persons, representing the business interests of the district contiguous to the great national waterway.

The result of the visit cannot be other than satisfactory, not only to the members of the deputation, but as well to the hundreds of thousands to whom the completion of the canal is a very vital matter, more so from a national than a local standpoint. In effect, the Minister of Railways and Canals, who received the deputation, and who, in the absence of Sir Wilfrid Laurier through illness, replied on behalf of the Government, stated that the policy of the Government as evidenced by the fact that appropriations had been made for the surveys of the outlets for the canal, and by the amounts of money already spent on actual construction work, was to complete that waterway, and it would be completed. He did not say at what date, but did say that at the November session of the House, if not at the present session, the plans and estimates for its completion would be submitted, and appropriations would be made. In answer to a question from Mayor Miller, of Orillia, as to whether the Government was in the canal business, the minister replied that it was, and that it was "in it for keeps." This reply was accepted as satisfactory by the deputation, many of whom expressed themselves subsequent to the meeting as being delighted with the reception accorded, and the reply given by the minister. It was felt that this was as far as he could reasonably have expected to go.

Three members of the Cabinet were present at the meeting yesterday, Hon. H. R. Emmerson, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. Wm. Patterson, Minister of Customs; and Hon. Chas. Hyman, Minister of Public Works. The Premier, it was explained by Mr. Emmerson, was unable to be present. He had been confined to his room for the past few days and was unable to stand the exertion. He expressed his deep regret at his inability to be present.

$20.00 Per Horse Power Per Year Is The Rate

Quoted by the Peterborough Light and Power Company for Manufacturing—Will Make Contracts for Ten Years at That Rate—Letter From Mr. Larmoath to This Effect—As Result City Will Probably Withdraw Clause in Private Bill.

It will be remembered that at the time the city's private bill was under consideration in the Private Bills Committee, the clauses which gave the city the right to generate and sell electric energy, some opposition was taken to the clause by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, as representing the Peterborough Light and Power Company, and Mr. Carsallen asked the city to secure from the company their rates for manufacturers, stating that if they could not get a satisfactory answer, the committee would consider the clause favourably.

In pursuance of this policy the City Clerk wrote to Mr. Larmouth, at the instance of the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, asking for rates, and received in reply a letter, in which the rates were given.

The letter and reply are given:—

R. M. Dennistoun, Esq.,
Solicitor Peterborough Hydraulic Power Co., and Peterborough Light and Power Co.

Dear Sir,—In pursuance of the suggestion of the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature, made when the city's bill was before it yesterday, I am directed to ask you to state the price at which the company you represent will supply electric power to manufacturers in Peterborough, and for what length of time the company will make a contract at the price you name, and also what quantity of power they are willing to enter into contract to furnish. If the prices will vary in accordance with the quantity furnished to any one industry or the number of hours per day it is used, will you kindly state the price accordingly. Please reply as early as possible.

Yours truly,
S. R. ARMSTRONG,
City Clerk.

Peterborough, March 28, 1906

S. R. Armstrong, Esq.,
City Clerk, City.

Dear Sir,—Your letter of March 15th, to Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, asking for a price at which the Peterborough Light and Power Company would be willing to supply power to manufacturers locating in Peterborough, and also to state what length of term the Company will make a contract for, has been handed to us for attention, and in reply we wish to say that the Peterborough Light and Power Company will make contracts up to ten years, to parties using 50 horse power, or more, at the rate of $20.00 per horse power per year; power will be supplied for 24 hours a day if customer requires it.

The flow of water in the Otonabee River has been so variable during the past few years, that it was impossible to tell just how much power was available, and for this reason, the Company decided to make only three year contracts until such time as they would be sure what the minimum flow of the river would be; lately the Dominion Government has taken this matter up and during the past year the flow of water has been more constant, therefore they are in a better position to tell what power they have to spare, and have for sale under present conditions as much as 2,000 horse power.

As you know the growth of Peterborough, affects this Company's interests very much, and we will do all we possibly can to assist in bringing new industries here. In a recent letter from Mr. Robert Stuart, about this matter, he says, "in case of the city bringing in new industries we are willing to make exceptions, in regard to the length, of the contract were desired." Then he adds, "you will readily appreciate the fact that this company is as vitally interested in the development and growth of Peterborough as anyone else could be, and when the location of a large manufacturing plant narrows down to a point where it depends upon the cost of the power or the length of the lease, this company stands ready and willing to negotiate with the idea of making such concessions as may be reasonable and will assist the city of Peterborough in locating the industry." You will see by this that we are most anxious to have new industries locate here, and we think any manufacturer who knows what it costs to develop steam power will consider our prices reasonable.

Trusting this will be satisfactory, we remain,

Yours truly,
The Peterborough Light and Power Company.
(Signed.) J. H. LARMONTH,
Manager.

This reply was considered satisfactory, and it is probable that the city will withdraw the clause in question from the bill.

Ald. McWilliams will have a conference with Mr. Robert Stuart, while he is in the city in reference to co-operation in securing new industries for the city.

MEN'S STYLES FOR 1906

Manager of the Semi-ready Tailoring Store Talks of Woollens.

The chief salesman of the Semi-ready, in a short talk on styles for 1906, says:

"The ever-fashionable grays will be more popular than ever this year, and will be worn in checks and stripes. The new, blue shades will, of course, hold their own, but the iron-gray is going to have the first call with the public. One English mill making a particularly fine line of iron-gray, with a dainty check pattern, called the pink-and-pink, but not been able to fill all orders for these goods. There are some novel mixtures, but except for extreme dressers the blue or gray will always predominate so as to make the cloth appear of either colour at a distance, the varied shade colours only being visible on close inspection."

MR. JOHN C. CRAIG GIVES UP BUSINESS

Mr. John C. Craig, the well-known East City blacksmith, who has served the public for a good many years, has disposed of his business to Mr. Patrick Hegan, proprietor of the Albion Hotel. Mr. Hogan will take over the business on April 15.

ANNUAL MEETING OF KNOX CHURCH

A pleasant time is expected at Knox church to-night, when the annual meeting will be held. The last concert of the season will follow, the business portion of the meeting, and a fine programme has been arranged for the occasion. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion.

PLANS TO BE PREPARED AT ONCE FOR NEW ARMORY HERE

Other things were considered in Ottawa yesterday apart from the Trent Canal. The Peterborough people must have impressed the Premier, that when they want a thing they want it bad and go right after it. The military element was in evidence yesterday, and the result will doubtless soon be seen. The chief architect of the Department of Public Works yesterday received instructions yesterday from Hon. C. S. Hyman to proceed at once with the plans for the new armoury for Peterborough. He stated that his intention was to have actual construction work commenced this year, which will be received with [illegible] by all interested in the [illegible] of this important work. [illegible] will at once make [illegible] a draft of the armoury plans, and submit it to the local [illegible] orities for suggestions. [illegible] stated that the intention is for an armoury here similar to [illegible] London, which Mr. Hyman is [illegible] especially interested in. The armoury will cost $[illegible], and will be ready for occupation by the end of the year, in the Spring.

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for It. Two Relate Their Experiences.

Mrs. E. Powless

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"In my opinion there is no medicine made for women which can compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you have no firmer friend in the Dominion than I am. At the time of change of life I suffered until I was nearly crazy, and was not fit to live with. I was so irritable, irrational and nervous that I was a torment to myself and others. I surely thought that I would lose my reason before I got through, when fortunately an old friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I took it for five months and then off and on until the critical period had passed, and it restored me to perfect health. My advice to suffering women is to try your Vegetable Compound, and they will not be disappointed."—Mrs. E. Powless, Deseronto, Ont.

Another Woman's Case.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"As I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very pleased to write and tell you my experience with it. I am the mother of three children grown to womanhood, and have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and as strong as I did twenty years ago, and I know that this is all due to your woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain during the change of life. I took it off and on, for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness that most women have to endure."—Mrs. James K. Mann, 306 Bathurst St., Toronto, Canada.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann, it will do for other women at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

Mr. Gordon's Opinions On The Sugar Industry

Believes That it Would Pay Well if Properly Managed—The Wallaceburg Factory is Flourishing—No Trouble to Get Farmers to Grow Beets Now.

Mr. D. C. Gordon, of Wallaceburg Sugar Co., who, it will be remembered, was interested in the prospective resuscitation of the sugar industry in Peterborough, and who was at the head of a proposition by which, with the help of the city, the industry, so far as the Peterborough Sugar Co. was concerned, was to be revived, was seen in Ottawa yesterday by a representative of The Examiner, and spoken to in reference to the prospects for the industry in Ontario generally, and particularly in the factory in which he is interested. Mr. Gordon regards it as a calamity that the efforts to establish the Peterborough factory upon a safe and substantial basis did not meet with the success which was anticipated for it. The sugar industry in Ontario is prospering. In Wallaceburg the company has already under contract 6,000 acres of beets for this year, and has had to refuse to make any more contracts for water shipment, the quantity already contracted for being sufficient to keep the transportation facilities busy up to the close of navigation.

The farmers had received such satisfactory returns from the beet production that there was no difficulty in securing sufficient acreage to keep the factory in operation during the season.

The price of sugar at the present time, Mr. Gordon said, was the lowest for a number of years, and this, of course, worked to the disadvantage of the manufacturers. But he thought the shareholders of his factory were pretty well satisfied with the returns.

He was hoping for some concessions as a result of the changes in the staff, which he expected would be made and which would benefit the industry to a considerable extent.

Mr. Gordon expressed himself as satisfied that if the Peterborough factory could be erected and placed under good management it would be successful, as he considered this section of the Province well adapted to sugar beet production.

WEDDING BELLS

DAVISON—MATHISON.

One of the most happy events that has occurred in Havelock for some time took place on Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Ethel E. Mathison was united in marriage to Mr. James Harcourt Davison, of Toronto Junction. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. A. E. Camp, B.A., was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mathison, at 1 o'clock, when, to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Maggie Buchanan, and leaning on the arm of her father, the beautiful young maiden was united to the man of her choice. She was gowned in cream crepe de chine, trimmed with lace and applique. She wore a veil and carried a beautiful bouquet of cream bridal roses. She was assisted by Miss E. Wright, who looked captivating in a handsome gown of moire de soie, trimmed with lace and insertion. She, too, carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was supported by Mr. Harvey Daly, of Toronto Junction.

After the ceremony the company to about the number of 60, sat down to a sumptuous wedding dejeuner.

The happy couple left on the afternoon express, amid showers of rice, for a wedding tour to Port Dover, Hamilton and Pontiac, Cleveland, before taking up their residences at Toronto Junction.

The bride's travelling suit was of blue ladies' cloth with hat to match.

The groom's present to the bride was a gold watch and chain, to the bridesmaid a crescent pin set with pearls, and to the groomsman a tie pin set with pearls.

Wanted To Work For Mr. Wesley

Scores of Applicants for Positions in Lindsay.

The Lindsay Post says: In last Saturday's issue of The Evening Post a small advertisement appeared in the "Want" column on our first page requesting young women operators on sewing machines to apply to Mr. W. E. Wesley, tent and awning manufacturer, Shier's block, Monday morning. In the meantime, Mr. Wesley concluded a deal with Mr. Turner, of Peterborough, as a result of which the projected factory in Lindsay was abandoned by its promoter, and no person was on hand Monday morning to answer the inquiries of applicants for positions, so the landlord—Dr. Shier—was appealed to. He was aroused at 6.30 by the vigourous ringing of his door bell, and, thinking it was a sick call, he hurried down, and we have his word for it—emphatically expressed—that within the next hour he had to answer all kinds of inquiries made by over 20 young women who desired to see Mr. Wesley.

LENTEN SERVICE AT ALL SAINT'S CHURCH

Last night there was a fair-sized audience at the mid-week Lenten service at All Saints' church. The rector, Rev. Wm. Major, gave a very instructive address, which consisted in giving an exposition of the seventh chapter of St. Matthew's gospel. Judgment by fruits and not by appearances was the proper way. Our actions indicate the character of our hearts. If one wished to gather spiritual fruit one would go to a spiritual man. As one could engraft good fruit upon a common tree, so could Christ, by our consent, graft a spiritual upon our carnal nature—in other words, change our hearts, and therefore our lives. Not mere profession of piety, but honest acts—"he that doeth the will of My Father"—were what alone counted. As the wise man of the parable built his house upon the rock, so should we, who were all builders, build our characters upon the one only sufficient foundation — Christ. We should build for the future, and not content ourselves with simply striving for a "good time" only. An earnest appeal to lay the lessons of the Scriptures to heart closed a very instructive address.

A Rapid Run.

A quick run was made on both the going and returning trips, Ottawa being reached at 5.45 on Wednesday night. The 58 miles west of Smith's Falls was covered in 50 minutes. The interests of the passengers were well attended to by W. Mellroy, city passenger agent, and W. S. Dodds, station agent, who accompanied the train.

Good hotel arrangements had been made in advance, and all were very comfortably lodged at the various hotels in the city, the official headquarters of the deputation being at the Russell House; the council, however were quartered at the Windsor.

A meeting of the sub-committee, composed of representatives from each locality, was held on Wednesday night at the Russell House, when the arrangements for the speakers were made.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning the deputation wended its way to the Legislative Halls, and filled to overflowing the large committee room already referred to. The Ministers entered shortly afterwards, and the Minister of Railways and Canals, in a few words, welcomed the deputation, expressing at the same time the deep regret he felt that the Premier, through indisposition, was unable to be present.

Deputation introduced.

Mr. E. B. Ball, M.P., introduced the deputation. He said it gave him great pleasure to introduce to the Ministers the deputation, which represented the Midland Counties of Ontario. The gentlemen comprising the deputation represent the leading manufacturers, farmers, and other business interests of the districts referred to. These men had spent years in their efforts to impress upon the Government the desirability of completing the canal at the earliest possible moment. So much in earnest are they that they have not entrusted to one or two men to-day the duty of representing their views to the Government, but have sent a big deputation to the capital to impress upon the Ministers the fact that they are dead in earnest, and that they are of the opinion that what they ask is only what will be in the interests of the country to grant. They were there to ask that a sufficient sum of money be voted to complete the work speedily. So far as the deputation was concerned, there was no controversy as to the route — that was a matter for the Government to decide.

The Arguments

Mr. J. W. McLaughlin, K.C., of Lindsay, was the next speaker, and presented the memorial, which has already been published in these columns.

Mr. McLaughlin, supplementing the memorial, recalled the fact that the Minister had recently done the people of the district the honour of visiting the route of the canal. He, (the Minister,) remarked at the time that the people were not sufficiently in earnest, and they had taken to heart the lesson which he had tried to impress on them, and had come with a deputation one thousand strong to impress the Minister that they were in earnest.

They highly appreciated what the Government had already done for the canal, in the expenditure of about $3,000,000. This was taken as an assurance of their belief in the benefits which the completion of the canal would give. Nine years ago a similar deputation had met the then Minister of Railways and Canals, Hon Mr. Blair and were given by him the assurance that the Government intended to rush the work to completion, so far as their means would admit. Mr. Blair did not dream at that time of the great advances which trade would make in the interval, and the speaker believed that during the next ten years even greater advances would be made than in the preceding period. He believed that the Minister of Railways had appreciated more highly the vast importance of a question of national transportation than did Mr. Emmerson, and the speaker believed that the growing commerce of Canada would require all the facilities that both the railways and canals could afford. What the deputation felt like asking the Minister was that sufficient additional money to complete the canal be placed in the estimates at once, and while they did not ask that both the inlet and outlet be completed this year, they did expect that at least one would be placed under construction.

Port Hope Speaks

Mr. Barlow Cumberalnd of Port Hope, was the next speaker, and said that the size of the deputation was due to the fact that it represented the unanimous desire of the municipalities affected for the completion of the canal. It could hardly be called a canal, either; it was in reality a series of waterways representing the central route of outlet from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario. The policy of shippers recently has been that of using larger steamers, from 300 to 500 foot vessels, in shipping grain from the head of navigation to Georgian Bay points, and there transhipping by rail. This policy has been so firmly established that the G. T. R. and the C. P. R. are vastly improving their railway facilities from the Georgian Bay to the seaboard. With the canal completed, such a combination route would be unnecessary. It would simply mean that the grain would be transhipped from steamers to barges, the latter conveying the product to the ocean. The waterway was one with one thousand miles of shore line, passing through twelve counties, and had on its route twelve to fifteen large towns, the majority of them rapidly growing into cities. Mr. Cumberland remarked that the Government's attitude in connection with the canal was that of a man who built his house, with no front door, and he asked that the front door be provided by the completion of the outlet. He advocated a 12-foot canal to Peterborough, as being in the interest of that city especially, and of the Midland district generally.

Influence on Rates

Mr. J. W. Kilbourn, of Lakefield, representing the townships of Douro and Smith, and the town of Lakefield, dealt in his address with local conditions, pointing out the great benefits which the completed canal would confer upon the industries in which Lakefield was more particularly interested—those of lumbering and cement. The lumber output was 15,000,000 feet per year, largely shipped to the United States, the rate to New York being $4.37 1-2 per thousand feet, or $1.50 per thousand feet more than if water transportation were possible. The canal would mean the saving of $28,000 on this item alone. A proportionate saving would be made, according to Mr. Kilbourn's figures, on the shipment of cement, of which the output during this year would be 350,000 barrels. Mr. Kilbourn also referred to the number of water power properties along the route of the canals which, by reason of the high freight rates, could not be profitably developed, but which, if the canal was completed, would be utilized, making manufacturing in the Midland Districts profitable, and building up the towns and cities already there. He explained that one of the reasons why the deputation was a large one was that the Toronto press had shown an attitude of indifference, not to say opposition, to the canal, and it was for the purpose of impressing the Government with the fact that the whole Midland district was deeply interested in the canal that the deputation was so large. If the Government thought the completion of the Canal a profitless enterprise, he was authorized to state that if a charter were granted, a company of capitalists would take over the work done and complete the canal themselves; charging 25 per cent. less freight rates than at present prevailing on railway lines—a statement which was received with hearty applause.

Other Addresses.

Mr. A. A. Mahmitland, of Campbellford, also spoke of local conditions, on these grounds, as well as from a national standpoint, submitted reasons why the completion of the canal should be proceeded with.

Mr. C. Munson, of Cobourg, who was the next speaker, said that the question was not one of the route—what the deputation were anxious for was that the canal would be completed, and that it should be done at once.

A strong patriotic address was that made by Major Miller, of Orillia. He referred generally to the remarkable expansion of Canadian trade and commerce—remarking that in the world's history no country had made such advancement, with one possible exception, that of the United States after the Civil War. This growth of trade meant that additional transportation facilities must be provided, and he believed that since the business of the railways and canals was in such good hands, one of the necessary avenues of transportation—that of the Trent Canal, would be provided.

Others to speak were Messrs. A. W. Beardsley, Barrie; Dr. Jaques, Trenton; Mr. Braden, Bobcaygeon; Dr. Simmons, Frankfort; J. H. Delamore, Minden; T. Ritchie, Belleville; J. Thompson, Havelock; W. P. Plant, Hastings, and Col. Sarowell, Whitby. The latter gentleman remarked that if the Government was in the canal business, they had better go on with it—if they were out, they had better go out of it.

The Minister's Reply.

Hon. Mr. Emmerson, in reply to the deputation, again expressed his pleasure at meeting them, and since Sir Wilfrid Laurier was unable to be present, it devolved on him to represent the Government, and say what probably Sir Wilfrid would say, only in a more feeble way, as to what the attitude of the Government would be. He was gratified at seeing such a large gathering behind a movement of this kind. He was personally deeply interested in the question of transportation, as was natural, and was delighted that it had awakened so much interest as was evidenced by the size of the deputation. He referred in a humourous vein to what he termed a deficit producer—the Intercolonial Railway, and remarked that while nominally, the Intercolonial Railway was what probably the Trent Canal would be—a deficit producer, it would in reality be a producer of surpluses; the surplus to be in the pockets of the people. Mr. Emmerson referred to his recent trip over the route of the canal, and said that it had impressed him with its necessity, the subject of which formed the object of the deputation's visit. He was pleased that they had faith in the enterprise which they represented, and remarked that nothing could succeed without enthusiasm, and that enthusiasm must be based on faith.

The arguments which they presented would, no doubt, have weight, and would convince his colleagues. He himself had long ago been convinced, a fact which spoke for itself in the action of the Government at his solicitation in providing for a complete survey of the route, and also in the work which had already been accomplished on the canal, since the present administration took office.

What Will Be Done.

He wished to tell them now what the Government proposed to do. In the first place, the survey and field work had been completed, and the work of preparing the plans and estimates was being proceeded with as rapidly as possible. They were not ready yet, but for a very good reason. Mr. Butler, his Deputy Minister, was rushing the work, and at the earliest possible moment, the plans and estimates would be submitted to Parliament. Until that time, he could not say a word as to the route of the outlet, but when the plans had been completed a definite decision would be reached on this point. The policy of the Government is certainly settled, and that policy could be seen in the work which had already been done. They could not go back on what they had already done, and, therefore, they must proceed.

The plans and estimates would probably not be ready for Parliament at this session, which gave promise of being a short one, but they would be ready for the November session, and he gave his promise that then appropriations would be made, AND AMOUNTS PLACED IN THE ESTIMATES FOR THE COMPLETION OF BOTH OUTLET AND INLET OF THE CANAL; a statement which was received with decided signs of approval by the deputation.

O her Ministers Speak.

Hon. Mr. Patterson assured the deputation of his interest in the canal, which, he said, had developed from a local enterprise into one of national importance.

Hon. Mr. Hyman also spoke along the same lines, and said that, speaking for himself and for his Ontario colleagues, when Mr. Emmerson submitted his plans and estimates to Council, the appropriation would meet with his most cordial support.

Ald. Mason, who, as chairman of the Finance Committee, and representing the Council, made the arrangements for the deputation, was interviewed by The Examiner after the visit to the minister, and said that he was more than satisfied with the result. He had hardly dared hope that the reply would have been as favourable, and he felt that the work which had been expended on the arrangements for the deputation had borne fruit. It was a magnificent deputation and had, he thought, convinced the minister that the people were dead in earnest over this question, and that they expected the work to be carried out.

Ald. Mason has worked hard and long for yesterday's deputation, and may well feel proud of the result. The arrangements for the excursion rates, which were in the hands of the Board of Trade, were well attended to by Mr. D. Hughes Charles, president, and Mr. T. Q. Quartermaine, secretary.

What Colds Lead To.

NOT THE LUNGS ONLY, BUT EVERY ORGAN OF THE BODY IN DANGER FROM NEGLECTED COLDS.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Most people know that such ailments as pneumonia and consumption have their beginning in a cold but all do not realise that other vital organs of the body are almost equally liable.

Not unfrequently colds settle on the liver or kidneys, causing serious disease of these organs.

In other cases colds run on until the system is run down and exhausted and so left in a fit state to fall a prey to contagious diseases.

The only safe way is to speedily get rid of all colds before they become fastened on the system.

This can best be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

This medicine has come to be considered indispensable in the family as a cure for colds, bronchitis, croup, asthma and whooping cough.

Mr. John Clark, coachman, of Port Hope, Ont., writes: "Being exposed to all sorts of weather I frequently catch cold. Last winter I was so bad with a cold that I could not speak above a whisper, and had great pains in the chest. At last I feared that it would develop into consumption if I did not succeed in getting proper treatment. A friend advised me to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and I began to improve before I had taken half a bottle. One bottle cured my cold, which I believe would have proven to be very serious, if I had not used this medicine."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.

UNDER THE MILLSTONE.

The Whitney Government, which is being ground between the upper and the nether license-law millstone, seem to be in danger of becoming an illustration of the man and his ass in the fable—trying to please everybody and ending in pleasing nobody in regard to their Liquor License Law. Some apologists for the Government assert that the fact that the proposed bill pleases neither party—neither the temperance people nor the liquor interests, is evidence that it is about the right thing. This does not necessarily follow. It would appear, rather, that the Government had in mind to placate the temperance people by imposing higher license fees which cannot be regarded as working injury to the liquor business, for no matter what apparent injury the trade may receive from an addition to the license fee, it has the remedy in its own hands. Increase of charge for their goods will balance the account. If the high license weeds out a few weak liquor dealers that will act as strengthening the monopoly and increasing the business of those who remain in. While the proposed bill, seems to strike the traffic, ample compensation is provided by the extremely severe restrictions placed upon the adoption of local option, by providing for a three-fifths majority to make a local option vote effective. Neither the liquor trade nor the temperance party is pleased with the Government bill. It meets the fate of attempts to please both parties with diametrically opposed interests. The liquor traffic problem is a most difficult one to solve and the Conservatives who used all their efforts to embarrass the late Government, now have a taste of the trouble a Government encounters in dealing in a practical way with the question of treating the problems arising out of the traffic.

HONESTY IN BUSINESS.

The verdict of the jury, exonerating the Globe, in the Globe-Coyle libel suit, tried at Cobourg, not only vindicates the Globe in this particular instance, and establishes the right of the press generally to comment on matters of public interest, but it emphasizes the importance of honest methods of trade. The Globe publishes an extract from a departmental report regarding a breach of the "Fruit Marks Act," by a Colborne firm of apple shippers, the offence consisting in packing culls and trashy fruit as No. 1. In his comments on the case, Mr. Justice Clute used these words:

"It cannot be doubted that it is a matter of very great importance that trade should be carried on honestly. A man pays too high a price for his wealth—more than a hundred cents on the dollar—if in his effort to get wealth he sacrifices his character. Character is the foundation of the success of a great people, and without it no people can reach a position of greatness."

These are golden words and are the core of the matter in regard to the future prosperity of Canada, especially in connection with our export trade to the Mother Country. This is our best market, and apart from considerations of moral obligation, it will pay well to maintain the national good reputation we now enjoy. There is a profitable market in Great Britain for millions of dollars of our surplus produce, and once Canada and Canadian products get a footing in that conservative market, it is only by dishonest methods that Canada can be ousted from the British markets. The remarks of Mr. Justice Clute, with the high sanction of his position, should greatly strengthen the national sentiment in regard to the importance of practising honest methods, not only in regard to our dealing with our relatives beyond the seas, but in our daily home business intercourse. We might profitably strive as a people to see that honest thoughts shall beget honest actions, that honest actions shall become honest habits, and that, according to the formula, honest character shall be developed. Mr. Justice Clute truly says: "Character is the foundation of success of a great people, and without it no people can reach a position of greatness."

SNOBBERY.

A company of coloured jubilee singers have been refused accommodation at Hamilton hotels. These hotel keepers should be severely disciplined. They got their licenses on condition that they afford accommodation to the travelling public, and there is no condition that coloured persons shall be excluded from the benefit of such accommodation. Coloured persons are considered good enough to perform the most delicate and particular service of cooking the food for the guests of hotels, and also of serving it. In these capacities they are proverbially clean and skilful. Then, why should they be excluded from the tables as guests? The worst feauture of the snobbery implied in refusing them accommodation is that it is in imitation of the democratic hypocrisy of our cousins to the south of us. The worst point about having our Yankee cousins to the south of us, is that we become corrupted by contact with the national features of that country — our language, our standards of commercial morality, our standards of sexual morality, our standards of matrimonial morality, become debased to those of the neighbouring republic.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Provincial Treasurer Matheson has made Ontario look like 96 cents.

Our good American cousins seem to think that Nature had a sad lack of appreciation of their greatness when it gave Canada the great horse-shoe falls, and the United States the little one-horse falls.

It is not to be expected that Hon. Mr. Whitney would favour a proposal to establish a Hansard for the Provincial Legislature. He would have still greater difficulty then he has now to deny saying things he did say.

The Americans of the Niagara Falls International Commission are mighty anxious to prevent further use of Niagara River water for power development when their own little one-horse Falls is in danger of evaporating into electricity.

Detroit is moving to increase the pay of her school teachers. The minimum salary now is $400, and this is to be raised to $450. The maximum of the subordinate teachers will be raised from $725 to $825. Principals will get $1200 as a maximum. The matter should engage the attention of school trustees in Ontario, where the pitifully small salaries prevent permanence, and, consequently the best efficiency in the teaching profession, to the distinct detriment of the character of teaching in the public schools.

The Conservative journals reject with scorn the suggestion of the Globe that Premier Whitney reconsider the Temiscamingue bonds arrangement, and retrieve the bungle he committed in negotiating a loan which only nets 96—practically selling a good Ontario dollar for ninety-six cents. They claim that if Mr Matheson, the Provincial Treasurer, made an agreement, it would be dishonourable to break it. Yet Hon. Mr. Whitney is willing to break a solemn agreement with the Veterans and deprive them of the lands which was was promised them by legislation—lands such as others received.

MR. HARDY'S NOTE.

The Galt Reporter resurrects an interesting article from the Toronto Mail of 33 years ago, and incidentally pays a glowing tribute to the memory of Hon. A. S. Hardy. The reference will be read with interest by older Liberals especially.

In an old copy of the Toronto Mail of March 29, 1873, the Reporter finds the following despatch from Brantford:

"Mr. J. J. Hawkins, grocer, of this town, received to-day the unanimous nomination of the Moderate Conservative association. Delegates were present from every polling sub-division of the riding, and the greatest harmony and unanimity prevailed. Mr. Hawkins is in every sense of the word a strong man, and the party is united in his support. The Grits met in Burford, and after a great deal of wrangling brought out Mr. A. S. Hardy, a young Brantford lawyer. The Grits from the townships are greatly put out at this nomination, since for several years back they have been promised to have one of their men run. Now to have a young Brantford lawyer thrust in over their heads is a hard pill to swallow. The Moderate Conservative party are united, while the Grits are quarreling among themselves."

Commenting on the despatch the Reporter, which is a Conservative journal, says:

"That same young lawyer was elected, by a small majority, Mr. Hawkins putting up a splendid fight for the Conservatives. In a couple of years South Brant's member became a member of the Government and while he lived held the constituency in the hollow of his hand. Among the late Hon. A. S. Hardy's triumphs was the capture of the Premiership of Ontario upon the removal of Sir Oliver Mowat to the higher sphere at Ottawa. That position his fighting qualities, his uncompromising Liberalism and his industry as a politician brought him and he well deserved the honour that his party bestowed upon him, though it was his fate to take the centre of the stage at a time when Liberalism in this province was tottering to its fall.

It is worth noting that the townships which were said by the writer of the above despatch to be in revolt against the "young Brantford lawyer" were for nearly thirty years his chief source of support, loyal to the last and enthusiastic in their admiration of the man of their choice in the contest of 1873 and subsequent elections."

LIMIT OF ENDURANCE.

An editorial which will appeal to railroaders recently appeared in the Montreal Herald, regarding the tendency of the times to overwork railway employees holding responsible positions. It is pointed out that men in the employ of companies are looked upon as parts of a great machine, or, more plainly, a great system of train operation. So long as each man faithfully performs his respective part the system works out perfectly. Should one of the parts become inoperative, the whole is thereby affected. The train wreck in Colorado last week afforded one more demonstration of the essential difference between a man and a machine. Those 40 lives were lost because a man who had been at work 36 hours went to sleep in spite of himself, and slept so soundly for a few minutes that the train he should have stopped, and intended to stop, went through without his hearing it. There is that, however, about the human body which does not answer to some of the tests which may safely be applied to steel. There are limits set to the number of hours one may do without sleep. Nerves, after all, are not steel, and should not be counted upon to do the work of steel.—Brantford Expositor.

Will Close The Consulate Office

Peterborough One of Twelve Places in Canada to be Closed.

Washington, March 29.—Secretary of State Root has determined to provide as far as possible for the American consuls legislated out of the service by the recently-enacted consular reorganization bill. The brunt falls heaviest upon the consuls in Canada, where no less than 12 offices are abolished, namely, Amherstburg, Brockville, Chatham, Goderich, Guelph, London, Peterborough, St. Thomas, Stratford and Walkerburg, in the Province of Ontario, and Grenville and Stanbridge, in Quebec.

Lack of business is the assigned reason for the abolition, and it was pointed out to the House that the British consular representation on the American side of the Canadian line was much smaller than the American force of consuls in Canada, the fact being there was not a single British consulate in the States of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota or Ohio.

Secretary Root has decided that he will try to find places for as many of these officers as possible.

Going To Run An Excursion To Toronto On 4th

License Holders Will Propose Amendments to "Hanna Bill."

The License Holders of Ontario will run an excursion to Toronto, April 3rd and 4th, from all parts of the province, at the rate of ordinary single fare, providing a guarantee list of three hundred is furnished by the the association to the C. P. R. and G. T. R. Companies, as the excursion will be run over both lines. In all probability the number who go will be greatly in excess of the necessary three hundred, as it is thought that at least fifty will go from this city alone. A delegation of License Holders from different parts of the province will wait on the Government with a view of having several important amendments made in the Hanna Bill before it is passed.

The tickets will be good going on the third of April, and returning on the 8th. The License Holders of the Province are being advised by the Provincial Secretary of the Association, Mr. E. Dickie.

Visited The Isolation Hospital At Ottawa

Messrs. Wm. Eyres and Wm. Blackwell Were Taken Through the Institution—Is a Magnificent Building Which Cost $55,000—Staff of Ten is Kept—Chairman of the Board Will Report at the Next Meeting.

Yesterday while they were in Ottawa, Mr. Wm. Eyres, chairman of the Board of Health, and Mr. Blackwell, architect, visited the Isolation Hospital there with a view of gaining some information which might be of assistance in planing for the hospital which will have to be erected in this city in the near future. The hospital there is, of course, much larger than would be required in Peterborough. It is a magnificent four-story building, costing $55,000 and capable of accommodating 120 patients. At the time of their visit there were ten, three of them suffering from diphtheria and the remainder from scarlet fever. The operation and maintenance of the hospital, of course, costs much more than the city of Peterborough could stand. A resident physician is employed at a salary of $900 a year, while the general superintendent gets $1,200 a year. A staff of eight nurses is also employed regularly.

Mr. Eyres and Mr. Blackwell were pleased with the courtesy shown them. They were taken through the entire building, and were clothed in a special costume on entering, in order that they might not come into contact with the contagion.

Mr. Eyres will prepare a report which he will submit to the Board of Health at the next meeting of the Board, making recommendations in view of the information gained at Ottawa yesterday. Mr. Eyres, is of the opinion that there should be no connection between the sections of the building accommodating the two diseases. His idea is that each building should be separate, and the kitchen erected between the two, this forming the only connection.

day, in the House of Commons, Hon. H. R. Emmerson said that in regard to the waters tributary to the Trent Valley Canal the Provincial Government had transferred the control to the Dominion, with a stipulation for the protection of the owners of water-power and other rights derived from the lakes and streams. The arrangement had been completed on Feb. 16, 1906, by the issuance of a provincial order-in-Council in July, 1905. The Government was considering the question of developing the storage of waters in this connection. During the present year only the necessary works of repair and maintenance would be undertaken.

The Union Life Insurance Co. Investigated

Under the Limelight of the Commission On Insurance.

DID BUSINESS AT A LOSS

National Agency Co. Managed Its Affairs—Insurance of Children a Prominent Feature—Large Number of Policies Lapse—Mr. Shepley Asked What Officers Did For Their Salaries — Mr. Langmuir.

Ottawa, March 30.—More interesting revelations were forthcoming at the insurance inquiry yesterday. The Union Life Assurance Co. of Adelaide street, Toronto, was under investigation. Reports and verbal evidence by Mr. Fitzgerald showed that the company placed the ownership and control of its business in the hands of another company organized for the purpose, known as the National Agency Co. In 1904 the premium income was $128,000 and the expenses $157,000, while the lapses were almost as large as the number of new policies issued. A large portion of the policies were on infants under ten years of age. In 1905 the total expenses were about $200,000 and the premium receipts $167,000.

"What Do the Officers Do?"

Mr. Shepley read a statement of expenses of the Union Life for 1905. Among these items were: Salaries of officers, $28,000; traveling expenses, $6,000; directors' fees, $895; actuary, $494; auditor, $225; commissions, $147,318; advertising, etc, $10,165; medical fees, $11,596.

"What," he asked, "do the officers do to earn their salaries and traveling expenses, when the whole business of the Union Life has been handed over to another company to operate?"

Mr. Fitzgerald did not know; neither did he know any satisfactory explanation for the large items appearing as advertising and medical fees.

In the afternoon the Federal Life Insurance Co. received attention. On June 14, 1904, Mr. Blackadar filed a report or memorandum concerning it. This company in its return was not satisfied to write up, certain assets to the market value irrespective of cost, it made a record entirely its own in the matter of "writing up." Its holdings in San Paulo, Imperial Rolling, and Montreal Heat and Light bonds were turned in at $141,000, although the market price for the day was $121,000.

Added $20,000.

This extra $20,000 was added in order to arrive at what the company computed the market price ought to be on a divided basis of four per cent. Among other assets the company included a call loan to David D. Dexter, its managing director, amounting to $16,000. The same company was criticised for investing in stock of the Hudson Bay Co.

The Home Life was again on the carpet in regard to its investment in that Mercurical security, Sloss and Sheffield Co. This stock was ostensibly sold to Managing Director Patterson, whose cheque took its place on Dec. 31, 1903. On Jan. 2, 1904, the Sloss, Sheffield again became an asset of the company.

At adjournment Mr. Fitzgerald explaining why he had granted a Dominion license to the Central Life. This company had been operating under a private charter and had been spending $158 for every $100 received in premiums.

Offered to Resign.

In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon R. L. Borden called attention to the report that J. W. Langmuir had been a trustee for an American Insurance company. The Minister of Justice stated that it was a mere formal matter growing out of his connection with the Toronto General Trusts Corporation. Mr. Langmuir had offered to resign from the commission, but the Government did not consider that this trusteeship should disqualify him.

Stricken With Heart Failure.

Cobourg, March 30.—While driving a short distance from the town yesterday morning to call on one of his patients, Dr. W. J. Douglas, one of Cobourg's leading physicians, was stricken with heart failure and died before medical aid reached him. Dr. Douglas twice declined the nomination of the Liberal party of the local House.

SICK HEADACHE

Many varieties of headache exist, those most prevalent being sick or bilious headache, nervous headache, headache from constipation, etc.

Headache is an effort of disease, the cry of the suffering body for relief from some oppressing disorder.

Undoubtedly the cause must be removed in order to cure the headache permanently. Wrong action of the stomach, liver or bowels is responsible for nine out of ten cases of headache.

In sick headache (a very common form) there is sometimes nausea and vomiting and usually constipation.

In nearly all forms of headache

has proved itself a specific—a medicine that has cured where all others failed.

Keeps the stomach, liver and bowels in perfect working order by the use of nature's regulator and tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters, which cures all forms of headache by removing the cause.

Miss B. Smith, Morrisburg, Ont., writes: "I desire to let you know how much good Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I was troubled with headaches all the time, and could get no relief, until a friend told me of your Burdock Blood Bitters. After taking two bottles of it, I can say that I am completely cured."

B.B.B. is for sale at all druggists and general stores. Do not accept something "just as good."

The Police Were Pelted By The Sympathizers

Scenes of Excitement On City of Winnipg Streets.

THE STREET RAILWAY STRIKE

Military Will Be Called Out to Suppress Fierce Rioting—Cars Smashed —Mud and Chunks of Ice Thrown at the Strike-Breakers—Car Service Is Entirely Suspended—Resumption To-day If Protected.

Winnipeg, March 30.—The strike of motormen and conductors of the street railway, which was inaugurated quietly yesterday morning, early developed sensational features and the company's efforts to run cars were absolutely futile and attended with mob violence and most unforeseen and unexpected disorder.

Sympathizers of the strikers took matters into their own hands, defied the police and promptly proceeded to interrupt the semblance of a service attempted by wrecking the cars.

Probably never before have such scenes of excitement been witnessed on the streets of this city. Trolley ropes were cut, poles broken, fenders and windows smashed and strike-breakers and police alike were pelted with chunks of ice, mud and other missiles. By 2 o'clock p.m eleven cars were wrecked and disabled on various parts of the system, and the company then retired temporarily from the field, discontinuing all effort to maintain a service.

Not a wheel was turning on the system last night, but the directors express a determination to give the usual service to-day if the city and Government will afford the necessary protection for property and employes.

The order for the military to hold themselves in readiness for duty was signed by his worship and Magistrates Daly and Harris last night.

JUDGES MUST OBEY.

Disregard of Act Against Acting As Directors—Remedy Promised.

Ottawa, March 30.—That Judges who continue to sit on boards of directors and do other outside work in defiance of last year's act of Parliament should and will be made uncomfortable is the sentiment of the House, as revealed in the discussion yesterday. The Minister of Justice made a remarkable criticism of the Judges who thus ignored the law, and said the country expected them to set a better example of obedience to laws passed by Parliament. Mr. Fitzpatrick, in measured language, denounced the abuse and promised to bring in a bill to make Parliament's will more effective.

Just before the adjournment of the House reference to Mr. Maclean's bill to repeal the indemnity and pension legislation of last session was shown to provide in its present form that all sessional indemnity be abolished. It will likely be discussed next week, when the mover will have it in better shape.

SOUTH AFRICAN TROUBLE.

Natal Government Resigns as a Rebuke to Winston Churchill.

Pietermaritzburg, Natal, March 30.—The interference of the Colonial Office in London with matters which the Natal Government considers to be outside the Imperial Government's jurisdiction led yesterday to the resignation of the Ministry, headed by Charles John Smythe.

The latter had confirmed the death sentence imposed on twelve natives who took part in the murder of policemen during the recent uprising in this colony. Winston Churchill, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, cabled to Premier Smythe, ordering a suspension of the executions, pending the Home Government's consideration of the sentences.

The Premier curtly refused to do so, and the Governor, Sir Henry McCullum, postponed the execution.

Thereupon the Ministry immediately resigned.

The Matter in Parliament.

London, March 30.—At the adjournment of Parliament at midnight, questions were put in both Houses on the Natal crisis. In the House of Lords, Rosb Elgin, the Colonial Secretary, replying to Lord Lansdowne, confirmed the suspension of executions, but said he had no further information to impart.

In the House of Commons, replying to Mr. Asquith-Douglas (Conservative) Winston Churchill, Under Colonial Secretary, said it was Lord Elgin and not himself who had postponed the executions.

English Cotton Men Investigating.

Boston, March 30.—A committee representing a federation of English cotton spinners and manufacturers arrived yesterday. The committee is visiting this country for the purpose of investigating the growth of cotton and its use by the manufacturers.

Suing Absconding Bookkeeper.

Montreal, March 30.—In the Superior Court yesterday, proceedings were taken by McGnaig Bros. & Co. to recover $26,000 from the absconding bookkeeper, J. Poole. It is believed that it can be recovered from collateral still here.

An Exciting Scene In The Legislature

Startles the Legislature During the Budget Debate.

A FORMER LOAN CONTRACT

Hon. Mr. Matheson's Charge Against Mr. Harcourt—An Effective Reply by the Member For Monck—Says Papers Will Show He Acted With Business-Like Prudence in Negotiating Temiskaming Loan.

Toronto, March 30.—An exciting incident marked the continuation of the budget debate in the Legislature last night.

Hon. Mr. Ross at the close of his address submitted a motion which in effect was a condemnation of Hon. Mr. Matheson's flotation of the Provincial bond issue.

The Provincial Treasurer in a vigorous reply charged that Mr. Harcourt, as a member of the former Administration, had entered into an agreement with Coates & Co. that not only should renewals of the Provincial Treasury bills be negotiated through that firm, but that any sale of permanent securities should be made through them. This he characterized as an extraordinary agreement, and he demanded to know what inducement there was for reaching such an understanding.

Mr. Harcourt readily explained his negotiations with the firm named. With considerable spirit he contended that the documents when laid on the table would show that he had acted with businesslike prudence in all the negotiations he had conducted in connection with the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario loan, for the taking up of which the bonds were issued. The Province was not bound to the company named, the arguments of the Provincial Treasurer himself showing this conclusively.

The Premier moved the adjournment of the debate, which may continue today. The earlier speakers in the debate were Col Atkinson of North Norfolk and Mr. Smith of the Soo.

Prior to budget debate a debate took place on the proposed new liquor act.

To Protect Druggists.

Directors of drug companies carrying on business in Ontario must be registered druggists. This was the decision of the special committee of the Legislature which yesterday approved of Mr. Downey's bill to amend the Pharmacy Act. Dr. J. A. Preston, who spoke for the druggists, said that 4,000 of them had asked to be protected in this way. One result of the bill, if it becomes law, will be the practical prohibition of drug departments in departmental stores.

Premier to the Alliance.

Premier Whitney and Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, yesterday morning listened to the views of a deputation of 150 members of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, on the new Liquor Bill, and in replying to their arguments defended the new bill as fair to all parties. For this stand the Premier stated that he expected to be traduced, sneered at and met with vituperation, but he said: "We will continue to place our trust where it lies now, and where our power comes from, the opinion of the great mass of the people of the province."

Confidence in Dr. Chase.

"My mother has kept Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as long as I can remember, and we are all well acquainted with their merits. I have used them for kidney and liver disease and they always helped me. Mother has had Dr. Chase's receipt book for twenty years and I tell you that it is a good one." —Mr. John Miller, South Saltspring, B.C.

Three Sets of Figures.

Ottawa, March 30.—The Exchequer Court yesterday morning gave judgment in the case of the King v. Dodge and Bowles, arising out of the expropriation of lands near Kentville, N. S., for a Dominion rifle range. An arbitrator had awarded the holders of the property $26,000. The Crown appealed, claiming $13,460 was sufficient. Judge Burbidge awards $22,649, with interest and costs.

Must Be No Outbreak.

Annual Meeting Of The Guild League

To-night at 8 o'clock the annual meeting of the Guild Baseball League will be held in the Y.M.C.A. hall. At this meeting the reports of the officers for the past year will be presented and the officers for the coming year elected. The prospects for the league this year are bright, and it is expected that all the Guilds represented in the league last year will again have teams. All the Young Men's Guilds are asked to send representatives to the meeting to-night, as matters of considerable importance will come before the league.

What's The Matter With Magnates?

Its Time the Ball Team Was Organized for the Season.

It is time the local magnates were getting busy and organizing the Peterborough ball club. The players will soon be able to get out for practice and yet nothing has been done to start the season's operations. Some interested party should take the matter and call a meeting as soon as possible. By all means start the season right. A good start goes a long way towards winning the pennant. The team that gets out to practice as soon as the grass shows is the team that will have the other nines dazed in the initial games. The material for a good team is at hand—all that is needed is to get started at once.

BASEBALL

The Toronto Eastern League team will have an abundance of players this year.

SHAMROCKS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

A meeting of the officers of the Shamrock Lacrosse Club will be held to-night in the T. A. S. rooms at 10 o'clock. All members are asked to be present as business of importance will be discussed. This is the first lacrosse meeting of the season in Peterborough.

FOOTBALL

The annual meeting of the Midland League will be held on April 7 in the Y.M.C.A. at 1 o'clock p. m. at which some very important business in connection with Association football will be conducted.

The question of considering the inauguration of a Junior Series will be up for discussion. The present prospects are that this series will be commenced. Other business of equal importance will also be discussed so that representatives from each of the different clubs should attend and look after the interests of the respective clubs.

TURF.

The many friends of Mr. Sandy Carmichael, the well-known North Monaghan farmer, will sympathize with him in the loss of a valuable young grey horse, unnamed, with mark of 23 over ice.

The coming races of the Peterborough Turf Club to be held on May 24th are already attracting considerable attention as the following letter will show:—

USED UP AND TIRED OUT MEN AT THE OFFICE
WOMEN IN THE HOME
CHILDREN AT SCHOOL
Every day in the week and every week in the year men, women and children feel all used up and tired out.
The strain of business, the cares of home and social life and the task of study cause terrible suffering from heart and nerve troubles. The efforts put forth to keep up to the modern "high pressure" mode of life in this age soon wears out the strongest system, shatters the nerves and weakens the heart.
Thousands find life a burden and others an early grave. The strain on the system causes nervousness, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, sleeplessness, faint and dizzy spells, ckly heats, weak and irregular pulse, smothering and sinking spells, etc. The blood becomes weak and watery and eventually comes decline.
Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills
are indicated for all diseases arising from a weak and debilitated condition of the heart or of the nerve centres. Mrs. Thos. Hall, Kaldon, Ont., writes: "For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness and heart failure, and the doctors failed to give me any relief. ANTHRACITE STRIKE ON.

Ordered For Monday Morning—Bituminous Miners May Also Go Out—Nearly 400,000 Are Ready

Indianapolis, Ind., March 30.—Without agreement on a wage scale, the joint conference of the bituminous coal operators and miners of the central competitive district yesterday adjourned sine die, leaving affairs in such a condition that a strike of from 175,000 to 334,500 soft coal miners, besides 150,000 anthracite miners ordered out, seems inevitable on April 1, the present wage scale expiring on March 31.

The mines directly affected are in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania. Miners and operators of the southwestern district, comprised of Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Arkensas, Oklahoma and Territory, have decided to report a disagreement to-day.

Iowa miners have agreed with the operators to suspend work for sixty days. Michigan, West Virginia and Kentucky miners, it is said, will follow the lead of the central district.

F. L. Robbins and other operators representing about one-third of the coal production of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, offered to pay the advance and urged the miners to accept this advance and continue work in their mines, even though the other mines should be idle.

The bituminous miners affected by the disruption of the conferences number 334,500.

Operators of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and those of Western Pennsylvania, who are opposed to paying an increase in wages, held an executive session last night. It is reported that they will adopt resolutions asking President Roosevelt to appoint a commission to investigate the coal situation.

The anthracite miners' scale committee last night issued orders for total suspension of mining in the three anthracite districts, beginning Monday morning, April 2. They informed President Baer that the miners' scale committee will meet the operators' scale committee in New York City on Tuesday, April 3, for the purpose of further considering the wage scale in the anthracite field.

BARGAINS IN MEDICINE.
A woman once wrote us that she was not going to buy Scott's Emulsion any more because it cost too much. Said she could get some other emulsion for less money. Penny wise and pound foolish. Scott's Emulsion costs more because it is worth more—costs more to make. We could make Scott's Emulsion cost less by using less oil. Could take less care in making it, too. If we did, however, Scott's Emulsion wouldn't be the standard preparation of cod liver oil as it is to-day.

A Black-List May Be Started By The Doctors

One of the Members of the Profession Gives His Views on the Question—Points Out That They are Being Imposed Upon—Want Medical Association to Take Action in the Matter—The Advantages of the Co-operative Action.

It is understood that there is a movement on foot, or rather a revival of a movement which was taken up some time a go, and dropped, among the doctors to establish a black-list. A prominent member of the profession informed the Examiner to-day that he had made efforts among his fellow doctors to have the Association take the matter up, and there was a possibility that this would be done. He pointed out that every doctor in the city had debts, which apparently, those who contracted them, had no intention of paying. There are, it appears, persons who run a bill with one doctor until they can get no more work done, and then switch to another, where the same process is gone through.

If a list of those persons were supplied the Association by the individual members, and if each doctor would refuse to render professional service to them, the practice would soon be stopped.

The doctors of course, will not refuse to attend persons who are in need, and who cannot afford to pay. Every doctor has a number of such persons and it is well known that the physicians give their services often without thought of pay, but what they are objecting to, and what it is said an effort will be made to stop, is the practice of people who can afford to pay, running up bills with one doctor, and when he shows signs of wanting his pay, turn to another member of the profession and work him to the same extent.

It is said that the local blacksmiths have a black list, and if a man refuses to pay his blacksmith's bill, none of the other smiths will do his work. As one of the doctors stated to-day, "the blacksmiths are sensible but we are foolish."

Want The C. P. R. To Go By Way Of Lakefield

Another Route for the Grain Line to Georgian Bay—Would Have the Railway Go From This City to Lakefield and by Buckhorn to Orillia and the Bay.

A writer in The Lakefield News this week advocates a new route for the C. P. R.'s Georgian Bay-Peterborough line. The letter follows:

Sir—Readers of the Peterborough papers of recent date will have noticed that that city expects to become the terminal for another line of railway, by the construction of a branch of the C.P.R. to Midland or Victoria Harbour. An objection has been made that a line west and north from Peterborough through the southern parts of Victoria and Ontario counties would almost parallel that part of the Midland division of the G.T.R. connecting Peterborough with Midland city. This difficulty can, however, be overcome by running the proposed C.P.R. line from Peterborough north to Lakefield, thence north to Buckhorn, thence north and west through the township of Harvey, again north and west through the townships of Somerville, Bexley and Carden in Victoria county, in the same general direction through the township of Rama in Ontario county, continuing northwesterly through the township of North Orillia and Tiny in Simcoe county to the Georgian Bay. Or a still more direct route would be to leave the main line of the C. P. R. at Havelock, with a straight line via Warsaw to Lakefield.

A line as above indicated would pass through a large section of country at present not well served by railways, and is the shortest and therefore the most direct route. Thanking you, Mr. Editor,

I am yours truly,
LAKEFIELD FIRST.

Lakefield, March 28, 1906.

Were Married In Asphodel

Nuptials of Mr. Bert. S. Scriver, of Hastings, and Miss Emma Landon, of Asphodel.

Hastings, March 14th. — A very quiet and pretty wedding took place this afternoon at two o'clock, at the residence of Mr. Thomas Landon, in Asphodel township, when his eldest daughter, Emma, was united in marriage to Mr. Bert Stanley Scriver of this village, youngest son of Mr. John Scriver. The ceremony was performed under a beautiful arch of evergreens, by Rev. W. Elliott, pastor of the Hastings Methodist church.

The parlour, where the nuptial knot was tied, was decorated in exquisite taste for the occasion. The contracting parties were unattended, and only their immediate friends and relatives were present. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Thos. Landon. The Mendelssohn wedding march was played, most accomplishedly by Miss Ada Landon, sister of the bride.

The bridal dress was of beautiful white silk and her going away gown gray broad cloth with hat to match. The happy couple who were the recipients of many very fine presents left shortly after the ceremony on a honeymoon trip to Toronto, and other Western points. On their return they will take up their residence in Hastings.

Presentation To Villiers Residents

Were Given Handsome Chairs Before Their Departure.

Special to The Examiner

Villiers, March 28.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moore were pleasantly surprised when, on the eve of their departure from their old home in Otonabee to live in the thriving village of Keene, a large number of their friends and neighbours called to bid them goodbye and present them with two very handsome chairs and the following address:

Dear Friends—It is with feelings of sincere regret that we are gathered here to-night. When we remember the many years that you have spent among us as friends and neighbours, and the pleasant relations that have always existed between us. We regret that the old familiar intercourse is now to be interrupted by your removal from our neighbourhood; but we are also pleased that the place you have chosen as your new home is not so distant but that we shall still be able to see and hear from you, and hope still to welcome you to our homes as in the past. During the many years you have resided among us you have both been ever ready to lend a helping hand wherever needed, and in remembrance of many past acts of kindness extended to us on your part, we thought it only fitting on ours to offer you some tangible token of our esteem, and we ask you to accept these chairs as a memento from your friends in this place, and we also ask you to take to your new home our heartiest wishes that you and yours may be blessed with health and happiness, and may the Giver of all Good provide that your remaining years on earth be peaceful and happy, and the sunset of life gloriously bright, and when at last the summons comes to us all, may God will that we may all meet in that land where there is no parting.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours.

Jas. S. Hope.
Wm. H. Elmhirst.

Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Moore expressed their heartiest thanks to their friends for their kindly remembrance of them, not only for the intrinsic value of the gift, but for the hearty good wishes of those by whom it was presented, and said that it would be treasured as a memento of their Otonabee friends.

A Presentation Before Departure

Fraserville People Will Come to Peterborough to Reside.

Special to The Examiner

Fraserville, March 26. — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roddy are taking up their residence in Springville.

Miss Flossie Seabrook spent a few days at the home of her parents this week.

Rev. Mr. Robeson is spending a few days in Toronto, attending the Temperance convention there this week.

Miss Effie Staples who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. Atchinson, for sometime, left on Tuesday for Toronto.

Rev. and Mrs. Robeson spent a few days in Warsaw last week visiting their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wasson.

A large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. D. Wood on March 16th, to say farewell to them ere their removal to Peterborough. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Wood were presented with two beautiful chairs and Mr. Harry Wood with a beautifully bound copy of Tennyson's poems, accompanied by an address which testified to the high esteem and tender affection in which they are held by their many friends. They will be greatly missed in the neighbourhood, especially in the church where Mr. Wood was an active and earnest worker, ever having God's cause at heart to see it prosper. Rev. Robeson read the address and Mr. D. Smith and Mr. S. Might made the presentation. Mr. Wood replied in a few words expressing his regret at their departure. A few others also spoke stating their regret.

Facts About the American Indian's Healthy Hair.

The American Indian, accustomed from time immemorial to go bareheaded in all kinds of weather, is never troubled with falling hair or baldness.

The close atmosphere caused by our "civilized" headgear is conducive to the breeding of infinitesimal germs, which dig into the scalp and thrive on the sap of the hair root.

The true cause of baldness is of recent discovery and explains the non-success of all hair vigours, which treated baldness as a functional disorder.

Newbro's Herpicide is a direct exterminator of the germ. It destroys the cause and permits the hair to grow as nature intended.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

MARKS BROS. COMPANY.

"The Banker's Wife," the initial performance presented by Marks Bros.' famous dramatic company, last night at the Grand, was probably the best that they have ever given to a Peterborough audience since their first appearance here. They are continually improving in the character and style of presentation of their productions and "The Banker's Wife," as indicated by its warm reception, is undoubtedly one of their best.

May A. Bell Marks played the leading role, as Mabel Holt, the banker's wife, and her superb acting simply captivated the audience. Also as "Reddy" the banker's daughter, she was equally as effective and demonstrated by her versatility in the different roles as actress of considerable repute. H. Cedars, as "Moses Levi" and E. C. Hubbard, portraying "Nap," the negro, also made a great hit with the audience. In fact the whole company was unusually good, and all gave admirable support. The specialties were of a singular order, every one of them eliciting much applause. George Marks, the boy specialist, in the great rooster act, was one of the best. Rowley and Gay, the eminent Scotch dancers and bag-pipers, made a wonderful hit, as did also Emerson, Codore & Co., in their club swinging and juggling acts. The scenery was very artistic and appropriate, and judging from the appearance of the crowded house last night that greeted their first production, Marks Bros. will again have that patronage during their visit here which usually they are honoured with.

To-night's production will be "Lost in London," a comedy drama, and to-morrow night, "Little Starlight, the Indian Maid." At the matinee to-morrow afternoon, "Under Two Flags," will be presented.

Omemee Erects "Temple of Fame"

Praise for Good Class of Salvation Army Immigrants.

Special to The Examiner.

Omemee, March 28.—The spring weather is now arriving, and the fall and winter wheat is showing up well.

Mrs. Rahill, of Peterborough, has been spending a few days with Mrs. T. J. Parsons.

The Atuele brothers went to the Northwest recently with two well-laden cars.

The choir of the Presbyterian church here is making good progress under the direction of Prof. Forsythe, of Peterborough. The anthem, "Lo 'Tis Night," was rendered very creditably at last Sabbath evening's services.

The Salvation Army are having a splendid entertainment consisting of views, etc.

The class of Englishmen brought out by the Salvation Army this season is better than the ordinary.

Mr. W. J. Lamb, our mail carrier, has made up his mind to try the Northwest, and will be succeeded by Mr. J. Heyes Best.

The "Temple of Fame" entertainment to be held here on Easter Monday in aid of our public library, promises to attract large crowds. All the queens, past and present, and prima donnas, together with a collection of other noted characters, will no doubt prove very attractive.

Mrs. Cameron, organiser for the Canadian Order of Woodmen, has been here in the interests of the order.

The unveiling of the monument of the late Sovereign Switzer, deceased in June, will prove a very interesting and new event here. Delegations from Peterborough and Lindsay courts are expected.

President Of Loan Company Under Arrest

Magistrate Refuses to Renew the Bail of Phillips.

CURRY: STRAIGHT STEALING

Over $1,500 Paid to Phillips From the Printing Business in 1905—"Things Are Getting Worse All the Time," Says Police Magistrate Denison—Piano Company Advances Under Strict Scrutiny.

Toronto, March 31.—Joseph Phillips, whilom manager and president of the York Loan Co., slept last night in Toronto jail, to which he was driven late in the afternoon in a cab, in the custody of Constable Campbell.

At the end of the morning in the Police Court yesterday Magistrate Denison ordered the police to take Joseph Phillips into custody, his worship declining to accept the former bail of $5,000, for which W. H. Hunter was surety, or to accept two sureties of $4,000 each.

Phillips Searched.

At the close of the afternoon's proceedings, Detective Twigg, acting under directions, searched the prisoner in the detectives' offices. Phillips submitted to the process and behaved courteously to the officer, offering, however, the remark that they would have a pretty hard thing to bring home. No documents of any importance was found on Phillips, but he had from $7 to $9.

The Printing Plant.

George Myers, who was on salary in 1904 for the York County Loan, yesterday morning swore that he was not the owner of the printing plant in 1905, but he leased it and ran it under his own name. The agreement between himself and Phillips, he declared, was never lived up to. Witness got only one-third of the profits. The balance, amounting to between $1,500 and $1,600, went to Phillips.

Myers added that printed matter for the Lisat Piano Co. was delivered at the "Club," the house of J. Phillips, who received some of the order and initialled the receipt.

Straight Stealing.

"I will ask that no further bail be given to Phillips or else that it be increased," said Crown Attorney Curry. "I think the evidence shows that there has been straight stealing here, and I want to get to the bottom of it."

"The bail has hitherto brought the man here," said Magistrate Denison.

"Yes, but the evidence is piling up," said the Crown Attorney.

The magistrate then asked for two sureties of $4,000 each.

J. R. Jones, prisoner's counsel, stated that he had not an additional bondsman in the court, besides Mr. Hunter at the time.

"Well then, Phillips can stay here," said the magistrate. "We will look after him." Things were getting worse all the time, the colonel added.

N. Robin, secretary-treasurer, again put in the witness box, could not give any information concerning the cheques for $5,000, $3,000, $2,500 and $1,500 drawn on Lisat Piano Co.'s account in the Bank of Montreal.

Not For York Loan.

Eva Hall, the bookkeeper, was asked if any of the profits of the printing business went into the York Loan.

Not as far as she was aware, she replied.

"Did any of these big cheques, $5,000 and so on, come to the York Loan?"

Not to witness' knowledge. She would have known if they had.

Stewart Lynn, secretary of the Toronto Life, who received a subpoena during the day to produce the Toronto Life books, said he knew where they were. He remembered the bonds of the Canadian Northern, $2,000 worth, bought at 102, guaranteed by the Manitoba Government, but he could not say what money bought the bonds.

"Did you see the money paid by the Toronto Life for the printing company?"

"Yes." Witness, however, could not remember whether it were cash or a cheque.

Burt Questioned.

Magistrate, Crown-Attorney, prisoner's counsel and G. R. Burt formed a little quartette at the resumption of the case in the afternoon. Burt was subjected to further questions concerning items he was charged as being paid by the York County Loan, for which no deposits appeared in his bank book. Numbers of books were fetched from Mr. Curry's room adjoining.

Crown Attorney Curry asked Burt for the agreement between himself and Mr. Phillips. "It is," said the Crown Attorney, "the agreement upon which you and Phillips were doing business."

"We had no agreement."

No Agreement.

"Then you want us to understand that Mr. Phillips, in violation of his trust as manager and president of the York County Loan, disbursed moneys to you without security and without any hope of advantage to the company?"

"Moneys were advanced to me from month to month."

"What advantage was the company getting?"

"I do not know."

"A cheque for $6,000 was enquired about by Mr. Curry." He read a memo by Mr. Burt, to the effect that $6,000 should be paid to Burt and credited to interest and rent; a further order on the treasurer, signed by Mr. Phillips, tended to show the order had been paid.

Burt did not remember the payment. He recollected no conversation with Phillips or Lynn.

Question For the Court.

Register showed that in August, 1905, 285 pianos were furnished to the company at $150 per piano. Burt, however, declared he did not furnish any to the company.

"Well, that is for the court to decide," said the Crown Attorney. "We have evidence that you did. These pianos would entitle you to a credit of $39,750." The advance made was $55,000.

ARREST OF BIGAMIST.

Mrs. Cockburn Arrives From Scotland With Five Children.

Toronto, March 31.—Charged with marrying again while his wife was awaiting his call in Scotland, Alexander Cockburn was arrested yesterday morning. Mrs. Cockburn arrived the day before from England with her five small children and greeted the man in the detective department.

Mrs. Cockburn stated that she had letters from her husband regularly for the first few months that he was in this country, but they stopped suddenly.

Detective Sergt. Duncan held the solution when he showed a marriage certificate, stating that Alexander Cockburn was married to Miss Alice L. Jeffries on Oct. 14, 1896, by Rev. Mr. Moore of St. Margaret's Church. Miss Jeffries is an English lady. They were living together at 165 Jarvis street.

Cockburn was remanded until April 3 by Magistrate Denison.

Hanged Himself in His Barn.

Holland Landing, March 31.—Isaac Fairbarn, a farmer living two miles and a half east of here, committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging himself in the barn. Where he was found by his wife. He left a note saying that he was going out of his mind and thought it advisable to commit suicide. He leaves a widow and one daughter, who is married.

No Rights Were Granted By The Government

Silver Mines On Temiskaming Line Not Even Considered.

MINING INCORPORATIONS

Government Bill Makes Some Important Amendments—Steps Being Taken to Get Ontario's Inscribed Stock on the Trustee Security List—Hon. Mr. Monteith Introduces Two Agricultural Bills.

Toronto, March 31.—The Legislature sat for two hours yesterday afternoon and transacted a considerable amount of routine business. In addition to some measures introduced by the Minister of Agriculture, a summary of which will be found below, Hon. Mr. Cochrane brought down the new mining bill. This has yet to be finally passed upon by the Cabinet, and its provisions will not be made known until next week.

A Denial.

Mr. Graham asked for information about a despatch published in The Ottawa Free Press, stating that some Toronto men had been given the mining rights on the right of way of the Temiskaming Railway.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane's reply was that the mining rights had been turned over to the Railway Commission to deal with as they think proper.

Mr. Whitney supplemented this answer by saying: "No such proposition has been received, and, in any event, no such proposition would be acceded to."

Removes Two Exceptions.

Hon. Mr. Foy introduced a bill re mining corporations. Under the old mining law there were two exceptions, which have been abolished. Mining companies were permitted to issue shares at a discount, and some times these sold as low as 5c and 10c. It was also provided under the old act that the party buying mining shares assumed no liability beyond the first payment. Mining companies will not be on the same basis as other joint stock companies. During the last ten days the Government has refused to grant charters to mining companies. The new law will not be retroactive.

Agricultural Bills.

Hon. Nelson Monteith introduced two bills, one respecting horticultural societies and one respecting agricultural associations. The main feature of the act respecting horticultural societies is that it takes all such associations out of relationship to the agricultural societies and puts them in their own class. It provides for their independent organization in towns, cities, and incorporated villages, and, instead of sharing with the township in the participation of the grant, $5,000 is set aside subject to division among the horticultural societies of the province.

The bill respecting agricultural associations provides for the continuance of all the organizations in the former act with the addition of the new association formed last year, the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association. A decided change, however, is being made in connection with the Canadian Horse Breeders' Association. The name of this association is changed to that of the Canadian Horsemen's Association. The new act provides that each association shall make its own constitution subject to the approval of the Minister, and that it shall have bylaws providing for the number of directors, their representation, and their mode of selection.

An Advisory Board.

The bill provides for the incorporation of the Provincial Winter Fair (Guelph), the Eastern Ontario Live Stock and Poultry Association (Ottawa), and also for the organization of certain societies for the purpose of advancing some branch of agriculture; these societies not to be bodies incorporate, but to be regulated in other particulars by the act. This act also provides for the organization of an advisory board on live stock, to advise the Minister regarding matters of interest to the live stock industry. The organization of the board is provided for by order-in-council. This is the advisory board promised by the Minister some weeks ago.

Farmers' institutes and women's institutes are also provided for under this act. They are brought into a little closer relationship with the department than was hitherto the case, and provision is made for the changing of methods of works by easy process by consulting the Minister. This act, unlike the other two, will come into operation at once.

Colonial Stocks Act.

In reply to Mr. Harcourt, the Treasurer outlined the steps taken by the Government to have the provincial inscribed stock included in the securities in which a trustee may invest under the provisions of the Imperial Colonial Stocks Act. Owing to the change of Government in Britain, nothing definite had resulted. The matter would again be pressed on the attention of the Imperial and Dominion authorities.

At the Premier's request, Mr. Lennox withdrew his automobile bill, but some of the provisions of the bill will be discussed when Mr. Sutherland's other auto bill comes up next week.

Second Readings.

A second reading was given Mr. Reed's bill to disqualify members of public and separate school boards and boards of education from being members of a municipal council.

Mr. May's bill to amend the rules of practice to provide for the trial of legal cases at Ottawa, when the solicitors concerned lived in any one of the ten adjacent counties named, and in London, when in one of the 12 nearby counties set forth, caused the Attorney-General to object that this would be to override the authority of the courts, and suggested a conference with the judges.

Next season the "Blunoz" Suits will be higher in price—now $18

"Blunoz" a specially made and guaranteed Semi-ready serge

IN connection with woollens the name "Canadian" used to be a reproach; the high quality of Semi-ready "Blunoz" serge has made it a boast.

There is nothing made in Canada that can touch it in quality, and only the best that crosses the ocean can.

Only one mill in Canada is capable of producing such a serge as bears the Semi-ready trade mark of "Blunoz," and we control its output.

Gordon Elliott of London Killed, and 45 Other Persons Hurt—Some of the Injured.

Neepawa, Man., March 31.—One killed and about forty-five injured is the record of a wreck yesterday afternoon on the Manitoba and Northwestern Railroad, a subsidiary of the Canadian Pacific, six miles east of Arden.

The man killed is Gordon Elliott of London.

The Ontario injured are Mrs. Jas. Parks, Hastings, Ont., side hurt and bad scar on head; Mrs. Parks, cut on head, not serious; Mrs. W. F. MacVey, Melrose Junction, injuries slight; W. H. Colvell, Guelph, jaw broken, head cut and arm injured, serious, but not fatal; F. Dalton, Toronto, back hurt, not fatal; H. H. Jenkins, Montreal, back slightly hurt; John Chambers, Centralia, slight injuries; Thomas Beckett, Bruce County, hip hurt, one cut, not serious; Agnes Beckett, daughter, arm broken, head badly cut; Finlay Beckett, son, aged four, forehead cut and other injuries; Johnnie Beckett, aged 12, seriously hurt, probably fatally; J. H. Gillies, traveler for Heap & Co., Vancouver, hip injured.

All the injured were taken to Neepawa Hospital. The accident happened from a broken rail.

A Sad Interruption.

London, March 31.—While Mr. and Mrs. George Elliott of this city were preparing to move their household to the Northwest to join their 17-year-old son, Gordon, who went there three months ago to teach school they received word last evening that Gordon was fatally hurt in a railway wreck near Neepawa. The father took the first train for the Northwest, hoping to see the boy before he died.

Three Killed in Wreck.

Fort William, March 31.—Three trainmen were killed at Chapleau by a freight train running into a standing snow plough. At Sudbury a collision between immigrant and homeseekers' trains shook the passengers up.

Lumberman is Killed.

Bracebridge, March 31.—Thos. Taplin of Clear Lake, a well-known lumber jobber in the Township of Draper, just finished hauling to the water his winter's cut of logs, and was standing on top of a dump arranging the heavy timber when the lower ones gave way, and he was thrown down, a big stick striking him on the head. He lived only half an hour.

Blown to Pieces.

Ottawa, March 31.—Hugh Wade and Douglas Wade, aged about 27 and 25 respectively, lost their lives as the result of the explosion of the boiler in their mill at Grenville. Douglas Wade was blown to pieces and his brother died in a short time after. They were married and had lived in Grenville all their lives.

Little Girl Nearly Killed.

London, March 31.—An attempted criminal assault upon a little girl in the heart of the business district of London almost resulted in the murder of the victim Thursday night. The victim is the 11-year-old daughter of a prominent citizen. No arrests have been made.

Two Years For Fletcher.

Walkerton, March 31.—George Fletcher of Walkerton, who pleaded guilty to looting a barber shop in that town, and then setting it on fire, with the result that several buildings in the vicinity were destroyed, was yesterday sentenced by Judge Barrett to two years, less one day, in the Central Prison.

Bruce Carruthers Promoted.

Ottawa, March 31.—Militia general orders note the appointment of Major Bruce Carruthers of Kingston, now inspector of signalling, to be assistant adjutant-general for signalling. Capt. F. A. Lister, R. C. E., assistant inspector of signalling, is made D. A. A. G. for signalling.

CHAPTER XII.

It was not long before we were visited by the first retribution for what might be accounted a crime and what was at least provoked by our own illegal acts. Indeed, the surprise fell sooner than I had anticipated, although it happened by the means I had always considered probable. That Williams, garrulous and sharp eyed Welshman as he was, could be secured in silence was well nigh impossible, for even if concealment had been for his personal benefit he would still have plied his tongue, and, though he were sworn to secrecy, the private transactions of this singular feud would have slowly dribbled through his communications and become current in the gossip of the country. This knowledge was mainly instrumental in deterring us from confiding in him. Burglars were the bugaboo we had brandished before him, and burglary, sure enough, was the word that ran over the district. The news came to us late that morning. As I gathered, Williams, who was keeping company with some girl of Llanelian, woke early from his belated sleep and ran down to the village, full of the battle. His own appearance in it, as I afterward discovered, had been gorgeously conceived and magniloquently rendered. I believe, actuating to this version, it was he, and he alone, who gave the signal for the final rout, and certainly he was the author of that fall from the battlements. But this was just as well, for the man knew nothing of its fatal issue, and poor Sheppard did not grudge him the credit.

But I am trespassing upon my narrative too rashly. Williams returned later in the morning and, apparently to celebrate his own cleverness, made his communications to me. He had given warning to the schoolmaster at Llanelian, who had offered to hand on the notice to the authorities at Raymond. I could have cursed the man for his folly and his babbling tongue, but I was just enough to recall that his conduct was merely natural. In truth, if he thought at all, he must have considered us a pack of egregious asses for not taking better precautions and acquiring the aid of the Raymond police. I could do nothing, therefore, but acquiesce with as good a grace as I might and wish heartily that we had left him sleeping as soundly as Mrs. Main and the maid, who, it appeared, had never opened an eye throughout the night, although the former asserted that she had dreamed "there was a thunderstorm-like," adding the enclitic familiar to her conversation.

But the situation remained to be faced, and I guessed that we should be confronted with it very shortly. Consequently we must compose a plan of action, and, whatever we agreed upon, must run no risk of denial at other hands. In this connection it seemed that I must pay a necessary visit to Sercombe, a task which for some reason was not to my taste. Sheppard, who had quite recovered himself and had not yet referred in any way to the event of the early morning, cordially approved my suggestion.

"It will be a wise course," he declared. "And, besides, I am anxious to inspect these foreigners nearer."

Where the Greeks were lodged we knew not, but it was evidently not at the Woodman, for on our arrival there the place was deserted except by the woman who had charge of Hood's kitchen. She could give us little information. She had not seen her master since she went to bed on the previous evening. But Captain Sercombe had been called at 9 o'clock and had gone out after eating a hasty breakfast. There was no one else staying in the house. Such was the information she imparted to us, influenced to her frankness, I had no doubt, by my position as the big landed proprietor of the place. Which way had Captain Sercombe gone? He had gone down the roadway in the direction of Raymond.

With this we had to content ourselves; but, determined at all hazards to catch Sercombe, Sheppard and I took the narrow lane that led down the valley in the hope of hitting upon him. At the bottom of the valley the stream makes an open pool of some considerable size upon a piece of flat land. Here it receives a few exiguous branches from the lower hills and rests, as it were, in those spreading shallows ere it narrows and spins for the Ray. The wood was sparse about the pool, but it was very private and retired from the roads, and it was quite by accident that we penetrated the wood so far. But here we perceived through the leafage the smoke of fires and heard the noises of human creatures, an uncommon feature in the silent Gwent. Pushing through the brushwood, we came next upon a veritable encampment in that friendly spot. And now we solved the riddle which had perplexed us earlier in the morning, for the first man my eyes fell upon was my old acquaintance of the squint. Here was not a camp of gypsies, but of cutthroat Greeks!

The discovery was no sooner made than it was confirmed by a voice sounding from my right and calling my name in familiar tones.

"Ah, how d'ye do, Mr. Greatorex? Glad to see you. What pleasant chance has brought you into our little village?"

The man stood before me as debonair and well groomed as ever, his puffy red face smiling cheerfully into mine and his bloodshot eyes twinkling with gayety. It seemed almost inconceivable that this fellow was but a few hours earlier upon the footing of a deadly foe and earnest to rob us even of our lives. And yet I confess that even at this juncture and after the grave events of the siege I experienced for him what always underlay my superficial feelings, a genuine liking. The impudence of the adventurer, his very gayety, the assumption he wore that whatever he did and however ruthlessly he pursued us he was still a welcome acquaintance—all these facts gave a charm to his person. His benignity was superb; it was that of an urbane philanthropist. He was ready to crack a joke with you, to recount his entertaining adventures in your ears or to offer you his choicest cigar. He was a man pre-eminently cast for social popularity, and circumstances or his own wickedness had made him a scoundrel, and a very bad scoundrel at that.

It was he, and he alone, who gave the signal.

And so it was that I responded quite affably to his greeting, oblivious of the past and almost forgetting the future. He stood by me, surveying the encampment, his bulky form overtopping mine by three inches at the least.

"It's a pity, Mr. Greatorex," says he, reflecting, "that these animals have no spunk. Spunk goes a long way with me, I will admit, and that warms my heart to you. I doff my hat to Mr. Sheppard and, by the way, to my young friend Montgomery also."

"What you lack in quality, I suppose, you calculate to make up in quantity," I said grimly.

"Precisely, Mr. Greatorex. You've hit it. That's the rub. If I had three of my mongrel Indians here I'd reckon to finish the job in a couple of days, but one has to use the material at hand."

"No doubt," said Sheppard, "but your plans must have been laid a long time."

The captain cast a curious glance at him. "Well, you seem to know," he said slowly. "But I tell you frankly that greed can carry too far and that a jaw too widely open will sometimes lose a bite; it takes too long to shut it. If I had managed this business"— But here, apparently recollecting himself, he broke off and turned away with a little frown. But presently he resumed, wearing his accustomed good humored expression. "There was never any good came of a Greek. I've known them upward of twenty years, and I never knew one that was fit for anything save to jab you in the back when you were not looking."

"I should say," remarked Sheppard mildly, "that you had a very suitable gang for your purpose."

Sercombe laughed. "Oh, I don't fancy the knife myself, though some people do."

Sheppard turned deathly pale, but he smiled politely and answered, "There is no knowing what scruples a man will develop."

This turn of the conversation suddenly woke me to a sense of my errand, and I quickly communicated my news to Sercombe.

"I thought we should come to this," he said cheerfully, "and I would have laid odds I should have had you here on this mission. I knew you would drop that mealy mouthed righteousness of yours. What I disliked in you, Mr. Greatorex, from the outset, if I may say so without offense, was your blamed British pharisaism. You couldn't look at a job squarely. It's not your fault, but that of your training. I had the same defect once myself, but a campaign in the Ionian isles knocked the pretenses out of me. That's how I came to know these scoundrels so well. Well, I'm glad we meet evenly at last. You can see for yourself there's not a penn'orth to choose between us, save that you've had first blood," and with that he looked at Sheppard.

This time Sheppard held his color under control, but he looked away, and I perceived, in spite of his severe restraint, a twitching of the nostrils.

"Come, come," said I, "we must take what steps we may in self defense against cutthroats, captain."

"I'm with you there," said Sercombe cheerily, "and the steps I usually take consist of a barker. I shoot out of my coat tails as often as not. My plan is to fire when I see a squint."

"I fear you rebuke me," I replied, with a bow, "but I swear that I would have fired if it had been any other place but London. I am so well known there."

Sercombe burst out laughing. "I once thought," he said, "that Mr. Sheppard was more my sort, but now I believe I pin my note on you!"

"You honor me," I returned, "but come to business."

The captain plucked his long red mustache meditatively. "I'm sorry I can't discuss this with you now, gentlemen," he said. "After all, it's your affair, though I admit I have a certain interest in it, but if I may come up and see you about 3 o'clock we can go into details. I fancy it's a concerted plan we want."

"That's so," I returned, feeling terribly mean and small to be conspiring so against the laws of my country with an admitted scoundrel.

"Very well; let us say 3," said the captain and stuck out his hand as though to dismiss us.

For myself, being in the frame of mind I have described, I contrived to overlook his arm, but Sheppard, all smiles, sprang forward and shook him heartily. "By the way," he said brightly, "and where is my friend Hood?"

"Hood!" echoed Sercombe and looked at us queerly. "Oh, Mr. Hood is inventing a new maneuver. He is a better soldier than I am, is Mr. Hood, naturally." I suppose he saw that we exchanged glances. "My dear sirs," he said, "I only tell you what you might suppose for yourselves. Mr. Hood is trying his hand at generalship, but I don't reveal his plan of campaign. Perhaps you guess it." And he burst out laughing rather unpleasantly.

It was obvious to both of us that there was a bitterness in Sercombe's words. Fallen though he was from a respectable estate and sunk as he had become in a career of dissipation and unscrupulous adventure, he still retained a certain feeling of his own dignity. How far the difference between Hood and himself had gone I could not know, but if it went much further it seemed as though we might take some advantage out of it. But of the two it was Hood—Hood, with his lean black face—that I feared.

Sercombe kept his appointment with commendable punctuality, entering our council chamber, if I may so describe the smaller of the halls in which we usually sat, with the jauntiness of his morning's encounter. Lunch was but newly over, and I felt myself descend in Montgomery's eyes when I offered the captain a glass of wine. He took it airily, even with a kind of rude grace, which sometimes characterised him, and nodded us a good health, plunging at once into the matter of his visit.

"You will excuse me, gentlemen. I can spare little time today. You will understand that I am very busy," this with a twinkling eye. "But we must needs oblige a friend, and I am here over a dusty road to meet you."

"We are gravely indebted to you," said I ceremoniously. "But I must point out that this point touches you as much as, if not more than, it affects us."

"We have shed no blood," said the captain emphatically, settling back for argument.

"'Tis not your fault, then," I retorted, "and, in any case, what blood was shed was spilled in self defense in repelling an illegal assault upon our persons and our property."

"You would find it difficult to prove that in a court of law," says he, casting his eye at me.

"I thought we were agreed to leave the law alone," said I.

"Unhappily," observed Sercombe, with a laugh, "the law won't leave us alone."

"Oh, come," said I impatiently, "we are confined to this, Captain Sercombe. Are you prepared to help us? You yourself say time presses. If not, it may well be that we shall throw the onus upon the proper offenders and leave you to shift for yourselves."

"And what about the treasure, my friend?" asked the captain, with an ogle.

"I know nothing of any treasure," I remarked calmly, "nor does either of my friends here. Presumably an attack was made upon the castle for the purpose of burglary, and I can conceive that my silver only was aimed at. I think that will suffice to explain the cowardly attack of some ruffianly foreigners. I think the Raymond police will easily understand that."

Sercombe looked somewhat blank, but in a moment resumed his cheerfulness. "Quite so, and, as such a course would benefit no one, we are to combine forces against a common enemy. Well, fire ahead."

At this moment an interruption came through the entrance of the maid with the announcement of some visitors at the door. We all stared at one another.

"Who are they?" I demanded.

But the girl, being raw and unsophisticated, had not inquired their names. They were, however, gentlemen, and there was a policeman with them. This was enough for us, and an uncomfortable silence fell on us. Sercombe raised his eyebrows and sucked in his lips soberly.

"Have 'em in," said Sheppard. I looked dubious. We had arranged nothing and had no plan of action between us. "It is far wiser," urged Sheppard. "Don't give it too elaborate an appearance." And, turning, he gave the order to the maid.

I was still doubting and Sercombe was regarding Sheppard with a certain grave interest when the maid returned, ushering in an important looking old gentleman with a very ceremonious manner and a man whom I took to be a sergeant in plain clothes.

"Mr. Greatorex?" asked the old gentleman, with heavy courtesy.

I bowed. "That's my name," I replied. "I suppose you have come upon this business of last night?"

"Yes, sir," said he, signaling to the sergeant, who forthwith pulled out a notebook. "It looks a bad thing for the county. We haven't had so barefaced a crime in the neighborhood within the recollection of this generation. A Rare Combination for Women

So Says the Doctor about Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets

We never object to showing the formula of Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets to any reliable physician.

We showed it recently to a doctor of many years' experience.

The other day he wrote us a letter. Doctor-like he doesn't wish his name published, but says we may publish the letter. Here it is.

Messrs. B. N. Robinson & Co.,
Coaticook,

Gentlemen,—I have studied carefully the formula for Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, which you submitted to me, and I am free to admit that it is a rare combination to meet the various diseases to which women are subject, and shows that it has come from one who has mastered the art of healing the diseases peculiar to females.

—M.D.

The doctor speaks truly when he calls the remedy a "rare combination," for that is just what the tablets are.

They combine the very latest remedies for women known to medical science. There cannot be anything better until there are new discoveries in medicine.

If you have been taking the old remedies put on the market years ago, stop it. You can get something better, and the best is none too good for any sick or run-down woman.

In Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women, you will find all that medical science can devise to this date to make you a healthy woman, and you need nothing they do not contain.

They Make Healthy Women.

Expert Tea Blending

HAVE you ever tried to blend colors to match the shade of the red rose?

Pretty difficult, yet an expert can do it easily.

Why? Because he can tell by looking at the rose what colors are required to produce that tint or shade. He can make that precise color every day in the week.

Just as the artist in colors blends the tints of the red rose, so my artists in tea blend the "rich fruity flavor" of Red Rose Tea.

With expert knowledge and intuitive skill he selects the particular picking of rich, strong Indian tea and the precise grade of fragrant, delicate Ceylon, and by skilful blending produces the peerless flavor of Red Rose Tea—a tea which for delicacy and strength is matched by no brand of Ceylon alone.

Everybody Agrees

that COD LIVER OIL and IRON are beyond question the greatest medicines known. Then why does not everybody take Cod Liver Oil and Iron? Simply because most people cannot take the Oil and few can digest the Iron in any ordinary form. These difficulties have been entirely removed by the introduction of FERROL, in which the Iron is scientifically combined with the Oil, rendering the Oil palatable and the Iron digestible. What is manufactured from the best quality of Cod Liver Oil (the whole of the Oil) and is richer in oil than any other emulsion, and while it contains just the right quantity of the best form of Iron and Phosphorus, it is so scientifically prepared that not one person in a thousand finds any trouble in taking it, and infants digest it without difficulty. Moreover the well-established value of the Oil and Iron is immensely enhanced by the process of manufacture, and as the formula is freely exposed it is not to be wondered at that physicians everywhere have fully endorsed FERROL and used it largely in their practice. FERROL is invaluable for the treatment of any kind of Lung or Bronchial troubles, while for wasting diseases it has no equal, and ALIVE AFTER 20 DAYS.

Fourteen Miners Caught in French Explosion Are Rescued, Weak, But Unhurt — Thrilling Story.

Lens, France, March 31.—Fourteen of the 1,300 miners who were entombed in the coal mines at Courrieres twenty days ago, were taken from the mine alive and well yesterday. They had lived on hay found in one of the underground stables, and the morsels of food which they took into the mine with them nearly three weeks ago. All attempts to rescue the entombed men had been abandoned more than two weeks ago.

The sudden appearance of the imprisoned men caused stupefication. A gang of salvagers had just completed their night's work when they were startled to see a group of miners, terribly haggered and exhausted, appear from a remote part of pit No. 2.

The men were able to talk sensibly, though feebly. They all asked for news of relatives or friends, and wished to go to their homes immediately, but were taken to a hospital instead.

Others May Be Saved.

Large crowds besieged the mines latter in the hope of hearing of further escapes. It is said that others of the entombed miners are alive and about to be brought out, their signals having been heard.

One of the men rescued yesterday, a man named Nemy, who was the most lucid of the miners who escaped, graphically described their imprisonment as follows:

"After the explosion I groped my way about, stumbling over bodies and seeking refuge from the gases. I found some comrades sheltered in a remote niche. We ate earth and bark for eight days, and then these provisions gave out.

Bark, Hay and Horse.

"We continued to grope among the bodies seeking for an outlet from our prison, but were forced back time and time again. We found some hay, which we ate, and two days after we found a dead horse, which we cut up and ate with the hay and bark. We suffered most from want of water. Finally we became desperate and separated into three parties, and communicated with each other by shouts.

"Last night we felt a draft of fresh air, which finally guided us to an opening."

The doctors have forbidden the survivors to do any further talking. Vast crowds of people surround the hospital, where the escaped men are being treated.

LAND FOR THE SETTLER.

Time for the Railways to Make Their Selections.

Ottawa, March 31.—A belated assumption of the policy of "land for the settler" by the Conservatives in the House of Commons gave rise to a somewhat warm debate yesterday.

Dr. Roche of Marquette moved an academical resolution, which was followed by references, more or less indefinite, to the land dealings of the Saskatchewan Valley Land Co., and the delay of the Canadian Northern in selling their land grant.

The Government members, including Hon. Frank Oliver, returned the insinuations with interest, and recalled the lavish hand with which the late Conservative Government had given away vast tracts to railway promoters of the past.

The resolution, which demanded an early release of areas withheld from settlement, was eventually laid over.

Last evening some progress was made with the Indian estimates.

Servian Regicides to Retire.

Belgrade, Servia, March 30.—The leaders of the regicides will shortly be placed on the retired list, thus paving the way for a resumption of diplomatic relations with Great Britain. The most prominent will be debarred from wearing the army uniform. As a sop to the regicides some thirty of their most active opponents will also be retired.

Mutineers' Bodies Sunk in Sea.

Odessa, March 30.—Acting under the orders of Vice-Admiral Chouknin, commander of the Black Sea fleet, the bodies of Lieut. Schmidt and his three comrades who were shot March 19 for mutiny, were exhumed Wednesday night, taken to the open sea and sunk.

Attempted Suicide.

Stratford, March 30.—Mrs. Cook, Elizabeth street, yesterday attempted suicide by taking a dose of carbolic acid. The dose was a small one, however, and Dr. Robertson brought her around.

KIDNEY DISEASE AND ITS DANGERS

CAN BE

QUICKLY CURED

BY

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

Kidney disease comes on quietly, it may have been in the system for a long time before you suspected the real cause of your trouble. There may have been backaches, swelling of the feet and ankles, disturbances of the urinary organs, such as, brick dust deposit in urine, ugly colored, scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent urination, stone in bladder, etc.

Perhaps you did not know that these were symptoms of kidney disease, so the trouble kept growing worse, until Neuralgia, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Diabetes, Dropsy, and worst of all, Bright's Disease have taken hold of your system.

Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken at the first sign of anything wrong. There is no other safe way. (Plasters and liniments are useless), as the trouble must be eradicated from the system.

Doan's Kidney Pills go to the seat of the trouble, strengthen the kidneys, and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble. Mr. Thomas Mayhew, Smith's Falls, Ont., writes: "For over four months I was troubled with my kidneys, and my back got so lame I felt miserable all over. After taking five boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills I was as well as ever."

Price 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers or The Doan Kidney Pill Co., Toronto, Ont.

MRS. DIAMOND FREE.

Jury Says She Did Not Poison Her Daughter-in-Law.

Belleville, March 31.—The Diamond murder trial came to an end yesterday afternoon and the case was given to the jury at 4.10 o'clock.

It was attempted to be proven by the prosecution that William Henry, father of the poisoned woman, Mrs. Harry Diamond, had purchased 25 cents' worth of strychnine from a Madoc druggist. An entry in the poison book showed that a sale of that kind had been made to William Henry. William Henry, in rebuttal, swore that he had never purchased poison from anybody in his life and that the signature in the poison book was not his nor that of his son.

The address by Mr. Porter, for the defence, and Mr. Meredith, for the Crown, were very powerful efforts. The judge's charge was very impartial. The jury retired at 4.10 and came out again at 5.55. They found the prisoner not guilty. The judge then discharged the prisoner.

1903 SCALE ACCEPTABLE.

Individual Operators May Make Terms With the Miners.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 31.—The national convention of the united mine workers yesterday afternoon at 3.35 adopted a resolution offered by President Perry, of the Illinois miners, permitting the miners to sign the 1903 wage scale whenever it is offered by the operators. The joint conference of miners and operators of the southwest district adjourned yesterday afternoon without reaching an agreement.

500,000 Will Go Out.

The action of the convention will probably bring out of the mines of the country on April 1 some 500,000 miners from the anthracite and the bituminous fields.

Lactated Food

Identical in Effect to Mother's Milk

Sugar of Milk being the basis of Lactated Food, the effect of the food in young infants is identical with mother's milk. It can be used in all stomach troubles with mother's milk, when the latter is deficient, without the slightest disturbance.

Lactated Food has the very valuable quality of correcting irritability of the stomach and bowels, and overcoming constipation. It far surpasses all other foods in the most essential points. No mother should fail to use Lactated Food if unable to give her infant a full and regular supply of breast milk. All druggists sell Lactated Food.

RIOT ACT IN WINNIPEG.

In Spite of Bared Bayonets Cars Are Wrecks and Crews Assaulted—Loaded Rifles Disperse the Mobs.

Winnipeg, March 31.—The strike yesterday afternoon assumed such serious proportions that the Canadian Mounted Rifles were called out at 3 o'clock. The mob continued rioting after they appeared, boldly attacking under the very nose of the troops, a car, wrecking it, and almost killing the motorman, conductors and two private detectives.

The mayor read the Riot Act twice, and the soldiers were ordered to load and prepare to fire. This was enough for the mob, and they cleared for the time being. They soon returned to the attack and the regulars and police were forced to clear the streets.

Innumerable arrests were made by the police, in every case resistance being shown. The mobs at times grew so bold that it pressed right against the bayonets of the soldiers, calling down imprecations upon them in their very faces.

Attacked the Mayor.

One of the most stirring incidents of the afternoon was when a private detective of the railway company, who was in charge of a car, lost his head and actually attacked Mayor Sharpe. The mayor went to the man in charge to give him some orders. He would not listen and swore at him and then struck him with his baton. He leaped on his car, which started back downtown. The city solicitor ran along and leaped on the step to protest, but he clubbed him off.

The car returned in a few minutes, when the mayor ordered his arrest, and, amid the echoing cheers of the multitude, the police seized him and he was hurried off to the station.

Troops Under Arms.

The Chicago detectives are especially brutal, and if they continue clubbing the spectators as they have been doing the mayor says he will have them all arrested. Cars were withdrawn at 7 o'clock, when the troops were recalled.

Last night the Mounted Rifles, the 90th Regiment and the Field Battery with loaded Maxims, were sleeping under arms at the Drill Hall, ready to be called out if there is any disturbance.

If there is rioting again to-day the city will be placed under martial law.

A National Misfortune.

London, March 31.—(C. A. P.)—"It is nothing short of a national misfortune that we don't take steps immediately to secure an increased preference in favor of this country by altering our fiscal system," said Viscount Ridley in moving in the House of Lords for a return showing the imports of merchandise into Canada from the United Kingdom, the United States and Germany, respectively, distinguishing "dutiable" and free goods—from 1899 to 1904.

CUT AND LACERATED.

Man and Woman Drawn Into the Revolving Shafting.

A short distance away Mrs. Ellsworth Ramsay, who was standing in her husband's shingle mill, was caught in some shafting and carried on a circular saw, which cut her right arm off at the wrist and lacerated her left arm till it hung in pieces. She was also internally injured.

The doctors have no hopes of saving the lives of either of the victims.

IN FASHION'S REALM; OF INTEREST TO LADIES

LINGERIE FROCKS.

DAINTY MODELS FOR MY LADY'S SUMMER WARDROBE.

Robe Patterns of Handkerchief Linen In Delicate Shades—A Distinct Economy For Amateur Dressmakers as They Come Ready to Put Together.

The coming season promises to go down in fashion's annals as one of lingerie gowns and robes. Handkerchief linen is the material that will be used on most of these creations.

The lingerie gown, whether it be a robe pattern or not, to be good form must not have its purity of outline blurred by outstanding bows, frills or berthas. It may be as rich as one's purse can afford as far as appliques, insertion and exquisite hand work are concerned, but the outline must be well defined so that the silhouette of the wearer will be clear cut and graceful.

Robe patterns of course need very little making, being trimmed, hemmed and ready to put together, and for this reason some women consider them a distinct economy. The robes come in voiling and in crepe de chine of the summery variety, as well as in lawns. These robe patterns are very easily made up by the amateur dressmaker. They have exactly shaped skirts, flounced and banded with embroideries, and require only a little deft fitting with tucks about the waist line and a band to give them quite the air of the best Paris lingerie frock. Even the bodices to these afford little more labor, for they are embroidered and appliqued in such a fashion that a little tack here and there will adapt them to any figure. White and all the light tints—lavender, pinks, blues and greens—are favored in these embroidered robes.

The gowns seen in the illustration are both charming examples of the lingerie frock at its best. The princess model is carried out in pale blue handkerchief linen—that is, the deep tucked flounce and short puffed sleeves are of this fabric inset with insertions of cream valenciennes lace. The rest of the gown consists of alternate bands of tucked linen and lace insertion matched by fitted to the figure. English embroidery makes the yoke and high collar. The second model is a delightful affair of white linen elaborately trimmed with Irish crochet lace and eyelet embroidery. AMY VARNUM.

Fashion Brevities.

Buckles are greatly in vogue and in all sizes. The very large belt buckles are much worn—they seem to decrease the size of the waist by contrast and the waist, this season, is fashionably small.

In regard to headgear color must always be chosen with due regard to the complexion, hair and eyes of the intended wearer and the clothes likely to be worn with it.

Velvet that has become crushed may be restored by placing the linen side over a basin of hot water.

Buttons are much used as a decorative medium. Many are put on in the form of a design.

Fatal Delay.

Mrs. Customer—That lamb you sent me, Mr. Stintwaite, was the largest and toughest mutton I ever saw.

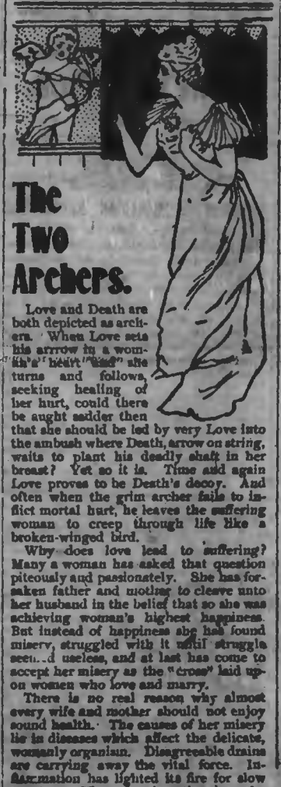
Mr. Stintwaite—Tut, tut! It's that boy been loitering again. I assure you, ma'am, when that joint left the shop it was the sweetest little leg o' lamb you could set your eyes on! And I gave him strict orders to deliver it at once because you wanted it young.

To Clean Brass.

Clean brass with powdered bath brick and a damp flannel, and afterward polish with dry brick dust and a leather. This is the cheapest brass polish and quite effectual.

To Clean Bronzes.

Clean bronzes with sweet oil and then polish with chamois.



The Two Archers.

Love and Death are both depicted as archers. When Love sets his arrow in a woman's heart "kind" she turns and follows, seeking healing of her hurt, could there be aught sadder then that she should be led by very Love into the ambush where Death, arrow on string, waits to plant his deadly shaft in her breast? Yet so it is. Time and again Love proves to be Death's decoy. And often when the grim archer fails to inflict mortal hurt, he leaves the suffering woman to creep through life like a broken-winged bird.

Why does love lead to suffering? Many a woman has asked that question piteously and passionately. She has forsaken father and mother to cleave unto her husband in the belief that so she was achieving woman's highest happiness. But instead of happiness she has found misery, struggled with it until struggle seemed useless, and at last has come to accept her misery as the "cross" laid upon women who love and marry.

There is no real reason why almost every wife and mother should not enjoy sound health. The causes of her misery lie in diseases which affect the delicate, womanly organism. Disagreeable drains are carrying away the vital force. Inflammation has lighted its fire for slow torment. Ulceration is eating into the tender tissues. Female weakness is making life a daily martyrdom. Is it any wonder that the nerves are racked, that appetite fails, and night, which should bring rest, brings only restless and troubled dreams?

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which undermine the general health. It dries the drains, puts out the fire of inflammation, heals the ulcerated tissues and cures female weakness. In a word, it makes weak women strong and sick women well.

"Favorite Prescription" is a true temperance medicine. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, or other narcotic.

Sick and ailing women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free of charge. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. In a little more than thirty years Dr. Pierce, assisted by his staff of nearly a score of physicians, has treated and cured over half a million women. Write, without fear or fee, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

"It is with feelings of sincere gratitude that I again write to you," says Mrs. Harry A. Brown, of Orono, Penobscot County, Maine. "I wrote to you concerning my health last Spring (I think it was in June), and you advised me to take your Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery, which I did according to directions, and continued taking them for five months. I took nine bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' six of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. My disease was displacement and ulceration of the uterus, and I was in a terrible condition with pain and weakness, and had given up all hopes of ever being well again. Had doctored with four different doctors within four months, and instead of getting better was growing weaker all the time. I decided to try your medicines, as I had heard of the many cures resulting from their use. I bought five bottles and felt so much better after using them that I kept on until I am as well as ever in my life, and to Dr. Pierce all the praise is due.

"Before I began taking your medicine I only weighed 130 pounds. I now weigh 160 pounds. I gained forty pounds in six months. I shall doctor no more with doctors, as it is only a waste of money. My mother tried my remedies, and I shall write to Dr. Pierce every time. I am now in perfect health, thanks to Dr. Pierce."

CAP AND GOWN.

The Dainty Lace Nightcap Is Fashion's Latest Decree.

It sounds a little strange, but it is nevertheless a fact, that every day that passes the nightcap finds stronger votaries among the leaders of fashion. Indeed, more than once recently the item "a nightcap of antique lace" has figured among a list of wedding presents to a society bride. Nor is this whim entirely without reason. In the first place, there are occasions when, invalided, our dearest friends are admitted to our presence in bed, and it is not only troublesome, but incongruous, for a person who is supposed to be too ill to take any interest in such matters, to possess a well dressed head. But what an alternative the loosely knotted hair presents, even though it be carefully brushed!

Now, a nightcap not only conceals any shortcomings of the coiffure, but will also, on ordinary occasions, serve to disguise the presence of the harmless necessary curling pin, besides keeping in place throughout the night those elaborate waves the hairdressers' art makes possible.

The dainty little cap in our sketch was fashioned of the finest of muslin, edged with goffered frills of the fabric mingled with lace. The bunches of baby ribbon over either ear give a quaintness to this little headdress which could be imparted in no other way, not to mention the note of color they furnished, for the blue of the ribbon matched the wearer's eyes.

The nightgown worn with this cap was beautiful indeed. Beautiful in outline and fairylike in texture, it was fashioned with a deep square yoke of old English embroidery well cut away at the neck. At the back this yoke was of equal depth, and there, as in front, the skirt was so treated with tucks alternating with strips of insertion that it fitted the yoke exactly.

The sleeves were exceptionally short and were cut in one piece, a drawstring about four inches above the hem giving the appearance of a separate frill, the edge of which was trimmed with maltese lace.

A "Belt Helper" For an Invalid.

Most people have seen the convenient arrangements in hospitals by which helpless patients can move in bed without having to call for the nurse. In one's own house such contrivances are not possible, but willing fingers can make quite a good substitute for the floor home invalid. A length of rope is required sufficiently long for the patient to catch hold of its center with ease. The rope has a strong loop at either end, which slips over the knobs of the bedposts. Rope is not the softest thing for delicate fingers to grasp, so the place where the invalid will take hold has about half a yard of the rope covered first with wadding and then with soft knitting. A long piece of garter stitch knitting suffices for this, and when completed it is folded round the wadded rope and joined along the two edges.

This simple plan is a comfort to the patient and by enabling him or her to move from the one position creates a feeling of independence and the happy inner conviction, "I'm sure I'm getting stronger."

Something For Travelers.

Travelers may find this cabin bag of use on shipboard, where room is at a premium.

The most useful size is 32 by 27 inches, with an extra two inch border all round. The bag can be made in any of the pretty art linens and supplied with three hangers along the top. The pockets hold all sorts of small trifles—boots, brushes, nightdress and all toilet paraphernalia. They should either be run with an elastic along the tops or else made to button with a flap, as otherwise the motion of the vessel will scatter the contents broadcast.

House Drainage.

House drainage is a most imperfectly understood subject. So long as the water runs away that seems to be about the only matter with which the householder is concerned. Old drains should as far as possible be sluiced with disinfecting solutions at least once a week in cold weather and every day in hot weather or at any season of the year if there is any epidemic disease in the vicinity.

HOW TO TREAT SERVANTS.

Put Yourself In Their Place and Look at Life From Their Viewpoint.

The reason many women have difficulty in keeping servants is because they have acquired the habit of looking upon maids as a separate and distinct species of human beings, who could not be expected to respond to considerations which govern the life of their mistresses and who are almost, if not quite, incapable of feeling. "Only begin to show you are interested in your servants, and you simply can't keep them in their place," you hear women say. That may be, but, after all, is it not a thousand times better to win the love and respect of your dependents rather than keep them at arm's length by assuming a spurious sort of superiority? Try for a moment to put yourself in their place and look at life from their point of view. This is absolutely essential if you wish to understand the life of a servant and how different it may be under a mistress who really tries to treat her maids as fellow creatures. Here is a series of rules to practice which will do much to keep servants happy and contented:

Pay Wages Regularly.

Always pay your servants as much money as you can afford as a compensation for the services they render you and always pay them regularly. So far as you can without offending, take an interest in the way they use their wages and help them to be economical.

Always state your orders pleasantly, briefly and clearly. Maids, as a rule, are not mind readers; neither are they responsible for a mistress' poor memory.

Have the kitchen and the servants' room or rooms clean and cosy. Pictures are not necessary, but comfortable beds, chairs and sunshine are.

Do not take a superior tone in speaking to servants. It makes them either servile or resentful, while the qualities you should seek to cultivate in them are self respect, honesty and affection.

Never permit children to be disrespectful to a maid. This rule is as necessary for the proper bringing up of the children as for the comfort of the maid.

Remember that she needs rest and fresh air and sunshine, that social relationships are as essential to her as to you, that her life is brighter and her work better for her afternoons and evenings off, that sorrow depresses her and pain hurts her even as they do you and yours.

The Training of a Servant.

A servant should be taught to wait at table quietly and rapidly, and perhaps these are the most difficult points to master. It may take months of training before they are done satisfactorily. Some girls, however, being so much quicker than others, soon learn to wait at table, so that one is only aware of their presence by the removal of a plate or dish.

Glazed Apples With Ginger.

Core and pare half a dozen apples. Make a syrup with a cup of sugar and a cup of water. Cook the apples in the syrup, putting them in as fast as they are made ready, until tender. Turn the apples during cooking and do not cover the dish, as the steam would cause them to break in pieces. Have ready rounds of stale sponge cake or brioche. When the apples are cooked take them up on to the cake, sprinkle apples and cake generously with granulated sugar from the dredger and set them into the oven to glaze. In the meantime add half a cup of syrup from the ginger jar to the apple syrup and let boil up once. When the apples are glazed and delicately colored pour the syrup on to a serving dish, set the apples into the syrup and fill the open spaces with pieces of "stem" ginger. Serve hot with cream.—Boston Cooking School Magazine.

"BROWNING'S EPISTLE."

Analysed By Mr. B. Earle.

An Epistle, Containing the Strange Medical Experience of Karshish, an Arabian Physician.

The real subject of the poem is the raising of Lazarus from the dead, or, rather, the results of that act.

Karshish, an Arabian physician, travelling in Palestine, is writing to his friend and former instructor, Abib, giving an account of his travels, and, at the same time, mentioning whatever may be of interest, relating to their common profession. At his last writing, he was at Jericho, and now, at his twenty-second writing, he is at Bethany, within a short distance of Jerusalem. The first part of the letter, especially, is a model of the free, epistolary style suitable to intimate friends.

The narrative is so skilfully managed that, though he speaks of the merest trifles, we never lose interest, feeling sure that there is something kept back which is the real object of his writing.

At last we reach what he has been all along aiming at—a case of real interest. He is quite competent to diagnose the trouble, and, no doubt acquainted with the usual method of treatment.

"'Tis not a case of mania; subinduced
By epilepsy, at the turning-point
Of trance prolonged unduly some three days";

The subject is one Lazarus, a Jew, who lives

"That he was dead and then restored to life
By a Nazarene physician of his tribe."

You will say that such cases are met with daily; but this case presents some unusual features in its results. The disease yielded so suddenly to the treatment of the Nazarene that the mind was left a perfect blank so that the first thought that entered was able to fix itself indelibly on the new-established soul. Hence comes his strange conviction that he has been dead. Besides in the cases you refer to there are always found traces of the disease, while, in this case, the body is in perfect condition:—

"Sanguine, proportioned, fifty years of age,
The body's habit wholly laudable,
As much, indeed, beyond the common health
As he were made and put aside to show."

But, while the body is thus perfect, he is a mere child in all worldly affairs, and, though no fool, has no sense of the relative importance of things. He has knowledge, "increased beyond the fleshly faculty", but is like a beggar who has become suddenly rich and is unable to adapt himself to his changed condition. Matters of the greatest moment, he treats as of no consequence, while, in some "trifling fact", he sees prodigious import", and is constantly surprised that we do not see things as he does. The law of the life to which he has for a time belonged is to him the law of the earthly life. His heart and brain move there; his feet stay here.

At times it appears as if he were about to assert his real self, but something admonishes him that for the present his place is here, and he sinks back to his work.

Studiously the humor for that pride,
Professedly the fashion that he knows
God's secret, while he holds the thread of life."

"The special marking of the man
In prone submission to the Heavenly will,
Seeing it, what it is, and why it is."

He says he will wait patiently for death which must restore his being. He is content to live so long as God please, and just how God pleases. He does not attempt to preach his doctrine or to make proselytes, knowing that he cannot impart the grounds of his own convictions:—

"Call his great truth a lie, why, still the old
'Be it as God pleases' re-assureth him"

To the charge of "stolid carelessness" he replied with a look only.

You will say, "The man is apathetic." On the contrary, he loves both old and young, able and weak, affects the very brutes and birds," and even the flowers of the field.

The man is as harmless as a lamb, and shews impatience only at "ignorance and carelessness, and sin"—

"An indignation which is promptly quelled."

You will ask why I have not found out and consulted the Nazarene. I grieve to say that he met the fate common to those wiser than their fellows, and

"Perished in a tumult many years ago," being accused of "wizardry, rebellion" and "to the setting up rule and creed
Of visionary new and dangerous."

His death, which happened at the time of the earthquake, "was wrought by the mad people", because, as I conjecture, he could not stop the earthquake. The other charges against him must be lies.

There is one charge, however, which I am loth to mention; but, in describing a case to a leech, it is well to keep back nothing.

"This man so cured regards the curer, then,
As—God forgive me! Who, but God Himself,
Creator and sustainer of the world,
That came and dwelt in flesh on it awhile!
—Saveth that such an one was born and lived,
Taught, healed the sick, broke bread at his own house,
Then died."

But why waste of these trivial matters when things of price call for remark?

"I noticed on the margin of a pool
Blue-flowering borage, the Aleppo sort,
Aboundeth, very nitrous. It is strange."

I ask the pardon for this long, tedious relation. Nor do I see in it any good cause for the interest excited in my own mind.

"The very God! think Abib, dost thou think?
So, the All-great were the All-loving too—
So, through the thunder comes a human voice
Saying O heart I made, a heart beats here!
Face, my hands fashioned, see it in myself!
Thou hast no power nor may'st conceive of mine:
But love I gave thee, with myself to love,
And thou must love me who have died for thee!"

The madman saveth he said so. It is strange."

NOTES.

1.—Lines 1 and 7, Karshish to Abib.

2.—Line 23. Vespasian had set out to besiege Jerusalem, but, being chosen emperor, the conduct of the war was entrusted to his son, Titus.

3.—Lines 26-28. Note the odd way in which he describes the nearness of Bethany to Jerusalem.

4.—Lines 51 and 52. He had helped the Syrian's eye, and received his pay in services.

5.—Line 69. Note the peculiar, though perfectly natural, way in which Lazarus is introduced.

6.—Line 117. Karshish describes the conduct of Lazarus and its causes as they appeared to him. Lazarus sees everything in the light of the next world.

7.—This poem is one of Browning's most remarkable psychological studies. It may be said to polarize the idea that doubt is a condition of the vitality of faith.

8.—Lazarus had seen things as they are. This show of things, so far as he is concerned, is done with. He now leads the actual life. He lives really in the world to come.

9.—The attitude of Lazarus under his altered conditions affords an answer to those who demand that an All-Wise Being should not leave men to struggle in a region of phenomena, but exhibit the actual to us in the present life. Under such conditions our probation would be impossible."

10.—Lazarus is not a man, but a sign; he stands among men as a patient witness of the overwhelming reality of the Divine—a witness whose authority is confessed, even against his inclination, by the student of nature who turns again and again to the phenomena which he affects to discourage.

11.—The professional attitude of Karshish is drawn with marvellous fidelity. A paper in the Lancet on such a case would be precisely on the same lines to-day.....though there would be an entire absence of any trifling with the idea that "the All-great were the All-loving too". This is emotional, and modern science has nothing but contempt for that.

12.—Lines 253-5. Karshish thinks the earthquake prefigured the death of the sage.

"Who dwelt there in the pyramid alone,"

13.—So, through the thunder comes a human voice."

A revelation can come to us only through our own souls, or through a being like ourselves.

SUCCESSFULLY OPENED.

First Session of First Legislature of Saskatchewan Begins.

Regina, Sask., March 30.—The formal opening of the first session of the Legislature of the Province of Saskatchewan was a successful event yesterday. The attendance was quite in keeping with the importance of the occasion.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Forget, in the speech from the throne, after reference to the establishment of the province noted the approaching visit of H. R. H. Prince Arthur of Connaught, advantage of which would be taken to convey, through him, to His

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR FORGET.

Majesty the King, "the assurance of our sincere feeling of loyalty and continued attachment to his crown, together with our grateful appreciation and warm thanks for the kind message sent to us on inauguration day, in which his Majesty expressed an earnest hope for our prosperous future."

26,000,000 Bushels of Wheat.

The inaugural year of the province had proved to be most auspicious in so far as the reward given to the labors of the agriculturists was concerned. The results of the first harvest had only just been accurately determined, and indicated that within the boundaries of the province 26,000,000 bushels of wheat had actually passed through the threshing machine during the past season. In 1904-5 over the area comprising the Provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan only 16,000,000 bushels of wheat were threshed.

Every effort would be exerted by the Government to suggest in some cases and in others provide means for co-operative and educational work, such as from time to time might be deemed of advantage, with a view to giving the dairy industry such an impetus as shall ensure its perpetuation and progression upon the most satisfactory basis. Railway extension would aid in settlement work.

To Revise the Laws.

As under the terms of the Saskatchewan Act the laws in force at the date of the establishment of the province are not affected by the constitutional change which has taken place, so long as these laws continue to give satisfaction, it was the intention of the Government to leave them, only asking for their amendment or appeal, as circumstances may demand. For general convenience, however, it was deemed advisable to have all the laws now in force revised and consolidated at an early date, and a bill with that object in view would be presented. As a consequence of the establishment of the province, it has become necessary to ask your approval of measures pertaining to the Lieutenant-Governor, the executive council, the Legislative Assembly and the several departments of the public service.

In view of the numerous applications to be made for the grant of railway charters, the question had been engaging attention, and a bill dealing with the subject would be submitted.

Kostroma, European Russia, Selects Its Representatives to Congress.

St. Petersburg, March 29.—The Province of Kostroma, European Russia, is the first to have completed its elections to the Provincial Congress. Forty-six peasants, nineteen noblemen, eighteen merchants, six professional men and three priests were returned. The results show that the "small landowners" who in reality are only peasants of the more prosperous class holding their property in severalty, stood together against the big landlords and chose exclusively peasants. The peasants electors are not classified and have but one plank in their platform, namely, the distribution of the land. The others are divided.

"I have suffered with kidney and liver trouble and chronic constipation for some time. I was subject to dizziness, bilious headache, nervousness drowsiness, pains in the back and side, and a tired, weary feeling nearly the time. I tried almost every remedy, was treated by doctors and druggists with little or no benefit.

YORK LOAN INVESTIGATION.

Witness George R. Burt Has Again to Be Warned Against Perjury.

Toronto, March 30.—The Phillips' investigation in the Police Court yesterday morning was centered chiefly on what knowledge George R. Burt had of the finances of the Lisst Piano Co.

The new Montreal Bank book, the existence of which the Crown Attorney had forced Mr. Burt to admit before he collapsed last Friday, showed payments of four large cheques for $2,500, $3,000, $5,000 and $1,800.

Although stoutly sticking to his previous statements that the account was his own, the witness could not tell what the cheques were for, who drew them, to whom they were paid, nor when. To question after question along these lines he answered, "I don't know," "I can't remember," "Miss Hudson attended to it."

At one point Mr. Curry warned him of the penalty for perjury, and repeatedly stated that he refused to believe his statements.

Witness also admitted having $800 stock in the Lee grocery, though in previous examinations he denied this.

He also admitted never making any entries in the Lisst Piano Co.'s books, nor ever having them in his possession.

Safe in Phillips' Hands.

A startling statement was made by R. H. Sanderson that Mr. Phillips at one time told him he was retaining in his own hands the collections made for the Lisst pianos, "for they are safer in my hands than in anyone else's."

A flat contradiction was also given to Mr. Burt's statement that there was no arrangement between himself and the York Loan. Instead of that, said the witness, Burt was paid from $125 to $150 for each piano, and this was decided on at a conference between Phillips, Burt and himself.

His Name Only in It.

G. R. Burt was again in the witness box in the afternoon.

Crown Attorney Curry—"You had no other interest in the Lisst Piano Co. but the fact that your name was used? Is that the truth?"

A. "Yes."

R. H. Sanderson, testifying concerning the affiliated printing business, stated that Myers & Case bought the supplies, as he supposed, under the authority of Phillips. There had been no resolution of the board of directors, though he as a director was aware of the purchases. Sanderson had suggested a stock company and Phillips had explained that the printing business could not be run according to the charter, hence it was necessary to run it in somebody else's name.

WAS NOT AN ACCIDENT.

Verdict That Allan Parks' Death Was Not Due to Natural Causes.

Flesherton, March 30.—Persistent rumors are rife of foul play in connection with the death of Allan Parks, who was burned to death in his home Tuesday night. He was known to have considerable money with him, but very little was found with the remains. His gold watch and two chains were gone, and his skull was badly crushed.

At the coroner's inquest, yesterday, it was brought out that he had quarrelled with an Italian laborer at Proton. The latter had been hired by him.

The verdict brought in stated, "That the deceased had come to his death by fire, but with the conclusion that it was not by natural or accidental causes."

A request will be made for a provincial detective.

She now eats well, sleeps well and is growing fat. The Tablets have been a blessing to both myself and the child." So says all mothers who have used this medicine. MRS. DIAMOND'S TRIAL.

Woman Witness Related Suspicious Happening After Wife's Funeral

Belleville, March 30.—The Diamond murder trial yesterday furnished plenty of excitement. The last Crown witness called proved a bombshell to the prosecution.

E. Gilas Porter, K. C., yesterday, first moved that the indictment be quashed on a technicality, but the judge over-ruled the objection.

Harry Diamond's evidence at the preliminary investigation was read. Other witnesses gave testimony as at previous hearings.

Mrs. Margaret Reed was the sensational witness. She swore that she went to the Diamond residence the day of young Mrs. Diamond's funeral, and after the funeral she saw Harry Diamond take a package off the sideboard and burn it in the stove. The package would weigh about a pound. Ben Sager and Will Delyea were present at the time. She asked them what was in the package, and they stammered and finally said it was borax. This evidence came out in cross-examination.

Mr. Meredith gave the witness a merciless re-examination, but she stuck to her story and said that though this incident happened in February she had told no one of it until the next fall, when she told her husband. She admitted that before Magistrate Wood she had said nothing about this package, but because no one had asked her, nor had she told Detective Murray.

Court adjourned until Friday morning. Mr. Porter said he had known nothing about the suspicious package incident until some one had passed a note to him while Mrs. Reed was giving her evidence to Mr. Meredith.

Frank Gardiner Had Serious Loss

His Residence at Mount Pleasant Destroyed by Fire.

Special for The Examiner.

Mount Pleasant, March 26. — The residence, and its contents, of Mr. Frank Gardiner were destroyed by fire a few days ago. As all the family were absent at the time the fire originated, very little was saved. Mr. Gardiner was just on the eve of moving over to the adjoining farm, which he had recently purchased, and the loss came at an inopportune time. We understand there was an insurance, but it will not cover the loss. The fire began from the chimney.

The coming season will possibly see a football team in our town.

Talk of railway surveys near our village revives the old hope of connection by rail with the world around us. Property has not increased, however.

The passage of the Cavan drainage by-law, and legalising of the same is a near future reality. The name of Reeve McNeil should be engraved on our township's coat-of-arms. Charlie is a settler and again a winner! Now for the contrast and the hum of industry.

Some of our villagers have contracted the Northwest fever and may farewell soon.

Mr. Wm. Langton has taken a residence on King street, in the place lately occupied by Mr. Clubb.

The former residence of Mr. Hugh Mahaffey has become the abode of Mr. Wm. Brown, farmer.

Dr. Tilley made an official visit to our school a few days ago.

The late snow and frost have made it possible to get out a great amount of wood and saw-logs.

Our cheese and butter company are making preparations for the coming season, which promises to be a prosperous one. The services of Mr. Geo. Lane, as cheesemaker, have again been secured.

Heart, Throat, Liver and Skin

DR. AGNEW'S FOUR FAMOUS SPECIFICS CURE COMPLETELY THE WORST DISEASES OF THESE PARTS—DREADFUL HEART DISEASE RELIEVED IN THIRTY MINUTES.

Heart disease will affect people differently, but in all cases it must be viewed with great alarm. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the one remedy that can be safely depended upon in times of trouble. It will give relief in thirty minutes.

Mr. Thomas Petry, of Aylmer, Que., was troubled with severe heart complaint for five years, the pain, at times, being so severe that he could not attend to business. Every other remedy failed until he tried Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart, which gave immediate relief, and his words are these: "I have now taken four bottles of the remedy and am entirely free from every symptom of heart disease."

A cold in the head need not be trifled with, for it is catarrh in an incipient condition, and catarrh is not to be trifled with. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, as scores of clergymen, members of parliament, and prominent citizens in the Dominion have borne testimony, drives away a cold in the head like magic, and where this has assumed the shape of aggravated catarrh, producing deafness and throat trouble, it effects a permanent cure.

It is not always safe to take pills for liver trouble. They not unfrequently create other troubles that are serious. Dr. Agnew's Liver Pills, whilst thoroughly certain of removing all liver trouble, give no difficulty either at the time or afterwards. They are pleasant to take and cost only 10 cents.

The faculty that Dr. Agnew has displayed in getting at the seat of trouble is manifest in his Ointment, as in the other three remedies. This contains the elements that give speedy and permanent relief in all skin diseases and is peculiarly effective in curing piles. 35 cents. 12

Serious Heart Trouble

"Fruit-a-tives" cured her when Doctors failed.

Hundreds of people suffer with Irritated Heart. Pain comes over the heart, especially after eating. Palpitation or fluttering—headaches—belching gas—indigestion and constipation follow. And the sufferer takes heart tonics and sees heart specialists, and steadily grows worse.

The heart is irritated by the stomach. The nerves of the heart and stomach are identical. When the stomach is distended by gas—when food sours or is not properly digested—the stomach nerves are irritated and this soreness extends to the heart. That causes pain which makes so many people think they have serious heart disease.

"Heart disease and Dyspepsia cured by Fruit-a-tives."

OTTAWA, July 14th, 1905.

To Fruit-a-tives Limited,

Gentlemen:—

I never gave a testimonial to any medicine before but I like "Fruit-a-tives" so much I will gladly do so. I had every symptom of heart disease. I had a very nasty pain over my heart, I tried purgatives and demulcent cordial physicians but nothing did me any good. After taking "Fruit-a-tives" I am entirely well again. My digestion was very bad and I suffered from long standing constipation and now I am quite well from these complaints. I wish to say also that my complexion was very bad, sallow and muddy in the extreme, but now after taking "Fruit-a-tives" it is as fresh as ever. To any one suffering from constipation and bad digestion or liver complaint and to any one with a bad complexion, I can recommend "Fruit-a-tives" with every confidence.

(Signed)

MRS. A. SUTHERLAND.

"Fruit-a-tives" CURE IRRITATED HEART because they cure stomach, bowels, kidneys and skin. "Fruit-a-tives" set the gastric juices flowing—clean and sweeten the stomach—insure the perfect digestion of every meal. They make the liver give up more bile, move the bowels regularly every day, and strengthen and heal the kidneys, as well as act directly on the skin.

SECOND COMING OF CHRIST IS NEAR

This is the Opinion of Pastor of Bethany Tabernacle —His Reasons for Reaching This Conclusion— Signs All Point To Its Approach.

The most important event in the history of the world yet to occur is the Second Advent of Christ. It bears the same relation to the Christian as the first coming of Christ did to the people of Israel. It is the great hope of the church, the pole-star of faith and the culmination of future redemption. If Christianity seems a comparative failure now, it will prove a tremendous success. The lamb will become the lion and triumph gloriously.

But before entering upon the subject proper, allow me to state that I do not believe in fixing on even suggesting dates for our Lord's coming. My reasons are threefold. First, those who have fixed dates heretofore have only disgraced themselves by their sorry failures, and brought the whole subject of our Lord's coming into disrepute. Secondly, our Lord, who knew Daniel better than even the wisest of our day, stated in the plainest terms that, "of that day and hour knoweth no one, not even the angels of heaven, neither the Son, but only the Father," Matt. xxiv., 36; and, finally, if the exact time of our Lord's coming were known it would no longer have a practical bearing on the believer, and the command to watch would be devoid of meaning. But while our Lord did not give us the exact time of His coming, He did in answer to the question of the disciples, "What shall be the sign of Thy coming?" give a general description of the course of this age, and the characteristics which would prevail towards its close. See Matt. xxiv. Certain characteristics of the times and the accompanying events would serve as signs of His speedy coming, and when these things would come to pass they were to "look up, and lift up your heads, because your redemption draweth nigh." Luke xxi., 8.

Bringing together, then, all that was foretold by old time prophets, and by Jesus and Paul, we find the following signs of the approaching end of the age, and the speedy coming of our Lord.

1. The celestial and terrestrial signs. In Genesis I. we read that the constellations were appointed for signs. They serve to mark the cycles of time and the epochs of history. The whole history of redemption is, no doubt, written in the stars, and each change in the great drama is announced by those heavenly luminaries. When Jesus was born, a star appeared in the heavens; when He died the sun was shrouded in darkness, and at His coming again sun, moon and stars will signal the event; Matt. xxiv, 29; Rev. vi., 12-13. Mr. Dimsdoby, the leading British astronomer, claims that the astronomical cycles are running out in rapid succession and are all converging upon a certain point of time which will mark a most important epoch in history. The starry showers, beginning in 1833, and occurring every 33 years, are said to be of recent origin, and may be but the forerunners of some signal event. I will only ask, is it not possible that God in love is trying to speak to the wandering sons of Adam even by the heavenly signs, and warn them of coming judgment? Then, there are terrestrial signs. About these we can speak more definitely. Christ said, "there should be famines and earthquakes in divers places" Matt. xxiv., 7; Rev. vi., 14-17. Earthquakes have always taken place, but during the last half century there has not only been at tremendous increase, but they have been occurring in the most unusual places. It is said that there are recorded only four destructive earthquakes before the Christian era, and only 166 during the first 18 centuries, while the last century has witnessed no less than 100. And even during the last century the increase has been most signal. In California, where the records have been carefully kept, there were no important earthquakes during the first half of the century, while the last half witnessed nearly 1,800 shocks. Both secular and sacred history show that the quaking of the earth is a signal of great moral, social and political revolutions. When God came down upon Sinai "the mountain quaked greatly," and when Jesus died the earth quaked and the rocks were rent, so as He is coming draws near we may expect numerous and great earthquakes to occur as signs of His approach. As the earth is ripening for judgment, judgment is preparing for the earth. It was the wickedness of St. Pierre that called for the fiery judgment from Mount Pelee. God is not only hanging out His signals from the sky, but is speaking to us in the thundering tones of the earthquake. It requires all this and more to wake up a sleeping church and a Godless world.

2. Moral signs. Writing of the time of the end, Daniel says, "the wicked shall do wickedly," while Paul declares that "evil men shall wax worse and worse." Utter moral depravity and chaos prevail everywhere. Paul states further that in the last days men "shall be lovers of self," II. Timothy, iii., 1-5. Was there ever a time when human selfishness held supreme sway as to-day? Is not self the great god of the age? In the social, commercial, political, and even in the religious world there is a constant struggle for exaltation of self. President Harper well said that too many men were self-made and were worshipping their creator. The essence of true Christianity is self-sacrifice, but it is sadly wanting in this age of man worship. Then men would be "lovers of money." Can we find a clearer sign of the times than this? Has there ever been a time when there was such a struggle for the accumulation of wealth as to-day? Will not men sacrifice time, strength, talent, religion, friends—everything—for the sake of accumulating a fortune? Then, too, they should be "without self-control." Here, too, we do not have to look far for evidence. When a man becomes self-centred, and rejects the authority of God over the province of his being, he necessarily loses self-control and gives reins to passion and appetite. Look at the plague of narcotics. Tobacco has been introduced in comparatively recent times, and yet see how it has enslaved the race. Nearly one billion dollars are expended in the United States alone for this vile weed. Then follows the drink traffic. It is only 75 years since beer was first introduced into New York City, and yet see how quickly it has enslaved its millions, and sent millions more into premature graves. Men say they can take it or leave it alone, but they usually take it, and the reason is as Paul says, they have lost self-control. This pernicious poison weakens the will till its victim falls an easy prey to every form of disease and vice. The introduction of opium into China has transformed multitudes into demons. Following these vices are secret sins and the brothel, the last stage of self-centred life. Every nation under the sun is to-day enslaved by some pernicious poison. The whole world is half drunk and stupid, and bound by these awful poisons, which foreboded the coming of an awful judgment. Then, too, Paul states that men would be "lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God." Can anyone deny this of our own times? Has there ever been a time when there was so much sacrificing to this mean god? See how many will spend all their spare time, money and strength in the common round of carnal pleasure. Much money and rapid transit has made the whole world accessible to pleasure-seekers. And, in turn, every enjoyment and luxury the world has to offer is brought to our very doors. The Lord's day, as well as holidays, is too often devoted to cycling, excursions and other popular amusements. The hustle and bustle and noise on a Lord's Day morning in France would remind one of a Fourth of July celebration. There is little time given to serious thinking. People want to be entertained or amused, so they resort to the novel and the theatre and the popular games of the day. "Lovers of pleasure," said Paul, and we surely have them.

3. Social signs. Social corruption is characteristic of these times. Social impurity is the crowning sin of the age. Men do not sin alone, but invariably drag others down with them. Paul states further, with reference to the last days, that men would be "without natural affection." In fulfilment of this prediction, the rapid decrease in the number of marriages is pointed out as a striking sign of the times. Among the men who do not marry are those who enter new territories, others are filling the ranks of the immense standing armies, especially in Europe, but the much bigger number do not marry because tobacco and liquor, and other attending vices have so robbed them of true manhood as to wholly unfit them for the marriage state.

The women, on the other hand, do not marry as frequently, because of the extensive and varied means of self-support, which makes possible her independence. The fact, too, that women so commonly occupy public positions, has, in a large measure, robbed them both of taste and fitness for the more private and pensive sphere of home life. Then, notice further the many childless families. This fact is most conspicuous the world over. As the plague of social sin spreads true mother love is dying out. The so-called better classes of people, and especially the rich, seldom have large families. In France the birth rate is diminishing until it has become less than the death rate. When this became known one of the leading newspapers recorded the fact and said, "We are a lost nation!" Nearly half of her children are illegitimate, and so corrupt is her social life that if it were not for the infusion of foreign blood she would soon become extinct. Thank God, it is better in our own land, and yet, sad to say, the same disease is working in the social life of our people. It has been stated on good authority that Romanism will some day outnumber Protestantism in Canada, because their people are taught to honour the marriage relation, and to rear large families. These are cold, hard facts that cannot be denied, and are the marks of social crime and sin of the present day. Allowing that God does not always lead into the marriage state, and that he does not always bless with families, large or small, yet the recording angel only knows the awful record of infanticide and criminal mal-practice so generally practised and so commonly hidden from public view. To this may be added the numerous divorce cases and the loss of parental authority in the home life in order to complete the awful picture which Paul drew so many centuries ago of social corruption in the last days, and which Christ describes when He said, "And as were the days of Noah, so shall be the coming of the Son of Man. For as in those days which were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and they knew not till the flood came and took them all away; so shall be the coming of the Son of Man."

IV. Intellectual signs. Both Nahum and Daniel referred to rapid increase in knowledge in the last days. Education never made such strides as during the last century. Schools are now equipped for all classes from the Primary Department to the National Universities. Books without number bring to us daily the latest results of scholarship. Tens of thousands of newspapers bring the latest information of the progress of the world to our very doors every morning and evening. Within the last century 350 million Bibles and portions of Bibles have been distributed in nearly 300 different languages, so that nine-tenths of the human race can read the Bible in their own language. Telegraph and Telephone have almost annihilated space, and political and money kings can sit in their offices and talk with each other at their pleasure. Earth, sea and sky are made navigable at a rate and in a manner inconceivable a century ago. And all this immense progress belongs to our own times. The last century has witnessed greater progress than all the centuries preceding it. Daniel was right. "In the last days knowledge shall be increased." Nahum ii, 4; Dan xii, 4.

V. Commercial signs. These are pointed out by James the brother of Jesus. (James v, 1-5.) "Come now, ye rich, weep and howl, for your miseries are coming upon you.....Ye have laid up your treasures in the last days. Behold the hire of the labourers, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth out, and the cries have entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth." Never before did men seem so determined to be such a curse for wealth as to-day. For it men will gamble, grind the poor, debauch legislatures, ruin health and sacrifice human life. Fifty years ago there were probably less than a dozen millionaires in the whole of North America. Now they are estimated at nearly five thousand. Some of these men have an income of a million a day. The wealth of Great Britain is said to have increased within a decade from 50 to 69 billions. The Christians of Great Britain and the United States have laid up as much as 500 million dollars. Some fifty men in New York City own as much as the assessed value of six or seven States in the Union. But the greater the wealth of the few the greater will be the poverty of the many. And this gives rise to the problems of capital and labour. The gap between the two classes is rapidly widening. If men were not lovers of self, money and pleasure their differences might be amicably settled. But while human selfishness prevails there is, humanly speaking, no remedy. As a means of protection against the labouring classes the capitalists combine into trusts and syndicates. The combine is all right in itself if supreme selfishness did not sit ready to grab the advantages. Justice and judgment are helpless because of the strong influence emanating from the love of money. Legislature can suggest no remedy, because it is already throttled by these money kings. These are startling facts, but true nevertheless; and the combines will go on till they reach the confederacy of the ten-fold kingdom, mentioned in Rev. xvii., with the anti-Christ as the chief executive, in the consummation of secular, religious and political world. Then there will be a perfect and permanent remedy. Sin and lawlessness will have found their culmination in the person of the man of sin, whom the Lord will slay with the breath of His mouth, and bring to naught with the brightness of His coming, 2 Thes. ii, and establish His own beneficent reign. In the meantime the Gospel is the only means of saving men and women from impending judgment, and hastening the glad day when Christ will come and purify the earth and take the reigns of government in his own hands. The other signs will be considered next Sunday evening.

IT IS EASIER TO DO IT NOW

Cure Your Indigestion with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and you will Never Suffer as Jackson Johnson Did.

When you feel that slight discomfort after eating, that gas arising in the stomach or a little pain in the chest, did you ever stop to think that you were in the early stages of indigestion, and what the consequences might be if you did not take care of your stomach?

If you didn't, just listen for a moment to the story of Jackson Johnston, of Norham, Ont. It may make you think:

"I suffered from dyspepsia for a long time, and spent a large sum with doctors. Finally I was taken with diarrhoea which became chronic and continued for about nine months. I continually grew weaker until I was confined to my bed.

"Then a person who was using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets persuaded me to try them. I began at once to improve, and am no recompletely cured."

It is easier to cure your indigestion now than if you wait and suffer as Mr. Johnson did. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do it.

Absolutely white flour makes the most beautiful white bread—the kind we all like.

But white bread is not necessarily pure because it is white. To be pure it must be made from purified flour.

There is only one method of making flour absolutely pure, and that is by electricity. No impurity can withstand the searching, purifying work of this electrical process.

The electrical method is employed by every big mill in the United States.

In Canada the only flour purified by electricity is therefore it is the only flour that can be considered as absolutely pure.

Royal Household Flour

THE SAWYER-MASSEY
—CO. SECURE ORDER FOR—NEW STONE CRUSHER

Board of Works Last Night Decided to Purchase a Crusher at Cost of $1125 From This Firm.

The Day Labour Method of Constructing Sewers Again Discussed—The Board Will Consider It.

The Smith Street Bridge to be Repaired—Inopportune Time to Construct a New Bridge.

At the meeting of the Board of Works Committee of the City Council last night, although no business of great importance was considered, yet a certain number of minor matters were discussed. Among other things it was decided to have the City Engineer report as to the cost of repairs to the Smith street bridge. The offer of the Sawyer-Massey Co. to supply a stone crusher at $1125, was accepted. A deputation from the Trades and Labour Council was present in reference to having the sewers of the city constructed by day labour. Both the committee and the deputation seemed to be of one mind in the matter.

There were present: Ald. Hicks, chairman; Ald. Tovey, Adams, Johnston, McIntyre and Graham.

Smith Street Bridge.

A report was received from the City Engineer in reference to the dangerous condition of the bridge over the Otonabee at Smith street. The engineer stated that the bridge had been closed for traffic.

Ald. Hicks thought it might be well to ask the City Engineer to report as to the cost of repairs that would do for a year or so.

Mr. Hays said that the whole bridge was in a very bad shape, the timber throughout being rotten. The east span had a very serious sag in it. He thought that the whole of the chords should be repaired. He could not make an estimate off-hand as to the cost of a steel bridge.

Ald. Hicks thought it an inopportune time to build a new bridge. It would be better to wait until the requirements were known.

The Engineer will be asked to report as to the cost of repairs.

Some discussion took place over the question of repairing the bridge over the old Dickson dam. It was decided to leave the matter until the American Cereal Company can be consulted in reference to the city's authority for carrying out the improvements suggested.

Sewers by Day Labour.

A deputation from the Trades and Labour Council, composed of Messrs. Charles Murty, president; Joseph Crowe, of the Moulders' Union; John Alexander, of the Carpenters' Union; and T. J. Stenton, of the Moulders' Union; waited on the committee in reference to having the city's sewers constructed by day labour. The same delegation was present at a meeting last week, when the matter was left over. No action was taken last night as the committee and the Trades and Labour representatives seemed to be of the same mind in the matter.

Mr. Crowe said that deputation had advanced their views at the previous meeting, and that they were present to hear the arguments advanced by the committee. They had obtained information from Toronto and other cities in regard to the day labour system, and the general opinion was

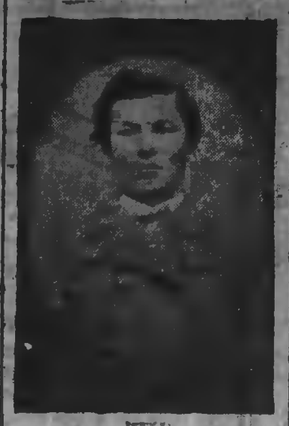
A PROMINENT CITIZEN



It was thirty-seven years ago that the gentleman, whose picture appears above, sat for the picture here reproduced. But to see him to-day one would not think it were possible that it could have been taken that number of years ago. His figure is a familiar one in Peterborough where he is well known and highly respected.

Carpenters Get Higher Wages

On Monday the New Scale Goes Into Effect.

On Monday the new wage scale for carpenters and joiners in the city will go into effect, and commencing then the minimum wage will be 25 cents an hour for all members of the union. It is not anticipated that any difficulty will be experienced. All the contractors and employers of woodworkers are expected to agree to the new scale.

It is explained that the new rate will affect a comparatively small number of the members of the union, since the great majority of them at present receive more than the minimum wage mentioned.

New Pupils Will Be Admitted During Next Week

Parents are Requested to Send Their Children to School at That Time.

Mr. Duncan Walker, Public School Inspector, has handed in for publication the following notice, which it would be well for parents to carefully observe:

"New pupils will be admitted into the kindergarten and primary classes of the city public schools during the week beginning Monday, April 2nd, and during that week parents should send to the schools all children whom they wish to have admitted before the midsummer vacation."

Private Telephone System.

—Mr. Alexander, of the firm of Alexander & Miller, electricians, has just installed in Mann's planing mill, box factory, etc., a private telephone system, which will prove a great convenience to the different departments of this busy establishment.

AN ADDITION TO THE McDONALD BOX FACTORY

It is understood that the A. McDonald estate intends to build a large addition to the box factory which was erected a year or so ago. Last night after 11 o'clock the office was removed across the street to give room for the new addition to the factory.

It is understood that this branch of the business has been most successful since it was inaugurated, and the demand for the product has been so satisfactory that it has been decided to enlarge the capacity of the plant.

57th REGIMENT'S FIRST DRILL ON TUESDAY NIGHT

City's Light And Power
—WIRE SYSTEM WILL BE—Examined By An Expert

On a Report From City Engineer Hay Board of Works Decides to Take Steps to Prevent Any Danger to the Public From These Sources—The Aftermath of the Excitement of Last Tuesday Night—Companies Will Have to File Complete Reports of Their Systems.

The most interesting matter, as far as the public is concerned, that came up at last night's meeting of the Board of Works, was the city engineer's report in reference to the killing of Mr. Robt. Gibbs' horses through a leakage of electric current. The committee discussed the situation at some length and were unanimous in the opinion that something should be done to ensure the safety of the public. They felt that an accident might occur at any time and that the present situation is decidedly dangerous. As a result, it was decided to employ an expert electrician to go over the whole wire system and report as to what steps can be taken to prevent any danger of accidents.

The city engineer's report was as follows:

Dear Sir,—I beg to report that on Tuesday, March 27, at 9.15 p.m., through a leakage of electric current at the corner of George and McDonel streets, a team of horses, the property of Mr. R. Gibbs, liveryman, were killed.

It appears that leakage at this point had been observed by several persons between 7 and 9 p.m. and reported to the police, who notified the officials of the Peterborough Light and Power Company. A man of that company was sent to the place, but was unable to locate the cause of the trouble.

I was notified at 9.20 p.m., and when I arrived there I found the officials of the Peterborough Light and Power Co., the Machine Telephone Co., and the Otonabee Power Co., who had taken steps to prevent further danger of injury.

From what information could be obtained, it appears that the current was conducted from a P. L. & P. Co.'s wire to a pole of the Machine Telephone Co., which stands on the north side of McDonel street, near the corner of George, and which has a naked ground wire. The top of this pole projects through the power wires without a cross-arm or insulators. These power wires came in contact with the naked ground wire, and thence through the ground to the rail of the street railway. The horses were not on the rails when struck, and several persons on the sidewalk received slight shocks, which would indicate that the ground in the vicinity was highly charged.

As this has occurred before and is liable to occur again, I am of the opinion that an investigation should be held to inquire into the whole matter of installation of high voltage lines, and if any further steps are required to ensure safety that the companies be compelled to adopt them.

Yours, etc.,
T. A. S. HAY,
City Engineer.

In connection with the report, it was moved by Ald. McIntyre, seconded by Ald. Tovey, that this Board be authorized to procure the services of an electrical expert to advise us to regulations that should be made to protect the public from danger from high voltage electric current, especially where two or more lines are on the same side of the street.—Carried.

Mr. Hay, the city engineer, said that in his annual report he had been for years advocating that the power and light companies should be compelled to file complete maps of their systems.

It was unanimously decided last night that this should be done, and although not embodied in the resolution, the city engineer was instructed to notify the companies that their permission to erect further poles would be withheld until this condition had been complied with.

Appointments On The Trent Canal

A. J. Grant, of Port Colborne, Will be Superintending Engineer.

An Ottawa despatch says:—Mr. H. J. Walsh prefers to remain in charge of the surveys on the Trent Canal. Mr. A. J. Grant, new resident engineer at Port Colborne, will therefore be transferred to Ottawa as superintending engineer of the Trent Canal, and will have his headquarters at Ottawa. Mr. Lambert Linn will be sent to Kirkfield as assistant engineer, to take the place vacated by the resignation of Mr. R. A. Davey. Mr. E. Malone will be assistant to the former, in succession to Mr. Gus Sawers, resigned. Mr. A. W. Spence will be retained as an engineer in Peterborough district.

Rev. H. M. Manning, of Clinton, who on Thursday was transferred from the London Conference by the Transfer Committee.

Rev. Mr. Manning will come to Charlotte street church and will succeed Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, who, by the same Committee was transferred to the London Conference.

ARE PRESENT LIMITS FAIRLY DISTRIBUTED?

At last night's meeting of the Board of Works a letter was read from Mr. J. J. Turner, jr., stating that he intended to build a house on the west side of Water street, north of Murray street, and asking to be allowed to build nine-inch walls. Mr. Jas. Finnie was present with a similar request.

The two requests led to an interesting discussion as to the fire limits, and it seemed to be the opinion of the Board that some changes should be made. Mr. Finnie said that several people had constructed buildings in the fire limits, having walls only nine inches in thickness, and he thought that he should be given permission to do the same. Ald. Adams and Graham expressed the opinion that the law should be strictly carried out, and that those who infringed should be prosecuted.

Ald. Johnston said that the fire limits were not fairly distributed. He said that it was ridiculous to think that buildings of a prohibited nature were being erected within the fire limits, and thought that it should be made compulsory to obtain a building permit. The bylaw was unfair as far as the limits were concerned.

Ald. Hicks thought that it was a matter that should be dealt with by the Fire, Water and Light Committee, and on motion of Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Tovey, the question was referred to that body.

A SUCCESSOR TO MR. J. A. FIFE IS CHOSEN

Last night the Committee on Appointments of the Board of Education, comprising the entire Board, met to select a successor to Mr. J. A. Fife, who has resigned his position on the staff of the Collegiate Institute. There were 21 applications, and the choice of the committee was Mr. R. N. Merritt, Goderich. His initial salary will be $1,000 a year, which is $200 less than that paid Mr. Fife, who received the maximum amount.

It is understood that there will be a re-arrangement of the staff, and that Mr. Hodgson will be promoted to the position held by Mr. Fife, and Mr. Merritt will take Mr. Hodgson's duties.

The change will take effect after the Easter holidays.

BELLEVILLE IS NOW AFTER THAT CAMP

The Belleville Intelligencer of yesterday said that the deputation from that city to Ottawa in connection with the Trent Canal, had an interview with Col. J. L. Biggar in reference to the establishment of the permanent camp in or near the city. In regard to the latter, it was pointed out by Col. Biggar that Peterborough and Cobourg were already in the field as applicants for the camp. It would be necessary to procure about 200 acres of land as a camp site. This, we are informed, can be secured adjacent to the city and rented for the time being; later, if it were acceptable to the Government, it would be purchased. The camp is composed of about 3,000 officers and men and will be held annually. If it could be procured for the city it would be of much benefit.

Baraca Class Entertainment

Mr. Elcome Gave an Address on "Nests."

Last night's entertainment given under the auspices of the Baraca Bible Class of the Murray street Baptist church, was of a most interesting nature. There was a good attendance, and the programme was one which proved decidely pleasing to the audience. Mr. W. Shiner, the President occupied the chair, and the programme was provided wholly by Mr. Elcome, who gave an address on "Nests and Home Building." Mr. Elcome's address was bright and witty, combining information and entertainment. A number of anecdotes were given in the course of the address, and much valuable information imparted concerning the habits of the feathery creatures.

The meeting was one of the most interesting in the history of the class.

"That J. D. Roddick came to accidental death through taking an overdose of acetanilide in the form of a headache wafer, and antikamnia tablets, to relieve a headache."

Mr. C. Griffin Gives Warning

Threaten That He Will Prosecute Persons Who Slander Him.

Mr. C. Griffin has addressed the following letter to the public through the columns of the Examiner:

As I see most persons use printers' ink, when anything of an insinuating nature is being said about them, I wish to say a word, owing to a rumour of an insinuating nature which has been circulated throughout the city concerning me, without foundation, the parties thinking that by so doing they might benefit themselves. Now I am prepared to prove this, and to have their names published, with full particulars, and also take it further, if necessary. C. GRIFFIN.

Ministerial Association.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Ministerial Association will be held on Monday at 10 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A., when the President will give an address on his trip to the United States.

ANNUAL TURN-OVER
—OF LIVE STOCK IS NOW—
OVER $2,000,000

REV. W. McD. MACKAY,
Who Received a Presentation at Knox Church Last Night.

Immense Business Interests of Mr. H. P. Kennedy—One of Largest Live Stock Dealers in Country.

40 to 50 Car Loads of Stock Handled Each Week—The Facilities for Handling Local Trade.

Remarkable Growth of His Business in Sixteen Years—Will Open Enlarged Retail Store Soon.

Next Saturday H. P. Kennedy will open his re-modelled and enlarged fresh meat and provision store, and it will, from present indications be one of the most modern and best appointed markets in Canada. Few persons in Peterborough have any conception of the immense business which Mr. Kennedy conducts, and believing that the people of this city would be interested in learning of the extent of this business, and of the success of one of Peterborough's young men, the Examiner yesterday interviewed Mr. Kennedy with a view of gaining some information, which might be imparted to its readers. When it is stated that the local retail business conducted by Mr. Kennedy represents but 1-40th to 1-50th of the whole business it will be readily understood that it is one which is of more than passing interest. Mr. Kennedy was loth to admit it, but it is learned that in Canada there are very few, probably not more than one individual live stock shipper who does as large a business as Mr. Kennedy. When it is stated that his average weekly turn-over is from 40 to 50 carloads, each of which represents, say, $1,000, it will be seen that the business is one which has assumed large proportions.

Two million dollars is a large sum for any one man to pay for live stock in one year, but Mr. Kennedy's operations exceed that amount each year.

While the local business conducted by Mr. Kennedy is small compared to his total business in point of volume of trade, it occupies a position of importance which far exceeds its relative position in respect to volume. It is by reason of the fact that Mr. Kennedy is in the wholesale business so extensively that he is able to place his retail business here on such a satisfactory basis. Going, as he does, his personal attention to the Toronto live stock market, he is in a position to keep in close touch with the market conditions, and can also select from the thousands of animals which he buys, the best to send to his own retail store, which he does, and it is doubtless by reason of this fact that he is able to give his patrons such universal satisfaction. That there is this satisfaction given is evidenced by the remarkable growth of his retail business. He stated that the volume of business during the last six months had been more than double that of the corresponding period in the previous year. It was this growth which made the extension of his premises necessary, and having secured a long lease of the store, he has decided, and has practically completed the im-

A Fine Display Of Instruments

Some Handsome Buescher True Tone Band Instruments in Greene's Window.

Mr. J. M. Greene, proprietor of the popular music store, next to the Grand Opera House, has displayed in his window thirteen very fine band instruments made by the Buescher True Tone Company, of Elkhart, Ind. The collection is a superb one and the instruments are among the finest ever seen in this city. It consists of three cornets, one b flat cornet, one mellophone, which can be played in four different pitches, viz., d, c, b flat and a; and a flat alto horn; a b flat tenor horn; a silver plated b flat baritone, and a bass baritone; a b flat bass and an e flat double bass; 3 b flat monster bass, and a slide trombone.

Mr. Walter Hughes, the accomplished soloist of the 57th Regimental band, and the opera house orchestra, and a musician whose word carries considerable weight, particularly in the matter of cornets, used a Buescher True Tone cornet at a rehearsal the other evening, and says: "It is one of the finest instruments I have ever used; the tone is full and pure, and never, even in the loudest parts, becomes the least brassy. It is a particularly easy cornet to blow."

Mr. Greene is the sole local agent for these splendid instruments.

Hotel Men Have Decided To Raise Their Rates

Were of the Opinion at Their Meeting Last Night That This Course Was Necessary—Do Not Think If the Price of Licenses Go Up That the Business Will Pay Unless Higher Accommodation Charges Are Made.

At a meeting of the Peterborough License Holders last night, it was decided, if the "Hanna Bill," providing for higher licenses, becomes law, to raise the rates at the present one dollar per day houses to $2 per day, and to make the rates at the two dollar per day houses accordingly. A charge will also be made for the use of the sheds.

The hotel men have come to the conclusion that it is impossible to make a reasonable profit from their business at the present charges for accommodation, (the use of the sheds have of course, always been gratis), and in their own interests they think the course they have decided to adopt is only reasonable and fair. Any change in the price of liquor was not considered.

By raising the price of licenses the license holders generally think they will have to reciprocate by charging higher rates in their own premises, as they claim they will find it impossible to make a reasonable profit if they do not adopt [illegible].

A representative assembly of Peterborough License Holders will go to Toronto on the fourth of April, when a deputation of the License Holders of the Province will wait on the Government and lodge objections against, and propose amendments to, the "Hanna Bill." It is thought in fact that every License Holder in this city will go to Toronto on the day referred to, and many other well-known citizens will accompany them. What the outcome of the deputation's petition will be it is impossible to forecast, but the hotel and liquor men all over the province are of the unanimous opinion that the proposed act is objectionable in many important features. There has probably been no act in connection with the license question [illegible] years that has caused [illegible] ment on the part of [illegible] the temperance [illegible] the public generally [illegible] next March [illegible]

THE ARROWS DEFEATED ALBERT COLLEGE FIVE

An excellent evening's sport and entertainment was provided at the Y.M.C.A. last night the principal feature of which was the fast basketball game between Albert College of Belleville, and the Peterborough Arrows. The locals were victorious by a score of 29-21 and outplayed their opponents all the time. The contest was characterised by fast play and close checking on the part of both teams and was a splendid exhibition from a spectators' standpoint. The winners displayed gratifying form and while the game was comparatively close had a marked advantage that a witness of the match could not fail to observe and looked like winners from the commencement. Cressman and Richardson starred for the winners, the former being particularly strong in the matter of shooting. De Mill and Wheeler were the most conspicuous for the losers and both played clever and aggressive games. The Arrows had the score 4-3 before the visitors tallied. At half time the score was 19-16, in favour of the home team. Following is a summary:—

Arrows.

Cressman—9 baskets.
Richardson—4 baskets.

The Albert College boys were entertained at an enjoyable banquet at the conclusion of the match.

GUILD BASEBALL LEAGUE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Guild Baseball League was held last night, in the Y.M.C.A. parlour, when the election of officers took place and plans for the coming season informally discussed. The present prospects are that there will be at least as many teams in the league this season as in 1905, while there may be one or two more. Last year the league had a successful season, and the future for the game in this league gives promise of another successful season.

The secretary-treasurer presented a verbal report of the operations of the league during the past year, giving the state of the finances. The election of officers took place, and resulted in the re-election of last year's officers as follows:—

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
President—P. A. Kerr.
Vice-President—N. McWilliams.
Secretary-Treasurer—M. J. Hutchison.

A general discussion took place on the prospects for the league this season. It was decided to issue certificates to players, such certificates to be held by the manager of the teams.

A meeting to arrange the schedule will be held on April 20th.

The Guilds which will be represented in the league this year will probably be George Street and Charlotte Street, St. Andrews and St. Paul's, St. John's All Saints' and St. Luke's.

Mr. W. H. Moore, like many other citizens, sees in the action of the city Council and Board of Education in the South Ward School question, a disregard of the rights of the ratepayers, and has given the Examiner an interview in which he scores those two bodies. Mr. Moore says:—

"Frenzied Finance."

The proposal that the corporation shall place $35,000 to the credit of the School Board, to spend so much thereof as the latter body may think proper, upon a site for, and the erection of a new school, is so altogether unbusinesslike and puerile, that the suggestion has only to be mentioned to be condemned. In commercial circles it would be termed "frenzied finance" in concentrated form. Apply the scheme to any private affair, of a similar character, and its absurdity and impropriety are at once detected.

Ratepayers Ignored.

Measured by their conduct in connection with the Institute by-laws, few are surprised at the eccentricity on the part of the Board, or any demand by them on the city chest, however erratic it may be. The mental shock is given when it is learned that that deliberate body, the City Council, looked upon as the safeguard and permanent protectors of the citizens' rights, on the question of increase of the public debt, is seduced into supporting a requisition for $35,000, in one chunk, for a school, and the ratepayers' opinions wholly disregarded.

Duplicating the Blunder.

It is said by, or on behalf of, the Board, that they made a blunder in reference to the Institute by-law, in only asking half enough, and they boldly point out that they do not intend to repeat it. They, therefore, now call for double the sum required for the purpose in hand. And the City Fathers, it is said, are to let it go through without consulting the people, though they must submit the comparatively trifling question of frontage or general tax for sidewalks to popular vote, and then—but perhaps the less said the better on this subject.

Unbusiness-like.

Reverting for a moment: Imagine a contractor saying to a proprietor, "You want a $4,000 house erected, please place $10,000 to my credit and I will only spend so much of it as I find needful". The School Trustees are business men or they are not. They may assume either character, in the disposal of the matter. By the very admission that they may not need the $35,000, they confess a sad want of judgment and incompetence to deal with the subject. Let them then apply to an architect of standing, and, having found out what they do want, learn what is sufficient. Such a person can inform the Board within $500 or $1,000, what the cost will be; but a carte blanche request, I am confident, will surely be denied by the council. Both bodies well know that the people would probably reject the by-law as an unnecessary waste of money. And yet, are we to have the scandalous exhibition of the Board and Council, creatures of the electorate, putting the electorate at defiance and spending a vast sum of money, not only without, but against their will.

Nine-fold Extravagance.

The Board set out with the assertion that four additional rooms in the south end would relieve the present overcrowded school. This is placed beyond contradiction by the fact that it was advocated on the Board, that the South Ward School should be raised another story, which would remove the congestion. So seriously was this put forward that a committee was detailed to deal with it. That would have cost $3,000 or $4,000, at most, but they finally concluded that a school and six acres of land, to cost nine times as much, must be forced on the city, by this body, who appear to deem themselves more trusted in their powers and responsibils to the people.

Not too Late to Mend.

It is not too late for the council to put the matter right. They have the power at any moment, and without assigning any reason, to undo a former act, when they find or think they have erred. To err is so well known an infirmity in the human family, that to acknowledge it, casts no odium on either a public or private party, but rather elevates in the general esteem. They can then exercise the absolute power, vested in and reserved to them, by the statute of 1883, chapter 22 section 5, and relieve themselves from all responsibility, by submitting the question to the qualified ratepayers. Action, of this character, on their part, I am assured, will strengthen them immeasurably in the public respect.

The Musicale An Enjoyable Event

Young Ladies of Fraser Mission Band Score Success.

The musicale given by the young ladies of the Fraser Mission Band last night at the residence of Mr. Adam Hall was a delightful function. There was a large attendance, and the programme was one which proved to be decidedly interesting. Vocal solos were given by Miss Helen Davies and Miss Lillian Moore, while Misses Meldrum, Sanderson and Bradd rendered delightful piano solos. Miss Henderson gave a number of recitations which were also enjoyed.

At the close of the programme dainty refreshments were served by the members of the band, who managed the musicale perfectly, and who deserve great credit for the success of the evening.

THERE IS NOW A MASS OF PROOF

That Lumbago is Always Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec Man Cured His Kidneys with Dodd's Kidney Pills, and his Lumbago Vanished.

Quebec, P.Q., March 30.—(Special.) John Ball, a bricklayer, residing at 57 Little Champlain street, this city, has added his statement to the great mass of proof that Lumbago is caused by disordered Kidneys, and consequently easily cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Ball says:

"I was troubled with Lumbago for two years. I could not work. I had to get up at nights to urinate so often that my rest was broken. I read of cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills and made up my mind to try them. After the first box I could see and feel a change. Three boxes cured me completely."

Lumbago, like Rheumatism, is caused by uric acid in the blood. Uric acid cannot stay in the blood if the Kidneys are working right. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidney's work right.

LINDSAY LADY WAS SHOCKED

Lindsay is not noted for evil deeds and scenes of horror are the exception here, so that what follows will be easily credited: A certain young lady was watching from an office window the other day, and saw a man minus one leg carried from a stable and placed in a cab. Pretty soon a man followed with a boot in which was the missing leg, and threw it into the cab also. The young lady, believing that foul play was being done, was horrified and fainted dead away. The gentleman of the office hurried to her assistance, and when she was brought to consciousness she told her story. Upon investigation it was discovered that Bob Douglass had broken his wooden leg and was being taken home. — Watchman-Warder.

NOT HEREDITARY

Baldness Due to a Living Minute Germ.

Many people, even unto the present day of grace, consider baldness due to hereditary influences.

Nothing is further from the truth. Baldness is caused by the onslaught of a minute organism which secretes itself beneath the scalp and attacks the roots of the hair, causing it to lose its life and fall out.

This organism cannot be got rid of except by the free and persevering use of Newbro's Herpicide.

No matter how badly the scalp is effected the Dandruff surely disappears and hair health is restored, when Herpicide is applied.

provements. A feature worthy of mention also is the fact that he will add a new department, that of provisions, including dairy produce, vegetables, package teas, etc., articles which are naturally allied to the meat business.

Mr. Kennedy, in his wholesale business employs a large number of buyers, and within a radius of twenty miles of Peterborough has twelve experienced dealers who do nothing else except buy for him, the stock being shipped to the Toronto and Montreal markets, the largest in Canada, and on both of which Mr. Kennedy is represented every week—in Toronto by himself and in Montreal by a representative.

As a practical illustration of the volume of business handled by Mr. Kennedy it may be stated that this week he paid out no less than $15,000 for cattle, sheep and lambs, and $25,000 for hogs, in this district.

An average of one carload per week is the consumption of the local store, and the stock sent to be sold here is picked from the best which Mr. Kennedy buys. In connection with his local business, his pay roll runs from $150 to $200 per week.

The extent and growth of this business, both locally and in the wholesale branch is remarkable when it is considered that it is but sixteen years since Mr. Kennedy embarked in the business and ten years since he opened the retail market here.

Reference was made during the course of the conversation to the low prices which Mr. Kennedy sold meat at last fall, and he stated that in no place in Canada was meat sold at as low a price as in Peterborough.

Speaking of the present prices and the prospects for the future, Mr. Kennedy said that he did not look for lower prices in the near future, and he had never known in his experience the prices of live stock to be so high. The present prices he attributed largely to an increased demand, largely in Canada, the export trade not being particularly bright and this local demand was likely to be maintained, while the supply would not increase to a sufficient extent to lower prices much. Probably with the grass cattle on the market, the prices for beef might be reduced some, but there was not much chance of other meats being much cheaper. The prospects for hogs was that they would be maintained at the present high price of $7.00 per hundred weight, which has been paid the farmers in this district for some weeks. The prices on Toronto market at present, for extra choice cattle run from 5 to 5 1-4 cts. live weight. Choice veal calves, 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 cts. Sheep 5 to 5 1-2c., and yearling lambs at from 7 1-2 to 7 3-4c. per pound live weight, prices, which, at present, give promise of being maintained.

For the opening of his new store, and for Easter, Mr. Kennedy has arranged for two carloads of choice butcher heifers from Western Ontario. He expects that one week from to-day he will invite his customers to the enlarged and modernized store, Saturday April 7th.

Dead Cattle Remained In Stable For Almost A Week

This Evidence Was Given in the Cattle Starvation Case—Defendant Injured and Could Not Remove Them—Hogs Devoured the Dead Animals—Steach Was Reported Abnormal—A Grotesque Spectacle in Cow Stable—Judgment Was Reserved.

More than the usual interest surrounded the County Police Court case yesterday of the Crown against Barnard Naven, the North Monaghan farmer charged with starving four cattle, and in which judgment was reserved by His Honour Magistrate Edmison. On account of Division Court being also held yesterday the case was conducted in the Council Chambers, and such a large number of spectators were present that the Division Court Chamber would have been inadequate to contain them.

Crown Attorney Wood looked after the Crown's interests, and those of the accused by Mr. Daniel O'Connell. For the prosecution there were five witnesses who gave evidence, namely, George Giles, Clifton Giles, Hiram Bastard, County Constable Cochrane and William Henry. The defendant gave evidence in his own behalf, and also Joseph McLaren.

From the evidence given by the prosecution witnesses, it would appear that the state of affairs around Naven's barn on March 13 was of a very gruesome and ghastly character. On that date it was stated that in the defendant's stables there were seven dead cattly lying in their stalls in a putrefied condition. In one stall was found the decomposed carcass of a cow, with a companion scarcely alive standing beside her. A couple of others were being eaten by the pigs. The steach within a radius of half a mile was stated to be unbearable.

The Evidence.

The counsel for the accused pleaded not guilty to the charge and the case was proceeded with.

The first witness called was George Giles, and to Mr. Wood he said he lived on the east lot west of the defendant's. He had heard a report from his younger brothers in reference to dead cattle in defendant's stable. On 13th of March he went over to investigate. Did not see Naven. In the horse stable he found a dead cow which had been in a ailing. It was in a putrefying condition. The eyes had fallen out and hide was dried. The steach was horrible. In the next stall were two white horses. In the third were three young cattle scarcely able to stand. In the fourth were three cattle lying dead, which were very badly decayed. In the cow-byre in one stall was a dead animal with the chain still around its neck. Its companion stood beside it. Two others were lying in a corrupt state partly eaten by the hogs.

Was nothing in sight for them to eat?

In the mow upstairs was four or five tons of hay. Did not see Naven that day. Was not on speaking terms with him for eight years.

To Mr. O'Connell witness said he went to investigate because he had heard the report. Would have gone even if he had known Naven was at home. Part of the side of the barn was off. He had gone over between 3 and 4 o'clock and was there about half an hour. Could smell the steach at his father's place. He gave the information to proper authorities. Judging from the appearance of the dead cattle they seemed to have been lying there for a month or more. He informed Mr. Archie Meares that evening.

Clayton Giles, a young brother of the first witness, was then called. He and two other boys were playing and smelt the steach. Came over to defendant's barn to find the same. They saw a dead cow through the trap-door in the threshing floor. The matter was reported to his elder brother, who came over himself afterwards.

Hiram Bastard, who was one of the three boys who were playing, was the next witness. He merely corroborated the story of the previous witness.

William Henry, caretaker for the Children's Shelter, was the fourth witness for the prosecution. He had gone out on Thursday with Mr. Cochrane to see Mr. Naven. Defendant tried to cover up the matter. Later said six cattle had died. Witness was shown where the cattle were buried under the manure heap. With a fork, accused dug up part of the carcass of a cow. Was in a polluted condition. The knees had been worn through the hide in trying to get up. No fodder was on the floor of the stable. Cattle were mooing, which indicated they were hungry.

High County Constable Cochrane was the next witness. He had received a communication from superintendent of the Humane Society, Toronto, and visited defendant's farm. Defendant said he did not wish to appear in court and wanted the case settled. He had made that statement of his own free will. In the stable there were 24 head of cattle, sheep, pigs and horses, all jammed in tightly. Place was dark and ventilation was poor. Defendant said a cow had fallen down through manger door and had broken its back. He considered it ill-treatment to have so much stock and so little room and fodder.

At this juncture Mr. O'Connell mentioned that there was no evidence by the prosecution that the cattle died of starvation. However, the judge ruled that there was evidence that the cattle had been ill-treated, and the accused took the box.

Defendant's Evidence.

He had lived in North Monaghan for over 30 years, and had 30 acres of land. During the winter he had 44 head of stock. From last year's crops he had about 16 tons of hay, nine acres of oats and one acre of turnips. He fed the cattle three times a day and considered they got a good share. All cattle were able to move around well. Six died in a couple of days—one of them he killed because the back was broken. Did not know what was the trouble. Some lay in the stable about six days. There was no steach that he knew of. Was hurt by a fall and could not bury them until he recovered. They were all buried on the evening of the 19th.

Mr. Joseph McLaren was the last witness. He visited the defendant yesterday and saw the cattle. They looked lively then. He thought that probably the strong had trampled down the weak in getting something to eat.

Judgment was reserved by the magistrate until next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Hart's River Veterans Will Meet At Toronto

Fourth Anniversary of the Battle in Which Canadians Distinguished Themselves—Eleven Peterborough Men Were in the Engagement.

Four years ago to-day the battle of Hart's River was fought between the British troops and the Boers in South Africa. It was a battle in which Canadian troops distinguished themselves by their conspicuous bravery and in which many of them lost their lives like heroes. Peterborough men were prominent on that occasion, and one soldier who enlisted here, Capt. W. W. Milligan, Newtonville, of the 46th Battalion, was killed in the engagement.

The men who enlisted at Peterborough, and who fought at Hart's River were:

Dr. Blanchard.
Geo. Might.
Leo O'Connor.
Michael Murphy, wounded.
Percy Price.
Richard Boyle.
Col. Brown, 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons.
Capt. W. W. Milligan, killed.
Fred. Macdonald.
Frank Craig.
J. E. Dundas.

The veterans surviving the engagement will celebrate its anniversary with a banquet at Morton's, in Toronto, on Monday night, followed by a meeting on the following evening.

The local veterans will meet to-night to appoint a delegate or delegates to attend the banquet in Toronto.

Healthy Blood Best Germicide

YOU CAN PREVENT AS WELL AS CURE DISEASE BY KEEPING THE BLOOD PURE AND RICH WITH

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

"Healthy blood is the most powerful germicide extant," said Sir William Collins recently, in a lecture on "The Man vs. The Microbe."

This well-known authority proceeds to show how much more successfully disease can be combatted by keeping the blood pure and rich than by inoculating into the system one set of poisonous germs to fight the other germs of disease.

And this is what we have been claiming for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and what we have been backing up by the testimony of worthy people in all parts of the country.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food prevents disease as well as cures it because it contains in condensed form the very ingredients which go to form new, rich blood and nerve force.

Especially at this time of year when the system has become run down and the blood weakened the majority of people find it necessary to use some treatment in order to enrich and purify the blood and increase the vigor of the body.

Neglect to assist Nature at this trying time means that you leave yourself liable to attack by all sorts of disease germs. It also means that, instead of accomplishing your work with pleasure and success and enjoying life, you drag yourself about, feel miserable, and by your irritability bring unhappiness to all associated with you.

Some of the most common indications of a run-down system are headaches, sleeplessness, indigestion and a general lack of energy and vitality.

No treatment we know of so thoroughly overcomes these symptoms as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you can prove its remarkable blood-forming, tissue-building qualities by noting your increase in weight while using it.

If you would feel strong and well and avoid all the ills and weaknesses so common at this season, enrich your blood and revitalize your nerves by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sawyer-Massey Stone Crusher

that the day system was the more satisfactory.

Ald. Hicks said that last year's Board of Works had experimented along these lines, and were satisfied. He did not, however, think that the Board should be tied down to any one policy. The deputation would be quite safe in leaving the matter in the hands of the Board. He thought the proper way to treat a deputation was to have them state their views, and then the Board could deal with the matter in committee.

Mr. Crowe said the deputation was not present to dictate to the Board—the intention was only to offer suggestions.

A discussion followed, in which no new arguments were advanced, but the talk brought out the fact that both parties had ideas in common in connection with the matter. Ald. Hicks said that the object was to accomplish the work as speedily and cheaply as possible, no matter how it was done.

Mr. Marty spoke strongly in favor of the day labour system. He referred to the success attained by use of this system in connection with the building of granolithic sidewalks. Centralization of labour was one of the strong arguments advanced by Mr. Marty.

Ald. Johnston inquired about the suggestion of the chairman to have the City Engineer tender at the same time as the contractors did. He wanted to know if it were the intention to have the work done by day labour if the engineer's tender were the lowest. No action was taken in the matter.

In reference to the request of the Bell Telephone Company for permission to erect poles on certain streets, it was moved by Ald. Tovey and seconded by Ald. Graham, that the required permission be given.

Sawyer-Massey Crusher.

The stone crusher question was settled last night. The choice had dwindled down to two crushers, both of which were seen in operation at Hamilton by the members of the committee. They were unanimous in their opinion that the Sawyer-Massey was the better machine. It was also the cheaper, the price being $1125, while the Champion was offered at $1240.

It was moved by Ald. Adams, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the offer of the Sawyer-Massey Company at $1125, be accepted, provided they supply a 16 foot elevator.—Carried.

A communication was received from Jas. O'Brien applying for a position as sewer inspector.

It was moved by Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Johnston, that the Board be authorized to advertise for tenders for street watering, and to let the contracts.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

THE DESECRATION OF NIAGARA

There is a great deal seen in the public journals these days regarding the desecration wrought upon the scenery of Niagara Falls, by power development operations — presaging a growing danger. A considerable clamour arises against the "vandal power companies," and demand is made for their restraint. President Roosevelt has joined the cry, and, to the minds of some, that settles the question. No doubt the power development operations will have considerable effect in modifying the natural beauty and grandeur of Niagara Falls; the more, if further power development operations are permitted.

Here the question sharply defines itself — shall we defer to sentiment, or shall we consult the interests of progress? The power development operations make for the benefit of the whole country — conduce to the progress and the industrial development of the country — supply bread for the toilers in hundreds of factories, comfort in hundreds of homes, and the happiness that comes from comfortable material conditions. The sentimental side appeals to the comparatively few who can afford to make the pilgrimage to Niagara Falls —to be disappointed, as all are apt to be, when we come to see much-vaunted scenes of beauty for the first time.

If we should, generally, defer to the sentiment of retaining scenic beauty at the expense of prosaic utility, hundreds of wheels of industry would cease to revolve, millions of working hands would become idle, millions dependent upon them for food and comfort would be denied, and industrial desolation would fall as a blight upon our cities and towns. Take the city of Peterborough. There is no more beautiful stretch of river scenery—bank and stream—than was the river Otonabee from Lakefield to the Locks below the Cemetery, before commercialism seized upon it, and the dam, the power house, the saw mill and the factory, laid desecrating hands upon it, and converted its beauty into utilitarism, but supremely beneficent ugliness. But who is to demand that these indispensable essentials to modern progress should be swept away?

The beauties which these crude and comparatively ugly factory buildings, destroyed, were exquisite, but they had to succumb, and though we may deplore the vanished loveliness, yet none would be found bold enough to propose a return—if such a thing were possible—to primal conditions of nature, entrancing as they were, at the expense of our city's industries.

All over the length and breadth of this land similar conditions exist. The river rapids, the water falls, the rugged environments that make for scenic beauty, also make the conditions that constitute water-powers. Industry and enterprise seize upon them, the natural beauties have to be sacrificed — and it is, for the aggregate, a colossal sacrifice — progress demands that the purposes of man, for whom the land and water were given, shall be served. Niagara is a world-wonder, and its preservation is a "consummation devoutly to be wished," but modern commercialism will not be denied. Apart from the power development, modern conditions, the concentration of population and the attendant structural aggregations, have vastly changed Niagara Falls from what they were when Father Hennepin first gazed upon them. The power development operations have added their large share, but unless far more extensive operations of the kind are carried on, the beauty of Niagara, which has so much to spare, will not be destroyed.

While it is desirable, so far as modern enterprise will permit, to preserve Niagara, there is abundant opportunity for the lovers of the beautiful in nature—landscape as well as waterfall—to apply their energies. Taking Ontario, as a whole, scenic beauty, exceeding in charm the combined grandeur of a thousand Niagaras, has been sacrificed by the destruction of tree growth, much of which was made necessary in the interests of the cultivation of the soil. But also much of this destruction has been wanton. Here and there all over Ontario, magnificent clumps and lines of highway trees have been, and are daily being, destroyed, and in the process destroying the beauty of the landscape, the joy of the common people, something they can see and enjoy every day, while the beauties of Niagara are only for the favoured few. This impairment, or destruction, of the world acknowledged beauty of Niagara, would, while deplorable, be only a sentimental loss. The destruction of the tree growth of the country is not only a sentimental, but a distinct, and real, injury to the country, by its adverse effect upon climatic conditions, and the conditions that make for successful agriculture. The man who saves a tree, in the majesty of its maturity, is more of a philanthropist than he who prevents the diversion of a few hogsheads of the waters of the mighty Niagara.

NEW ARITHMETIC.

Provincial Treasurer Matheson has a good deal of trouble in defending his six million dollar loan at 96 cents. His pessimistic pounding down of Ontario's credit while in Opposition might be excused on the grounds of party necessity for flaw-finding—the Opposition must oppose. But he has dealt a worse blow in his official capacity to our credit, or perhaps more strictly speaking he is reaping in office the harvest of his utterances in Opposition. It seems inconceivable that a Minister intrusted with the responsibility of administering our financial affairs should have made so lamentably bad, so lamentably mad, a bargain as exchanging gilt-edged Ontario securities for dollars worth only 96 cents each. The City of Toronto with total indebtedness of over 22,754,239 dollars, was able to realize 102 1-2 cents on every dollar on a 3 1-2 per cent. loan. Surely such a heaven-born financier as Provincial Treasurer Matheson should have been able to get better terms than 96 cents on the dollar for the 3 1-2 per cents. of Ontario, which has no public debt, and practically exhaustless resources. The Dominion of Canada with a debt of $40 per head can sell its securities at 102, 103 and 104, the City of Toronto with a debt of $41.13 per head can sell its securities at 102 1-2, but the great Province of Ontario without a debt at all can, under Treasurer Matheson's brilliant financing, get only 96 cents for its high-grade securities. A difference of 6 1-2 cents on the dollar as compared with the Toronto loan rate means a loss to the province, according to simple multiplication, on a six million loan, of nearly $400,000 and compared with the highest Dominion loan rate, of 8 cents on the dollar, a comparative loss of nearly half a million dollars on a six million dollar loan. According to Treasurer Matheson's new arithmetic, ten times ten are ninety-six.

Annual Meeting Of Knox Church Shows Progress

Encouraging Reports Were Read From Representatives of the Different Societies—All Show Marked Advance—Large Attendance Present—Rev. Mr. McKay Presented With Address and Cheque—Delightful Programme Was Rendered.

REFRESHMENTS WERE ALSO SERVED

The annual meeting of Knox Presbyterian church, was held last night in the church, at which the reports of the different societies in connection with the church, were read. These, in comparison with those of the previous year, were of a most favourable character, and were very gratifying to the officers of the church.

Probably the most pleasing feature of the evening's events was the presentation of an address, and a cheque, to the assistant pastor, Rev. W. McD. MacKay, who in a short time will relinquish his charge in Peterborough.

Judging from the number present last night the church and the other societies' work, is creating a great deal of interest among the members and adherents of Knox Church.

At the conclusion of the reading of the different reports, a delightful programme was presented by the chairman, Mr. Morrison. It consisted of selections of varied character, all of which were very highly applauded, and many of those assisting were forced to respond to recalls.

Dainty refreshments were served at the conclusion of the programme, and this was, as usual, a very important portion of the evening's proceedings.

The following reports were read:

Ladies' Aid Society.

At the close of the prayer meeting on Wednesday evening, December 6, 1905, a number of the ladies of the congregation met and organized a Ladies' Aid Society, the object being "to devise means to assist in relieving the necessities of the poor and suffering, especially those of our own congregation; to visit them in their homes; to encourage non-churchgoers to attend the means of grace; and to promote church work of every kind that is in the power of Christian women to accomplish." The membership to "consist of all women belonging to the congregation who shall interest themselves in the work and pay an annual fee of 25 cents."

The meetings are held on the afternoon of the second Thursday of each month, at 2.30.

We have already on our roll 16 members, and would take this opportunity to invite each one of the women of the congregation to join us in our endeavour to help forward the work of the Master, who said, "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me." Come and join us even if you cannot attend every meeting. We are always glad to see the children, so do not let that keep you away.

We would go forward in the strength of the Lord, and the power of His might, trusting in His wisdom to guide us in all our undertakings.

The office bearers and committees are as follows:

Hon. Pres.—Mrs. McPherson.
Vice-President—Mrs. R. E. Wood.

Report of Sunday School.

The Sunday school report was given by Sheriff Hall as follows:

"When the school was inaugurated there were 28 scholars on the roll; this has been increased to 118, the present membership. For the first three months of 1905, the average attendance was 55 and for the past three months of this year the average has been 81. For March last year the average was 57, and this year it has been 90. The average attendance of teachers and scholars during March was 102. By these figures it can be easily seen that the Sunday school has been growing very favourably."

Home Mission Band.

The report of the Home Mission Band was presented by Miss Mabel Bartley. It was as follows:—

At the organization meeting three years ago there were six names on the roll, last year there were 16 and this year 28. OBITUARY.

MRS. [illegible]ER.

The sad news of the death of Mrs. W. H. Carter, Lisburn street, Auburn, will be received with much sympathy for the bereaved by a large number of friends. About ten days ago she contracted a severe cold which settled on her lungs, and pneumonia set in. No fear of death was anticipated until yesterday, when her condition became hopeless, and at 6.30 last night she passed peacefully away. The circumstances of the death are the more sad since she leaves a baby only six weeks old.

Mrs. Carter's maiden name was Mary Isabel Shaw, daughter of the late Mark Shaw, and his wife, Mrs. Shaw, who lives on Lisburn street, and whose only daughter she departed was.

She was married in January, 1904, to Mr. W. H. Carter, who with four children, survives her. Mrs. Carter was 25 years of age, of a bright and cheerful disposition, and much beloved by a host of friends. She was a life-long member of the Church of England, and attended St. Luke's church.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2.30, from the late residence on Lisburn street, Auburn, and proceed to the Little cemetery.

(OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.)

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE CO. OF CANADA

EVIDENCE BEFORE COMMISSION EMPHASIZES
Its Strong Position and Conservative Methods.

About Two Million Dollars Better Off Than It Claimed To Be.

COMMENTS BY THE COMPANY.

As some time may elapse before the companies will be heard before the Insurance Commission, the managers of the Sun Life Assurance Company desire to refer briefly, to points regarding that office which have been brought out in the examination of the officers of the Insurance Department.

Investments Outside of Canada.

In 1903 and 1904 extended negotiations took place between the Finance Minister, the Superintendent of Insurance and the united Canadian companies, with regard to extension of their investment powers. The ministers expressed his willingness to eliminate the restrictions on the amount of investments outside of Canada, if certain other changes were made, and it was fully believed that a bill to this effect would be introduced by the Government in the session of 1904. For reasons brought out before the commission, however, this bill was postponed from time to time, and has even now, not been brought forward. Acting on the belief that the law was about to be changed, the Sun Company increased its American holdings. This, of course, it should not have done, although under the circumstances it was perhaps slightly excusable. When the session passed without the expected bill being brought in, the company wrote to the Minister of Finance, expressing his regret, and frankly stating that it had been led into increasing its American holdings in view of the expected amendment. The officers told the superintendent that they would loyally endeavour to reduce the excess of American securities, although this would probably result in their having a large amount of uninvested funds on hand, as Canadian securities that are thoroughly safe, and at the same time profitable, are somewhat scarce. How the company fulfilled its promise may be seen from the following figures, given in his evidence, by Mr. Fitzgerald:

Dec. 31, 1904, excess of foreign investments over legal limit	$487,100
Dec. 31, 1905, margin with legal limit for foreign investments	112,621
Cash in banks, Dec. 31, 1903	145,000
Cash in banks Dec. 31, 1904	424,000
Cash in banks Dec. 31, 1905	900,000

Securities Written Down.

The company has been so remarkably successful with its investments of recent years that we have felt that it can afford to be unusually conservative. We have always considered it our duty to make as good terms as possible when purchasing securities, and in this way, besides making handsome cash profits, have obtained large amounts of bonus stocks. At the end of 1904 some of these had become sufficiently valuable to justify us in placing them in our published list of assets. We were thus in a position to increase both our published assets and surplus by large amounts. The question arose whether we should not take a conservative course, and while transferring some of the new securities from the inactive or contingent list to the published list, at the same time transfer from the published list to inactive list some others, which while not bad, were yet not really gilt-edged. In other words, instead of taking credit for the entire amount of these new securities, as an addition to our assets, we proposed to use them in part to write down some other securities by merely substituting the new assets for the old to that extent in the published list. This was beyond question a prudent and conservative course, and its effect was to reduce our published surplus by at least $300,000 below what we could have claimed had we acted otherwise. The criticisms which have appeared in this connection upon the evidence as brought out by the commission, are due to an entire misconception. The course followed was merely in keeping with our ambition to be at all times better than we actually claimed to be.

From the fact that the securities named were written down, or rather, transferred to the inactive list, it must not be supposed that they are bad debts. On the contrary, arrangements have already been made to sell about two-thirds of the entire amount at prices which will save the company from any loss whatever. Mr. Blackadar distinctly stated in his evidence that these securities were not necessarily bad debts at all.

But in any case there is nothing new in all this. To refer to it as a 'disclosure' brought out by the Commission is an error. The facts have all along been open to the public. Any one who turns to the Insurance Blue Book will find on page 300, in the company's annual statement, under the heading of 'Synopsis of the Ledger Accounts,' the whole transaction clearly set forth in unmistakable language.

Supposed Sale of Illinois Traction Stock to Directors.

This is a mare's nest. There was no such sale as supposed at all. The facts are as follows:—In December, 1904, the company had an opportunity to buy $580,000 of this stock on very favourable terms, the proceeds, to be paid in bonds. The company already owned a very large amount of this same stock, and it was only desirable to materially increase its holding, even though the terms were attractive. Some of the directors had expressed a desire to take a portion of the stock on precisely the same terms as the company, and it was understood that the block would be divided. By error, however, the directors were not told when the transaction was about to be completed, and the company took up not merely its own share, but those of the directors. This was on December 31, 1904. The error was discovered within a few days, and was immediately corrected by the directors taking from the company their shares, and merely reversing the entries. This was not a sale, but a mere correction of an error, which had inadvertently been made a few days previously. It did not involve any question of either profit or loss to the company. These facts are not disputed, but on the contrary, were clearly stated by Mr. Blackadar in his evidence. No injury whatever accrued to the company, which had merely parted with some of its bonds for a few days, holding the stock instead thereof for that time. Absolutely no change whatever took place during these days in the value of the stock. As far as known, not one share of stock had been sold in the interval, and no development of any kind had occurred. Of the $580,000 of stock, $223,100 was taken by the directors and $356,900 remained with the company. In extenuation of this error, it should be remembered that it happened on December 31, when the staff are more busy than on any other day of the year. We emphatically reiterate that the entry was a mere correction of a mistake, and nothing else, and that the directors derived absolutely no advantage beyond what they would have received had they taken up their stock ten days previously, as intended.

It must also be remembered that just at that time the company was being criticised by the Insurance Department for holding too large an amount in American securities, and was endeavouring to reduce the value of such holdings in order to comply with the law.

Inactive Assets.

We have been approached with having "silent assets," or (bonus stocks. We certainly have them, and are very proud of having them, and our policy holders also should be remarkably well satisfied that we have them. Their possession merely shows that we occupy a vastly stronger position than we have ever publicly claimed.

While these inactive assets have not been advertised or included in our published lists, no secret has been made of their existence, and Mr. Blackadar testifies that detailed lists had been furnished to him both last year and this year, and that these securities had been checkexactly as the other securities of the company. He produced statements of these securities, which had been furnished by the company to the department. He admitted that to the extent of their value the company was that much better of than it claimed to be, and that a valuation of this contingent fund made for the department by the company in November last, amounted to $1,968,000. The par value of the securities exceeds $5,000,000.

Strength of the Company.

In the year 1905 the profit made by the company from all sources amounted to $1,344,371.80. Of this amount, 103,541 was paid to policyholders whose policies were entitled to participation in that year. Of the balance, $610,541 was set aside to complete the placing of all reserves on the three and a half per cent. basis, and $561,252.50, was added to the published surplus, bringing the total surplus earned up to $1,735,698.50 over all liabilities and capital stock, even on this severe standard of valuation. The evidence before the commission has now brought out that even these figures, splendid though they are, tell but part of the story, for the company is really about two millions better off than even it claimed to be.

This highly prosperous condition, has already benefited our policyholders, both as regards security, and profitableness. The large surplus makes the company one of the most powerful financial corporations on the continent in proportion to its size, and when to this we add the two millions of inactive securities it is seen to be a veritable tower of strength. In regard to profitableness, the company has been able to make the change to three and a half per cent. basis with comparatively little hardship to the policyholders. The total amount which has been set aside for the increase of its reserves on old policies, since the passing of the act of 1899 has been $1,185,111.41, and less than one-sixth of this amount has been raised by reduction of the profits of policyholders, more than five-sixths having been obtained from profits on the company's investments. Moreover, the basis for the distribution of cash profits in 1905 was higher than for 1904, and that for 1906 in its turn higher than for 1905, so that the profits being paid are already back on a highly satisfactory basis, even after complying with the change in the law, while the present strong position of the company warrants some enthusiasm as to what the future profits will probably be.

The management consider that the facts brought out before the commission, when understood, reflect the highest credit upon the company, and are the subject of legitimate pride. The probing into the affairs of the Sun Life has but revealed greater strength and very conservative methods.

A Presentation To Rev. Mackay At Annual Meeting

Was Presented With Address and Cheque by Congregation.

During the annual meeting of Knox Presbyterian Church last night Rev. Wm. MacD. MacKay was presented with an address and cheque by the members of the congregation. While in Peterborough he has been a much respected and diligent worker in the Christian cause and has made many true and lasting friends. Mr. MacKay, wherever he may be will always be remembered by his friends in this city who wish him a bright future of prosperity and happiness. The following was the address:—

To the Rev. W. MacD. MacKay, B. A.

The Members and Adherents of Knox Church have learned, with deep regret, that you have not been able to see your way to accept the invitation to remain with them after the close of your present engagement.

During the short time that you have been with them, as their pastor, they have learned to esteem you very highly, not only for your work's sake, but, even more, for the many personal qualities which have endeared you to them all.

They feel that the great success, which has attended the work in Knox Church, has, to a very large extent, been due to your earnest, well directed and untiring efforts, and that in parting with you they are losing a true friend and helper and one whom they will always remember with the kindest and most grateful feelings.

It would gratify them very much if you would accept from them, and friends in St. Paul's, as some slight and altogether inadequate token of their esteem and affection, the accompanying cheque, and if with it you should see fit to add a corner to your library, which would sometimes recall them to your memory, it would give them further pleasure.

You may be assured of their very best wishes for your future well being and their prayer that, in a wider field, you may be greatly used by the Master in the noble work to which you have devoted your life.

Knox Church, Peterborough, 29th March, 1906.

In reply Mr. MacKay thanked the congregations of Knox and St. Paul's Churches for the gift and also for their many kindnesses to him during his tenure in Peterborough. He would always remember his friends in this city who had assisted him in his work here and who had aided in making his burden lighter.

Rev. Dr. Torrance also spoke a few words in reference to Mr. MacKay's successful efforts as Assistant Pastor and he felt certain that in the future he would always meet with the same success; wherever he might be.

Found Dead In Field;

HAD BEEN MISSING FROM His Home For Three Days

Richard Dwyer, a Well Known Douro Farmer, Disappeared on Thursday and His Dead Body Was Found by His Son Yesterday Morning—No Anxiety Was Felt Until Saturday, When a Search Was Instituted.

Richard Dwyer, a well known farmer of Douro, was found dead in a field near his home by his son, John Dwyer, early yesterday morning. Heart failure was the cause of death.

The deceased who was 76 years of age, had been away from his home since Thursday, but no suspicion that anything had happened to him was entertained, until Saturday afternoon, when inquiry among those whom he had been in the habit of visiting, revealed the fact that nothing had been seen of the old gentleman. A search was instituted, which resulted in his being found yesterday morning.

It appears that on Thursday Dwyer left his home, saying that he was going to see Mr. McKeever, a man who was loading hay about half a mile from the Dwyer place. He did not return that day, and even when Friday passed without word from him, his relatives were not anxious, as he had frequently gone to visit friends in the neighbourhood, and remained away for several days. They supposed that he was at John Kennedy's, a place that he often visited. On Saturday, however, his friends became alarmed, and inquired at Kennedy's, and other places, only to find that he had not been at any of them.

On Sunday morning his son John, happened to enter the field, across from his house, and found his father lying dead. He had been seized with heart failure just after leaving home. The old gentleman had been ill before, but seemed to have recovered, and was, apparently, in good health when he left home on Thursday.

The deceased was one of the best known and most respected residents of the township, where he spent the greater portion of his life. He lived on his homestead on the third concession, about six miles north-east of the city. He is survived by a wife and five children. They are: They are Dennis, John of Douro, Jas., in the United States; Mary, living at home, and Mrs. Philip Mober, of Douro.

The funeral will take place tomorro wmorning at nin eo'clock to the Douro cemetery.

Peterborough's Chances

ARE SAID TO BE BRIGHT For The Military Camp

Colonel Gordon, the Officer in Charge of the Militia of Eastern Ontario, Visited Local Site on Saturday—Was Very Favourably Impressed With the Location—The Military Council Will Meet To-morrow to Decide Question.

While in Ottawa on Thursday, Lt. Col. Miller and the officers of the 57th Regiment, waited on the Deputy Minister of Militia, and Col. Biggar, in reference to the location of the Military Camp for this year. They, of course, advocated Peterborough as the most suitable place, and the representations they made had much weight with Col. Biggar, who, it is understood, is the man with whom the decision will rest. He promised to send Col. Gordon, the commanding officer officer of No. 3 district, to Peterborough at once to report personally on the proposed location.

The chances that Peterborough will be selected as a location for the permanent military camp are said by those who should know to be bright. Col. Gordon, in pursuance of this arrangement, was in the city on Saturday and visited the property at Nassau which had been secured by the local officers as the site for the camp. Col. Gordon, who was accompanied by Lt.-Col. Miller, Capt. Walker, and Capt. Bennett, Ald. McWilliams, Elliott and McIntyre, went over the whole property thoroughly, and expressed himself as being very favourably impressed by the desirability of the grounds for the purpose intended.

The C. G. E. property, which has been secured, is 170 acres in extent, and if this is not enough it would be an easy matter to obtain another hundred acres in the neighbourhood, which would make the site amply large enough for the 3000 or 4000 troops who make up the camp. In other ways the Nassau site is said to be admirably suited for the camp, and although Cobourg and Belleville are making strong bids there is no doubt but that the grounds here are better adapted for military purposes than the other two places.

The Military Council meets at Ottawa to-morrow morning to decide the question of the site of the camp.

The Anthracite Coal Strike Is Now In Full Blast

Mining Operations Completely Suspended—No Disturbances Reported—Effect on Local Conditions.

Special to The Examiner

Philadelphia, April 2nd.—Reports received to-day from the anthracite coal fields state that the suspension of mining is complete. There were a few men on the streets in several of the mining towns early in the morning to see if there had been any deserters from the miners' union, but none had reported for work. No disturbances were reported from any section of the mining region, and today had all the appearance of a holiday.

This strike, which has long been threatened, is an accomplished fact. It will have a far-reaching effect, and Peterborough will not likely escape. In anticipation of the suspension of mining operations, and the consequent disorganization of supply and prices, the local demand has developed unusual activity, and orders are pouring in upon local dealers for not only current season's supplies, but also for next winter's supply—at $7.50 a ton, which will probably be the lowest price. For, even if the strike is speedily settled, the coal barons will take advantage of the concessions they may make to settle the strike, even though they may be of a trifling nature, to keep up, if not advance the prices.

The present stock of hard coal in town among all the dealers is estimated at only 1,500 tons, with no orders to speak of placed with the wholesalers. Of this 1,500 tons, it is further estimated 750 at least will be required to meet the demands of this spring's use, leaving only 750 tons for next winter's city supply. At this season of the year the price of coal generally drops, but owing to this strike, and its results, the price will keep up throughout the season, at the present if not an advanced, rate.

The above applies to hard coal. As to soft coal the consequences will likely be more serious, as a shortage will seriously affect manufacturing operations, and consequently those employed, in our large factories may be thrown out of employment. A little reflection will show how serious a shortage of soft coal in this respect may be.

At present Peterborough manufacturers have, it is estimated, in stock about a month's reply, and it is probable that the amount of stock held by the local dealers is sufficient to last another month.

The anxiety of manufacturers in regard to soft coal is shown by the fact that a local concern — the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, have received inquiries for soft coal from outside points, but such enquirish are not entertained, for if the strike continue for more than a month or so local manufacturers will require all the stock in the hands of all the coal dealers.

DOURO FRAME RESIDENCE WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Fire broke out in the residence of Mr. Patrick McMurray, of Douro, on Saturday evening, about four o'clock and burned it to the ground. Mr. Murray's farm is situated about six miles from the city, and about three miles this side of the Douro church. The owner was in the city at the time of the blaze, and knew nothing of it until he arrived home in the evening and found his house in ashes.

The building was a frame one was worth about $600. It is not known whether there was any insurance or not. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been from a defective chimney.

APPEAL AGAINST THE LIQUOR BILL

The Executive Committee of the Dominion Alliance has drafted an appeal to the Government, the members of the Legislature and the people in general, against allowing the Liquor License Act to pass in its present form. It recites the arguments that were presented at the recent convention against the various clauses objected to, the principal ones being those allowing a repeal contest within two years and requiring a three-fifths vote to carry local option. The address has been forwarded to the Government and each member of the Legislature, and will also be distributed among the the various modern reform societies.—Mail and Empire.

WILL FORM A BRANCH OF FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION

A meeting of all those interested in the protection of bird fish and game supply will be held in the City Council Chambers on Friday, night next for the purpose of forming a local branch of the Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association.

This seems to be a step in the right direction, and true sportsmen should show their sympathy with the movement by turning out in large numbers at the initial meeting. This step has been advocated for some time, and now, that an association is to be formed it is hoped that it may be made as influential as possible.

The meeting should be an interesting one, as Mr. Kelly Evans, secretary of the Ontario Association, and Mr. Oliver Adams, of the Toronto branch, will be present and explain the objects and methods of the association.

David Fife Of Otonabee Father Of Famous Fife Wheat

Romantically Interesting Story of Origin of Famous Fife Wheat—Progenitor of the World Renowned Manitoba "No. 1 Hard."

Mr. Samuel Armstrong, of Jermyn, Otonabee, sends the following interesting and important letter to The Globe:

As I live on a farm adjoining that on which the celebrated Fife (wheat originated, and as your article yesterday on the death of my friend and neighbour, Wm. Fife, and his connection with Fife wheat, is entirely astray, I hasten to write you, not only to correct the statements, but because there is a growing feeling through this part of Ontario that the Dominion should do something tangible to keep in memory, and give the proper place in history to the originator of the Fife wheat.

Many a man has been knighted and many a man has been pensioned for services to his country, not one hundredth part as great.

Why, sir, last fall I was visiting the Northwest—our great Northwest—on which the eyes of the whole world are turned. And why are they turned there? Because the country will grow wheat. Now, sir, except the Fife variety of wheat, I question if there is any wheat in existence that could be successfully grown on our great prairies. Thus this wheat has made our great West a possibility.

We are sorry that the facts of the discovery of this wheat are so little known that the greatest journal in Canada—The Globe—should publish an article crediting the introduction of the wheat to the wrong man. It was David Fife, a brother of John Fife, (the man mentioned in your article) who originated the wheat in this country, and whose son, Sylvester Fife, still lives on the farm, the homestead where the wheat was first grown. It is also an error to say that it was first grown in Scotland. It was taken directly from a vessel unloading wheat at Glasgow from Russia, and sent to David Fife, who planted it. It all grew, but all rusted badly, excepting five heads from one root. Two of these were eaten by oxen, leaving only three heads. The great probability is that the single grain from which these heads grew was an accidental hybrid. As there never has been an authentic history of this wheat and its originator published, our present reeve, Mr. John Fife, has collected a large amount of matter, showing how, and where the wheat originated, and how it found its way to the western prairies.

He is prepared to publish this just as soon as some official action is taken by the country to give the matter its proper place in history, either by the erection of a monument recounting the facts, or in some other suitable way that might be devised.

I might say here that the late David Fife never made any money out of wheat; but, on the contrary, when he found that he had a good thing, distributed it far and near among his friends, so that in a few years it spread over the country. So far there has not been much done except talk looking towards a suitable memorial of some kind to the late David Fife. Dr. Fletcher of the Experimental Farm at Ottawa, is interested in the matter and is trying to evolve some scheme which would be suitable.

The local Farmers' Institute meeting held in Keene last December passed a strongly-worded resolution calling upon the Dominion Government to erect a suitable monument commemorating the event. Since that the president, Mr. F. Birdsall, of Birdsall P. O., has been doing all he can to have some action taken.

I write thus, hoping that The Globe will throw its powerful influence into the matter, as it seems to me that it would be a disgrace to this generation if we allow the memory of this man who gave to this country an article of such untold value to pass into oblivion as it is fast doing.

SAMUEL ARMSTRONG,

Jermyn P. O., Ont., March 27.

Demonstration By Toronto Ladies Decided Success

Thirty Young Ladies From the Toronto Conservatory Delighted a Large Audience at the Y.M.C.A. Gymnasium on Saturday Night—Agility and Grace With Which Movements Were Executed Was a Feature of the Entertainment.

PERFORMANCE WAS MOST PLEASING

A unique and interesting programme was that presented at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Saturday night when thirty young ladies from the Toronto Conservatory School of Expression, under the direction of Miss Adelaide M. Heath, A. T. C. M., of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music staff, gave a demonstration of physical culture. The work done was a revelation to those who had the pleasure of witnessing the performance. While the young ladies at the Y.M.C.A. have given several exhibitions of their skill along these lines, the accommodation for spectators in that building is somewhat limited and so comparatively few people have had an opportunity of witnessing the demonstrations that have been given. Thus the entertainment on Saturday night was somewhat of a novelty to the large audience which filled the gymnasium gallery and it is but expressing it mildly to say that those present were delighted.

The young ladies under the capable direction of Miss Heath did their work with a grace and agility that had a most pleasing effect on the audience. They were neatly attired in a most becoming costume of white blouses and dark skirts. The programme was a varied one and every portion was made thoroughly enjoyable by the manner in which the different movements were executed. Calisthenics, marching, gymnasium dances, Swedish and Emmerson exercises constituted the programme. The marching of the young ladies was especially commendable and was greeted with enthusiastic applause by the audience which recognized the grace and precision shown by the visitors in the somewhat intricate movements of the march.

A little game of basketball between two teams called the Reds and Blues concluded the programme. It was well contested and afforded much amusement. The Reds eventually won by 6 points to 4. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The young ladies who took part carried back to Toronto the assurance that by their work here many converts had been won over to the advantages of physical culture for women.

YESTERDAY AT THE Y. M. C. A.

No stronger or more convincing statements could scarcely be presented than those given by Rev. F. J. Scott in his admirable address at the Y.M.C.A. men's meeting yesterday afternoon.

The subject was, "Is Religion for Men?" The speaker showed how it undoubtedly was what men needed, and what men instinctively sought after.

Mr. R. Freund sang several selections in a manner which, with the impressive address of the speaker, made the meeting a telling one in the lives of the large number of men who were present.

Staff Captain McAmmond will be the speaker next Sunday.

No Difference.

No distinction is made as to the kind of piles that Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cures.

The names, Internal, External, Bleeding, Blind, Itching, Suppurating, etc., are simply the names of the different stages through which every case will pass if it continues long enough.

Piles are caused by congestion or stagnation of blood in the lower bowel, and it takes an internal remedy to remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally.

It is a permanent cure, and no case of piles has ever been found it failed to cure. Money back if it does.

SMALL FIRE ON CONCESSION ST.

The fire brigade was given a run to Concession street, East City, Saturday afternoon, when a small blaze occurred in the kitchen of the residence of Jas. Murphy. The damage done was slight. The alarm that was sent merely said that the fire was on Concession street, and it was some time before the firemen found the blaze.

Journey Was Too Much For Them

Stall Fed Cattle Couldn't Stand Trip From Ennismore.

Messrs. Josling Bros., of Bridgenorth, brought twenty-seven head of very fine stall-fed cattle from Ennismore Friday morning. The animals had been stabled all winter and were too fat for the long journey they had to undergo. Five of them succumbed on the road and had to be drawn to the city on trucks and farmers' vehicles. The remainder were pretty well exhausted at the end of the journey. Messrs. Morris and Browne have purchased the cattle and will ship them to Montreal.

Young People Met At Stewart's Hall

Other Interesting Items From Otonabee.

Special to The Examiner.

Stewart's, Otonabee, April 2. — The Young People's Society held their meeting in the Hall of Wisdom, on Thursday evening. The president was in the chair and the attendance was very large. At 9 o'clock the meeting was called to order and the officers took their respective places.

The following programme was presented:

Speech, President.
Solo, Miss Ethel Deyell.
Speech, Mr. Will. Hanbidge.
Song. Mr. Bert Deyell.
Speech, Mr. Living Stewart.
Reading, Miss Lizzie Stewart.

The interesting feature of the programme was the debate which followed, "Resolved, that the country fellow knows more about the city than the city fellow knows about the country." The affirmative was taken by Mr. Wason Hanbidge, and Miss Ethel Gibbs, and the negative by Mr. Gordon Savigny and Miss Alice Stewart. The affirmative won the debate by several points.

The critic of the society was next called upon, and the defective points were cleverly shown. The meeting closed with "God Save the King."

Mr. Oswald Gibbs, who has been attending the Toronto University, has returned home.

Miss Hutchison is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Sandy Matchett.

Mr. Geo. Hanbidge reports the walking very bad between Bethel and Union Hall.

Review Of Sunday School Took Place

Interesting Meeting at Salvation Army Barracks Yesterday.

The quarterly review of the Salvation Army was held on Sunday afternoon and was a most interesting service. There was a very large attendance. The children were grouped on the platform and an unique part of the programme was the forming of the acrostic "Wanted a King". Sergt. Major Braund was in charge of the meeting. The progress made in the junior work must, indeed, be most encouraging to the officers in charge.

Special revival services will commence next Saturday when Staff Captain Wiarton will be here.

Staff Captain McAmmond has received a telegram from Brigadier Howell, Secretary of the Army's Immigration Work, stating that owing to the arrival of the Kensington, that he will not be able to be here on Easter Sunday, that he will pay his visit on next.

JUDGMENT FOR THE DOCTORS' FEE ONLY

In Saturday's issue of the Examiner in connection with the Division Court cases it was stated that in the case of the North American Life Insurance Company vs. Alex. Hayes, that judgment was given in favour of the former. Mr. Hayes wishes to state that judgment was only given against him for the doctor's examination fee.

WERE ENTERTAINED AT CONSERVATORY

The 30 young ladies from the Toronto Conservatory School of Expression, who gave such a pleasing entertainment and demonstration of their work at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night, were very pleasantly entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. Gliddon at the local Conservatory of Music. The affair took the form of an informal reception.

Give Fair Play to Zutoo

A really reliable remedy for headache —Zutoo.

If you have got it into your head that Zutoo Tablets will hurt you, you are mistaken.

It isn't fair to us for you to judge Zutoo by the drug cures.

It isn't fair to yourself to suffer from headache, when this really harmless vegetable headache cure is within your reach.

The fair thing for both of us is—to judge Zutoo on its merits—to test it.

If you find it does not cure your headache, sick, nervous or otherwise, in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling good every time—no bad after effects, then discard it.

But do not condemn it unfairly without a trial, and keep on suffering from headaches. You really do not have to, and one trial of Zutoo will prove it.

All we ask for Zutoo is fair play—that you give it a trial before concluding as to its merits or demerits.

Wont you do this? You'll be glad ever after if you do.

We'll send trial tablets for nothing, or you can buy them at dealers in 10c. and 25c. packages.

Died At Morris In Minnesota

Deceased Gentleman Had Relatives in Peterborough.

The Morris, Minn., Times has the following in reference to the sudden death of Hon. Dudley Hall, Senator, uncle of Misses Maggie and Katie Hanlon, of this city. He was well known to many here, having been a frequent visitor to Peterborough:—

Hon. Senator Dudley Hall, for twenty-seven years a resident of Stevens County, and one of the prosperous and reliable citizens of this section, passed away very unexpectedly at his home in the town of Horton last Tuesday morning. He had been enjoying the very best of health and was in excellent spirits the night previous to his death, having spent the evening with his family until after 12 o'clock, when he retired. In the morning, the family noticed that he was not up and about at the usual hour, and went to his room to find him lying in the usual position, apparently asleep. All attempts to awaken him proved futile, however, and the members of the distracted family soon learned that without pain or suffering, he had passed from this usual sleep to that of death.

The very sudden demise of the aged father, at the time he appeared to be in the very best of health, is a terrible blow to the members of this estimable family, and while it is hard to know those who are so near and dear to us taken so untimely away, there is some consolation in knowing that they passed from earth without suffering.

Deceased was 65 years of age, and a widower, his wife having died here three years ago. He leaves two sons and the nieces mentioned. Miss Katie was with him at the time of his death, and will remain in Morris.

DOG POISONER AT HIS EVIL WORK

The dog-poisoner is again at work. This morning Mr. T. L. Hayes, Clonsilla — Chamberlen's — Hill, found in his stable, where it is kept shut up every night, his fine collie dog, dead from poison. Some time ago Mr. Hayes had two hounds poisoned, although they were shut up at night. Other residents of this neighbourhood have also had dogs poisoned recently, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M.P.P., Mr. James Abey and Mr. Robert Bestard. Such dastardly actions should be severely punished, if the perpetrators can be discovered. Nobody is safe with persons possessing such a spirit at liberty, for under circumstances that might easily arise they would hardly hesitate to commit arson or put some neighbour out of the way.

NEW FACTORY FOR LINDSAY

The Lindsay Post says: Mr. John Carew is a firm believer in developing our own industries, as well as encouraging outside concerns to locate in town. Within the past few days he has purchased the Parkin mill, which has been so long idle, and now has a gang of men at work getting it into shape for the reception of machinery, which will convert it into a first-class up-to-date planing mill and box factory.

Pure Blood Source of Health

AND THE BLOOD CAN ONLY BE PURIFIED BY THE HEALTHFUL ACTION OF THE LIVER AND KIDNEYS.

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

At this season of the year, as at no other, the importance of pure blood is brought home to the minds of most people. As the result of artificial winter life — living on artificial foods and being shut up in badly ventilated rooms — the liver and kidneys become clogged and sluggish in action, the bowels constipated, and the blood loaded with poisonous impurities.

Is it any wonder that spring finds us run down in health and feeling languid and fatigued? Is it any wonder that our systems become an easy prey to every form of disease which lurks in the spring air? Is it any wonder that we have aching heads and aching backs and suffer from indigestion and biliousness?

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are especially suitable as a spring medicine because they act directly on the liver and kidneys and enliven the action of these great blood-filtering organs.

Except by the action of the liver and kidneys, there is no means by which the poisonous impurities can be removed from the blood. With these organs in health a person is almost immune from colds and all forms of contagious diseases.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills should not be confused with medicines which merely act on the bowels. They do effect prompt action of the bowels, and they do infinitely more, for by setting the liver right they bring about a good flow of bile and thoroughly cure constipation.

Biliousness, liver complaint, constipation, kidney derangements and impure blood cannot exist when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used. And there is a great satisfaction in using a medicine which has stood the test of time and proven its right to a place in every home as a family medicine of worth and reliability.

Put Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to the test and you will avoid the usual ills and weaknesses of spring. One pill a dose: 25 cents a box; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

TELLS BY THEIR SLEEP

"I can tell by my little ones' sleep when a cold is coming on" said a mother when speaking of the advance symptoms of colds in children. "They toss about, are restless, their breathing is heavy and there are symptoms of night sweats. The next morning I start with Scott's Emulsion. The chances are that in a day or two they are all over it. Their rest is again peaceful and the breathing normal."

Here's a suggestion for all mothers. Scott's Emulsion always has been almost magical in its action when used as the ounce of prevention. Nothing seems to overcome child weakness quite so effectively and quickly as Scott's Emulsion.

Rev. Davidson Spoke Of The American Life

Interesting Meeting of the Ministerial Association Was Held.

A very interesting meeting of the Ministerial Association was held this morning in the Y.M.C.A. There were present Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. Dr. Crothers, Rev. J. G. Lewis, Rev. J. G. Potter and Rev. F. J. Scott.

The visitation of Hospital and Home was arranged as follows:

First week, Rev. J. G. Potter.
Second week, Rev. F. J. Scott.
Third week, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe.
Fourth week, Rev. Dr. Torrance.

After routine business and some general discussion, the president, Rev. Canon Davidson, gave a racy and most interesting address on "The Americans," to the delight of all present. Evidently the canon laid himself open to catch all phases of life coming within his reach in his trip to St. Louis and Chicago. With the special advantage afforded him, he threw himself into touch with [illegible] him. He spoke enthusiastically of the free, frank, approachable spirit of our neighbours, and their use of money for enjoyment and self-development. Barring the spiritual, the influence of life is wholesome and uplifting. They make the most of themselves and each other by the happy art of drawing out the best within. The supernatural in general does not have prominence. Holding fast the religious, we would do well to adopt more of the free, liberal spirit of our neighbours.

He touched also on the press, the stock exchange and intercourse among the churches. A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered Canon Davidson for his instructive and delightful address.

This brought to a close one of the freest and most interesting meetings of this year.

Eggs Are Creeping Upwards In Price

Sold at 16 Cents on Saturday —Sales Were Brisk.

Saturday's market was one of them brisk and lively ones which usually greets the first warm and bright Saturdays of spring. Produce, especially in the vegetable line, was very prominent at to-day's market and each of the wagons was generally surrounded by an eager coterie until everything was disposed of.

In the market hall eggs and chickens were eagerly sought for, and very quickly disposed of. Both are remaining firm in price, the former advancing to 16c towards the close of the market. A few baskets arrived somewhat late and these were immediately disposed of. Butter is still at the old reliable price of 25 and 26c., and some sold at 27c. per lb. Chickens were offered at from 90c to $1.25, but very few were visible.

Both sold at 10 and 11c per lb., and what was present changed ownership rapidly. Apples were plentiful; sweets sold at 65c; russets at 60c.; Ben Davis, at $1. Cabbages were offered at from 40c to $1 per dozen. Hay is becoming more scarce, timothy selling to-day at $11, and clover at $10.

The following were the prevailing prices on the market

Mr. Fred. Whatley Leaves Port Hope

Was Tendered Presentation and Address Last Week.

The Port Hope Times of last week gives an account of a presentation and addresses to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whatley, which will be of interest to many persons in this city.

Mr. Whatley is a son-in-law of Mr. William Kendred, East City, and in former years was a prominent member of the Mark street church choir. His friends here will be pleased to learn of his recent promotion to a higher position in Oshawa. The following is a portion of the Times' account.

"A most successful evening surprise party was held at the house of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whatley, Charles street, last Friday evening. Mr. Whatley has been moved to Oshawa by his company and is leaving some time in April. There were two companies who attended: the choir and their friends met at the Mill street church, and headed by Rev. R. B. Nelles, arrived on the scene about eight o'clock. Hardly had the choir got settled, when the neighbours, headed by Mr. John McMullen, came in. In all about 75 were present. Mr. and Mrs. Whatley were completely surprised, but baskets full of good things provided abundance of refreshments. After a few minutes social intercourse an address was read by Miss Cleon Vincent, and a beautiful marmalade jar presented to Mrs. Whatley. The Rev. Mr. Nelles spoke of the help they had been in the praise service, and the sincere regret the congregation felt at their departure. Mr. Whatley spoke a word of thanks and proved an orator of no mean ability. A second address on behalf of the neighbors was read by Mr. McMullen, a handsome silver bread tray accompanying it. Mr. Whatley again replied and extended the freedom of the home. A very pleasant evening was spent, closing about 11 o'clock by singing 'Auld Lang Syne.'"

Will Operate The Wiarton Factory

Whitby Sugar Factory Will Not be Ready This Year.

A despatch from Whitby says:

The Keystone Sugar Company decided at a board meeting on Wednesday, to operate the Wiarton plant there this season. This is necessary because of the uncertainty of completing the new building here in time for the coming beet campaign. The long delay has been due to a misunderstanding over the harbour deal and consequent inability to secure possession of the site that had been selected alongside the wharf. It is the intention to erect the plant here in time for the next ensuing beet crop. Meantime the several thousand acres of beets under contract for delivery at Whitby this fall, will be sent to Wiarton. Needless to say there is much disappointment at this turn in the affairs of the beet sugar industry towards the establishment of which so much time, energy and expense has been devoted by the citizens of Whitby.

HELP OURSELVES.

The reappearance of rumours that Mr. James J. Hill is preparing to take possession of the trade of Western Canada with his railway lines is made the occasion by The Montreal Herald of some pertinent remarks in regard to Eastern Canada and the trade of this great section of the Dominion. "We in the East," says The Herald, "naturally prefer that all the business of the West should come to us. It would be well to reflect, however, that the tens of thousands of Americans now coming in have their ideas and habits as to such matters pretty well fixed, which means that they would naturally do a good deal of buying, other things being equal, where they have been accustomed to it. Eastern Canadians should make up their minds that there is only one good way to overcome that tendency, and the one way is not to depend upon the tariff so much as upon their own energy in cultivating so good a market. In this they have hitherto been just a little remiss." Those remarks of The Montreal Herald well deserve the attention of those whom they concern most. It is a mistake to suppose for a moment that a tariff, however high, can take the place and do the work of enterprise. The tariff—a help or hindrance, as the case may be—must be supplemented by or counteracted by the enterprise and energy of our people.

BARRING PROGRESS.

Portland, Maine, is alarmed at the ship subsidy bill now before Congress. The measure provides for a tonage tax of $1.60 a net registered ton per annum on foreign steamers running into United States ports. The Canadian tax is 6 cents a ton. Portland sees that the impost will have an affect in favour of Canadian ports, and it fears that its prestige is in danger. The greed of the subsidy hunters may be Portland's undoing. This again illustrates the folly of pushing the practice of taxing to the extreme. Over-taxing is an evil and a bar to progress, whether it is empire pal or otherwise. The latter tax in excess of needed requirements, discourages the growth of population, in that it repels outsiders from a town or city where such taxation prevails. In other spheres it impedes trade, and the exchange of products, to the detriment of the provinces or countries concerned. The anxiety to impose taxes lost the North American colonies to Great Britain and the Empire. Quebec's tax on commercial travellers is another folly, which tends to defeat one of the objects of Confederation — the development of inter-provincial trade.
